AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

California Theatre.

This evening the Fabbri Troupe will commence their new season of opera, giving "Martha" as the initial performance. After this the opera nights will be Tuesdays, Thursdays and Sundays. The orchestra will be increased on the opera nights, and the chorus has been strengthened to give full effect to the concerted parts. The cast of "Martha" embraces Inez Fabbri, Jacob Muller Anna Elzer, and Elsenbach in the leading roles. To-morrow night "Richard III" with its superb scenery and gorgeous mountings. Thursday "Faust" with Signor Baccot, the former tenor of the Bianchi Troupe, in the title role. Friday and Saturday last nights of "Richard III." Augustin Daly's "Saratoga" will be the next novelty.

Alhambra.

One of the largest and most fashionable audiences ever brought together in the Alhambra Theatre assembled last night when the famous Dutch dialect actors, P. F. Baker and T. J. Farron, made their first appearance. Johnny Allso, Joe Murphy and all the other Dutch impersonators must give way to Baker, who is not merely a mimic but a comedian of talent. His dialect is excellent, his facial gestures are full of character and wonderfully mirth-provoking, his style of singing, dramatic and effective, and his dancing most artistic; with all these advantages, natural and acquired, P. E. Baker cannot fail to be an immense favorite and the place Billy Emerson held in the estimation of the public will be measurably filled. Farron made up for a pretty girl, has a fine voice, sings and dances well, and with Baker forms the most attractive little pictures imaginable. The sensation drama entitled "Chris and Lena" serves as a framework for the popular songs and dances introduced by Messrs. Baker and Farron, and was well presented by the members of the company. Miss Kate Dunin played the heroine in a very pleasing style; Bob Hart as Jacob Von Wolfstein was the jolliest of Dutchmen; Add Ryman caused much amusement by his comical make-up for Lawyer Smart, and acted the part well; J. Robinson acquitted himself well as George Bawlton, the villain of the piece; Harry Thompson, a sterling actor, was good as Jost Fuller, and Sam Bickey, who appeared as Tim O'Flaherty in the third act, was as original an Irishman as Baker was a Dutchman, and made the audience fairly scream with laughter. Messrs. Baker and Farron have made a tremendous hit; the entertainment they give suits the public taste exactly, and the Alhambra will be crowded for many a night to come.

Bella Union.

Miss Lotta receives much applause for her protean characterizations in the play of "The Young Actress." M'lle Gracie and Harry Clark astonish and delight everyone by their wonderful performances on the trapeze; the ballet of "La Maja di Siviglia" is very pretty, and all the music is very cleverly rendered by the orchestra under the leadership of Zimmer. The whole makes up an entertainment hard to beat.

The Athenaum.

Guillermo Bruno in wonderful contortion feats Signor Carbetti in hat spinning performances; Miss Agnes Kennedy in character impersonations, and a host of others in attractive specialties, appear to-night.

The Robinson-Conklin Circus.

This company have made a good change in opening under their canvas on the old circus lot on Jackson street, as was proved by the attendance last evening. Everything went off in rattling style, and the large audience was immensely pleased with Conklin's wit and everything they saw. They roared with delight at the comical acts of the monkeys and the clown dog. The tent is large and commodious, and is provided with chairs for the dress circle.

Platt's Hall.

In consequence of the sudden indisposition of Miss Edith O'Gorman, the lecture which was to have been delivered last night has been postponed till Thursday evening.

City Gardens.

A fancy dress and masquerade ball will be given at the City Garden Pavilion on Saturday evening Oct. 26 h.

Woodward's Gardens.

The Fire King will appear every day at half past two o'clock and perform his wonderful feats of bending red hot-iron bars; drinking boiling oil and putting molten lead in his mouth. Thousands have witnessed these great feats which seem almost impossible.

Good Business.

The receipts at the box office of the California Theatre during the past week's run of "Richard III," amounted to nearly $12,000. This does not include the receipts of the opera night, which was larger than any of the "Richard III" nights.

A Lesson of Life.

Of all the lessons that humanity has to learn, the hardest is to learn to wait. Not with folded arms, then, claiming life's prizes without previous efforts, but having struggled and crowded the slow years with trials, see no result that effort seem to warrant—nay, perhaps disaster instead. To stand firm at such a crisis of existence, to preserve one's self poise and self respect, not to lose or relax effort, this is greatness, whether the eye of the world notes it, or it is recorded in the book which the light of eternity shall alone make clear to the vision. Those who stand on the high places of the earth understand not what suffering means. They know not what it is to a noble soul to be obliged, like a worm, to crawl upon the earth for nourishment, because it has not the strength to endure famine. Life moves around them with so much grace, splendor and beauty; they find nothing within them which can enable them to understand the real sufferings of the poor; they love only themselves, and look at mankind only in their narrow circle.

A Negligent Wife.

A fastidious gentleman in Terre Haute hurled his boot at his wife on account of a slight deficiency in the shade of its polish, which she had not worked up to his standard.

A Jaunting Car.

A Pennsylvania farmer at auction bought an old hearse, "because he'd been wanting a rig of some kind to take Mariar and the children to fairs and circuses and haul potatoes in."

Self-made men are always apt to be a little proud of the job.

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of waters bright, did make a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
"Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here—
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins;
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again.

Health and Pleasure.

There are not too many pleasures in San Francisco. Nothing is more pleasant, nothing more health-giving than a drive into the country now and then. Those who cannot afford to keep a carriage of their own, can find one equal in elegance to any private conveyance at the Occidental Carriage stand. Frank Bouton has there, and at his stables 1016 Stockton street, carriages of every description. His drivers are careful and experienced, his charges are moderate. The moral of the above is: go to Frank Bouton at the Occidental Hotel when you want a carriage. O

Rushing Business at the Bivalve.

So great is the rush of business at the Bivalve that W. Spreen, the proprietor, finds it necessary to enlarge his accommodations for ladies and families. The ladies' department is now enlarged to double its former size, and family dining rooms have been added. The Bivalve Oyster and Dining Saloon, 640 Market st., three doors below Kearny, is immensely popular. A

A SEA-SHORE SIBYL.

BY OLIVE HARPER.

All crimson glides the ebbing tides
Of the Summer sunset sea,
Where late to-night, all pale and white,
The shadowy moon will be,
With soft stars glancing,
And roguishly dancing,
Over the beautiful sea;
While, down by the shore, I dream love-dreams o'er,
Sweet stars looking down laughing at me,
Waiting for thee.

My eyes fall now on a fair white brow,
That beams o'er the rosy seas;
The waves are tipped like the crimson lips
That are sweet as a clover breeze,
And eyes, so bright
As the fair moonlight
On the beautiful silver sea,
Beam tender and true, o'er the sea's blue—
Dear arms, they are reaching for me,
Over the sea.

Now the moonlight rides the flooding tides
Of the beautiful silver sea,
And, with face as gay as the waves that play,
My darling comes swiftly to me;
My life's clear light,
My sunshine bright,
Comes over the beautiful sea;
My starry-eyed, and oh, how wide
The moon op'd her eyelids to see
The kiss gave me.

Why He didn't Speak to Her.

For a long while we read with amazement and wonder the paragraph going the rounds of the papers, relating that "a man in Harrisburg has not spoken to his wife for twenty years," and we could never comprehend exactly how such a thing could be. But we understand it now. The matter has become perfectly plain since we have learned that the man's wife died in 1852.

A load of bricks passed over an Iowa boy, last week, without hurting him. He was under a bridge.

TO THE PUBLIC.

THE BOARD OF SUPERVISORS OF THE City and County of San Francisco, having passed an Ordinance submitting to the Electors the question of granting a subsidy to our company, for the construction of a Railroad to the Colorado River, to connect with the Railroads being built from the East, we are now in better position to ask the citizens of San Francisco to join us, and urge the importance of the undertaking and beg to say:

FIRST—We propose in good faith to build a first-class railroad, with all the dispatch possible, and certainly within the time provided in the Ordinance.

SECOND—We pledge ourselves as men to the fact that we are entirely disconnected and free from all association with the Central or Southern Pacific Railroad Companies or their managers or Directors, and are in genuine competition with them, and we have no association or connection with any other railroad company or combination in existence, and expect to have none, except business or running arrangements with lines from the East and South which hereafter may desire to exchange business with us.

THIRD—We invite every citizen of the City and County of San Francisco to subscribe to our stock Our Books are open to all. Our Company is not a close corporation, and in no sense a monopoly. We particularly invite every Taxpayer to subscribe, at least as much as he will be called upon to contribute to the subsidy, and thus, in a manner, free of legal difficulties, participate in the advantages growing out of the enterprise.

FOURTH—A Committee of the Board will be in attendance at the office of the Company, No. 305 Sansome street, from 10 A. M. to 3 P. M. daily—Sundays excepted, to receive subscriptions, and duly authorized parties will wait upon the citizens generally, giving them an opportunity to subscribe.

FIFTH—This being an independent and competing road, there can be no reason for those who desire the success of such an enterprise to decline their co-operation, which we cordially invite.

The California Devil-Fish.

The Golden Era says:

Mrs. Laura Fair is preparing a lecture for the coming Winter. She does not propose to deliver it in San Francisco.

We do not know what the subject of this lecture is to be, but would suggest "Murder as a fine Art," "Emotional Insanity," or "Love and Lucre," as taking titles. Mrs. Fair might render her entertainment more attractive by combining with it a wax work show composed of full length figures of the jurymen who acquitted her, a working model of N. Greene Curtis delivering his speech for the defence, and a figure of Dr. Trask seated with a work on insanity on his knees. There is but one subject on which the rag-tag and bob-tail who would attend Mrs. Fair's lectures would care to hear her speak; so she should, and probably will, confine herself to that subject, as it is likely to pay best. She can tell the public what she knows about "consecrating the furniture," and can make fun of the poor old man who loved her so well, and whom she bled with such profit to herself. The name at the head of this paragraph would make an attractive line in a three-sheet poster: "Mrs. Laura Fair, the California Devil-fish, will lecture," etc. We suppose Mrs. Fair is not to be blamed for entering the lecture field; she had to do that or start a shooting gallery.

A Lame Apology.

In the course of an apology for publishing four sermons the St. Louis Democrat says: "Religion ought to be of more concern to the human race than politics, not to mention the fact that there is more thought and culture in the pulpit than on the rostrum. Occasionally a sermon is dull, but generally a political speech is dull, and a dull sermon is better than a dull speech. We wish all pulpit orators were Beechers, but anything to beat Satan:"

Not Perfection.

"Inflatable rubber bustles" are announced. They are said to impart great buoyancy to the movements. In case of shipwreck they would undoubtedly be advantageous, although a girl floated by one of them might be taken for a buoy, and so passed by unnoticed.

Too Late, Alas!

We have often thought that the days when newspapers could have been published at the best advantage have passed. Nothing of a very extraordinary character ever happens now: and, as the true journalist turns the pages of history and perceives what magnificent chances for sensational articles slipped by unimproved because there were no newspapers, he feels an almost irresistible inclination to groan and weep and tear his hair. Take Noah's flood, for instance. What splendid accounts the reporters would have got off about the launch of the ark! How they could have spread themselves on the entry of the animals into the vessel, giving interviews with Ham and Shem, and accounts of the quarrels between the kangaroo and the gorilla; and how they would have rushed around, after the flood, to collect the list of insurances! Then there was Daniel. When he went into the lions' den wouldn't the editors have got down their cyclopædias and put obituary notices of him into type, and wouldn't they have howled next morning when they found him alive and well, and all their trouble wasted. What a splendid article his adventures in the den would have made, given with a wood-cut of Daniel as he sat in there prodding the lions and stirring them up with his alpacca umbrella! What is the use of having a free press if we cannot have sensations of such a kind? And then think of David and Goliah! Wouldn't a war correspondent of one of our dailies have gone crazy with delight over that combat, and written forty columns about it? And wouldn't the New York Herald have out its old ground-plan of Boston and called it a map of the locality, and muddled the brains of its readers? And when Nero fiddled at the burning of Rome, imagine how the reporters would have depicted the terrors of that conflagration, and figured up the losses and praised the fire department; and how the editors would have gone for Nero, and shaken him up and denounced him! These chances are all gone. The newspapers came too late; and now there is nothing left for us but common-places and politics, so that sometimes we hate to draw our salary.

Advertising Clergymen.

The Rev. Charles B. Smythe, a gentleman who distinguished himself by his crusade against the "Black Crook" on its first representation in New York, delivered a sermon in St. Louis recently, devoted to the query why theatres are better patronized than churches. Mr. Smythe said, "That in order to secure better church attendance, the church must avail itself of the same means used by the theatre. They must advertise like the theatre, and make a wiser selection of subjects for sermons." Whereupon a St. Louis paper pertinently remarks: "So far as the latter proposition is concerned, we heartily favor it; but as the church usually wants its advertising done for nothing, the less it indulges in it the better—for the newspapers."

Cruel Regulation.

In Pittsburgh they have cruel-hearted corporations. The street cars have notices posted up to the effect that the cars won't wait for young ladies to kiss good-by. Can man's inhumanity to woman go beyond this?

Expensive.

Louisville proposes to try the Liverpool plan to promote temperance, by publishing the names of drunkards. It only involves the necessity of republishing the Louisville City Directory.

Mme. Le Normand, who tells fortunes on the European Plan, is the most highly accomplished and versatile lady in this line of business—give her a call at her new rooms, North-West corner of Kearny and Sacramento street. L

Oyster Trade.
The oyster trade in California is assuming gigantic proportions. Emerson Corville, of the Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, furnishes from his own oyster beds at San Bruno millions of oysters to all parts of the Pacific Coast. His Eastern transplanted oysters have a fame which has extended all over the continent, and the 'Saddle Rock" is known everywhere.

The Fair Verdict,
Rendered lately by the jury and the public at large, is confirmed that the finest selection of the Fall Millinery Fashions can be found at Mme. E. Shloss', 406 Kearny street, and as she buys her goods for cash, is thereby able to undersell all others. G

Very Unkind.
The San Jose Mercury heads it's account of the race between Goldsmith Maid and Occident "The Race of the Cows," and insinuates that the people who went to see it were bilked. It compliments Eoff thus:

The vast crowd that paid railroad fare to Sacramento and two dollars admission to the course, for the purpose of witnessing the great race, will return fully convinced that "white men are uncertain," and that Jim Eoff is a white man.

Oak Poisoning.
The scientific, certain cure discovered and practised at Dr. Bourne's Baths, No. 10 Masonic Temple. Entrance on Post street. No cure, no pay. z

Sam Moore,
Formerly of Russ House Carriages, can be found in front of Coleman Bros. clothing establishment, southwest corner Bush and Montgomery sts., or Dexter Stables. Carriage orders left at either place promptly attended to day or night, at reduced rates. BG

To Those who Are Bald.
Do not fail to call at 218 Bush street (Mercantile Library Building) and obtain a bottle of Prof. Hayden's Hair Restorative. Y

Professor Alexander Wolowski,
The renowned pianist, gave a grand musical soiree at Mr. Badger's Piano Rooms, on Sansome street, which was attended by the elite of society. The entertainment was a great success. The Professor executed several gems of his own production in the most artistic manner, and was most enthusiastically received. He has the reputation of being a most proficient teacher of the pianoforte. We wish him every success in this, his new field of enterprise, where talent always commands success. B 1t

An Extraordinary Paper.

We have received a copy of the New York Witness, and don't know whether we shall add that paper to our exchange list or not. It seems to be devoted to religion and life insurance, and mixes the two up in a most confusing manner. It impresses on every one the necessity of insuring his life and also of saving his soul. This is its platform:

The Witness will be on the same platform with regard to religion as the Evangelical Alliance and Young Men's Christian Association; with regard to temperance the American Temperance Society; with regard to human rights irrespective of color, as the American Missionary Association; with respect to treatment of animals as Mr. Bergh, and it will regard political questions only from a Christian standpoint.

It's fourth page is adorned with a likeness of Pliny Freeman, "a veteran in life insurance," and its eighth with one of Hon. George Opdyke, "the eminent financier." The Witness seems determined to try the experiment of serving God and Mammon. It says in one column:

We are glad to see the following computations going the rounds of the press:

One thousand dollars loaned at 6 per ct., in 12 years will accumulate to $2,000; in 24 years, to $4,000; in 36 years to $8,000; in 46 years to $16,000; in 60 years to $32,000; in 96 years to to $256,000; in 108 years to $512,000; in 150 years to $2,024,000. Multiply this product by 1,054 and we shall have the accumulation during the next 120 years or a total of 360 years—$1,073,741,824,000—on trillion, seventy-three billions, seven hundred and forty-one millions, eight hundred and twenty-four thousand dollars.

Then into another column it slings a lot of verses like the following:

Hark, the voice of Jesus crying,
  Who will go and work to-day?
Fields are white, and harvests waiting,
  Who will bear the sheaves away?
Loud and long the Master calleth,
  Rich rewards he offers free:
Who will answer, gladly saying
  "Here am I, send me, send me?"

The Witness does'nt believe that it is easier for a camel to pass through the eye of a needle than for a rich man to enter the Kingdom of Heaven. It clamors for the support of "pastors" and financiers, lowly Christians and blatant life insurance agents, publishes sermons and stock reports, hymns and political squibs, and does it all for the glory of God and Mammon.

A Candid Confession.

A carpet-bagger addressing a colored audience in South Carolina the other day, truthfully remarked; "My friends and fellow-citizens, my skin is white, but my heart is as black as your skin."

Criminal Lectures.

The Washington Critic says:

It would seem either that the furthest limit has been reached in unblushing effrontery, if it be true, as announced, that Laura Fair and Josie Mansfield are to court public favor as lecturers, or that the patience of the American people has no bounds. Much weakness and not a little wickedness have flowed unchecked of late years from the lecture platform; but the weakness carried its own antidote, and the wickedness was often rendered almost innocuous by its very exaggeration, impracticable and hypothetical nature, exaggeration. But it will be a far different thing if the lecture-room is to be made a place of exhibition for such a woman as those named, whose sole claim to vulgar notoriety rests on direct or indirect agency in the somewhat matter-of-fact crime of murder, and in the interest of morality and decency we protest against permitting an example to be set which would have the effect of driving from the lecture-room all lecturers of culture, and filling their places with a series of shameless criminals whose only appeal would be to the most debased form of public curiosity.

In our grandfather's days, which the present generation seems inclined to sneer at, such exhibitions as these would scarcely have been possible. Had a lecture been announced by "John Sheppard, the Celebrated Housebreaker, who will tell what he knows about Burglary," the authorities would have probably seen to it that the proposed discourse was prevented. Similarly a lecture by "Richard Turpin on Life on the Road" would have been objected to. In our grandfather's days murderers were hanged, and though they were allowed to deliver one lecture, the authorities made preparations for cutting it short should they utter any demoralizing sentiments, and any repetition of it was effectually prevented. In a new burlesque of Lucrezia Borgia the fair assassin must not be allowed to die, but must take to the lecture field. We doubt if Mary Magdalene had with the best of motives gone lecturing in Galilee after having seven devils cast out of her if she would have succeeded in gaining a hearing from large and fashionable audiences. The devil is certainly having things a little his own way in these latter days, and a great crime brings with it not punishment but reward. Perhaps in course of time this free country may become a little too free, and it may then become necessary to institute a rigorous censorship over the stage and the lecture hall.

Really Foolish.

Ben. Butler has been to Louisville and made a speech. It is the first time he has been there since the war closed. The Courier-Journal says:

"The terrible panic which prevails in this city at the announcement of Ben. Butler's coming is really foolish. People who suppose that the police are going to stand idly by and permit their private property to be packed up and shipped off to Lowell without an effort to save it ought to have taken the precaution to leave town with their effects a week ago."

Complimentary.

A Piute brave, who is now doing a heap of loafing around Carson City, is the happy owner of a dog which he has named "Yankee," and this exlains his reasons therefor: "White man all time talk big; get mad; all the time run round; want to fight; heap d——d fool; him (pointing to the dog) all same Yankee."

Too Bad.

We never liked Fanny Fern much, though she wrote a good many "smart" things. We didn't like, however, to see in an obituary notice the statement that "she was as industrious as she was repulsive, and had three husbands." Of course the editor wrote im-pulsive.

Dr. Barlow J. Smith

Oyster Trade.
The oyster trade in California is assuming gigantic proportions. Emerson Corville, of the Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, furnishes from his own oyster beds at San Bruno millions of oysters to all parts of the Pacific Coast. His Eastern transplanted oysters have a fame which has extended all over the continent, and the "Saddle Rock" is known everywhere.

An Invaluable Parrot.

A gentleman residing in Wilmington, Del. owns a green parrot, which possesses a fluency of language rarely equalled by the African gray. As soon as her master returns from the office to dinner, Polly begins to salute him in fondest expressions: "Papa, dear, come and kiss your pretty green pretty! Come in, come in, and give us a kiss and a thousand more!" When the footman enters the room, she says to him, but never to anyone else, "Fetch my dinner, James, I'm hungry. Stupid fellow! I can't eat my head off!" To a bachelor friend, who frequently spent several weeks at the house, Polly has but one question, never put to anyone else, "Oh, you gay deceiver, why did you promise to marry me, and did'nt?" To a gentleman, a near neighbor, whom she had once overheard saying, at the after-dinner table, "The bird's invaluable; five hundred dollars would not buy her, would it Polly?" she always address the salute as soon as he appears: "Five hundred dollars would not buy Polly if I owned her! Five hundred dollars! Five hundred dollars! Why, the bird's invaluable!"

A Great Improvement.

A genius has an idea which is an idea. He proposes to arrange church seats on pivots, so that the devout may more conveniently examine the toilets of the back seats. This device would greatly increase the value of the church property, for then all the pews would be made alike, well situated, and of equal desirability. With self-sacrifice for the "cause," the inventor has declined to patent his improvement, and it is free to all.

Bruising the Serpent's Head.

A Georgia clergyman killed twenty-three full grown rattlesnakes one day before breakfast. He must be a pretty fair wrestler with the "Old Serpent."

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

California Theatre.

The beautiful opera of "Martha" was finely performed last night. Signora Inez Fabbri as Lady Harriet Durham, sang and acted with much expression, and Miss Annie Blaer, as Nancy, was piquante and interesting; Jacob Muller filled the role of Plunkett to general satisfaction, and L. Eisenbach appeared to better advantage in that of Lionel than in some others. To-night, "Richard III," which can be retained on the boards but a few nights longer, will be presented and those who have not yet had the satisfaction of seeing this great tragedy presented in a style worthy of its merits should seize upon this opportunity.

Alhambra.

This house was crowded again last night, and the performance gave thorough satisfaction to all present. The first part was very good, the baritone solo and chorus by J. O. Russell and company being deserving of special mention. Baker and Farron in their impersonations of Chris and Lena were encored again and again. The songs and dances of these talented performers are all fresh and original, and surpass anything of the kind ever seen on the California stage. Their rendition of "Little Fraud" is far the best ever given here; their repertoire seems inexhaustible, and they will long reign as public favorites. The play of "Chris and Lena" abounds in comic business and exciting situations, and is one of the most lively pieces of its kind ever produced here. Messrs. Baker and Farron will appear every evening until further notice.

The Fabbri Opera Troupe.

The opera of "Faust" will be presented to-morrow night in splendid style. Signor Baccei has been engaged and will fill the leading role. With this addition the Fabbri Opera Troupe will be able to give a most successful season.

Bella Union.

The performances of M'lle Gracie and Harry Clarke on the trapeze are sensational in the highest degree; the comic banjo duet by Matt Kelly and Tommy Bree is a pleasing feature in the entertainment; the "Young Actress," with Miss Lotta in five characters, is very lively and amusing, and "The Two Gregories" winds up the evening's amusement in good style.

The Atheneum.

The well arranged programme which appears on our first page is excellently performed every night by the popular artistes engaged at this house. Susie Robinson's songs are a feature, Miss May Leslie's ballads are much admired, and Lou Dixon's bone solo draws much applause. A complimentary benefit will be tendered to Manager Church on Friday evening, when a large number of volunteers will appear.

The Robinson-Conklin Circus.

The Circus Temple Troupe made a good move when they changed their base of operations, and erected their large pavilion on the popular circus lot. A large crowd enjoyed the performances of the gymnasts, Madame Sanyeah, the trained goat, the wonderful monkeys and the educated dogs last night, and laughed heartily at the funny sayings of Pete Conklin, the brightest of clowns. The same bill will be presented this evening.

Platt's Hall.

In consequence of the sudden indisposition of Miss Edith O'Gorman, the lecture which was to have been delivered on Monday has been postponed till Thursday evening.

Woodward's Gardens.

The Fire King will appear every day at half past two o'clock and perform his wonderful feats of bending red hot iron bars; drinking boiling oil and putting molten lead in his mouth. Thousands have witnessed these great feats which seem almost impossible.

City Gardens.

A fancy dress and masquerade ball will be given at the City Garden Pavilion on Saturday evening, Oct. 26th.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

Irritated.

The Courier-Journal has found a new form of profanity, and uses it in the following paragraph: "Pauline Lucca promises to become as great a newspaper nuisance in this country as was Nilsson. Besides occupying great space in the New York papers, she is already the subject of silly telegrams, such as 'Madame Lucca drove out in Central Park yesterday, and was inexpressibly charmed with the scenery.' Who the Boston Jubilee cares a cent whether Madame Lucca was irrepressibly charmed or not, or whether or not she ever 'drove out' in her life, so long as she didn't break her neck? Give us a rest!"

A Polite Corpse.

A servant of an old maiden lady, a patient of Dr. ——, of Edinburgh, has been under orders to go to the door every morning to report the state of her mistress' health, how she slept etc., with strict instructions to add, "With her compliments." At length the girl brought the following startling message: "Miss ——'s compliments, and she died last night at eight o'clock."

Fashionable Intelligence.

We always thought Carson City, Nev., a quiet sort of place, but the Appeal of the 16th disabuses us of that idea. It promises great doing on the following day—"a dance at Spooner's." It says of Spooner:

He has been to great expense in repairing, refitting, replastering, painting and varnishing his large house, and now has not only the largest, but the finest ball room in Nevada. This is a farewell party, for a time, as he is going East on a visit to be gone a few weeks or months, and would like to see all his old friends before he goes. Therefore this is to be the party of the season; no pains or expense will be spared to make it the most enjoyable and pleasant party that has ever been given in this State.

Would that we had known of this before! We should have gone to that dance at Spooner's. Who could resist such an invitation as this:

The music will be the best that can be had and the supper the perfection of culinary art. His bar decorated with the jolliest of pure liquors. His stables are warm and can accommodate a hundred horses. His parlors are bright and warm and he has plenty of the best of beds for the weary. If you want a good time, don't fail to go to Spooner's.

"Don't fail to go to Spooner's!" It sounds pleasant: "A dance, at Spooner's, warm stables for a hundred horses! Bar "decorated with the jolliest of pure liquors!" Why do we live so far from Carson City? Ai nostri monti ritorneremo, in order that we may go to Spooner's.

Base Ingratitude.

A benevolent lady took in a pretty waiter-girl to redeem from the sin of smiling upon other women's husbands and guzzling lager. In return the pretty waiter captured about two thousand dollars worth of jewelry and wardrobe, and the benevolent lady's husband. Now the benevolent lady doesn't go in so heavily in the redemption of outcasts.

Practical Girl.

Miss Fannie Carson of Iowa is bolstered up as a shining example of her sex, because she went into her father's hayfields in the capacity of a Maud Muller; but unlike that much quoted maiden, she "raked the meadow, sweet with hay," until she had gathered forty tons. A Memphis paper says this was much better than "foolin' round with a rheumatic old judge."

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of waters bright, did make a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
"Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here—
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins;
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again,

Health and Pleasure.

There are not too many pleasures in San Francisco. Nothing is more pleasant, nothing more health-giving than a drive into the country now and then. Those who cannot afford to keep a carriage of their own, can find one equal in elegance to any private conveyance at the Occidental Carriage stand. Frank Bouton has there, and at his stables 1016 Stockton street, carriages of every description. His drivers are careful and experienced, his charges are moderate. The moral of the above is: go to Frank Bouton at the Occidental Hotel when you want a carriage. D

Pause, Gentle Reader,

And peruse this notice. It will inform you that Meyers, of the White House Restaurant, Kearny street, has reopened, and thoroughly renovated the Eclipse Restaurant, 204 and 206 Fourth street, between Howard and Folsom, under the name of the Capitol Restaurant. Mr. Meyers begs to invite the patronage of the residents in the neighborhood and public in general, and assures them that he intends to provide the very best the market affords at Popular Prices—viz: three 12½ cent dishes for 25 cents. INDOLENCE.

Indolent! Indolent!—yes, I am indolent;
So is the grass growing tenderly, slowly:
So is the violet fragrant and lowly,
Drinking in quietness, peace and content;
So is the bird on the light branches swinging,
Idly his carol of gratitude singing,
Only on living and loving intent.

Indolent! Indolent!—yes, I am indolent;
So is the cloud overhanging the mountain;
So is the tremulous wave of a fountain,
Uttering softly its eloquent psalm;
Nerve and sensation in quiet reposing,
Silent as blossoms the night dew is closing,
But the full heart beating strongly and calm.

Indolent! Indolent!—yes, I am indolent,
If it be idle to gather my pleasure
Out of creation's uncoveted treasure,
Midnight and morning, by forest and sea—
Wild with the tempest's sublime exultation,
Lonely in autumn's forlorn lamentation,
Hopeful and happy with spring and the bee.

Indolent! Indolent!—art thou not indolent,
Thou who art living unloving and lonely,
Wrapped in a pall that will cover thee only
Shrouded in selfishness, piteous ghost?
Sad eyes behold thee, and angels are weeping
O'er thy forsaken and desolate sleeping;
Art thou not indolent?—Art thou not lost?

Remorse.

Lean Gormandizer—I say, Jack, do you recollect a certain saddle of four-year-old Welsh mutton we had at Tom Brisket's on Sunday afternoon about this time last year? Fat Ditto—I should think I did. [Pause.] Lean Gormandizer—That was a saddle of mutton, Jack! Fat Ditto—Ah! wasn't it? [Long pause.] Lean Gormandizer—I often wish I'd taken another slice of that saddle of mutton, Jack!

Live Well.

Those who eat good dinners are amiable. Bad feeding is the cause of many crimes. Those who dine at the Pioneer Restaurant, on Washington street, at the corner of Dunbar Alley, live well, and are consequently happy. Henry Bookan, who has catered for the public since 1849, provides for his customers Lake Tahoe trout, Salmagundi soup, game, tame geese, delicious entrees, and everything the heart of man can desire. The best cup of tea in the city—English breakfast tea—Souchong and Orange Pekoe—can be obtained here. B

TO THE PUBLIC.

THE BOARD OF SUPERVISORS OF THE City and County of San Francisco, having passed an Ordinance submitting to the Electors the question of granting a subsidy to our company, for the construction of a Railroad to the Colorado River, to connect with the Railroads being built from the East, we are now in better position to ask the citizens of San Francisco to join us, and urge the importance of the undertaking and beg to say:

FIRST—We propose in good faith to build a first-class railroad, with all the dispatch possible, and certainly within the time provided in the Ordinance.

SECOND—We pledge ourselves as men to the fact that we are entirely disconnected and free from all association with the Central or Southern Pacific Railroad Companies or their managers or Directors, and are in genuine competition with them, and we have no association or connection with any other railroad company or combination in existence, and expect to have none, except business or running arrangements with lines from the East and South which hereafter may desire to exchange business with us.

THIRD—We invite every citizen of the City and County of San Francisco to subscribe to our stock. Our Books are open to all. Our Company is not a close corporation, and in no sense a monopoly. We particularly invite every Taxpayer to subscribe, at least as much as he will be called upon to contribute to the subsidy, and thus, in a manner, free of legal difficulties, participate in the advantages growing out of the enterprise.

FOURTH—A Committee of the Board will be in attendance at the office of the Company, No. 305 Sansome street, from 10 A. M. to 3 P. M. daily—Sundays excepted, to receive subscriptions, and duly authorized parties will wait upon the citizens generally, giving them an opportunity to subscribe.

FIFTH—This being an independent and competing road, there can be no reason for those who desire the success of such an enterprise to decline their co-operation, which we cordially invite.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

California Theatre.

To-night the Fabbri Opera Troupe will present the opera of "Faust." The troupe having been strengthened by the engagement of Signor Baccei, the tenor who made such a success during the Bianchi season of three nights, can present operas in a style which will leave but little to be desired. The cast appears on our first page. To-morrow night "Richard III," which must be withdrawn after the present week will be presented.

Alhambra.

Baker and Farron have got the town. Everyone is going to see their characteristic songs and dances, and everyone is delighted. "Shakina Dloes" promises to be as popular as Billy Emerson's "Seven Ond," and Farren's singing and dancing are very generally admired. The play of "Obris and Lene" is preceded by a capital first part of mirth and minstrelsy.

Bella Union.

The pretty ballet of "La Maja di Siviglia," the amusing act entitled "Gov. Stanford's Ghost," the wonderful performances of M'lle Gracie and Harry Clarke, the protean acting of Miss Lo ta, and a melange of songs and dances, make up an attractive programme, which draws crowded houses.

The Athaneum.

The contortion feats of Guillermo Bruno, the hat spinning of Signor Garbetti, the sweet ballads of Miss May Leslie, the character sketches of Miss Agnes Kennedy, and the many acts by other members of the company set forth on our first page, make up a capital entertainment. To-morrow night a great bill will be presented for the benefit of the enterprising manager, J. H. Miller.

The Robinson-Conklin Circus.

The great combination of equestrian, gymnastic and canine talent now performing in the Pavilion on Jackson street, will remain but a few days longer. They will close on Saturday. The programme for to-night is a very attractive one. The last matinee will be given on Saturday next.

Platt's Hall.

To-night Miss Edith O'Gorman, who is a born orator, will deliver one of her sprightly, original and entertaining lectures, and will also give some account of the persecution to which she has been exposed during her stay in San Francisco in consequence of running counter to the belief and prejudices of a certain class. We have no doubt there will be a large attendance, and are sure that all present will be entertained.

Lucy and Occident.

Great preparations are being made to accommodate the thousands who will attend the race between these two noted horses on Saturday at the Alameda Track. The course has been placed in perfect order; the back stretch having been raised where the water had softened it, presenting now a hard and firm footing. New stands have been erected, in the most substantial manner, capable of seating 5,000 people. Extra boats and trains will be dispatched via Oakland at 11:20 and 11:45 A. M.; also at 12:10, 12:40, 1:15 and 1:50 P. M. and by the Alameda route at 12 M. and 12:30 P. M. No horses or vehicles will be allowed on these boats. The Thoroughfare with her immense deck accommodations will also be brought into requisition. She will be dispatched from the foot of Second street at 11 A. M. and 12:15 P. M. for the accommodation of those who wish to drive over in carriages. She can carry one hundred vehicles each trip, and will be detained at the wharf after the races are over a sufficient length of time to enable passengers to reach the wharf. After the great contest is decided a second race will come off between the pacers "Defiance" and "Mayo," who are expected to record better time than has ever been made in this state by pacers. Immediately after the first race is over, two trains of twenty cars each will be dispatched from the track, giving people who do not wish to see the second race, opportunity to return to the city. Trains will leave the track every thirty minutes following this. "Lucy" and "Occident" are both in excellent condition, and as "Occident" will stand an equal chance in scoring with "Lucy," who is not so quick of foot in starting as the "Maid" is, it is prophesied by the knowing ones, that the Sacramento time will be beaten by several seconds. In support of this it is stated that the horses scored over four miles at Sacramento, and severely taxed their freshness and energy before the first heat was made. All persons are especially requested to procure passage tickets and tickets of admission to the track at the office of the Association, 112 Sutter street, opposite the Lick House. Tickets of admission must be procured before persons can pass on to the ferry-boats. The office will be open for the sale of tickets on Thursday and Friday—day and evening. Seats can be secured at the same place. Passage tickets to and from the track will be fifty cents.

Woodward's Gardens.

The Fire King will appear every day at half past two o'clock and perform his wonderful feats of bending red hot iron bars; drinking boiling oil and putting molten lead in his mouth. Thousands have witnessed these great feats which seem almost impossible.

City Gardens.

A fancy dress and masquerade ball will be given at the City Garden Pavilion on Saturday evening, Oct. 26 h.

Shakspeare as a Printer.

Shakspeare has successively had to sustain the character of a schoolmaster, lawyer, soldier, sailor, farmer, surgeon, and a dozen other trades and professions, and has been proved satisfactorily in the minds of several writers to have been well versed in alchemy, botany, music and all the ologies. But it has remained for Mr. Blades, the eminent Caxtonian, to prove that Shakspeare was one of his own craft—a printer. In the volume just issued by the Messrs. Trubner, it is clearly shown that on arriving in London, he called upon his fellow-townsman, Field, who had married the daughter of Ventrollier, a printer, and had succeeded him in his business. Here, then, Shakspeare, as press reader or shopman, or as both, remained for four years, and become masters of the terms reprint, title pages, preface, typo, nonpareil, broadside, locking up, register, and printer's devil, all of which are to be found in his works.

Encouraging.

A Detroit woman with the rheumatism consulted a clairvoyant, who went into a trance and wrote the following startling description of the case: "I find your case is one that baffles scill. The dises is complyosted; the spine is much diesed; you hurt it by a fall. The liver is ulserated, cause you to raise a thick mewons. Your hed sympethizes. You hav spells of feeling dizzy, and the scrofula in the blood, which has destroyed the vitality, causes some tendency to dropsy. The throte is effected by Katarr in the hed. You can, with proper treatment, be helped. I hosp this is not too late to Benefitt you; if you want treatment, I will attend you at wonce."

An Infamous Outrage.

Turtles are plenty in Brazil, and the paupers in the asylum in Rio Janeiro have addressed to the authorities a protest against the managers of the institution because they persist in feeding the inmates upon green-turtle soup and steaks. How long are these infamous outrages against the defenceless poor to go unavenged? How long are human beings to be subjected by the fiendish oppressor to these diabolical cruelties? Man's inhumanity to man, in stuffing him with turtle when he wants toast, cries aloud for vengeance.

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of waters bright, did make a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
"Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here—
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, than
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins;
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again,

Pacific Oyster House, 337 Bush street, above Montgomery; open Day and Night.

Health and Pleasure.

There are not too many pleasures in San Francisco. Nothing is more pleasant, nothing more health-giving than a drive into the country now and then. Those who cannot afford to keep a carriage of their own, can find one equal in elegance to any private conveyance at the Occidental Carriage stand. Frank Bonton has there, and at his stables 1016 Stockton street, carriages of every description. His drivers are careful and experienced, his charges are moderate. The moral of the above is: go to Frank Bonton at the Occidental Hotel when you want a carriage. O

Pause, Gentle Reader,

And peruse this notice. It will inform you that Meyers, of the White House Restaurant, Kearny street, has reopened, and thoroughly renovated the Eclipse Restaurant, 204 and 206 Fourth street, between Howard and Folsom, under the name of the Capitol Restaurant. Mr. Meyers begs to invite the patronage of the residents in the neighborhood and public in general, and assures them that he intends to provide the very best the market affords at Popular Prices—viz: three 12½ cent dishes for 25 cents. B

Rushing Business at the Bivalve.

So great is the rush of business at the Bivalve that W. Spreen, the proprietor, finds it necessary to enlarge his accommodations for ladies and families. The ladies' department is now enlarged to double its former size, and family dining rooms have been added. The Bivalve Oyster and Dining Saloon, 640 Market st., three doors below Kearny, is immensely popular. A

THE ANGEL OF PATIENCE.

Beside the toilsome way,
Lonely and dark, by fruits and flowers unblest,
Which my worn feet tread sadly day by day,
Longing in vain for rest,

An angel softly walks,
With pale, sweet face, and eyes cast meekly down,
The while from withered leaves and flowerless stalks
She weaves my little crown.

A sweet and patient grace,
A look of firm endurance, true and tried,
Of suffering meekly borne, rests on her face—
So pure, so glorified.

And when my fainting heart
Desponds and murmurs at its adverse fate,
Then quietly the angel's bright lips part,
Whispering softly, "Wait!"

"Patience!" she sweetly saith—
"The Father's mercies never come too late;
Gird thee with patient strength and trusting faith,
And firm endurance—wait!"

Angel, behold, I wait!
Wearing the thorny crown through all life's hours,
Wait till the hand shall ope th' eternal gate,
And change the thorns to flowers.

In the Latin Quarter.

Le Gaulois gives the following dialogue as taking place on Sunday morning in that part of Paris where students and the grisettes live;

Two windows open at the same time; two heads are put forth—

"Good day, neighbor Lucille."

"How do you do M. Jules?"

"Lucille, you love the country. I propose a little excursion to-day."

"What, have you come into a fortune?"

"My uncle has left me a mill."

"What a coincidence! My aunt is going to give me a new bonnet."

Live Well.

Those who eat good dinners are amiable. Bad feeding is the cause of many crimes. Those who dine at the Pioneer Restaurant, on Washington street, at the corner of Dunbar Alley, live well, and are consequently happy. Henry Bocken, who has catered for the public since 1849, provides for his customers Lake Tahoe trout, Salmagundi soup, game, tame geese, delicious entrees, and everything the heart of man can desire. The best cup of tea in the city—English breakfast tea—Souchong and Orange Pekoe—can be obtained here. B

TO THE PUBLIC.

THE BOARD OF SUPERVISORS OF THE City and County of San Francisco, having passed an Ordinance submitting to the Electors the question of granting a subsidy to our company, for the construction of a Railroad to the Colorado River, to connect with the Railroads being built from the East, we are now in better position to ask the citizens of San Francisco to join us, and urge the importance of the undertaking and beg to say:

FIRST—We propose in good faith to build a first-class railroad, with all the dispatch possible, and certainly within the time provided in the Ordinance.

SECOND—We pledge ourselves as men to the fact that we are entirely disconnected and free from all association with the Central or Southern Pacific Railroad Companies or their managers or Directors, and are in genuine competition with them, and we have no association or connection with any other railroad company or combination in existence, and expect to have none, except business or running arrangements with lines from the East and South which hereafter may desire to exchange business with us.

THIRD—We invite every citizen of the City and County of San Francisco to subscribe to our stock Our Books are open to all. Our Company is not a close corporation, and in no sense a monopoly. We particularly invite every Taxpayer to subscribe, at least as much as he will be called upon to contribute to the subsidy, and thus, in a manner, free of legal difficulties, participate in the advantages growing out of the enterprise.

FOURTH—A Committee of the Board will be in attendance at the office of the Company, No. 305 Sansome street, from 10 A. M. to 3 P. M. daily—Sundays excepted, to receive subscriptions, and duly authorized parties will wait upon the citizens generally, giving them an opportunity to subscribe.

FIFTH—This being an independent and competing road, there can be no reason for those who desire the success of such an enterprise to decline their co-operation, which we cordially invite.

TO TAXPAYERS.

Taxes Due October 28th,

Delinquent Jan. 6th, 1872.

THE USUAL DELAY, CONFUSION AND annoyance experienced by Taxpayers will be much increased this year, as both PERSONAL and REAL PROPERTY has to be paid upon at the same time.

This being the case, the undersigned would most respectfully suggest that Taxpayers furnish this office with a schedule of their property at an early day. Where there have been no changes, the Tax Bills of any previous year are the most convenient and correct memoranda.

Branch Punch Saloon,
317 Kearny street.
Have you beheld it? If not, you've a treat
At SQUARZA'S PUNCH SALOON, in Kearny street!
There BONA, disciple of GREAT SQUARZA,
Dispenses famed Magic Punches; rather
The most delicious mixtures yet recorded;
And have with many medals been rewarded!
Ladies their CORDIALS there can sip at leisure,—
Their "TEARS" appease,—and Men gain "LADIES' PLEASURE."
To allay connubial differences and pain,
In "ANTI-DIVORCE" you can your end attain.
Sip of the potent extract but one taste,
Your arm, consoling, straight is round her waist!
Guess what a "MORNING COMFORT" in the kiss
That heals the quarrel and imparts the bliss!
The "WELCOME" too, you'll always find
A balmy soother for the troubled mind.
The bright "AURORA," and the sweet "FAREWELL,"
Just visit BONA, and you'll all fare well!
His "HYGIENIC BITTERS" are the panacea
For all dyspeptics and for diarrhoea.
No Cholera Morbus ever has been found
Where "HYGIENIC BITTERS" knock around.
BONA and SQUARZA, spite of all detractors,
Have proved the Nation's greatest benefactors!
Full FORTY different healthful drinks you'll find,
To aid the Man—invigorate the mind!
Not this alone—a Welcome you will meet
At BONA'S—(SQUARZA'S)—317 KEARNY STREET.
Remember, too, not this famed place to pass;
ALL SPLENDID LIQUORS BUT ONE BIT A GLASS.
THEY HAVE TAKEN

Hyena Colfax.

George Alfred Townsend, the moment he arrived in Washington from his trip to Arkansas, made haste to reply to Vice-President Colfax's attack upon him, which he did in more than a column of The Capital of the twenty-eight ultimo, one paragraph of which we quote as a sample of the whole. He characterizes the Man who Laughs thus:

> Schuyler Colfax leaves public life, if happily we are to be rid of him, with the record of a retail statesman, a penny-dip burning high on the altar amongst the legitimate tapers of the State. A deceitful friend, a sneaking and dexterous politician, he ate at the table with his knife during all his official term, and has been known to entertain a dinner party of ladies and gentlemen with a description of his false teeth.

Schuyler will read this, and for perhaps a half moment he will cease to smile. If Piper be elected, he too will "eat with his knife during all his official term." Perhaps the reason Skylark Colfax smiled like a laughing hyena, was that he wished to show the perfection of his false teeth and advertise his dentist.

Absurd Woman!

Our friend Muffington has a good deal of trouble with his wife; she is whimsical, and wants to have her own way whether there is any reason in it or not. Now they have a baby girl and Mrs. Muffington wants to have it named "Ammonie." Muffington has tried to reason his wife out of this absurd idea, and even gone to the length of pretending that he believes that Mrs. Muffington has set her heart on calling her baby by this name because she is sweet on a clerk in a drug store. He has even proposed a compromise, suggesting Sal Volatile, but Mrs. Muffington insists that "Ammonia" is a pretty name and that the baby shall be called nothing else.

Acquittal of Mrs. Fair.

A New York paper has the following:

> Mrs. Laura D. Fair, the California murderess, has been acquitted and released. She owes her acquittal to her beauty. If she had been a hardworking washerwoman, with irregular features and a tanned complexion, she would probably have been strung up without judge or jury. It is to be hoped that Mrs. Fair will now fall in love with some of the jury who acquitted her. If the juryman thinks more of his wife than he does of Mrs. Fair, it will then be proper, according to his interpretation of California law, for Mrs. Feir to blow his brains out. We hope she will do it.

Disgusted.

A sailor, passing through a grave-yard, saw on one of the tombstones, "I still live." This was too much for Jack, who, shifting his quid, ejaculated, "Well, I've heard say there are cases in which a man may lie, but if I was dead I'd own it."

The New Niblo's

It is estimated that Niblo's Garden, New York, which, it will be remembered, was burned on the 8th of May, will be reopened on the 11th of November. The work of rebuilding it is already far advanced toward completion. The theatre will be very much the same as it was before, except that it will possess additional appliances of comfort, particularly in the region of the stage; and the whole place will be lighter, airier and more elegant than ever. As the spectacle-theatre of the metropolis, Niblo's Garden has for some years thriven, and as the spectacle theatre of the metropolis it will resume its career. The opening piece is ready. It is not "The Black Crook," as was at first intimated, but it is a spectacle of the same order. Mr. Voeghtlin, the chief scenic artist of the theatre, is painting two transformation scenes. Four transformation scenes, in all, are to be presented. One will consist of a sudden change from a demon's cave to a brilliant market fair in Japan. Another is the famous bird-cage scene from "The White Cat"—the most popular of the Parisian spectacles. Besides these strong points of gorgeousness, the new piece is to display a series of dioramic pictures, said to be really magnificent, by Mr. Matt Morgan. This artist used to be the chief artist at the Covent Garden Theatre. As a figure painter he has long enjoyed distinction. Another scenic feature will be what the artist, Mr. Charles V. Getz, of Baltimore, calls "a chromatic foil" painting. This is called "The Palace of Jewels." Still another glory has been provided by Mr. Julian Hick one of the prominent scenic artists of London, in the shape of an allegorical picture called "Beauty's Bower." M. Sachetti, the distinguished French artist, whose brush is equally strong in the treatment of landscape and water, furnishes a view of "Lake by Moonlight." It was shipped on board of the Helvetia, reported to be on fire in Havre, but happily it escaped injury, so that presently it may be admired, not alone for its loveliness, but for the perils it has passed. Finally, the Drew Brothers, of London, who made the transformation scene in "The Black Crook," have surpassed all their former efforts in this line by making for the new spectacle which Messrs. Jarrett & Palmer will present a transformation scene called "The Nativity of Venus." This has cost a great deal of money, enlisted in its execution a great deal of practical skill, and afforded gratification to some of the most experienced art critics in England. It will be perceived that all the conspicuous schools of stage painting in the world are to be represented in the spectacle at Niblo's Garden and that greater efforts than were ever put forth hitherto are now to be made to feast the eyes and feed the luxuriant tastes of the sensuous multitude. Niblo's Garden will proceed under the same management as before.

Frugal Woman.

The lady with whom we board having read in the papers that acetate of soda is a preserver of meat, flavors all her dishes with it. The boarders don't eat so much meat now; they make up a meal with bread and molasses.

It must be comforting to the author of "Little Breeches" to know that more people just now have the "Hay fever" than the "Harte" disease.

At SQUARZA'S PUNCH SALOON, in Kearny street
There BONA, disciple of GREAT SQUARZA,
Dispenses famed Magic Punches; rather
The most delicious mixtures yet recorded;
And have with many medals been rewarded!
Ladies their CORDIALS there can sip at leisure,—
Their "TEARS" appease,—and Men gain "LADIES PLEASURE."
To allay connubial differences and pain,
In "ANTI-DIVORCE" you can your end attain,
Sip of the potent extract but one taste,
Your arm, encircling, straight is round her waist.
Guess what a "MORNING COMFORT" in the sip
That heals the quarrel and imparts the bliss!
The "WELCOME" too, you'll always find
A balmy soother for the troubled mind.
The bright "AURORA," and the sweet "FAREWELL,"
Just visit BONA, and you'll all fare well!
His "HYGIENIC BITTERS" are the panacea
For all dyspeptics and for diarrhœa.
No Cholera Morbus ever has been found
Where "HYGIENIC BITTERS" knock around.
BONA and SQUARZA, spite of all detractors,
Have proved the Nation's greatest benefactors!
Full FORTY different healthful drinks you'll find
To aid the Man—invigorate the mind!
Not this alone—a Welcome you will meet
At BONA'S—(SQUARZA'S)—317 KEARNY STREET

A Wife's Commandments.

Thou shalt have no other wife but me, nor shalt thou in thy sleep dream of other women.

Thou shalt not take into thy house any beautiful, sly, brazen image of a servant girl to make love to when my back is turned, for I am a jealous wife.

Honor thy wife's father and mother; wear a smile when they meet thee.

Thou shalt not be behind thy neighbors, but outshine them in dressing thy wife and babies.

Thou shalt let thy wife have the last word in every row.

Thou shalt not get drunk, nor go to bed with thy boots on.

Thou shalt not say nice words to other ladies in my presence, nor praise them in our privacy—remember I am a jealous wife.

Thou shalt not stay out after nine o'clock at night, nor snore at my side, nor kick in thy sleep.

Remember, oh, thou Benedict, these commandments, and keep them holy, for they are the law and gospel.

Bothering Ghost.

Ghosts are getting to be so plentiful in these days that it is hardly worth while to mention their appearance. A woman in Lexington, Ky., was lately visited by a tall spectre, who pointed to her child in its cradle and wrote on the wall in letters of fire the date 1,900. Whether the infant is to be President that year or is only going to die is a matter left to conjecture. These ghosts are always unsatisfactory in their communications, and only puzzle and trouble us. Why can't they attend to their own business and leave us alone.

Another Quadruped.

At a Greeley and Brown meeting on Wednesday evening, Piper perorated but prefaced his speech with the statement that he was a little hoarse. If Piper, instead of asserting that he was a little ho(a)rse, had acknowledged himself a big a—nimal of another species his candor would have been admired.

Wit and Humor in the Bible.

The Rev. G. B. Wilcox, writing in the Independent, begins a dissertation on the "Wit and Humor of the Bible," thus:

"Shocking!" many a good old saint will say at the thought of it. "The Bible a jest book? What godless folly shall we have next?" No; the Bible is not a jest book. But there is wit in it of the first quality, and a good reason why it should be there. Take a few specimens:

Job, in his 30th chapter, is telling how he scorned the low-lived fellows who pretend to look down on him in his adversities. They are fools. They belong to the long-eared fraternity. Anybody, with less wit, might come out bluntly and call them asses. But Job puts it more deftly (xxx., 7): "Among the bushes they brayed: under the nettles they were gathered together." If that is not wit, there is no such thing as wit. And yet the commentators don't see it, or won't see it. They are perfectly wooden when they come to any such gleam of humor.

Take another instance—Elijah's ridicule of the prophets of Baal. They are clamoring to their god to help them out a very awkward predicament. And, while they are at it, the prophet shows them up in a way that must have made the people roar with laughter. The stiff, antiquated style of our English Bible tames down his sallies. Take them in modern phrase. These quack prophets have worked themselves into a perfect desperation, and are capering about on the altar as if they had the St. Vitus' dance.

The scene (1 Kings. xviii., 26, 27,) wakes all Elijah's sense of the ridiculous. "Shout louder! He is a god, you know. Make him hear! Perhaps he is chatting with somebody, or he is off on a hunt, or gone traveling, or maybe he is taking a nap. Shout away! Wake him up!" Imagine the priests going through their antics on the altar, while Elijah bombards them in this style at his leisure. If Mr. Beecher ever said anything that convulsed his hearers more thoroughly than the prophet must have done the Jews around him I should like to hear it.

Paul shows a dry humor more than once, as in 2 Cor., xii., 13: "Why haven't you fared as well as the other churches? Ah! there is one grievance—that you haven't had me to support. Pray do not lay it up against me!"

These instances might be multiplied from the Old and New Testament both. What do they show? That the Bible is, on the whole, a humorous book? Far from it. That religion is a humorous subject—that we are to throw all the wit we can into the treatment of it? No. But they show that the sense of the ludicrous is put into a man by his Maker; that it has its uses; and that we are not to be ashamed of it, or to roll up our eyes in a holy horror of it.

Professor Alexander Wolowski,

The renowned pianist, gave a grand musical soiree at Mr. Badger's Piano Rooms, on Sansome street, which was attended by the elite of society. The entertainment was a great success. The Professor executed several gems of his own production in the most artistic manner, and was most enthusiastically received. He has the reputation of being a most proficient teacher of the pianoforte. We wish him every success in this, his new field of enterprise, where talent always commands success. B 1t

Not Infallible.

Ever since the day when Jack Sprat could eat no fat, and his wife had an equal aversion to lean—how long ago was that?—it has been a theory that husband and wife should be "opposites," in order to live together harmoniously. NEW ADVERTISEMENTS

REOPENING

DR, BARLOW J. SMITH

ANNOUNCES THAT THE RECENT EXTENSIVE additions and improvements to his HYGIENE HOME WATER-CURE and PHRENOLOGICAL INSTITUTE, 637 California street, are completed. To his original premises have been added an entirely new and elegant three-story brick structure, a new and commodious lecture hall, a lofty and spacious dining hall, and cosy, comfortable bath-rooms in almost endless variety, with all the most modern, scientific and complete appliances for administering every conceivable description of medical baths, among which may be mentioned the electro-thermal, the electro-sitz, the electro-vapor, the electro-Russian, the electro-Turkish, Sulphur Mercurial, Iodine and other medicated baths; also an entirely new bath, invented by Dr. Smith, which he has named the American bathe. It combines all the advantages of the Russian and Turkish, together with the electric spray and other appliances peculiar to itself, making it superior to any other hydropathic application now in use. The spacious parlors and other multiplied appliances for promoting the health and comfort of patients combine to constitute DR. SMITH'S HYGIENE HOME WATER CURE by far the most complete Hygiene Establishment on the Pacific Slope, and afford to the sick and suffering of both sexes the surest, speediest and cheapest means of cure to be found anywhere West of the Rocky mountains. Hygienic board and a comfortable home for all who desire them.

California Theatre.

The opera-goers of San Francisco turned out in full force last night, when the opera of "Faust" was performed by the Fabbri Opera Troupe, and crowded the California Theatre in every part. Signora Inez Fabbri sang and acted the role of Margaret beautifully; Signor Pietro Baccei, the popular tenor, was in excellent voice and gained great applause for his rendition of the part of Faust. Jacob Muller was an excellent Mephistopheles; Miss Annie Fizer was a charming Siebel and sang with good taste and expression; Mons. Charles acquitted himself well as Valentin, and the opera generally was well performed. The orchestra under the able direction of Prof. Mulder-Fabbri did full justice to Gounod's beautiful music and a general wish was expressed that the opera might be repeated at an early date. To-night the drama of "Richard III," the production of which, in such a style of magnificence, is something which we could scarcely have dared to hope for in California, will be played and will also form the entertainment again at the matinee to-morrow.

Alhambra.

Crowds flock nightly to this popular house, and all are delighted with the capital acting, good singing, and artistic dancing of Baker, and the graceful female character acting and beautiful singing of Farron, in the very lively play of "Chris and Lena." This play will form the bill at the matinee to-morrow. It will be preceded to-night by an excellent first part.

The Fabbri Opera Troupe.

The next opera night at the California Theatre will be Sunday, when the opera of "Norma" will be presented by the Fabbri Opera Troupe.

Bella Union.

M'lle Gracie and Harry Clarke are the reigning stars at this house, and promise to be so for some time to come. The ballet of "La Maja di Siviglia," the play of "The Young Actress," with Miss Lotta in five characters, the act of "Gov. Stanford's Ghost," and other attractive features, appear in the programme to-night.

The Atheneum.

There will be an extraordinary entertainment at this popular place of amusement this evening, when the enterprising manager, J. H. Church, will be the recipient of a complimentary benefit tendered him by the members of the company. The programme appears on our first page, and it will be observed that a host of volunteers will appear.

The Robinson-Conklin Circus.

Only two nights more will the public be able to enjoy the witticisms of Pete Conklin, the clown, the wonderful performances of the trained dogs, monkeys, goat, and the educated pony, and admire the graceful acts of Madame Senyeah. There will be a matinee performance to-morrow, and to-morrow night the last performance will be given.

City Gardens.

To-morrow night there will be a fancy dress and masquerade ball at these gardens, to which many will doubtless go after the races. On Sunday the Haight Light Cavalry will hold their picnic; there will be two bands of music, and prizes will be awarded for races and other sports. The Baisleys will perform in the Pavilion, and there will be a balloon ascension, weather permitting. The Fire King will walk through the blazing fiery furnace, and the day's diversions will terminate with a military ball.

Woodward's Gardens.

The Fire King will appear every day at half past two o'clock and perform his wonderful feats of bending red hot iron bars; drinking boiling oil and putting molten lead in his mouth. Thousands have witnessed these great feats which seem almost impossible.

Treat's Park, Alameda.

Great preparations are being made to accommodate the thousands who will attend the race between these two noted horses on Saturday at the Alameda Track. The course has been placed in perfect order; the back stretch having been raised where the water had softened it, presenting now a hard and firm footing. New stands have been erected in the most substantial manner, capable of seating 5,000 people. Extra boats and trains will be dispatched via Oakland at 11:20 and 11:45 A. M.; also at 12:10, 12:40, 1:15 and 1:50 P. M. and by the Alameda route at 12 M and 12:30 P. M. No horses or vehicles will be allowed on these boats. The Thoroughfare with her immense deck accommodations will also be brought into requisition. She will be dispatched from the foot of Second street at 11 A. M. and 12:15 P. M. for the accommodation of those who wish to drive over in carriages. She can carry one hundred vehicles each trip, and will be detained at the wharf after the races are over a sufficient length of time to enable passengers to reach the wharf. After the great contest is decided a second race will come off between the pacers "Defiance" and "Mayo," who are expected to record better time than has ever been made in this state by pacers. Immediately after the first race is over, two trains of twenty cars each will be dispatched from the track, giving people who do not wish to see the second race, opportunity to return to the city. Trains will leave the city every thirty minutes following this. Lucy and Occident are both in excellent condition, and as Occident will stand an equal chance in scoring with Lucy, who is not so quick of foot in starting as the "Maid" is, it is prophesied by the knowing ones, that the Sacramento time will be beaten by several seconds. In support of this it is stated that the horses scored over four miles at Sacramento, and severely taxed their freshness and energy before the first heat was made. All persons are especially requested to procure passage tickets and tickets of admission to the track at the office of the Association, 112 Sutter street, opposite the Lick House. Tickets of admission must be procured before persons can pass on to the ferry-boats. The office will be open for the sale of tickets on Thursday and Friday—day and evening. Seats can be secured at the same place. Passage tickets to and from the track will be fifty cents.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

Why Don't You Respond!

Old Judge W., of ——, in the Old Dominion, is a character. He was a lawyer, legislator, judge and leading politician among old-time Whigs of blessed memory, but alas like many of his confreres, where the woodbine twineth he has gone. Notwithstanding the loss of property and the too free use of apple jack, he maintained the dignity of ex-judge, dressed neatly, carried a gold-headed cane, and when he had taken more than his usual allowance of his favorite beverage he was very pious; at such times he always attended church, and standing near the stand as exactly as circumstances would admit and responding fervently.

On one occasion a Baptist brother was holding forth with energy and unction on the evils of the times, and in one of his flights exclaimed:

"Show me a drunkard!"

The Judge arose to his feet, and unsteadily balancing himself on his cane, said solemnly:

"Here I am, sir, here I am!"

The elder, though a good deal nonplussed by the unexpected response, managed to go on with his discourse, and, warming up to his work, again called out:

"Show me a hypocrite! Show me a hypocrite!"

Judge W., arose, and reached forward across a seat which intervened, touched Deacon D., on the shoulder with his cane, said:

"Deacon D., why don't you respond, sir, why don't you respond? I did when he called me!"

A Harmless Exhilarant.

Many who would enjoy the exhilaration caused by a glass of wine are forced to abstain by thoughts of the reaction which is sure to follow—they think of their head in the morning. A harmless exhilarant which is followed by no reaction has long been a desideratum. Thousands in the East Indies habitually take small doses of the extract of Indian hemp and live to a good old age without ever suffering the pains which are sure to follow an indulgence in alcoholic stimulants. This extract of Indian hemp, or hasheesh, has been introduced in this city and is sold at all the drug stores under the title of Boyington's Magic Conserves. No one need be afraid to take them, following the instructions given on the box.

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of waters bright, did make a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
"Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here—
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins;
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have bare the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners,"
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again.

Pacific Oyster House, 337 Bush street, above Montgomery; open Day and Night.

Health and Pleasure.

There are not too many pleasures in San Francisco. Nothing is more pleasant, nothing more health-giving than a drive into the country now and then. Those who cannot afford to keep a carriage of their own, can find one equal in elegance to any private conveyance at the Occidental Carriage stand. Frank Bonton has there, and at his stables 1016 Stockton street, carriages of every description. His drivers are careful and experienced, his charges are moderate. The moral of the above is: go to Frank Bonton at the Occidental Hotel when you want a carriage. O

Pause, Gentle Reader,

And peruse this notice. It will inform you that Meyers, of the White House Restaurant, Kearny street, has reopened, and thoroughly renovated the Eclipse Restaurant, 204 and 206 Fourth street, between Howard and Folsom, under the name of the Capitol Restaurant. Mr. Meyers begs to invite the patronage of the residents in the neighborhood and public in general, and assures them that he intends to provide the very best the market affords at Popular Prices—viz: three 12½ cent dishes for 25 cents. B

Rushing Business at the Bivalve.

So great is the rush of business at the Bivalve that W. Spreen, the proprietor, finds it necessary to enlarge his accommodations for ladies and families. The ladies' department is now enlarged to double its former size, and family dining rooms have been added. The Bivalve Oyster and Dining Saloon, 640 Market st., three doors below Kearny, is immensely popular. A

A Jolly Landlord.

The St. Louis Globe says:

Among the strangers who came to the Fair was Mr. Stearns, of the International Hotel, down in Southern Illinois. A few of his solid and sententious remarks may please some people who don't know any better than to enjoy that sort of thing:

Being fearfully and wonderfully hungry when he came down town, he remarked that he might swallow a steam engine and get up steam in it, and wouldn't feel it. Which was an exaggeration.

When he was told that he ought to get a new suit of clothes, he remarked that anything was good enough for him; but, if it was forced on him, he would go into a hard wear store.

It appeared to trouble him at the Fair Ground that pretty women were so scarce, but his eyes settled on one that suited him after awhile, and he could only object to her avoirdupois. Says he: "That is a very handsome woman, if she could only be boiled down to a reasonable size."

He has gone. He brought a cargo of chill, and expected to take a premium at the Fair, but a Southeast Missouri exhibitor carried off the blue ribbon, and Stearns, after trying to get a corner in quinine, went home disgusted.

The True Lady.

From this lady there exhales a subtle magnetism. Unconsciously she circles herself with an atmosphere of unruffled strength, which to those who come into it gives confidence and repose. Within her influence the diffident grow self possessed, the impudent are checked, the inconsiderate are admonished; even the rude are constrained to be magnetized unawares by the charm of the flexible dignity, the thorough womanliness of her look, speech and demeanor. A sway like this is purely spiritual.

Live Well.

Those who eat good dinners are amiable. Bad feeding is the cause of many crimes. Those who dine at the Pioneer Restaurant, on Washington street, at the corner of Dunbar Alley, live well, and are consequently happy. Henry Bockan, who has catered for the public since 1849, provides for his customers Lake Tahoe trout, Salmagundi soup, game, tame geese, delicious entrees, and everything the heart of man can desire. The best cup of tea in the city—English breakfast tea—Souchong and Orange Pekoe—can be obtained here. B

TO THE PUBLIC.

THE BOARD OF SUPERVISORS OF THE City and County of San Francisco, having passed an Ordinance submitting to the Electors the question of granting a subsidy to our company, for the construction of a Railroad to the Colorado River, to connect with the Railroads being built from the East, we are now in better position to ask the citizens of San Francisco to join us, and urge the importance of the undertaking and beg to say:

FIRST—We propose in good faith to build a first-class railroad, with all the dispatch possible, and certainly within the time provided in the Ordinance.

SECOND—We pledge ourselves as men to the fact that we are entirely disconnected and free from all association with the Central or Southern Pacific Railroad Companies or their managers or Directors, and are in genuine competition with them, and we have no association or connection with any other railroad company or combination in existence, and expect to have none, except business or running arrangements with lines from the East and South which hereafter may desire to exchange business with us.

THIRD—We invite every citizen of the City and County of San Francisco to subscribe to our stock Our Books are open to all. Our Company is not a close corporation, and in no sense a monopoly. We particularly invite every Taxpayer to subscribe, at least as much as he will be called upon to contribute to the subsidy, and thus, in a manner, free of legal difficulties, participate in the advantages growing out of the enterprise.

FOURTH—A Committee of the Board will be in attendance at the office of the Company, No. 305 Sansome street, from 10 A. M. to 3 P. M. daily—Sundays excepted, to receive subscriptions, and duly authorized parties will wait upon the citizens generally, giving them an opportunity to subscribe.

FIFTH—This being an independent and competing road, there can be no reason for those who desire the success of such an enterprise to decline their co-operation, which we cordially invite.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

CALIFORNIA THEATRE. —"Richard III," with its gorgeous scenery and magnificent appointments, will be presented at the matinee to-day, and to-night for the last time. We prophesy that there will be as large an attendance on each occasion as there was last Saturday. On Monday evening the favorite comedienne, Miss Maggie Moore, will make her first appearance at this theatre in a character well suited to show her talent for Irish character acting to advantage—Judy O'Trot in "Ireland as it Was."

ALHAMBRA THEATRE.—Baker and Farron have drawn large and fashionable audiences during the week, and have established themselves as great favorites with the public. The sensation drama of "Chris and Lena," which has made such a hit," will constitute the entertainment at the matinee to-day, and this evening it will be preceded by a capital first part, in which W. F. Baker, Charles Solton, J. G. Russell, Benjamin Clark, I. W. McAndrews and others will sing songs and choruses to the accompaniment of one of the best orchestras in the United States.

THE FABBRI OPERA SEASON. — Sunday night old prices will be charged. Bellini's grand opera of "Norma" will be presented with Inez Fabbri as the Druid Priestess, Signor Pietro Baccei as Pollone, Jacob Muller as Oreveso, Miss Anna Kizer as Adalgisa, Miss More as Clotilde, and Mons. Charles as Fulvio. With a troupe so well constituted as the Fabbri Troupe, there seems a foundation for a hope that Italian Opera may become an established institution in San Francisco.

BELLA UNION.—A great programme has been prepared for the amusement of the visitors to this popular theatre to-night. The management announce the engagement of the "Grand Circue International" at an expense of ten million dollars, which after all isn't extravagant considering the business the house is doing. The full programme of the performance by the "troupe" appears on our first page. J. H. Larkin who sprained his ankle two weeks ago while performing on the stage has recovered, and will present his original sketch entitled "Ood Ond," in which he will appear with Carrie Armstrong in Dutch characters. Edward Montegue and M'lle Cerretta will make their appearance in a new act "a la Majilton," and other performances will be given by the host of artistes engaged at this popular variety theatre.

ATHENEUM.—The new bill presented at this popular place of amusement this evening, is full of new acts, songs and dances. J. H. Church's benefit last night was well attended and the audience were highly delighted with the excellent programme provided for their amusement. The entertainment concludes with the highly amusing sketch entitled "Fact and Fancy."

THE YANKEE ROBINSON CIRCUS.—The capital troupe of gymnasts and equestrians, including Peter Conklin, the famous clown; the Moreste Brothers, Madame Senyeh, and many others combined with Samwells' company of educated dogs, will give a matinee performance to-day, and to-night will close their season with an extraordinarily attractive exhibition.

CITY GARDEN — A GRAND MASQUERADE BALL.—This evening there will be a fancy dress and masquerade ball at these gardens, to which many will doubtless go after the races. On Sunday the Haight Light Cavalry will hold their picnic; there will be two bands of music, and prizes will be awarded for races and other sports. The Bnislays will perform in the Pavilion, and there will be a balloon ascension, weather permitting. The Fire King will walk through the blazing fiery furnace, and the day's diversions will terminate with a military ball.

WOODWARD'S GARDENS.—The Fire King will appear every day at half past two o'clock and perform his wonderful feats of bending red hot iron bars; drinking boiling oil and putting molten lead in his mouth. Thousands have witnessed these great feats which seem almost impossible.

CLIFF HOUSE.—The road will be crowded with fast teams to-morrow. At Captain Foster's famous hostelry all the horse men will assemble to discuss the great race between Occident and Lucy and also Foster's fine wines and viands.

THE RUN OF "RICHARD III" AT THE CALIFORNIA THEATRE.—Give the public of San Francisco something very good in the way of an entertainment—something that costs a good deal of money—and they are pretty sure to respond liberally. In John McCullough our public have a manager who understands them well, and who is not afraid to put confidence in them. Twelve thousand dollars was no small sum for a play like "Richard III" to draw in one week in this city during a time of intense political excitement. During the second week, with two nights taken off for opera, the play has drawn proportionately as well, the income from it being greater than that of any week since the theatre was first opened, even exceeding the receipts of "Monte Cristo," on the production of which so much money was lavished. The success of this Shakspearian revival will encourage Manager McCullough to produce another of the works of the great master in equally splendid style, and he has already commenced making arrangements for the representation of "Coriolanus" early in the Spring, when Mrs. D. P. Bowers will commence an engagement.

"SARATOGA," which had such an immense run at the Fifth Avenue Theatre, New York, will be produced in gorgeous style at the California Theatre on Friday evening of next week.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

Health and Pleasure.

There are not too many pleasures in San Francisco. Nothing is more pleasant, nothing more health-giving than a drive into the country now and then. Those who cannot afford to keep a carriage of their own, can find one equal in elegance to any private conveyance at the Occidental Carriage stand. Frank Bouton has there, and at his stables 1016 Stockton street, carriages of every description. His drivers are careful and experienced, his charges are moderate. The moral of the above is:

PACIFIC COAST DRAMATIC NEWS.

MARYSVILLE.—Marysville has not had any amusement for some time. The Appeal says:

> The Marysville Dramatic Association contemplate giving during the winter season a series of dramatic and terpsichorean entertainments—provided sufficient encouragement is obtained from our citizens. It is proposed to ascertain this important desideratum by circulating a paper for subscribers. No doubt a sufficient number of names will be obtained, and that the entertainments will be given.

Home-made amusements are better than nothing, but we should think Marysville might offer inducements for a dramatic or minstrel company to visit it during the winter, instead of having to listen to the amiable howlings of stage-struck barbers and romantic linen-draper's assistants.

SAN JOSE.—Professor Plummer gave his monologue entertainment at Music Hall on Monday. The Tribune says: "A respectable and appreciative audience was present." The same paper says:

> Brohaska is taking of making arrangements with the celebrated Fabbri Troupe, for a night or two in San Jose. We hope the arrangements will be made, that is if a good orchestra can be secured. We believe our citizens will support Brohaska in this enterprise.

We believe that a "respectable and appreciative audience" can be obtained for an opera in San Jose if four bits is charged for admission. Let Brohaska open a subscription list and if the San Jose people want to enjoy opera let them pay for it. Don't take any chances, Brohaska.

PORTLAND, O.—On the 19th G. B. Waldron's dramatic company produced at the Oro Fino Theatre, "The Avenger; or, the Moor of Sicily." G. B. Waldron appeared as Richard III on the 6th. On the 20th there was a raffle for two bears at Canyon Gardens. Of course nearly everyone in Portland took a chance. Anyone would like to win two bears. We have not yet received the name of the winner of this great prize. Nick Hoekgurtel and company consisting of Ella Parker, Zadie Zalma, Fanny Garretson, Maria Zoel, Lydia Livingston, Amy Wallace, Barry O'Neil, Charley Nickerson, Lew Parker, George Wallace and Sam Dennis left Portland, Or., Oct. 21st for towns on Puget Sound and Victoria. Will open at Victoria, Monday, Oct. 28th.

HAMILTON, NEV.—The Lorraine and Mesoa Troupe, including that bright little star Miss Maggie Knight, were performing to good business up to the 21st, on which date Miss Maggie Knight was to take her benefit.

SALT LAKE.—John Maguire's play of "Sogarth Aroon," which we mentioned last Saturday had a "run of two nights. Now, Mr. Maguire can go and play it somewhere for his benefit, or play it on a hotel keeper as security for his board. F. M. Bates played in "Richard III" on the 19th. Monday the "Streets of New York" was revived.

DALLES, O.—The San Francisco Circus, under the able management of John Wilson, the veteran circus man, performed on the 21st.

EUGENE CITY.—John Wilson's Circus is billed here for to-night.

EASTERN DRAMATIC NEWS.

In New York, The French Opera Bouffe Company took the stage at the Olympic, and begin the opera bouffe season of 1872-73, on Monday night, Oct. 14. The chief officers of the new organization are; C. A. Chizzola, Director; D. De Vivo, Manager; A. Durand, Treasurer. M'llee Aimee, Bonelli, Roland; MM. Juteau, Gebel, Lecuyer, Nardin, Marces, and Fahol are the leading artistes of the troupe. The piece chosen for the opening night was Offenbach's "Le Perichole" ......At Booth's, "Arrah-na-Pogue" with Mr. and Mrs Boucicault in the leading roles was still running......At Fifth Avenue, the last nights of "Diamonds" were announced......At the Union Square Theatre Miss Agnes Ethel, Plessy Mordaunt, Phillis Glover, Jenny Lee, Mr. D. H. Harkins, Ed. Lamb, Welsh Edwards, George Parkes, and their twenty-odd artistic associates, continued to present "Agnes" and draw crowded houses......At the Grand Opera House "Roi Carrotte" promises to run for months to come ......At Wallack's "Pygmalion and Galatea" runs to good business......At the Theatre Comique, Miss Marion Taylor burlesque actress and vocalist, is the latest engagement......At Wood's Museum, Dominick Murray has appeared in an adaptation from the French by himself, called "The Gambler's Fate"......At the Academy of Music, opera flourishes with Pauline Lucca and Miss Kellogg alternating in leading roles, "Il Trovatore," "Faust" and "Fra Diavolo" all drew good houses ......At Tony Pastor's the novelties were the first appearance of Mme. Ztella and the Brothers Varelle, described as the champion gymnasts of Europe, and the production of a dramatic sensation entitled "The Slave's Dream."......Emerson's Minstrels are doing a splendid business at No. 718 Broadway. The New York Dispatch says: "No more talented troupe of minstrel artists have appeared in this city for many years than now located at Lina Edwin's Theatre, No. 718 Broadway, under the direction of the distinguished negro comedian Billy Emerson, of California fame. Their entertainments are characterized by great refinement and the constant production of amusing novelties, and the comfort and pleasure of visitors are attended to in a manner that cannot be too highly commended. The principal members of the company include the versatile Billy Emerson, the witty Harry Stanwood, Sheridan and Mack, highly accomplished protean artists, A. J. Talbot, a first-class end man, and a number of very pleasing and talented vocalists. Delehanty and Hengler joined the troupe on the 21st......At Charley Shay's Opera House Herr Le Tort, Magician, is the reigning star......Sunday concerts are given at the Grand Opera House by Miss Rosa Hersee and others....At the Bowery Miss Kate Fisher, equestrian actress, appeared in "Mazeppa" on the 14th.

Miss Laura Keene, assisted by W. H. Pope and others, gave entertainments before good audiences at Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 10th and 11th.

Leo Hudson, equestrian actress, and Miss Eva West advertise for engagements in the Clipper.

The New York Clipper says:

> Miss Leclercq was succeeded at the Arch-street Theatre, Philadelphia, by Joseph Proctor, who opened his "Red Pocket Book" on Monday evening, 7th. The leading role was vigorously interpreted by Mr Proctor. Mr. Parselle was excellent as Capt. Keiveguen, and Miss De Barr made a good impression as Helene. The piece, with its sensational ship and desert effects, was well put upon the stage. Business fair, particularly in the upper part of the house. The "Red Pocket Book" will be continued this week, giving place on the 21st inst. to "Solid Silver," a new play written by Mr. Barnes of San Francisco.

Lawrence Barrett appeared in "Julius Cæsar" as Cassius, at the Pittsburgh Opera House, on the 10th, and "in consequence of the illness of the actor who played the part of Antony," delivered the oration over the body of Cæsar.

The Richings Opera Troupe will start for a tour of the country on or about Nov. 18th, under the management of James F. Sherry.

Pauline Lucca made her first bow to a Brooklyn audience on the night of Oct. 12th, at the Academy, and she was greeted by a crowded house, with reserved seats at four dollars. The opera was "Faust."

Little Sallie De Angelis is a great favorite at Fox's American Theatre, Philadelphia.

J. H. Milburn and Charley Howard commenced engagements at the Howard Athenæum, Boston, on the 4th.

Sol Smith Russell's monologue entertainment given in Jacksonville, Ill., on Oct. 8th, is highly spoken of by the Daily Journal, of that town.

Duprez & Benedict's Minstrels were to perform at East Saginaw, Mich., Oct. 21th.

The Italian Opera Company, with Lucca and

The fascinating Pauline Lucca visited on the 4th, the Sioux Indians at the Grand Central, and was well entertained by her first view of the American aboriginals in their war paint and feathers. They all shook hands, with an exclamation of "How ?" except one brave, who crouched sulkily in a corner, wrapped closely in a blanket. Seeing this, the prima donna approached him, and smiling, held out her hand until he took it. The Indians presented her with some claws of grizzly bears which were among the ornaments strung upon their necks. They returned her visit on the 5th.

Charlotte Thompson and company were at Louisville, 14th, five nights; Washington, 21st.

Miss Sara Stevens, who made a pleasant impression at Laura Keene's Theatre, fourteen years ago, and who afterward married Mr. Heenan, the pugilist, is reported as likely soon to return to the stage.

Marshall's Tycoon Japs, St. Louis, 28th, and are to try showing one week. Concern reported very poor, and business generally seedy.

Chicago is to have a new opera house. The sum of $75,000 has been subscribed. The enterprise will be carried through by a stock company. The subscribers are Messrs. Potter Palmer, Eugene S. Pike, J. H. McVicker, J. V. Le Moyne, H. K. Honoro, C. T. Bowen, H. E. Picket, Gage Bros. and Mancel Talcott. The site for the new theatre is yet to be chosen.

"Amy Robsart" has been presented at the new National Theatre, Washington, with Mrs. D. P. Bowers, Mr. J. C. McCollum, and other talented artists in the cast.

The Lydia Thompson troupe are to produce a burlesque on "King Carrot," during their present season, at the Globe Theatre, Boston.

John Collins, Rochester Opera, 14th and 15th.

Little Nell Combination, Rochester, 28th, one week.

Miss Kate Bateman (Mrs. Crow) proposes shortly coming to this country on a starring tour, after making repeated circuits of the British Isles for some years. She will be engineered by her father who will leave his London Theatre temporarily in the hands of others.

Lawrence Barret, De Bar's, St. Louis, 21st.

A. W. Maflin, the harlequin of Tony Denier's pantomime company, is the most unfortunate of men. He broke his arm on the steamer on his way to San Francisco, and now he has met with a similar accident in Chicago, having broken it again by being thrown on the stage while his dress was being drawn off during the transformation scene.

Oliver Doud Byron, in "Ben McCullough," Cincinnati, 28th, one week.

The Dramatic News, speaking of amusements in Brooklyn, says:

> The Park Theatre has given audience for the past week to Little Nell, "the California Diamond," who has appeared to a good run of houses, in a new drama written for her, entitled "Fidelia, the Fire Waif," founded on reminiscences of the fire department of our large cities in the days of the volunteers. It is designed to display the protean talent of this precocious little actress.

FOREIGN DRAMATIC NEWS.

We have news from London up to the 28th ult. A leading feature of London dramatics had been the opening of the Drury Lane dramatic season on 21st, with Andrew Holliday's new version of Walter Scott's "Lady of the Lake." The Vokes Family gave one of their kick-up-see an afterpiece ......The "Babil and Bijou" spectacle at Covent Garden had been moderately attended .....The Strand revived, on the 23d, Farnie's extravaganza of the "Idle Prentice," in which Miss Kate Bishop made her first appearance at that theatre...... Miss Neilson (Mrs. Lee) was to close on the 27th at the Queen's, prior to leaving for America, and on the 28th Sir Charles Young's new drama of "Montcalm" was to be brought out.......The Court, on the 23d, substituted for the Christabel burlesque a new burlesque styled "Zampa," by E. Plowman......The Prince of Wales's Theatre opened for the season on the 21st with "Money," ......On the 28th, the Princess's and the Lyceum were to commence their Winter seasons. The latter was to produce "Charles the First," a new drama by W. G. Wills: Isabel Bateman, Henry Irving, C. Belmore, E. P. Addison, E. F. Edgar, R. Markeby, and Miss G. Pauncefort......The Surrey Theatre was to reopen Oct. 5......It was announced that Mrs. John Wood would return to London at the close of her American engagement, and reopen the St. James's with new plays. ......Charles Mathews was to open at the Gaiety Oct. 7th, at which date Mr. and Mrs. were to appear at the Standard......Constance Brabant, a pupil of Mrs. Charles Selby, had been engaged by Ada Cavendish, to appear during the coming season at the Olympic......Mapleson, the opera-manager, recently gave a morning concert at Albert Hall, when the Duke of Edinburgh's new waltz, the "Galatea," was performed to much applause. The Duke took Mapleson home to dinner and afterward sent him a haunch of venison, killed by himself in the Highlands. ......The thirty-two years' unexpired portion of the Astley's Theatre lease has been sold by Mrs. Batty to the Messrs. Sanger......Mr. and Mrs. German Reed were to re open their Gallery of Illustration Oct. 1st, with "Happy Arcadia," a new entertainment by W. S. Gilbert......The Government is not popular with the comic singers. The gentlemen who amuse the people with topical songs have been recently introducing the subject of the Alabama claims into their ditties, and have found that the line to take is not to regard the result of the arbitration as a triumph of ministerial diplomacy or discretion. Night after night Mr. Gladstone and his cabinet are arraigned before the music-hall audiences, and condemned in full chorus of an almost maledictory nature.

The theatrical season in Paris dates from the 1st of September. The Gymnase is pursuing an ingenious course. It will rely upon passing the winter with the new psychological comedy by Alexandre Dumas, entitled "La Femme Claude," in which the fruitful subject of conjugal infidelity will again be discussed with a morbid completeness, and a startling denouement will be furnished by the murder of the guilty wife—this being strictly in accordance with the theory propounded in the author's new pamphlet, "L'Homme Femme."

Miss Neilson, one of the prettiest and best London actresses, is on the eve of visiting the United States, and is now playing a farewell engagement at the Queen's Theatre, where she is succeeding admirably as Pauline in 'The Lady of Lyons.' She will be an American sensation.

Celeste lately appeared at the London Adelphi as Miami, in "Green Bushes." This piece, with Celeste in it, has been on the stage since January 27, 1845. Celeste herself was first seen in London in 1839, and she must have been acting some time then—because Gen. Burgoyne, when he came over to fight Gates in 1777, said that his liveliest regret on leaving London was the thought of being parted from Madame Celeste. She is now coming to America once more.

Mr. John S. Clarke, the popular American comedian, has purchased a long lease of the Charing Cross Theatre, London. Extensive alterations will be commenced immediately. American improvements will be introduced, and the reconstructed establishment is likely to be one of the handsomest and most comfortable theatres in London.

Sardou has made an arrangement with the manager of the Theatre Chatelet, Paris, for the early production of his most famous play, "Patrie."

TO TAXPAYERS.

Taxes Due October 28th,

Delinquent Jan. 6th, 1872.

THE USUAL DELAY, CONFUSION AND annoyance experienced by Taxpayers will be much increased this year, as both PERSONAL and REAL PROPERTY has to be paid upon at the same time.

This being the case, the undersigned would most respectfully suggest that Taxpayers furnish this office with a schedule of their property at an early day. Where there have been no changes, the Tax Bills of any previous year are the most convenient and correct memoranda.

LETTER FROM CHICAGO.

[FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.]

CHICAGO, October 16th, 1872.

DEAR FIGARO:—After a long absence from the Garden City of the West I am now once more in old quarters. I resume my regular correspondence, hoping that we may not be again burned out. One year ago we looked on a vast dreary plain of ruin. Among the ruins our famous theatres lay. To-day, Thanks to their energy and perseverance, our former managers have brought out of the ruins temples of music and drama far superior to those they lost. Nearly every week or so we are informed of the grand opening of some theatre, new hall or other place of amusement. Among the latest that have opened is

AIKEN'S THEATRE.

This splendid theatre opened its doors to the public on Monday, Oct. 7th, presenting an appearance of splendor worthy of the reputation of Mr. Aiken. The theatre is located on the corner of Wabash-avenue and Congress street, fronting 80 feet on Wabash-avenue and extending to a depth of 149 feet on Congress street, and is of the French style of architecture. The main front on Wabash Avenue is of brick, iron and stone, appropriately intermingled and ornamented, the first story being of stone and the second and third of iron and brick, with neat window caps and ornaments of galvanized iron. The brick and iron are painted in oil colors. The stage is 55 feet deep and arranged with every possible convenience desirable for producing any work in the highest style of art. Theodore Thomas' unrivalled orchestra troupe were the first on the programme at this house, drawing crowded houses every night, not forgetting to redeem those tickets sold on the 9th, 1871. Monday, Oct. 14th, Mrs. Jas. A. Oates, with her comic opera troupe, put in an appearance, giving Planche's comic opera of "Fortunio" to a large and enthusiastic audience. Among the troupe are some well-known faces—Frank Howson, musical director; Mr. John Howson and Mr. J. W. Shannon. "Fortunio" will be the attraction during the entire week when "Frou-Frou" will be produced. Next comes

ACADEMY OF MUSIC.

This place has a row equal to any theatre in this country; every night there is no room for any one after the curtain rises. "Humpty Dumpty" has been the attraction during the past week. This week, commencing Monday, 14th, Miss Ada Gray will appear in "Who's Wife," followed by "Frou Frou," and Saturday night the thrilling drama "Jezebel." Miss Annie Wait, Mr. J. Blaisdel, Padgett and Maynard will support the lady. Miss Alexander, a California favorite, also makes her appearance with Miss Gray in songs and dances. This lady has taken Chicago by storm, for on Monday evening she was called five times to the front, a thing that does not often happen in this city. Mrs. F. S. Chanfrau will put in an appearance next Monday, Oct. 21st, for one week, plays not announced.

M'VICKER'S THEATRE.

After a successful run of one week, "Rogue's March," a drama founded on early times in California in '49, a regular mining drama. The author has been there, as the characters portrayed were of the regular old school, miners who carried a pair of six shooters always ready. Mr. McVicker in the leading character, gave a good bit of character acting, his style of portraying Forty-niners was up to the mark. This week, Boucicault's beautiful comedy in three acts, entitled "Leap Year." "Married Life" is announced for Thursday and the remaining part of the week. "Saratoga" is underlined for a time commencing Monday, 21st; also in active preparation, "Jane Eyre."

MYER'S OPERA HOUSE.

The minstrel organization is in full blast in Myer's New Opera House. Among those who delight the patrons of this popular place are Cotton, Arlington, Kemble, George and Charles Reynolds and others, and the combination is strengthened from week to week by new stars of reputation.

HOOLEY'S OPERA HOUSE.

Hooley, the famous minstrel man, is not dead yet, but on the 17th will open the doors of as neat a little theatre as there is in this city. Hooley has chosen a favorable spot for his new temple, it being in close proximity to the Sherman House (new) on Randolph street, between Lasalle and Clark. Hooley is manager, L. S. Beardsley treasurer, and M. Beckwith musical director. The renowned Abbott and Kiralfy Spectacular Pantomime Troupe, in the gorgeous trick pantomime of "The Three Hunchbacks," was the opening novelty. This will be followed by "Humpty Dumpty" and other pantomimes.

GLOBE VAUDEVILLE THEATRE

Messrs. Wood & Sinn are the lessees of this theatre. A variety bill with great attractions is given every evening. Among those who are now starring at this house are the Matthews Family, Arthur Gregory, William Carlton, Charley Gardiner, Charley Benedick, Jennie Gilner, M'lle Cerito, Miss Rosa Lee, Miss Helen Smith, Minnie Rainforth, Pattie Rosa, and others. Mr. Marsh has the managing reins, while the Colonel attends to his Philadelphia Museum.

HALSTEAD-STREET OPERA HOUSE.

McEvoy's Hibernicon is announced for to-night (15th), but a poor audience will greet them.

NIXON'S AMPHITHEATRE.

Several new and interesting features are now offered at this place during this, the third week of the Roberts combination. Among those who will put in an appearance is Miss Viola Clifton, said to be the best change and character singer in the variety business. All the old favorites remain and appear nightly. The company now comprises the well-known names of Walter Bray, the Weston Sisters, Leona Dare, James Mase, Gussie Brayton, E. M. Hall and others. To follow this troupe, an engagement has been made with the Maffit and Bartholomew Pantomime Troupe, which made so great a hit at McVicker's and the Opera House before the fire.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Messrs. Stone & Smith contemplate opening the Lake-street Opera House, lately vacated by the Myers Troupe. A first-class variety company is to be installed there.

Nathan Sheppard will lecture before the West Side Star Lecture Course at the Union Park Church. Subject—"Shut Up in Paris."

Geo. L. Fox, the great original Humpty Dumpty, will shortly commence an engagement at Aiken's Theatre. He brings the entire company of the Olympic with him.

Pantomime is now all the rage in this city. Five pantomime companies will centre here within the next two weeks. WILL.

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of waters bright, did make a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
"Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here—
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapine;
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again.

Live Well.

Those who eat good dinners are amiable. Bad feeding is the cause of many crimes. Those who dine at the Pioneer Restaurant, on Washington street, at the corner of Dunbar Alley, live well, and are consequently happy. Henry Booken, who has catered for the public since 1849, provides for his customers Lake Tahoe trout, Salmagundi soup, game, tame geese, delicious entrees, and everything the heart of man can desire. The best cup of tea in the city—English breakfast tea—Souchong and Orange Pekoe—can be obtained here. E

Oyster Trade.

The oyster trade in California is assuming gigantic proportions. Emerson Corville, of the Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, furnishes from his own oyster beds at San Bruno millions of oysters to all parts of the Pacific Coast. His Eastern transplanted oysters have a fame which has extended all over the continent, and the 'Saddle Rock" is known everywhere.

DR. BARLOW J. SMITH

ANNOUNCES THAT THE RECENT EXTENsive additions and improvements to his HYGIENE HOME WATER-CURE and PHRENOLOGICAL INSTITUTE, 637 California street, are completed. To his original premises have been added an entirely new and elegant three-story brick structure, a new and commodious lecture hall, a lofty and spacious dining hall, and cosy, comfortable bath-rooms in almost endless variety, with all the most modern, scientific and complete appliances for administering every conceivable description of medical baths, among which may be mentioned the electro-thermal, the electro-sitz, the electro-vapor, the electro-Russian, the electro-Turkish, Sulphur Mercurial, Iodine and other medicated baths; also an entirely new bath, invented by Dr. Smith, which he has named the American bath. It combines all the advantages of the Russian and Turkish, together with the electric spray and other appliances peculiar to itself, making it superior to any other hydropathic application now in use. The spacious parlors and other multiplied appliances for promoting the health and comfort of patients combine to constitute DR. SMITH'S HYGIENE HOME WATERCURE by far the most complete Hygiene Establishment on the Pacific Slope, and affords to the sick and suffering of both sexes the surest, speediest and cheapest means of cure to be found anywhere West of the Rocky mountains. Hygienic board and a comfortable home for all who desire them.

Done Away With.

The enthusiastic noodles who throw away their money on flowers for prime-donnas have been quietly snubbed at the Academy of Music, New York, after the following fashion, according to Wheeler, in the Arcadien: Mr. Jarrett has quietly smashed the flower business too. On the second night of Lucca's appearance there was about half a ton of floral ships, and baskets accumulated in the office. They were all sent around to the artist's rooms. "If people wish to fling bonquets out of the boxes to their favorites, well and good," said Jarrett, "but my ushers are not porters."

San Jose Journalism.

Really San Jose must be a curious sort of place. We know it is a pretty town, but the people—the people and the newspapers puzzles us. There is one paper published there called the Tribune, eight inches by six in size—a little over half the size of Figaro—which talks to us in the most cheeky style imaginable. It says:

> That contemptible journalistic excrescence, the San Francisco Figaro, is after San Jose again, through the Stetson fiasco. Ever since the memorable rebuke to Billy Emerson and his troupe of knock-kneed scallywags and melodian buffers, the Figaro has maligned and misrepresented San Jose, as far as amusements are concerned. It lies for the sake of lying; a truth appears to its hellish eyes as a Bible did to the Prince of Darkness.

All this abuse because we said San Jose was not a good show town! Then this mild-tempered Tribune says:

> We like first-class shows, and we pan out, too, when they come, but if you play any Billy Emerson smutticisms on us, we don't stand it. As for the Figaro's vile flings—they won't damage San Jose a bit. Go cut your throat, Figaro.

Really if Billy Emerson tried any "smutticisms" in San Jose, he must have done so to suit the people. He never dared do such a thing with a San Francisco audience Country people generally like jokes which are a little "broad." The case stands exactly thus, the San Jose papers are selfish, they know that if a show comes there that it will have to spend a little money with them for advertising; if the managers fail to get it back, the papers don't mind; it is so much more money in the town. The people don't care a snap of the fingers for amusements, they prefer to save their money, but editors of papers who don't have to pay and who also get tickets for every printer in the office from the foreman down to the devil, like to be amused, and don't care who has to pay for their fun. The polite request we cannot comply with. To cut one's throat is coarse and ungentlemanly—a sort of San Jose style of committing suicide. In spite of all this howling, the Tribune may rest satisfied that the San Jose people won't have an opera season unless they subscribe the money to secure Mr. Brobaska and the Fabbri Troupe from loss.

Little "Injin" Boys.

Unger is very much annoyed because his two boys have read so many Indian stories that they have gone wild with anxiety to play Indian, and go out hunting for the real noble red man. It was only on Thursday that Unger was taking a nap, after dinner, in his easy chair, when he was waked by an alarming noise and a strange sensation in his head. He jumped up suddenly and found that one of his boys dressed in Indian costume was trying to scalp his father with a carving knife, while the other boy attired in a blanket shawl and a rooster feather, flourished a hatchet and a war-hoop from behind a thicket composed of two chairs and a card-table. Unger determined to put a stop to this sort of thing. So next day, when the boys were playing with bows and arrows in the garden, Unger dressed himself in Indian costume and jumped over the fence with a wild, unearthly yell, for the purpose of frightening the children. The oldest boy, however, stood his ground; and, drawing an arrow to his head, in which was inserted a ten-penny nail, he buried it in the chieftain's leg before he took to flight.

A Chamber of Horrors.

One of the Paris theatres has been leased for three years, and in it every Sunday morning authors will be permitted to read unedited poems or dramas, and composers to play unpublished music. We hope policemen will be placed at the doors to warn people what is going on inside and prevent them from entering.

Pause, Gentle Reader,

And peruse this notice. It will inform you that Meyers, of the White House Restaurant, Kearny street, has reopened, and thoroughly renovated the Eclipse Restaurant, 204 and 206 Fourth street, between Howard and Folsom, under the name of the Capitol Restaurant. Mr. Meyers begs to invite the patronage of the residents in the neighborhood and public in general, and assures them that he intends to provide the very best the market affords at Popular Prices—viz: three 12½ cent dishes for 25 cents. Rushing Business at the Bivalve.

So great is the rush of business at the Bivalve that W. Spreen, the proprietor, finds it necessary to enlarge his accommodations for ladies and families. The ladies' department is now enlarged to double its former size, and family dining rooms have been added. The Bivalve Oyster and Dining Saloon, 640 Market st., three doors below Kearny, is immensely popular. A

Live Well.

Those who eat good dinners are amiable. Bad feeding is the cause of many crimes. Those who dine at the Pioneer Restaurant, on Washington street, at the corner of Dunbar Alley, live well, and are consequently happy. Henry Socken, who has catered for the public since 1849, provides for his customers Lake Tahoe trout, Salmagundi soup, game, tame geese, delicious entrees, and everything the heart of man can desire. The best cup of tea in the city — English breakfast tea — Souchong and Orange Pekoe—can be obtained here. B

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of waters bright, did make a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
"Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here—
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins;
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again,

Pacific Oyster House, 337 Bush street, above Montgomery; open Day and Night.

TO THE PUBLIC.

THE BOARD OF SUPERVISORS OF THE City and County of San Francisco, having passed an Ordinance submitting to the Electors the question of granting a subsidy to one company for the construction of a Railroad to the Colorado River, to connect with the Railroads being built from the East, we are now in better position to ask the citizens of San Francisco to join us, and urge the importance of the undertaking and beg to say:

First—We propose in good faith to build a first-class railroad, with all the dispatch possible, and certainly within the time provided in the Ordinance.

Second—We pledge ourselves as men to the fact that we are entirely disconnected and free from all association with the Central or Southern Pacific Railroad Companies or their managers or Directors, and are in genuine competition with them, and we have no association or connection with any other railroad company or combination in existence, and expect to have none, except business or running arrangements with lines from the East and South which hereafter may desire to exchange business with us.

Third—We invite every citizen of the City and County of San Francisco to subscribe to our stock Our Books are open to all. Our Company is not a close corporation, and in no sense a monopoly. We particularly invite every Taxpayer to subscribe, at least as much as he will be called upon to contribute to the subsidy, and thus, in a manner, free of legal difficulties, participate in the advantages growing out of the enterprise.

Fourth—A Committee of the Board will be in attendance at the office of the Company, No. 305 Sansome street, from 10 A. M. to 3 P. M. daily—Sundays excepted, to receive subscriptions, and duly authorized parties will wait upon the citizens generally, giving them an opportunity to subscribe.

Fifth—This being an independent and competing road, there can be no reason for those who desire the success of such an enterprise to decline their co-operation, which we cordially invite.

REOPENING

DR. BARLOW J. SMITH

ANNOUNCES THAT THE RECENT EXTENSIVE additions and improvements to his HYGIENE HOME WATER-CURE and PHRENOLOGICAL INSTITUTE, 637 California street, are completed. To his original premises have been added an entirely new and elegant three-story brick structure, a new and commodious lecture hall, a lofty and spacious dining hall, and cosy, comfortable bath-rooms in almost endless variety, with all the most modern, scientific and complete appliances for administering every conceivable description of medical baths, among which may be mentioned the electro-thermal, the electro-sitz, the electro-vapor, the electro-Egyptian, the electro-Turkish, Sulphur Mercurial, Iodine and other medicated baths; also an entirely new bath, invented by Dr. Smith, which he has named the American bath. It combines all the advantages of the Russian and Turkish, together with the electric spray and other appliances peculiar to itself, making it superior to any other hydropathic application now in use. The spacious parlors and other multiplied appliances for promoting the health and comfort of patients combine to constitute DR. SMITH'S HYGIENE HOME WATER CURE by far the most complete Hygiene Establishment on the Pacific Slope, and afford to the sick and suffering of both sexes the surest, speediest and cheapest means of cure to be found anywhere West of the Rocky mountains. Hygienic board and a comfortable home for all who desire them.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

California Theatre.

To-night that universal favorite, Miss Maggie Moore, the particular pet of the public, who delight in her exuberant exhibitions of natural feeling on the stage, will make her first appearance at this theatre in the character of Judy O'Trot, in the drama of "Ireland as it Was." J. O. Williamson, who is extremely happy in Irish parts, will play Ragged Pat; E. J. Buckley, Neil O'Carrolan, and the other characters will be well filled. A feature of the play will be an Irish jig danced by Miss Maggie Moore and J. O. Williamson. The performance will commence with the comedy of "All that Glitters is not Gold," with G. D. Chaplin as Stephen Plum· Miss Anna Graham as Martha Gibbs, and the other characters filled as specified on our first page. Those people who always put off going to see a piece which is "up for a run" are clamoring for a few nights more of "Richard III" and the management will reproduce it on Wednesday for positively the last time. "Saratoga" will be produced on Friday evening.

Alhambra.

Baker and Farron, the Dutch comedians have made an almost unprecedented hit in the sensation drama of "Chris and Lena." The house was so crowded on Saturday night, that many who came late were unable to obtain even standing room. Messrs. Baker and Farron will introduce new songs and dances during the present week.

The Fabbri Opera Troupe.

A large and fashionable audience were present last night, when Bellini's grand opera of "Norma" was performed with Signora Fabbri in the title role; Signor Pietro Baccei as Pollione, Jacob Muller as Orovaso, Miss Anna Elzer as Adalgisa, Miss Mora as Clotilda, and Mons. Charles as Fulvio. The solos were sung in good style, and the orchestra under the direction of Prof. Mulder Fabbri, executed the instrumental portion of the opera finely. The next opera night will be on Tuesday when Signora Bianchi will make her first appearance at this theatre and repeat once more her great triumph in the character of Azucena.

Bella Union.

The new bill at this popular pioneer variety theatre is an excellent one. M'lle Gerretta and Ed. Montague win great applause for their artistic hat spinning act "a la Mejilton;" J. H. Larkin's new sketch "Get Out" is quite a success. Mrs. Charles Corfell sings new and popular comic songs, and the burlesque "Circus International" is one of the liveliest and most amusing acts ever put on the stage. M'lle La Tuars—Sanyeah who made such a sensation on Saturday night, will appear to-night in new and surprising feats of jaw and muscle.

The Athenæum.

The management announces for this evening many attractive novelties, among which we may mention a comic duet entitled "The Two Cousins" by those accomplished vocalists Miss Agnes Kennedy and Miss May Leslie. The engagement of Frank Sumner, the celebrated banjoist and Ethiopian comedian is also announced. Full programme on first page.

The Race.

The great race between "Lucy" and "Occident," which was so unfortunately prevented on Saturday by "Jupiter Pluvius," as the Republican has it, has been postponed until Wednesday next. Tickets will be changed at the box office, 112 Sutter street, for new ones, good for that day. These bright sunny days will place the track in excellent order.

Woodward's Gardens.

A steady throng of people poured into these beautiful gardens yesterday, and spent many happy hours there. The objects of interest are innumerable. The museum, the menagerie, the art gallery, the new conservatories and many other features are admired by all who see them. The Fire King will exhibit every afternoon this week, in conjunction with Prof. Payton, the English glassblower, from the Crystal Palace, London.

City Gardens.

There was a good attendance here yesterday. Shortly after 5 o'clock Grnet Bnitley made an ascension in the new balloon, "City of San Francisco" to an immense altitude, and came down on the Potrero heights safely. The balloon was an object of attraction to thousands of persons, the streets in the Southern portion of the city being full of people with faces and thoughts turned Heavenward. Grnet was a very successful missionary yesterday.

Country Life.

A Cleveland Quaker says: "One of our young citizens, who went into the country last week to work on a farm for a few weeks, and seek 'health instead of dissipation,' returned the other day a little out of sorts, but healthy. He had blistered his hands hoeing corn, torn the seat out of a pair of twenty-dollar pants at a picnic, one eye was blackened from attempting to draw water from an 'old oaken bucket' and a crank, his forehead was frescoed with mosquito bites, a stone bruise gave him the Alexandra limp, he was freckled like a leopard, and had been sunstruck four times. With these exceptions, he had experienced an elegant time, and is going next summer to jail in preference to the country."

Which Mother?

A little Gentile boy was playing with a little Mormon boy in Utah one day. There were numerous mothers in the Mormon boy's family. The lads quarreled, and the young Mormon got a punch in the face. "I'll go right off and tell my mother," he whined. "You will, will ye?" said the youthful Gentile sarcastically, "which of your mothers are you goin' to tell?"

PLATONIC.

I had sworn to be a bachelor, she had sworn to be a maid;
For we quite agreed in doubting whether matrimony paid.
Besides we had our higher loves: fair Science ruled my heart,
And she said her young affections were all bound up in Art.

So we laughed at those wise men who say that friendship cannot live
'Twixt man and woman, unless each has something more to give.
We would be friends, and friends as true as ere were man and man;
I'd be a second David, and she Miss Johnathan

We scorned all sentimental trash—vows, kisses, tears and sighs.
High friendship such as ours might well such childish arts despise.
We liked each other; that was all, quite all there was to say.
So we just shook hands upon it in a business sort of way.

We shared our secrets and our joys, together hoped and feared;
With common purpose sought our goal that young Ambition reared.
We dreamed together of the days, the dream bright days to come;
We were strictly confidential, and called each other "chum."

And many a day we wandered together o'er the hills,
I seeking bugs and butterflies, and she the ruined mills,
And rustic bridges and the like, that picture makers prize,
To run in with their waterfalls, and groves and summer skies.

And many a quiet evening in hours of full release,
We floated down the river or loafed beneath the trees;
And talked in long gradation, from the poets to the weather,
While the western skies and my cigar died slowly out together.

Yet through it all no whispered word, no telltale glance or sigh,
Told aught of warmer sentiment than friendly sympathy.
We talked of love as coolly as we talked of Kehnis,
And thought no more of being one than we did of being three.

* * * * * * * * *

"Well, good bye, chum!" I took her hand, for the time had come to go,
My going meant our parting, when to meet we did not know.
I had lingered long, and said farewell with a very heavy heart;
For although we were but friends, 'tis hard for honest friends to part.

"Good bye, old fellow! Don't forget your friends beyond the sea;
And some day when you've lots of time drop a line or two to me."
The words came lightly, gaily, but a great sob just behind
Welled up with a story of quite a different kind.

And then she raised her eyes to mine,—great liquid eyes of blue,
Filled to the brim, and running o'er, like violet cups of dew.
One long, long glance, and then I did what I never did before;
Perhaps the tears meant friendship, but I'm sure the kiss meant more.

Misplaced.

The Boston Courier of the 13th says:

Several of the Tanners in the colored division of the torch-light procession on Friday night were noticed to have bricks in their hands. As there were no signs of molestation on the part of the lookers-on, this was supposed by many to be equivalent to saying: "Tread on the tail of my coat."

If they had had bricks in their hats instead of their hands they would have attracted no attention.

The Reason.

The public generally are puzzled to find any reason for the jury in the Wilkerson case bringing in a verdict of murder in the second degree. We think we have discovered one: The jurymen were all good Democrats, and thought that any white woman who would fall in love with a nigger deserved to be shot; and as they feared a verdict of "served her right" would not be received by the Court, determined to express their indignation by rendering one equally absurd, which the Court in its wisdom did receive.

Health and Pleasure.

There are not too many pleasures in San Francisco. Nothing is more pleasant, nothing more health-giving than a drive into the country now and then. Those who cannot afford to keep a carriage of their own, can find one equal in elegance to any private conveyance at the Occidental Carriage stand. Frank Bonton has there, and at his stables 1016 Stockton street, carriages of every description. His drivers are careful and experienced, his charges are moderate. The moral of the above is: go to Frank Bouton at the Occidental Hotel when you want a carriage. o

Uninsured.

A Detroit bootblack, who lay dozing among his boxes and brushes the other day, was thus accosted by a professional brother: "Here, you Abe Thomas, you'd better be a-gittin'! Your old dad's house has been on fire, and everything's 'bout clean gone!" "Sho!" yelled Abe, in reply; "then I'm dog gunned if I ain't out twenty cents which I paid for dime novels last night."

Cool Enough.

A gentleman handed up a ten-dollar bill in one of the coaches, from which one fare was to be taken. "Looka here," said the said the driver, down through the hole, "which of these horses do you want to buy with this ten dollars?" "Well," coolly replied the gentleman, "I thought I might get both for that."

Joaquin Miller's Lame Defence.

Both the Call and Chronicle on Saturday published a two-column interview held with Joaquin Miller by the reporter of the New York Sun. The lecture recently delivered in this city by Mrs. Minnie Myrtle Miller formed the subject of the interview. Joaquin was directly examined by the reporter on the truth of the statements made in that lecture, and made a series of shuffling, evasive answers which give one a very poor opinion of the Poet of the Sierras. Speaking of Mrs. Miller, Joaquin did her justice when he said:

> She is of a very poetic temperament, and when we first met she was the better writer of the two. She writes well, and may yet do something wonderful.

This is about the sum total of the direct truth contained in the two columns. The following is partly false:

> I have been offered immense sums to lecture, but have invariably refused them because I do not want to show my face for money, and because I do not think that I am capable of educating people.

Everyone here knows that Joaquin Miller delivered two lectures here and showed his face for money; so he has not "invariably refused" such offers. The air of truth which pervades Mrs. Miller's lecture as published in the papers, is in striking contrast with the uneasy shuffling and pitiable attempts at evasion shown by Joaquin. Mrs. Miller, who is still in this city, has at the request of many who admired her first lecture on "Joaquin Miller the Poet and the Man," consented to deliver a second on the same subject and has it now in preparation. The time and place will shortly be announced.

By what means was Mrs. Fair acquitted? Per-jury, of course.

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of waters bright, did make a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
"Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here—
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins;
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners,"
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again,

Pacific Oyster House, 337 Bush street, above Montgomery; open Day and Night.

A Fashionable Dress.

The fashionable color, par excellence, this season, appears to be that peculiar shade known as sage green. This beautiful tint, says the New York Mail, appears in both costumes and hats, and, shaded with lighter and darker hues of the same color, is very attractive. One of the richest dinner dresses we have noticed at the recent openings was a rich green gros grain trimmed with lighter and darker shades of silk. The skirt was made en train, the black breadths being ruffled to the waist with inch-wide flounces, each ruffle being bound with a light shade. The front was trimmed with alternate flounces and box-plaiting. The trimming reached to the knee. The polonaise was cut in the princesse form, having an open front which rounded up to the waist at the front. A very small basque finished the waist at the back. The polonaise was buttoned down the front with green velvet buttons, and trimmed with two rows of double box-plaiting, which were bound by a contrasting shade, and piped through the centre by two rows of piping. The sleeves were coat, and finished at the wrist with a deep fall of Valenciennes. Upon the left side a broad bias sash of green velvet, lined with light green silk and heavily fringed, completed this elegant dress.

Modern Brigands.

Miss Viola Colville, the charming young English prima donna, and her mother, while enjoying a carriage drive between the villages of Albisola and Savona, Italy, were waylaid by five ruffians, and robbed of jewelry and money to the amount of $1,000. The young lady's account of the affair to her father is exceedingly entertaining. She treats it as a good joke, commencing as follows:

> "What do you think, dear father? We have been among the brigands, but alas for the decline of the brigand species! Alas! where were the steeple-crowned hats and flowing ribbands? Where were the silken hose wound about with many-colored tapes that make the legs of our opera-singers look like eccentric barber poles? Alas! these real brigands were dirty, half clad and wholly ragged specimens of that humanity most nearly allied to the brute family. Now, if they had only been stage brigands they would have recognized me, and would have compelled me to sing an aria on the spot; but O, shame for the romance of real life! We lost our money to a set of ragamuffins, and had not even the consolation of having it taken from us by a gentleman (?)"

Earthquake in Havilah.

They had an earthquake in Havilah, Kern county, last Friday morning, between four and five o'clock. The editor of the Havilah Miner says:

> We ourselves were in the arms of Morpheus, blissfully dreaming of the litigant law and its repeal, when the grand shock occurred. We shortly afterward discovered ourself at our front door in retiring costume. We were not frightened, and only wanted to see if the sun had risen. The dogs barked and hogs helped in a grunting chorus, and worst of all, the chanticleers kept up their infernal crowing for three long hours; which, with the incessant booming of distant earthquake artillery, reminded us of the battle of the squirt, where nobody was killed and nobody was hurt.

Risky Business.

It is dangerous for a man to attempt to joke about his wife. He is liable to get picked up. For instance, two men were standing on the corner engaged in a conversation. A lady, not remarkable for personal beauty, passed on the opposite side. Said one of the men:

"See that lady going there? I've kissed her a hundred times."

"What!" said the other, not knowing her, "that lank, scraggy, peaked-nosed"—

"Stop! Great Heavens!" said the other, "that's my wife!"

Served him right.

At the funeral of a woman out West, recently, a sympathetic and admiring neighbor volunteered the information that "for patient resignation the corpse could dance all around any woman living."

Woman's Rights.

The editor of a daily paper in Madison, Ind., has been serenaded at night by a band composed of young women because he has stood up for woman's rights against all comers.

REOPENING
DR. BARLOW J. SMITH

ANNOUNCES THAT THE RECENT EXTENsive additions and improvements to his HYGIENE HOME WATER-CURE and PHRENOLOGICAL INSTITUTE, 637 California street, are completed. To his original premises have been added an entirely new and elegant three-story brick structure, a new and commodious lecture hall, a lofty and spacious dining hall, and cosy, comfortable bath-rooms in almost endless variety, with all the most modern, scientific and complete appliances for administering every conceivable description of medical baths, among which may be mentioned the electro-thermal, the electro-sitz, the electro-vapor, the electro-Russian, the electro-Turkish, Sulphur Mercurial, Iodine and other medicated baths; also an entirely new bath, invented by Dr. Smith, which he has named the American bath. It combines all the advantages of the Russian and Turkish, together with the electric spray and other appliances peculiar to itself, making it superior to any other hydropathic application now in use. The spacious parlors and other multiplied appliances for promoting the health and comfort of patients combine to constitute DR. SMITH'S HYGIENE HOME WATER CURE by far the most complete Hygiene Establishment on the Pacific Slope, and affords to the sick and suffering of both sexes the surest, speediest and cheapest means of cure to be found anywhere West of the Rocky mountains. To allay connubial differences and pain,
In "ANTI-DIVORCE" you can your end attain.
Sip of the potent extract but one taste,
Your arm, consoling, straight is round her waist!
Guess what a "MORNING COMFORT" in the kiss
That heals the quarrel and imparts the bliss!
The "WELCOME" too, you'll always find
A balmy soother for the troubled mind.
The bright "AURORA," and the sweet "FAREWELL
Just visit BONA, and you'll all fare well!

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

California Theatre.

Last evening's entertainment commenced with the comedy of "All That Glitters is Not Gold" in which G. D. Chaplin did some pleasing, natural acting as Stephen Plum, Miss Annie Graham gained the sympathy of the audience for the domestic heroine Martha Gibbs, and J. C. Williamson made them roar with laughter in the comic part of Toby Twinkle. After this the curtain rose on "Ireland As It Was," and soon Miss Maggie Moore's clear, ringing voice was heard singing behind the scenes; there was little of her song heard, for it was drowned in a burst of applause which broke forth again when she made her appearance on the stage. Miss Maggie Moore is deservedly a favorite with the public, for she delights in doing her best to please them, and uses her undoubted talent to the best advantage. Her Judy O'Trot is an impersonation of Irish character sui generis, founded on no other on the stage. J. C. Williamson threw himself into the character of Ragged Pat with perfect abandon, and in the Irish jig with Maggie Moore fairly brought down the house. Charles Henry had an opportunity to do a little acting last night and availed himself of it; his easy, graceful carriage as he made his entrance as Conner O'Flaherty gained him applause, and he read and acted the part in a manner which proved that he has the stuff in him of which good actors are made. This (Tuesday) evening Verdi's opera of "Il Trovatore" will be presented by the Fabbri Troupe with Signora Fabbri as Leonora, Signor Pietro Baccei as Manrico, Miss Mora as Inez, and Jacob Muller as Il Conte di Luna. Signora Bianchi will make her first appearance at this theatre to-night in her great character of Azucena in which she can scarcely be surpassed. To-morrow evening, "Richard III" will be presented for positively the last time with its gorgeous appointments and splendid pictures of old London.

Alhambra.

Baker and Farron, supported by a capital company comprising such artists as Miss Kate Denin, Miss Fanny Gibson, Add Ryman, Bob Hart, Harry Thompson, Sam Rickey and others specified on our first page, present the very lively sensation drama entitled "Chris and Lena" in splendid style. Messrs. Baker and Farron appear to have an inexhaustible repertoire of songs and dances, and all of them are good. The play is preceded by a fine first part of good music, beautiful singing and amusing jokes.

The Atheneum.

There is much variety in the entertainment offered at this house. Tommy Barton's "Happy Old Man" is a capital impersonation; W. Parke is good in eccentric dances; Miss Sasia Robison's songs are popular, and from the time the curtain rises until it falls the audience are kept constantly amused. Lou McCarthy and Miss Carrie Chapman will appear to-night.

Bella Union.

Miss Josephine has made a hit in her new song and dance, "I'm Happy Josephine," composed for her by E. Zimmer; Mrs. Charles Coriell gains much applause for her ballad, "Queen of the Sea;" the new ballet, "Diana and the Satyr," composed by M. Schmidt, in which M'lle Therese and corps de ballet appear is very pretty, and the laughable piece of extravagance entitled "Circus International," closes a capital evening's amusement.

Woodward's Gardens.

A steady throng of people poured into these beautiful gardens Sunday and spent many happy hours there. The objects of interest are innumerable. The museum, the menagerie, the art gallery, the new conservatories and many other features are admired by all who see them. The Fire King will exhibit every afternoon this week, in conjunction with Prof. Payton, the English glassblower, from the Crystal Palace, London.

The Race.

The great race between "Lucy" and "Occident," which was so unfortunately prevented on Saturday by "Jupiter Pluvius," as the Republican has it, has been postponed until to-morrow. Tickets will be changed at the box office, 112 Sutter street, for new ones, good for that day. These bright sunny days will place the track in excellent order.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

To Arrive Shortly.

D'Athal a, the original man with the iron jaw; M'lle Angela, the artileriste; Zephir, the child wonder and infant clown, are on their way here from the East. They are at Omaha.

Welcome Home.

A good story is told of a widow lady whose husband died far away from home, and it took so long for his remains to reach her that his relict had quite recovered from her grief and was giving a large lunch party when they finally arrived. A wagon drove up to the door, and a large box was handed out. Curiosity ran high among the ladies at the window, and with one accord they exclaimed, "Why, Mrs. Jones, what can that be?" Up went Mrs. Jones' eye glasses, and after a glance she coolly said, "Why, it must be Jones come home. Charley run down and open the door for your father."

Dear Old Man!

Hugh Hastings has unearthed the following: "Let it be a plain marble slab. No Latin — no embellishments. State when nominated and when deceased. Get Cochrane to write an epitaph—his style is so simple. Whitelaw will distribute locks of my hair. Be kind to Tilton—he is foolish, but young. Plant me in my favorite pumpkin arbor, with a gooseberry bush for a footstone. H. G."

Girl of the low white brow
And the roseate bosom-band;

Girl of the fragrant breath;
Girl of the sun of May;
As a bird that flutters in death,
My fluttering pulses say,

Lalage!

Absurd Mistake.

Mrs. Muffington having heard so much of the Magic Conserves, thought she would like to enjoy a little ecstasy without fear of a headache or other unpleasant symptoms. Accordingly she went to the drug store of A. Gros, at the corner of Washington and Kearny streets, and said to the gentlemanly proprietor, "I want some magic corn-salve." She was supplied with the best article in that line and went home rejoicing. Will it be believed the poor lady devoured half the box, and afterwards complained that she "didn't have no dreams of fountains and flowers and angels, but it made her awful sick at her stomach."

His Dying Words.

Paregoric Puff, Esq., so long engaged as the dramatic critic on the Morning Mews, a nice little kittenish paper, for which we have a great deal of esteem, is dead. His end was very peaceful. It is supposed by his friends that in the last supreme moment he gained a glimpse of the other shore and saw a beautiful company of bright spirits waiting to meet him, for he feebly exclaimed: "A large and brilliantly fashionable audience!" and expired.

Something Reasonable.

The San Jose papers were talking about Brohaska being in treaty with the Fabbri Troupe to give a season of Italian Opera in San Jose. We knew this was absurd. The Mercury of Sunday says:

> Brohaska is negotiating with the Ethiopian fire-eater, now performing at Woodward's Gardens, for a short season in San Jose. This individual handles red-hot iron, drinks boiling oil, holds melted lead in his mouth, and performs many other like intellectual feats, equal to the Old Scratch himself—so they say—but we doubt it.

Now that is something sensible, something more suited to the tastes and the pockets of the people of San Jose. It doesn't require any æsthetic culture or taste to appreciate the performances of the Fire King, and he can afford to show for less than a dollar admission. The San Jose people must give up all thoughts of Italian opera, and comfort themselves with a season of Fire King, which will suit the majority much better.

Acquiring Fame.

Mrs. Minnie Myrtle Miller has not long come from the recesses of an Oregon forest into the world but she is already recognized and quoted. Hon. J. B. Felton, in his speech before the Grant Invincibles, said:

> He would say nothing disagreeable to the Democrats, but if he spoke disagreeably, it would be of men of his own party. Mrs. Miller had said of Joaquin Miller, the poet of the Sierras, "Before he belonged to the world he belonged to me," and so it was in regard to Horace Greeley. Before he belonged to the Democratic party he belonged to us; his career and record was made with us and we have a right to say what we choose of him.

Matters in Alsace.

A correspondent of the Paris Siecle tells the following story:

A workman was brought up before the Police Court charged with having beaten one of his companions.

"What have you to say for yourself?" asked the Judge.

"Monsieur the Judge," responded the prisoner, "I have all along shown the patience of an angel. He has treated me like a dog, called me 'canaille,' 'gredin' and every name he could lay his tongue to, and I have remained quiet, but when he called me 'Prussian' you will confess he was going a little too far, and I could not contain myself."

The Last Order.

A carpenter who had been employed at job work by an old lady, was asked why people of his trade always charged more in proportion for coffins than they did for chairs and tables. "Well, you see, ma'am, it's just because people won't bring coffins back to us to be repaired.

Living in Hope.

The trials that women are called upon to suffer are well expressed in the following death notice published in a Chicago paper: "Mary B., wife of Henry B., aged eighty years. She lived with her husband fifty years, and died in the confident hope of a better life."

A Little Blackmailer.

Pet—Mamma, I want to make a little bargain with you.

Mamma—What is it, my dear?

Pet—If you will give me a paper of sugar plums every day, I won't tell anybody you take your hair out of a drawer.

Make No Error.

Mark Twain voyaged to England for the benefit of his wife's health. To prevent misunderstanding, it may be well to state that Mrs. Mark went with him.

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of waters bright, did make a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
"Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here—
It looks so nice—and try their cheer.".
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins;
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again.

The editor of a daily paper in Madison, Ind., has been serenaded at night by a band composed of young women because he has stood up for woman's rights against all comers.

Sensitive Animal!

A Knoxville hog is the last suicide. His sensitive spirit revolted at the indignity of being chased up stairs, and he sprang, head foremost, from a third story window.

At the funeral of a woman out West, recently, a sympathetic and admiring neighbor volunteered the information that "for patient resignation the corpse could dance all around any woman living."

Pause, Gentle Reader,

And peruse this notice. It will inform you that Meyers, of the White House Restaurant, Kearny street, has reopened, and thoroughly renovated the Eclipse Restaurant, 204 and 206 Fourth street, between Howard and Folsom, under the name of the Capitol Restaurant. Mr. Meyers begs to invite the patronage of the residents in the neighborhood and public in general, and assures them that he intends to provide the very best the market affords at Popular Prices—viz: three 12½ cent dishes for 25 cents. Live Well.

Those who eat good dinners are amiable. Bad feeding is the cause of many crimes. Those who dine at the Pioneer Restaurant, on Washington street, at the corner of Dunbar Alley, live well, and are consequently happy. Henry Bocken, who has catered for the public since 1849, provides for his customers Lake Tahoe trout, Salmagundi soup, game, tame geese, delicious entrees, and everything the heart of man can desire. The best cup of tea in the city—English breakfast tea—Souchong and Orange Pekoe—can be obtained here. E

MME. LE NORMAND, who tells fortunes on the European Plan, is the most highly accomplished and versatile lady in this line of business—give her a call at her new rooms, North-West corner of Kearny and Sacramento street. L

Oyster Trade.

The oyster trade in California is assuming gigantic proportions. Emerson Corville, of the Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, furnishes from his own oyster beds at San Bruno millions of oysters to all parts of the Pacific Coast. His Eastern transplanted oysters have a fame which has extended all over the continent, and the "Saddle Rock" is known everywhere.

REOPENING

DR. BARLOW J. SMITH

ANNOUNCES THAT THE RECENT EXTENsive additions and improvements to his HYGIENE HOME WATER-CURE and PHRENOLOGICAL INSTITUTE, 637 California street, are completed. To his original premises have been added an entirely new and elegant three-story brick structure, a new and commodious lecture hall, a lofty and spacious dining hall, and cosy, comfortable bath-rooms in almost endless variety, with all the most modern, scientific and complete appliances for administering every conceivable description of medical baths, among which may be mentioned the electro-thermal, the electro-sitz, the electro-vapor, the electro-Russian, the electro-Turkish, Sulphur Mercurial, Iodine and other medicated baths; also an entirely new bath, invented by Dr. Smith, which he has named the American bath. It combines all the advantages of the Russian and Turkish, together with the electric spray and other appliances peculiar to itself, making it superior to any other hydropathic application now in use. The spacious parlors and other multiplied appliances for promoting the health and comfort of patients combine to constitute DR. SMITH'S HYGIENE HOME WATER CURE by far the most complete Hygiene Establishment on the Pacific Slope, and affords to the sick and suffering of both sexes the surest, speediest and cheapest means of cure to be found anywhere West of the Rocky mountains. Hygienic board and a comfortable home for all who desire them.

AMUSEMENTS. Etc.

California Theatre.

The ever popular opera of "Il Trovatore" was presented in really excellent style last night. Signora Ines Fabbri acted and sang the role of Leonora splendid; Signor Pietro Baccei was in good voice and gained immense applause; Miss Mora was pleasing as Inez, and Jacob Muller rendered the role of Il Conte di Luna in his usual effective style. Signora Bianchi, who was received with much applause on making her appearance, gave a splendid representation of the character of Azucena and gained her full share of the honors of the evening. "La Traviata" will be performed to-morrow evening. To-night the gorgeous spectacle of "Richard III" will be presented for the last time, and the public of San Francisco will be able to take a last look at one of the most popular plays of Shakespeare, mounted in a manner worthy of the great playwright. On Friday evening "Saratoga," which has been for some time past in preparation, will be produced, with new scenery and a strong cast.

Alhambra.

Messrs. Baker and Farron have created a veritable furore and everyone goes to see them in their Dutch impersonations and songs and dances. "Chris and Lena" is the most lively of sensational dramas, abounding in comic business and startling situations. The music and singing in the first part are very good and the entertainment pleases all tastes.

Bella Union.

M'lle Garretta and Ed. Montague appear to great advantage in their comic act after the style of the Majiltons; the ballet of "Diane and the Satyr," in which Mons. Schmidt and Mme. Therese, Minnie Fillmore, Miss Josephine, Carrie Armstrong, M'lle Garretta, Ed. Montague, and others appear is very attractive; Matt Kelly, T. Bree and R. G. Marsh make great fun in the act of "The Mysterious Apartments," and the burlesque circus winds up the evening's amusement in capital style.

The Atheneum.

Garbatier's versatile and clever performances are a feature in the programme at this house. Miss Agnes Kennedy is very popular in ballads and character changes; Maggie Brewer's serio-comic songs are much applauded; the entertainment given is generally liked.

Woodward's Gardens.

A steady throng of people poured into these beautiful gardens Sunday and spent many happy hours there. The objects of interest are innumerable. The museum, the menagerie, the art gallery, the new conservatories and many other features are admired by all who see them. The Fire King will exhibit every afternoon this week, in conjunction with Prof. Payton, the English glassblower, from the Crystal Palace, London.

The Race.

The great race between "Lucy" and "Occident," which was so unfortunately prevented on Saturday by "Jupiter Pluvius," as the Republican has it, has been postponed until this afternoon. Tickets will be changed at the box office, 112 Sutter street, for new ones, good for that day. These bright sunny days will place the track in excellent order.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

That Amiable M. Thiers.

They tell hard stories about M. Thiers as a family man. He never had anything to do with his father and mother. She always said he was the vilest dog undrowned. M. Thiers had year before last two sisters living in Caen. He, though worth $600,000, never gave them a cent, had nothing whatsoever to do with them. They vegetated on $240 a year each. His sister had a sign stating that, "Madame ——, sister of M. Thiers, ex-President of the Council of Ministers, has here a table d'hotel." M. Thiers ordered the police to remove the obnoxious sign. So much for being sister of the French President.

We Concur.

Our experience in journalism, says an exchange, teaches us that there is nothing in this world that will so disgust and sicken the general reader as to learn, after wading through the particulars of an awful accident that there is a probability of the victim's recovery.

A Kentuckian under strong suspicion of homicide has improved on the insanity dodge and secured his acquittal by courting and winning and wedding the lady on whose testimony alone he could have been convicted.

BRIDGET—
O'oh, Pat, I'm a sad, puny crathure,
I'm not what I was years ago;
I'e throuble that's so changed me nature—
O'oh, I'm not y r equal I know.

I'm pale now who onst was so rosy,
An' me eyes which were bright are now dim;
Sure I onst was as fresh as a posy,
An' could toe and heel thin wid a vim.

I can't see how 'tis that yez love me—
A poor crathure on her last legs—
Sure all of me life is exhausted,
And there's nothing that's left but the dregs.

PAT—
Ah, Bridget, me darlint, I love you,
I couldn't help doing that same;
Is it me that thinks myself above you?
If I did 'twould be pity and shame.

Sure if o'er the dregs you are mournin',
I'll drain what is left in the cup;
For the sugar's all left there, mavourneen,
Which the throuble could never stir up.

TREM.

SAN FRANCISCO, October 29th, 1872.

Be Happy Now.

How old are you? Twenty-five? Thirty? Are you happy to-day? Are you generally happy? If so, you have reason to judge that you will be happy by-and-by. Are you so busy that you have no time to be happy? and are you going to be happy when you are old, and you have not so much to do? No, you will not. You now have a specimen of what you will be when you are old. Look in the face of to-day. That is about the average. That will tell you what you are going to be. What you are carrying along with you is what you will have by-and-by. If you are so conducting yourself that you have peace with God, and with your fellow-men, and with your faculties; if every day you insist that duty shall make you happy, and you take as much time as is needful for the culture of your social faculties, you will not be exhausting life, and it will be continually replenished. But if you are saving everything up till you get to be an old man, habit will stand like a tyrant, and say, "You would not enjoy yourself before, and you shall not now." How many men there are who have ground and ground to make money, that they might be happy by-and-by, but who, when they get to be fifty or sixty years old had used up all the enjoyable nerve that was in them! During their early life they carried toil and economy and frugality to the excess of stinginess, and when the time came that they expected joy, there was no joy for them.

Risky Business.

It is dangerous for a man to attempt to joke about his wife. He is liable to get picked up. For instance, two men were standing on the corner engaged in a conversation. A lady, not remarkable for personal beauty, passed on the opposite side. Said one of the men:

"See that lady going there? I've kissed her a hundred times."

"What!" said the other, not knowing her, "that lank, scraggy, peaked-nosed"—

"Stop! Great Heavens!" said the other, "that's my wife!"

Served him right.

Evidently Delirious.

Wilkinson and Johnson are great friends. Wilkinson is married; Johnson is a bachelor. Johnson fell sick a short time ago and expressed a wish not only to see his friend Wilkinson, but his wife. Wilkinson consented to bring Mrs. Wilkinson to his sick friend. She entered the room first. Johnson cried, "Ah! dearest, you have come. How glad I am to see you." Wilkinson who is slightly henpecked, heard him, and said to the doctor, "Poor fellow! His head is turned, he is delirious, he calls Mrs. Wilkinson "dearest.""

An Improvement.

The barbarous custom of piercing ladies' ears for earrings is rapidly being abolished. Several very ingenious arrangements for fastening in these articles of jewelry without the usual surgical operation, are now sold at the jewelry shops and are very extensively worn.

Desperate Resource.

Mistress to former cook—"Well, Eliza, what are you doing now?"

Ex-cook—"Well, mum, as you wouldn't give me a character, I've been obliged to marry a soldier."

Cause and Effect.

Binghampton, N. Y., is doctored by five female physicians. And people are astonished that so many young men in town are sick.

Squarza's Punches.

One of the most famous institutions of California is Squarza's Punch. It is found in every city, village and mining camp in the State. It is delicious, wholesome and unlike anything else. The proprietor of this delightful beverage notifies his patrons that he has opened at No. 317 Kearny street, between Pine and Bush streets, a BRANCH of his old and popular symposium on Leidesdorff street. •

Health and Pleasure.

There are not too many pleasures in San Francisco. Nothing is more pleasant, nothing more health-giving than a drive into the country now and then. Those who cannot afford to keep a carriage of their own, can find one equal in elegance to any private conveyance at the Occidental Carriage stand. Frank Bouton has there, and at his stables 1015 Stockton street, carriages of every description. His drivers are careful and experienced, his charges are moderate. The moral of the above is: go to Frank Bouton at the Occidental Hotel when you want a carriage. O

Inexpressibly Affecting.

We read in a Minnesota paper that "St Peter has just shipped sixty thousand lbs. of butter to Nevada and California." This information seems the more extraordinary because we have all along been under the impression that St. Peter was dead. As we can never venture to doubt anything that we see in a newspaper, however, we must admit that we were mistaken. But he must be a very old man now, old enough, certainly, to be exempted from all future drafts. It strikes us as somewhat singular that Peter in his old age should have gone into the butter business. We should think that the eminent saint turning the crank of a churn, and watching for the butter to "come," would be affecting—inexpressibly affecting However, we cannot blame him for trying to make a living for himself. He has probably had such an experience with clerical parties, and with starvation salaries in church, that he would rather rush a churning crank around forever than to undertake the charge of of a congregation.

A Barke Phillips in Nevada.

An Irish justice of the peace in Treasure City, Nevada, issued a subpœna to another Irishman to attend as a witness in a case where J. B. was plaintiff, and G. R. et als., defendants. Mike appeared in court before the trial commenced, and asked: "Judge, who is 'et. al.?' " To which his honor condescended to respond: "I am surprised that an Amerikin citizin of ordinary intelligence should not know the meaning of et. all.; and, for the benefit of the witness and the gintlemin prisint in the court, I will explain. It is dirivatid from the two Latin words, contracted, and manes, in its literary sinse, at all! et all!"

Not Well Acquainted.

In a municipal court of Boston there recently occurred an amusing case of ignorance on the part of a woman. A man was put on trial for assaulting his wife; but when she was called upon to testify she wasn't positive as to his identity. She had been married six years, but couldn't swear that the man was or was not her husband, while he declared that he had never seen her blasted ugly mug before. The man was discharged and the woman retained. The judge is a little mixed at present. He isn't sure whether he can try her for burglary or bigamy.

Sensible Man.

A plain old clergyman was once applied to for advice on a very important matter. He was asked which of two sisters he had better pay his addresses to. One was very lovely in her disposition, but not a professor of religion. The other was a professing Christian, but very ill-tempered. "Mary the good-tempered one, by all means," said the clergyman. "The spirit of God can live where you can't."

Scriptural Education.

Sunday-school Tommy thinks everybody is real mean because he is not taken to the theological gardens to see the beast of the Apocalypse and behemoth of Holy Writ; and, he says, every time he proposes it, they just up and laugh at him.

* * *

A pupil in one of the public schools recently revised an old saying found in his grammar, as follows: "It is better to give than to receive—a good licking."

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of waters bright, did make a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
"Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here—
It looks so nice—and try their cheer.".
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,]
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins;
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again.

Pacific Oyster House, 337 Bush street, above Montgomery; open Day and Night.

A Powerful Love Philter.

In Indianapolis last week a young girl applied at a drug store, and after considerable diffidence whispered to the clerk that her mistress, a theatrical lady, had sent her for ten cents' worth of love powders. It was a queer mixture for this apothecary to compound, and he must needs know all the symptoms of the disease that demanded such curative agencies. A young man had been calling and calling for months past. Either diffidence or lack of warmth had prevented him from talking business, and now her mistress wanted something to soften his heart and bring him to terms. The clerk consulted his pharmaceutical works without relief, and finally from his own resources compounded of powdered rhubarb, sweet quinine, senna, squills, assafœtida, &c., a mixture that will certainly bring matters to crisis, either favorably or otherwise. The result is yet to hear from.

Getting Square With a Corpse.

About thirty years ago a foreigner, belonging anywhere alongshore, became indebted to a Pittsfield, Mass., liquor seller to the tune of $16, and soon after growing sick of the world, he came to Springfield and cut his throat, greatly to the disgust of his Pittsfield creditor. But the enterprising vender of the ardent was not to be foiled, and soon after he made a visit to Springfield and offered a certain doctor, known in old times for his skill in robbing graveyards, a good case if he would accede to his terms. The men of the dissecting knife consented, and in the darkness of night the old church yard on the river bank, near Trask's foundry, was robbed of its self devoured tenant. The doctor paid the liquor dealer the $16 due him from the dead man and $9 extra for his services, and, after selling the corpse for $60, felt that he had made a good thing out of the transaction.

Pause, Gentle Reader,

And peruse this notice. It will inform you that Meyers, of the White House Restaurant, Kearny street, has reopened, and thoroughly renovated the Eclipse Restaurant, 204 and 208 Fourth street, between Howard and Folsom, under the name of the Capitol Restaurant. Mr. Meyers begs to invite the patronage of the residents in the neighborhood and public in general, and assures them that he intends to provide the very best the market affords at Popular Prices—viz: three 12½ cent dishes for 25 cents. California Theatre.

"Richard III" was presented for the last time last evening to a good house. Manager McCullough has performed the arduous part of Richard during the last three weeks, requiring as it does such an immense strain on both the physical and mental qualities, with all its requisite vigor and power. The run of the piece has been an immensely successful one. To-night the Fabbri Opera Troupe will present "La Traviata," with Inez Fabbri as Violetta, Anna Elzer as Flora, Sig. Baccei as Germont, and Muller as Alfred. This cast will doubtless draw a very full and fashionable house. To-morrow evening the last New York fashionable life comedy, "Saratoga," will be produced with new costumes and scenery, cast to the full strength of the company.

Alhambra.

There will be an entirely new first part performance to-night, after which Messrs. Baker and Farron will appear in the sensation drama of "Chris and Lena," and perform a series of songs and dances which have never been equalled on the California stage for excellence and originality. These artistes have made an immense hit and will crowd the Alhambra for many nights to come. On Friday evening, November 8th, Mr. J. C. Russell, a great favorite with the patrons of the Alhambra, will take his benefit. An extraordinary bill will be presented on this occasion. Delehanty and Hengler's pupils and others have volunteered.

The Fabbri Opera Troupe.

On Sunday, the Fabbri Opera Troupe will present the opera of "Ernani" for the benefit of the popular baritone, Jacob Muller. There will be an immense audience on this occasion, therefore those who wish to be present should secure tickets at once.

Bella Union.

Among the many attractive features in the programme for to-night may be mentioned the Majiltons act by Ed. Montague and M'lle Gerretta; Miss Josephine's pretty new song and dance; Larkin's new sketch, "God Ood;" the ballet of "Diana and the Satyr," and the very amusing burlesque entitled "The Circus Internationale." This house is crowded nightly and in order to secure a seat or a box it is necessary to go early.

The Athenæum.

Frank Sumner, Ethiopian comedian and banjo soloist; Garbelier, the clown; Miss Agnes Kennedy the favorite vocalist and character actress; Miss Carrie Chapman and many others will appear to night.

Mrs. Minnie Myrtle Miller.

As will be seen referring to our first page, Mrs. Minnie Myrtle Miller, wife of Joaquin Miller, has by general request prepared another lecture on the Poet of the Sierras. All are now aware that Mrs. Miller is capable of treating a delicate subject with such admirable good taste as to offend no one, and she will doubtless have an audience limited only by the capacity of the hall.

Woodward's Gardens.

A steady throng of people poured into these beautiful gardens Sunday and spent many happy hours there. The objects of interest are innumerable. The museum, the menagerie, the art gallery, the new conservatories and many other features are admired by all who see them. The Fire King will exhibit every afternoon this week, in conjunction with Prof. Payton, the English glassblower, from the Crystal Palace, London.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

"Occident."

The California horse was defeated, distanced and disgraced yesterday, as all the world knows, by the veteran "Lucy." Yet, if "Occident" could have been kept down to his troting gait the result might have been different, or at least the contest between the two horses would have been a very close one as all who saw the race can testify to. On the first quarters of both heats "Occident" showed equal speed with "Lucy." That the horse possesses the wonderful speed accredited to him, there can be no doubt and it is evident that his qualities will yet render him famous when he gets trained down to his regular business. The horse is young on the track, and his present tendency to break would defeat him in any contest he might enter into, for a "break" with him is about equal to stoppage for the same time, and no horse that stops to dance a fandango every heat can ever expect to win one, or become a favorite in the pools. "Occident," like a good bank, must be placed beyond the suspicion of breaking before he can gain the confidence of the community.

Dr. B. J. Smith's Lecture.

Dr. B. J. Smith will open his new Hygienic Establishment, 635 and 637 California street, on Friday evening, November 1st, by a public reception, to which he invites his friends and all who are interested in medical reform. The objects of the Institution, the principles upon which it is based, and the manner of conducting the same, will be presented in the Lecture Hall at 8 o'clock. OA

Sewing Machines for Sale or to Rent,

LADY JANE GREY, OF LA CROSSE.

Jane Grey, of La Crosse, Wis., left her husband because he was poor. Six months thereafter he fell heir to a fortune. Jane made her appearance at her husband's door one stormy evening about that time, and being refused admittance, passed the night in the cow-house. Not one of the neighbors would give her shelter or a meal.—[Eastern paper.

Says the Lady Jane Grey, of La Crosse,
To husband, "Now see here, old hoss,
You h'an't got a cent, and you can't pay the rent,
So I'll vamose from you and La Crosse."

It is true that the husband was strapped,
But just six months after it happed,
A brother of his dad's—an uncle with scads—
Died, and into his tomb he was drapped.

For this Mr. Grey, of La Crosse,
Whom Jane had addressed as "old hoss,"
This uncle who died did most richly provide,
And the Lady Jane heard it of course.

To condole with her spouse on his loss,
And his gain, too, she went to La Crosse,
And said: "Here's your Jane, who has come back again,
And who ne'er more will call you 'old hoss.'"

It rained, it hailed and it snowed,
The Lady Jane cried out: "I'm blowed
If he'll open the door. Gracious! how it does pour!
Would I'd not left his bed and his board."

The husband, who hadn't a bit
Of pity or love, just said "Git!"
Slammed the door in her face, and again took his place
By the fireside, pleased with his wit.

Poor Jane, thus repulsed, turned away,
Did this unhappy lady, Jane Grey,
And was fain be content (not possessing a cent)
That night in the cow-yard to stay.

Now we draw from this tale (which is fact)
That the wife was much wanting in tact;
But we surely must say that making her stay
With the cows, was a cow-yardly act.

TEEM.

SAN FRANCISCO, October 30th, 1872.

A Dangerous Mattrass.

We obtain the following valuable information from a contemporary: "People who are unable to go to sleep at night will be glad to learn that an instrument invented by an ingenious German, when placed under a mattrass is calculated by soothing strains to persuade the most troubled conscience into sweet oblivion and gentle slumber. It also will awaken the sleeper by a lively selection from one of Offenbach's operas. This little instrument is provided with a tune appropriate for the occasion, even for a death or funeral—a dead march being among the selections." This may all be very nice. But suppose, for instance, one of your family died, and you should place the deceased on that mattrass, and try to turn on "The Dead March," wouldn't it be embarrassing if the old thing should burst out with "Little Brown Jug," or should shock the mourners with "Nelly will you Kiss Me." We think it would; and such an accident is likely to occur at any time. Moreover, suppose you should set the machine so that you thought it would wake you at 7 o'clock in the morning with the tune of "Ten Little Indians" and the peg should slip about midnight, and the whole infernal chorus inside should begin to roar out "Ten Little Indians" at that solemn hour and should mix it with "Old Hundred" and "Rock Me to Sleep, Mother," and should scare your wife into convulsions? And suppose it should grind out these tunes straight ahead for hours, waking the baby and setting all the dogs in the neighborhood to barking, until, in sheer despair, you pitched the entire concern into the back yard, where it kept up a serenade until the morning, while you lay on the floor and groaned? No! No! We shall not buy one of these mattrasses. When we want music at midnight, we will rise and go into the cellar, and sit on the refrigerator in our night-shirt, and squeeze what we want out of an accordeon, by ourself.

English Propriety.

The Pall Mall Gazette, in an article on London Theatres, says that in those frequented by the shopkeepers and workingmen, what the spectators applaud is not the acting, nor the play, but the sentiments uttered; every flat utterance of feeble morality, especially when verging upon the domestic or the dutiful, touches the audience to the heart. It adds: "It is really impossible to regret this survival of the archaic simplicity of preæsthetic ages in our English shop-keeping and wages-earning classes. At the same time, it shows most undeniably the nature of the gulf—both intellectual and moral—which divides the world of wealth and culture from the world of toil, even now when the same social and religious notions are supposed to be pervading all ranks of society alike. While the fashionable and the educated flock to see "Nos Intimes" and the "Grand Duchesse de Gerolstein," it is certain that the literal English rendering of any such play would be hooted from the stage before it was half finished by the large majority of the rough and uncultured London people."

Squarza's Punches.

One of the most famous institutions of California is Squarza's Punch. It is found in every city, village and mining camp in the State. It is delicious, wholesome and unlike anything else. The proprietor of this delightful beverage notifies his patrons that he has opened at No. 317 Kearny street, between Pine and Bush streets, a BRANCH of his old and popular symposium on Leidesdorff street. a

Health and Pleasure.

There are not too many pleasures in San Francisco. Nothing is more pleasant, nothing more health-giving than a drive into the country now and then. Those who cannot afford to keep a carriage of their own, can find one equal in elegance to any private conveyance at the Occidental Carriage stand. Frank Bouton has there, and at his stables 1016 Stockton street, carriages of every description. His drivers are careful and experienced, his charges are moderate. The moral of the above is: go to Frank Bouton at the Occidental Hotel when you want a carriage. o

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

California Theatre.

There was a very large and highly fashionable attendance at this theatre last night, when the Fabbri Opera Troupe presented "La Traviata" in excellent style. How well Signora Fabbri acts and sings in the role of Violetta our public are aware. Signor Pietro Baccei last night won new laurels in that of Alfredo. Miss Anna Elzor was a very pleasing Flora, and Jacob Muller sang splendidly in the character of Germont. To-night Bronson C. Howard's great society comedy of "Saratoga," which caused such a sensation in New York, and had such a long and prosperous run at Augustin Daly's Theatre, will be produced for the first time in California, with new scenery by George C. Bell, and the strong cast published on our first page. This piece will be played at the matinee to-morrow.

Alhambra.

The rush to this popular theatre to see those sterling artistes, Messrs. Baker and Farron in their capital songs and dances in the drama of "Chris and Lena" continues unabated. Every night the house is crowded and the applause is loud and frequent. This play can be retained on the boards but a short time longer as Messrs. Baker and Farron have other attractive novelties which they will produce shortly. "Chris and Lena" will be played at the matinee to-morrow.

Bella Union.

"The Circus International," the Dutch farce of "Ged Ond," "Antony and Cleopatra," the ballet of "Diane and the Satyr" and "The Mysterious Appointments," are some of the features in the excellent programme to be presented at this pioneer variety theatre to-night.

The Athenæum.

Lon McCarty and Carrie Chapman are the latest additions to the strong company engaged at this house. Miss Agnes Kennedy continues a great favorite. Cerbetler the clown is very amusing, and the whole programme is excellent.

The Fabbri Opera Troupe.

On Sunday, the Fabbri Opera Troupe will present the opera of "Ernani" for the benefit of the popular baritone, Jacob Muller. There will be an immense audience on this occasion, therefore those who wish to be present should secure tickets at once.

Mrs. Minnie Myrtle Miller.

As will be seen referring to our first page, Mrs. Minnie Myrtle Miller, wife of Joaquin Miller, has by general request prepared another lecture on the Poet of the Sierras. All are now aware that Mrs Miller is capable of treating a delicate subject with such admirable good taste as to offend no one, and she will doubtless have an audience limited only by the capacity of the hall.

Woodward's Gardens.

A steady throng of people poured into these beautiful gardens Sunday and spent many happy hours there. The objects of interest are innumerable. The museum, the menagerie, the art gallery, the new conservatories and many other features are admired by all who see them. The Fire King will exhibit every afternoon this week, in conjunction with Prof Payton, the English glassblower, from the Crystal Palace, London.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

Dr. B. J. Smith's Lecture.

Dr. B. J. Smith will open his new Hygienic Establishment, 635 and 637 California street, on Friday evening, November 1st, by a public reception, to which he invites his friends and all who are interested in medical reform. The objects of the Institution, the principles upon which it is based, and the manner of conducting the same, will be presented in the Lecture Hall at 8 o'clock. CA

PATENTIA.

Toil on, O, troubled brain,
With anxious thoughts and busy scenes protest;
Ere long relief shall reach thee. A brief pain,
Then—rest!

Watch still, O heavy eyes.
A little longer must you vigil keep;
And lo! your lids shall close at morning's rise,
In sleep.

Throb yet, O aching heart,
Still pulse the flagging current without cease—
When you a few hours more have played your part,
Comes Peace!

Bear up then, weary soul!
Short is the path remaining to be trod—
Lay down the fleshy shroud and touch the goal,
Then—God.

A little four-year old boy sat alone in the parlor, when a new doctor came suddenly to see his sick mother. The doctor naturally wished to make his acquaintance, and asked, "How old are you, my son?" "I'm not old—I'm new," said the boy.

The Reason.

"Your dress," said a husband to his fashionable wife, "will never please the men." "I don't dress to please the men," was the reply, "but to worry other women."

Squarza's Punches.

One of the most famous institutions of California is Squarza's Punch. It is found in every city, village and mining camp in the State. It is delicious, wholesome and unlike anything else. Health and Pleasure.

There are not too many pleasures in San Francisco. Nothing is more pleasant, nothing more health-giving than a drive into the country now and then. Those who cannot afford to keep a carriage of their own, can find one equal in elegance to any private conveyance at the Occidental Carriage stand. Frank Bouton has there, and at his stables 1016 Stockton street, carriages of every description. His drivers are careful and experienced, his charges are moderate. The moral of the above is: go to Frank Bouton at the Occidental Hotel when you want a carriage. O

TO TAXPAYERS.

Taxes Due October 28th,

Delinquent Jan. 6th, 1872.

THE USUAL DELAY, CONFUSION AND annoyance experienced by Taxpayers will be much increased this year, as both PERSONAL and REAL PROPERTY has to be paid upon at the same time.

This being the case, the undersigned would most respectfully suggest that Taxpayers furnish this office with a schedule of their property at an early day. Where there have been no changes, the Tax Bills of any previous year are the most convenient and correct memoranda.

Competitive Grief.

We have two widowers, says Max Adeler, up in our neighborhood, who have engaged lately in a friendly but exciting contest, in which everybody in the vicinity has taken the deepest interest. Both lost their wives about the same time and each had six fingers of crape wrapped around his high hat. Brown determined to show the neighbors that he mourned more passionately than Jones, so he put three fingers more around his. Then Jones thought that everybody would think that he cared less for the departed Mrs. Jones than Brown cared for the late Mrs. Brown, so he got a hand of crape fifteen fingers wide around his hat. This fired the heart of Brown, who immediately put on so much crape that it projected an inch and a half above the summit of his hat-crown. Jones saw it, and instantly cutting the crown out of an old hat, he telescoped it on to his new hat, and craped the cylinder clear to the top. Brown, now thoroughly excited, and determined to do justice to Mrs. Brown's memory, got eighteen old hat crowns and erected upon his hat a kind of funeral shot-tower, which he enveloped in crape and wore upon the street. Jones, feeling that the dear departed would think him cold and heartless if he failed to do his duty in this crisis, built up a stack of about twenty-seven sections of stove-pipe, which he dove-tailed on his hat, draped in mourning, and sported. Brown at once telegraphed to Paris for a silk hat six hundred feet high, swaddled in crape twelve feet deep, and reaching from the brim to the top of the crown. It will shut up like a spy-glass when Brown wants to go in his front door. When Brown's hat arrives, it is thought Jones will commit suicide and join Mrs. Jones on the other side.

Domestic Blessing.

No married couple should be without a nice young man boarder. He is so convenient to have about the house, and when there is no other subject for a row, one can be easily originated about him. In Louisville there is a newly-married couple who provide food and lodging for a nice young man. Recently the husband returned to find his wife nursing the boarder's sore foot. He objected to this, and his wife called him a brute. He retorted that she was a d—d fool and ought to be spanked. She jumped up and somehow got her fingers entangled in his hair, while he accidentally threw her across his knee and struck the skirts of her dress with a frying pan. He was arrested and fined. The boarder hasn't moved yet, but the husband has, which is carrying an innocent joke a little too far.

Pleasing Intoxication.

"A little learning is a dangerous thing; drink deep or taste not the Pierian spring." This is all very well, but the converse is true of intoxication. Drinking deep is decidedly bad, but a temporary exhilaration is pleasant. Whisky is a coarse, material method of exhilaration. Magic Conserves are the fashion now, for they produce a pleasant sensation similar to that of swallowing a glass or two of champagne, and instead of weakening, invigorate the system. The sale in this city is immense.

Very Unkind.

The New York Dispatch says:

It is stated that Joaquin Miller will make England his perpetual abode. It is also stated that Walt Whitman is to follow him to the chalky cliffs of Britain. If George Francis Train could be induced to go, also, wouldn't this be a happy country? But would England still continue to bear the name of "merry?"

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of waters bright, did make a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
"Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here—
It looks so nice—and try their cheer.".
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,]
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clam sand crabs and terrapins;
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again.

USE BRODIE'S WONDERFUL RHEUMATIC LINIMENT. Then you'll remember me. A

The Overland Monthly.

Taking it all in all the Overland Monthly for November is a good number, the best for many months. First we have Part III of Joaquin Miller's "Isles of the Amazons." This, like the preceding parts, requires prospecting carefully for poetry. The "color" is abundant but it does not pan out rich in all parts; the poetry lies in streaks. This sort of thing has no trace of the precious metal in it:

> But the Queen moved forth, as to smite him at first
> With the sword unto death, and it seemed that she durst
> Not smite him at all; and she stood as to chide,
> And she lifted her face, and she frowned at his side.
> And she touched on his arm, and she looked in his eyes,
> And right full in his soul—but he saw no fear
> In the pale, fair face; and with frown severe
> She pressed her lip as suppressing her sighs.
> She banished her wrath, she unbended her face,
> And she lifted her hand and put back his hair
> From his pale, sad brow, with a penitent air,
> And forgave him all with an unuttered grace.

Those two first lines are about as bad as any poet "durst" write. There is much beautiful description in this part of the poem, somewhat too much, and it has been used before. There are the old theatrical "props" used again, "round brown limbs," "clouds of hair," "fringes of ferns etc." "The Isles of the Amazons" is too much like a spectacular piece mounted with scenery which has done duty before.

"The Mother Lode of California" is an admirably written paper in which the workings of the great alchemist, Nature, are described in a charming manner, and many interesting facts in the early history of deep mining in California are given.

"The Lost Cabin" is one of the best stories ever published in the Overland; it is brought to an end with artistic skill.

"The Folk Lore of Norway" is nicely written, but reads as if it were "made up" from matter before published.

"Good News" is very pleasant poetry. "Old Uncle Hampshire" will please many who delighted in "Uncle Tom's Cabin." It is well written, though the plot is rather thin. "Queen Elizabeth's California" is an old story retold in a popular manner.—

"A Romance of Gila Bend" is a pretty genre picture. The characters are sketched with a bold, free hand, and the reader is forced to take an interest in a simple tale.

"The House of the Sun" is a pleasing bit of poetical description of an extinct volcano in one of the Sandwich Islands. The admirable lecture delivered by Professor Agassiz, September 25th, under the auspices of the California Academy of Natural Sciences, forms one of the papers in present number of the Overland.

"A Perfect Day" is charming verse. "Ultrawa," No. II, is as unmitigated bosh as the first part. Such idiotic drivel should be sent to the Waverly Magazine. The wearisome Peter Hunter continues in No. II to talk in this manner:

> She had once—that is—married—that is—Case Veck; but her name had—that is—always been—that is—Sal Etten and nothing—that is—else.

There is much attempt at fine writing; a plain word is never used when a big one can be found. The writer is one of those who fondly imagine they have achieved a poetical style when they have got into the habit of calling birds "feathered songsters," and grass, "verdure." Etc. is very pleasant reading. The editor of this department has something to say about lectures in San Francisco, from which we make the following extract:

> There is also something to be said, in this connection, for the talent, education, and genius which is purely Californian; or, rather, which belongs to this side of the Rocky Mountains. The thought arises from the consideration of a recent very remarkable lecture, given by a woman whose life has been one of entire isolation and hidden suffering, and who has been impelled by the force of circumstances to seek for some outlet whereby she can make pecuniarily available the resources of a genius rich in originality of thought and expression, fertile in imagination, and pure in poetic fancy. Mrs. Myrtle Miller has displayed rare discernment. In the analysis of character she is keen and incisive. An artist in the use of words, her glowing tints reproduce a phase of life which is as real as the thing itself. Nature could not speak more truly than this child of her own, reared amid her mountains and fostered in her bosom. Finding solace there from the hard realities of a sad, sad life; a most tender and pathetic soul, yet full of strange, subtile power, and a marvelous comprehension of poetic truth. With a quick insight into the springs of human action, her clear vision penetrates shallow disguises, detects tricks of expression, and the prick of her finely pointed satire is like that of a delicately tempered instrument in the hands of a skillful physician.

There is only one book review: a careful dissection of Buckner's work entitled "Man in the Past, Present and Future.

A Mistake.

The other day a youthful pair, after the necessary preparation, set out for a church, a short distance off, to be married, but no minister made his appearance. They went to the clergyman's residence to inquire as to the cause of delay, when, upon search being made for that gentleman, he was found in the cemetery, where he had been waiting for nearly two hours, believing he was to bury them. The life-long knot was soon tied, and it was felt that "all's well that ends well."

Live Well.

Those who eat good dinners are amiable. Bad feeding is the cause of many crimes. Those who dine at the Pioneer Restaurant, on Washington street, at the corner of Dunbar Alley, live well, and are consequently happy. Henry Bocken, who has catered for the public since 1849, provides for his customers Lake Tahoe trout, Salmagundi soup, game, tame geese, delicious entrees, and everything the heart of man can desire. The best cup of tea in the city—English breakfast tea—Souchong and Orange Pekoe—can be obtained here. E

DR. BARLOW J. SMITH

ANNOUNCES THAT THE RECENT EXTENsive additions and improvements to his HYGIENE HOME WATER-CURE and PHRENOLOGICAL INSTITUTE, 637 California street, are completed. To his original premises have been added an entirely new and elegant three-story brick structure, a new and commodious lecture hall, a lofty and spacious dining hall, and cosy, comfortable bath-rooms in almost endless variety, with all the most modern, scientific and complete appliances for administering every conceivable description of medical baths, among which may be mentioned the electro-thermal, the electro-chemical, the electro-vapor, the electro-Russian, the electro-Turkish, Sulphur Mercurial, Iodine and other medicated baths; also an entirely new bath, invented by Dr. Smith, which he has named the American bath. It combines all the advantages of the Russian and Turkish, together with the electric spray and other appliances peculiar to itself, making it superior to any other hydropathic application now in use. The spacious parlors and other multiplied appliances for promoting the health and comfort of patients combine to constitute DR. SMITH'S HYGIENE HOME WATER CURE by far the most complete Hygiene Establishment on the Pacific Slope, and affords to the sick and suffering of both sexes the surest, speediest and cheapest means of cure to be found anywhere West of the Rocky mountains. Health and Pleasure.

There are not too many pleasures in San Francisco. Nothing is more pleasant, nothing more health-giving than a drive into the country now and then. Those who cannot afford to keep a carriage of their own, can find one equal in elegance to any private conveyance at the Occidental Carriage stand. Frank Bouton has there, and at his stables 1016 Stockton street, carriages of every description. His drivers are careful and experienced, his charges are moderate. The moral of the above is: go to Frank Bouton at the Occidental Hotel when you want a carriage. O

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of waters bright, did make a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
"Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here—
It looks so nice—and try their cheer.".
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins;
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again,
Pacific Oyster House, 337 Bush street, above Montgomery; open Day and Night.
CHARLES HAAKE, Proprietor.

USE BRODIE'S WONDERFUL RHEUMATIC LINI-

FOREIGN DRAMATIC NEWS.

Dryden's "Amphitryon" is soon to be produced at the Court Theatre, London.

Henry J. Byron is writing a skit on 'The Lady of the Lake" for the Strand. It will be called "The Lady of the Lace."

H. J. Byron and W. S. Gilbert are both writing comedies for Mrs. John Wood, to be produced at the St. James Theatre, London.

Sir Charles Young has written a drama called "Miss Chester," founded on one of Miss Marryatt's novels, especially for Mrs. Vezin.

Andrew Halliday's dramatization of "The Lady of the Lake," recently produced at Drury Lane, London, does not seem to be a success other than in a spectacular sense. The poem is said to suffer greatly in the hands of the adaptor.

New plays in London are almost invariably produced on Saturday night, and the reason for this is thought to be that the managers desire the critics of the morning dailies to have sufficient time in which to prepare elaborate notices. Men who write in a hurry are not disposed to discriminate either to the advantage or disadvantage of authors and actors.

The staid Spectator devotes rather more than two of its broad columns to an enthusiastic notice of "Babil and Bijou," in which it says:

> The ballet representing the four seasons, and which introduces French, Italian, Spanish and Russian dances, is a marvellous performance. There is too much of it—the effect is a good deal injured by the carrying about of flower-pots and brooches to serve as pedestals, and the principal danseuses perform many feats of strength rather than grace, but it is beautiful for all that: and in the autumn scene M'lle Dot's dancing was truly dramatic. She realized the wild, unfettered glee of the Bacchante, and as she floated, bounded or swam over the stage, grape-crowned, her golden wine-cup tossed aloft or held out to the imaginary attendant, while the fauns and satyrs, the nymphs and dryads, crouched, silent and still; as she put the joy of the earth into this poetry of motion, she took the audience back awhile to the days of the great god Pan.

M. Capoul is engaged for five months at the Italien's, Paris, at a salary of 12,000f. per month.

The London Opera Comique has been opened under the management of E. P. Hingston, formerly agent for Artemus Ward, with Herve's Opera Bouffe, "Œil Creve" as the attraction. Hingston was recently the recipient of a handsome testimonial from the inhabitants of the famous watering-place, Margate, in recognition of his able management of the Hall by the Sea in that town.

A London paper announces "Woman's Trust," at half price, at the Pavilion Theatre. That woman's trust is not much to be depended upon if it is only good for half price.

The new comedy entitled the "Two Stars," from the pen of the indefatigable H. J. Byron, has been produced at the Strand, London.

A new farce entitled "Fun in a Fog," in which the Vokes appear, has been produced at Drury Lane, London.

Wachtel is singing at the Imperial Opera House in Vienna

Positive Child!

A little four-year old boy sat alone in the parlor, when a new doctor came suddenly to see his sick mother. The doctor naturally wished to make his acquaintance, and asked, "How old are you, my son?" "I'm not old—I'm new," said the boy.

The Reason.

"Your dress," said a husband to his fashionable wife, "will never please the men." "I don't dress to please the men," was the reply, "but to worry other women."

Live Well.

Those who eat good dinners are amiable. Bad feeding is the cause of many crimes. Those who dine at the Pioneer Restaurant, on Washington street, at the corner of Dunbar Alley, live well, and are consequently happy. Henry Bocken, who has catered for the public since 1849, provides for his customers Lake Tahoe trout, Salmugundi soup, game, tame geese, delicious entrees, and everything the heart of man can desire. REOPENING

DR. BARLOW J. SMITH

ANNOUNCES THAT THE RECENT EXTENsive additions and improvements to his HYGIENE HOME WATER-CURE and PHRENOLOGICAL INSTITUTE, 637 California street, are completed. To his original premises have been added an entirely new and elegant three-story brick structure, a new and commodious lecture hall, a lofty and spacious dining hall, and cosy, comfortable bath-rooms in almost endless variety, with all the most modern, scientific and complete appliances for administering every conceivable description of medical baths, among which may be mentioned the electro-thermal, the electro-sitz, the electro-vapor, the electro-Russian, the electro-Turkish, Sulphur Mercurial, Iodine and other medicated baths; also an entirely new bath, invented by Dr. Smith, which he has named the American baths. It combines all the advantages of the Russian and Turkish, together with the electric spray and other appliances peculiar to itself, making it superior to any other hydropathic application now in use. The spacious parlors and other multiplied appliances for promoting the health and comfort of patients combine to constitute DR. SMITH'S HYGIENE HOME WATERCURE by far the most complete Hygiene Establishment on the Pacific Slope, and affords to the sick and suffering of both sexes the surest, speediest and cheapest means of cure to be found anywhere West of the Rocky mountains. Hygienic board and a comfortable home for all who desire them.

Their "TEARS" appease,—and Men gain "LADIES' PLEASURE."
To allay connubial differences and pain,
In "ANTI-DIVORCE" you can your end attain,
Sip of the potent extract but one taste,
Your arm, consoling, straight is round her waist!
Guess what a "MORNING COMFORT" in the kiss
That heals the quarrel and imparts the bliss!
The "WELCOME" too, you'll always find
A balmy soother for the troubled mind.
The bright "AURORA," and the sweet "FAREWELL
Just visit BONA, and you'll all fare well!

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

CALIFORNIA THEATRE.—A very large and fashionable audience assembled last night to witness the production of Bronson C. Howard's society comedy entitled "Saratoga." For a play with such a title no serious plot is required; there is so little going on at a fashionable watering place that the incidents on which a play could be founded must necessarily be light and amusing, rather than interesting. People go to Saratoga to be amused, and with this idea people should go to see Saratoga at the California Theatre. In the first act we are introduced to a number of society people occupying their time in lounging about, flirting and drinking the waters. Bob Sackett is an incorrigible flirt of the male sex; he makes love to every woman he meets because he can't help it and doesn't mean any harm. He is at the opening of the play half engaged to three, and in love with another whom he does not know is already married to a man old enough to be her father, and consequently very jealous of her. Out of this state of affairs various complications arise, which result in many amusing situations. In the end, Bob Sackett positively engages himself to be married to the one who really loves him—Miss Effie Remington—and hands over the other ladies to suitable parties. J. C. Williamson played the part of Bob Sackett capitally, doing full justice to the amusing sayings the author makes that erratic young man utter, and giving full effect to every comic situation. Miss Annie Graham looked beautiful, dressed elegantly and acted charmingly in the character of Olivia Alston, a widow of the period; Miss Helen Tracy appeared to excellent advantage in that of Effie Remington, which was one that suited her well, and Miss Minnie Walton did some very nice acting in the ticklish role of the beautiful young wife of an old man, made love to by a young man but appreciating her old husband's love for her. Miss Chambers, who played the part of Muffins, an Irish servant, has a perfectly delightful brogue, and again and again brought down the house by the effective manner in which she read her lines. F. J. Buckley, as Jack Benedict, was very pleasant and jolly, acting in his usual natural and unaffected manner. Henry Edwards made every possible point in the character of Papa Vanderpool, and Mrs. C. R. Saunders was amusing as Mrs. Vanderpool. Owen Marlowe made the most of the highly-sketched character of Sir Mortimer Muttonley. W. A. Mestayer did as much for that of Cornelius Wethertree, and Walter Leman as the jealous husband, Hon. Wm Carter, caused much fun. Eben Plympton was easy, graceful and natural as Frederic Augustus Carter, and gave a flattering portrait of the youth of the period. Miss Louise Johnson, Miss Nellie Cummins, Miss Carrie Wyatt and Miss Louise Hermes, acted their respective parts well. George French, as the exquisite Major Luddington Whist, was au fait in his part, and the characters were generally well filled. The play went very smoothly; the prompter's voice was unheard, there were no hitches and the excellent manner in which it was put on the stage with new scenery was generally admired. "Saratoga" is full of fun and the audience have nothing to do but to laugh, which they do most heartily. Of course there is much nonsense, but then nonsense is the soul of life at Saratoga. The same play will be performed at the matinee to-day again this evening and until further notice.

ALHAMBRA THEATRE.—The bill which has drawn such large and fashionable audiences during the week will be played at the matinee to-day and again this evening. Baker in his Dutch songs fairly rivals Billy Emerson in the estimation of the California public, and the graceful and sweet-voiced Ferion is equally a favorite. The drama of "Chris and Lena" will be preceded by an excellent first part in which W. F. Baker, Benjamin Clark, J. G. Russell, I. W. McAndrews, Charles Sutton and others will appear.

BELLA UNION.—An entirely new bill will be presented to-night at this favorite theatre. Messrs. Cogill and Cooper, the celebrated song and dance men and ethiopian comedians, will make their first appearance. Madame Theresa and Mons. Schmidt continue to please in ballet divertissement; Harry Clarke and Ed Montague perform their wonderful trapeze act; J. H. Larkin and Carrie Armstrong appear in new Dutch specialties, and the other members of the company in songs, dances, negro acts, etc., forming one of the best programmes ever presented at this house. The performance concludes with the burlesque burletta entitled "The Maid and Magpie, or the Fatal Spoon," in which the full strength of the company will appear.

ATHENEUM.—As usual, a great bill has been prepared for the amusement of the Saturday night patrons of this house. There is continual novelty in the entertainment offered, and the consequence is that everyone is well pleased. The full programme appears on our first page.

CITY GARDEN.—To-morrow August Buislay, who made a successful balloon ascension last Sunday, will make another, and when at the height of 1,000 feet, will drop a goat attached to a parachute, which will be safely landed. There will be a gymnastic entertainment in the Pavilion and the Fire King will walk through the blazing fiery furnace.

WOODWARD'S GARDENS—THE FIRE KING.—A steady throng of people poured into these beautiful gardens Sunday and spent many happy hours there. The objects of interest are innumerable. The museum, the menagerie, the art gallery, the new conservatories and many other features are admired by all who see them. The Fire King will exhibit this afternoon and Sunday, in conjunction with Prof. Payton, the English glassblower, from the Crystal Palace, London.

MRS. MINNIE MYRTLE MILLER.—The new lecture by Mrs. Miller which she has in preparation, and will deliver in Pacific Hall on November 12th promises to be even more interesting than the first, which has been copied in hundreds of papers in the Eastern States and Europe, with eulogistic comments. Tickets for this lecture will be on sale at the book stores and music stores on Monday, and reserved seats can be secured without extra charge at Pacific Hall on the day of the lecture.

CLIFF HOUSE.—The public of San Francisco had better make the most of the fine weather and enjoy, while they can, a drive to the Cliff House. A dinner at this ne plus ultra of seaside resorts is true enjoyment.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beau-

FOR VICTORIA.—Mrs. Charles Coriell's Vaudeville Troupe will leave for Victoria, B. C., by the Prince Albert on Tuesday next. The company will consist of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Coriell, May Leslie, Geo. Foster, Rugby Morton, J. Carroll, and W. Rayner; Prof. I. Frank, musical director; Chas. Coriell, manager, H. Dopson, treasurer. The troupe will open at the Theatre Royal.

FOR THE INTERIOR.—Mr. J. H. Church, manager of the Atheneum, has organized a company for an interior tour, consisting of Miss Agnes Kennedy, Miss Susie Robleen, Thos. Barton, Walter Parks, and Prof. John Allen. They will perform at the Stockton Theatre Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

CHIARINI'S CIRCUS.—Chiarini has been very successful in his inland trip and has returned with his company to this city, prior to embarking on the Australian steamer on Wednesday next for New Zealand. They will not show in this city. Everybody wishes the great circus king and his company every success in his future enterprizes His California season has paid him a very handsome profit.

PACIFIC COAST DRAMATIC NEWS.

SAN JOSE.—The Tribune says:-

> Brobaska has started subscription lists for the Fabbri Italian Opera Troupe. We shall have a season if our citizens are desirous of encouraging the enterprise. The troupe is first-class, and they will come down with a complete and efficient orchestra. It lies with our citizens whether or not they will sustain Brobaska. We desire to see a large subscription list by Saturday.

That's right. We are glad Brobaska has followed FIGARO's advice. Now we shall see how much appreciation of music there is in San Jose. If the people there get up a handsome subscription list we will "let up" on San Jose for a little while and own that there are people there who are not too mean to spend money on good music.

YREKA.—The New York and San Francisco Circus, under the direction of John Wilson, is advertised to perform on Tuesday and Wednesday evenings of next week.

WOODLAND.—Chiarini's Circus gave a performance here last Sunday.

PORTLAND, OR.—The drama of "Early California" was presented on the 28th and 29th, inst. Miss Edith O'Gorman has arrived in Portland and and will lecture there.

HAMILTON, NEV.—The Lorraine and Mason troupe closed their season on October 22nd.

SALT LAKE.—On October 22d a new drama by James Dowling entitled "East and West," was produced with Mr. F. M. Bates and Mrs. Jean Clara Watters in the leading characters. It was played all the week. The Footlights speaks of it as highly sensational. On the 20th, Professor E. O. Beeman was to give an exhibition in the theatre of views taken by him in Colorado.

EASTERN DRAMATIC NEWS.

Mrs. Chanfrau commenced an engagement in Chicago on the 21st ult.

Rose and Harry Watkins are at Raleigh, North Carolina.

Miss Ada Gray is at the Academy of Music, Chicago.

Mr. Lawrence Barrett has just closed a brilliant engagement at the Pittsburgh Opera House. The houses were jammed on the nights when "Julius Cæsar" and "Hamlet" were performed. Mr. Barrett will play an engagement at the Boston Theatre in the course of the Winter.

Mr. Joseph Proctor has been very successful with his "Red Pocket Book," at the Arch-street Theatre, in Philadelphia.

Caroline Richings Bernard talks of starting with an English Opera troupe, under James F. Sherry, toward the close of November.

The French Opera at New Orleans is a thing of the past. After nearly fifty years of life in that city, it has ceased to be an institution. Their reported loss is $50,000.

The critic of the Oswego Advertiser fires off the following rockets in honor of Madame Erminie Rudersdorff:

> To tell you how she sung would be impossible, but if one may compare an object to a sound, one would say that her voice is like a rocket, which from the time it bursts upon the sight with a magnificence that claims undivided attention, in an instant carries your attention from earth to Heaven, where it bursts into 10,000 orbs of glory that scintillate, each a separate gem upon the blue empyrean, born each with a varied hue of beauty that at once distracts and commands attention, until they burst into a fleecy trail of stars that float down the vaulted sky, softly and slowly, until the earth seems overarched by a lacework of fire, that droops earthward as it falls, growing thinner and finer, until the last expiring breath of a sigh is lost in the evening air.

That young man should be looked after, or he will do something desperate.

Signor Mario has a three months engagement with Strakosch. He receives $3,000 a week.

Eight "young ladies of society" attempted to perform upon four grand pianos, the overture to "William Tell," on Sunday evening, the 12th ult., at the concert in the Grand Opera House, New York but they became so demoralized by stage fright that all but two left their instruments before the conclusion of the performance amidst the laughter of the audience. Maybe they became conscience-stricken at the feet of performing secular music on Sunday.

Mr. Junius Brutus Booth is supporting Miss Charlotte Cushman on her present tour.

Thirty plays have been produced at the Boston Museum during the comedy season of seven weeks just closed.

Everybody in New York it seems has not been captured by Pauline Lucca. The correspondent of The Missouri Republican, whose bright paragraphs we have frequently quoted, says of the prima donna; "She is little and she is fat, and she is not young, but she puts on those nippy, rosebud airs, and jumps and teeters, about, and is so blessed playful, the sweet young thing, that the near sighted critics take off their spectacles lest in her gambols she break them during their interviews."

Cool Burgess, the negro comedian, is organizing a minstrel company in Canada, in which Delehanty and Hengler, will be partners. It will be known as the Burgess, Delehanty and Hengler Combination.

The steamship Egypt brought to New York Manager Harry Palmer and fourteen of the new artistes for Niblo's Gardens, which will open about the middle of November. The City of Baltimore brought the great danseuse, M'lle Pettari, M'lles Clary, Rosella, Sims Reeves, and several other well-known European artists. New York is full of foreign talent.

Miss Erminia Rudersdorff, Miss Alice Fairman, and Mr. George Simpson are announced to appear in the oratorio of "Elijah" at the Academy of Music, Philadelphia, on November 21st.

At the Globe Theatre, Boston, the regular dramatic season commenced 21st ult., among other well-known favorites, Mr. C. W. Couldock made his reappearance.

In New York, at the Olympic Theatre "Genevieve de Brabant" was produced by the Aimee troupe on the 21st. The Atlas speaking of the performance of "Perichole" by this troupe says: "There is not a dull line in the part of "La Perichole," as sung or spoken by Aimee; nor a movement that is not replete with the eloquence of vivacious dumb-show—no gesture which does not express a paragraph, at least, of mirthful meaning, amorous airs with Piquillo, her jolly compeer, to the time when—after the uproarious interlude in the Viceroy's saloons—she revisits the square and brings voice and muscle to bear in expressions of unbounded delight at the return of herself and the erotic Piquillo to the freedom and dress fashions of the Lime streets, Aimee ripples and sparkles continuously, and is an object of almost undivided interest. To the charm of her voice and presence, all observers yield with pleasurable alacrity. Mons. Juteau, who personates Piquillo, is the best tenor that opera bouffe has yet produced in America and his acting ranks with his singing. His Piquillo is an admirable performance. Mons. Duchosal, the original General Boum in New York, and always a favorite here, plays the part of the Viceroy with accustomed heartiness. The chorus is composed of good voices, and is well trained. The ably-conducted orchestra adds much to the good effect of the stage performance."......"The King of the Carrots" was the latest production at the Theatre Comique......At Wood's Museum, Dominick Murray produced "The Gambler's Fate; or, the Murder on the Hudson," which a New York paper says is another version of "The Red Pocket Book."......Bryant's Opera House runs "King Karrot."......At Booth's Theatre, Boucicault's newest drama, "Kerry; or, Night and Morning" was produced on the 22nd, with "Jessie and Brown" as an afterpiece. The drama entitled "Night and Morning" is founded on a story by Mme. de Girardin, and to some extent resembles the chief incidents of the late T. W. Robertson's "Caste." Gerald Desmond is a young officer, who is supposed to have gone down in the troopship Liverpool, leaving behind him a young wife, Blanche, who is inconsolable for his loss. The kindest attentions of her husband's sister, Kate, of his friend and comrade Coldham, of Dr. Mellish, or even of the devoted Irish domestic, Kerry, are powerless to assuage her grief. Coldham, who is attached to Kate, undertakes the task of relieving the necessities of the bereaved wife, though she is kept in ignorance as to who her benefactor really is; but the secret being accidently disclosed, Coldham's motives are misinterpreted, Blanche concluding that he seeks to usurp her deceased husband's place in her affections. At this juncture Captain Desmond, who has escaped the fate his friends are deploring, arrives, discovering himself in the first instance to Kerry, who has never ceased to comfort himself with the hope that his beloved master still lives. His delight is so great that to conceal it from his mistress is quite beyond his control, although Captain Desmond and Kate think that the news should be broken to her very gently in her overwrought condition. Kerry's blundering, however, is attended with no fatal results, husband and wife are reunited, all misunderstandings are cleared up, and Kate becomes the affianced of Coldham. Mr. Boucicault's performance of Kerry was the central character of the play and was replete with humor and ability of the very highest order......"Agnes" still runs at The Union Square Theatre with the following artistes in the cast: Agnes Ethel, Phillis Glover, Plessy Mordaunt, Jenny Lee, D. H. Harkins, Ed. Lamb, F. F. Mackay, H. Montgomery, Welsh Edwards, J. P. Burnett, Claude Burroughs, and W. B. Laurens......At Wallack's, "Pygmalion and Galatea runs to good houses......"Roi Carrotte" still runs at the Grand Opera House. Mrs. John Wood, Emma Howson, Rose Hersee, John Brougham, Stuart Robson, the Majilton Brothers and Sister, and the Lauri Family. continue to shine as the stars of the spectacle which is now in its tenth week. ......At the Fifth Avenue Theatre, the last performance of "Diamonds" was given on the 26th. "The Road to Ruin," "Belle's Stratagem," "The Inconstant," "Everybody's Friend" and "The Merry Wives of Windsor" are in rehearsal at Daly's. In these pieces, Charles Fisher, Louie James and Mary Cary will make their first appearance this season. .....At the Academy of Music, Italian opera, with Pauline Lucca and Miss Louise Kellogg as prima donnas is very successful ......At Tony Pastor's, Harrigan and Hart in the "Little Frauds," Jenny Engel and other favorite artistes draw good houses. Gus Williams, Dutch artiste, appeared on the 21st......Miss Millie Cook, burlesque actress: James Mulligan, negro comedian; and Sergeant Burke, Zouave drill man, were at White's Atheneum..... Johnson and Powers are favorite members of the San Francisco Minstrel Company. James D. Roome has joined the company......The Dispatch gives the following sketch of the programme presented by Emerson's California Minstrels at 710 Broadway: "A very attractive entertainment has been nightly submitted by this troupe since our last, and their popularity seems steadily on the increase.

Mr. John Frazer, a vocalist of much excellence, sings "I Will be True to Thee," in a very finished manner; "Come Back to Erin," by S. A. Holdsworth, is deserving of great praise; "The Little One that Died," is finely rendered by Mr. John A Palmer; "My Dear Old Sunny Home," by Mr. Harry Percy, and an aria from the opera of "Martha," by John Fenick, make up the sentimental portion of the opening part, while Billy Emerson and A. J. Talbot supply the comical features. Sheridan and Mack have introduced several new specialties, and Harry Stanwood's latest jokes are perfectly irresistible. Billy Emerson impersonates "Uncle Ned," and also appear as a "Drum Major," and Mr. Charles Haywood gives his eccentric delineations of female character very becomingly. "That Rascal Billy," with Harry Stanwood as Hor-Race Grant, and Billy Emerson as Yon-Ho-see Greeley, is productive of great laughter, and the sketch of "The Intelligence Office," admirably played by Messrs. Sheridan, Mack, and Talbot, has precisely the same effect. Delehanty and Hengler joined the company on the 21st......The Bowery produced on the 21st, a new comedy of American Life, entitled "Breakers; or, Summer Life at Cape May," in which Ed. P. Wilkes appeared.

The Boston Saturday Evening Gazette of the 20th has the following excellent criticism of the play of "Rosedale," with its impossible people and scenes in English society:

> "Rosedale," with Lester Wallack in the role of Elliot Grey, proved attractive at the Boston Theatre throughout the week. The piece long ago established itself as a favorite, despite its absurdities of plot and perplexing eccentricities of action. Two or three capital dramatic situations and several well-drawn characters have given it a claim upon popular attention that has survived through all its improbabilities and shallow artificiality. Elliot Grey affords Mr. Wallack the fullest opportunities for the display of those features in his acting upon which he seems most to pride himself—self-possession and ease; but, at the same time, he is artificial to a degree that robs his acting of interest. His own personality is never absent. He has not the power to lose sight of his peculiar individuality, and the result is that Lester Wallack always appears to be acting Lester Wallack. His art is without inspiration, seeming to be the offspring of long usage and routine rather than of any special gift. He has a glittering brilliancy of style that is tempered by no graceful warmth. He always aims at the refinements of the gentleman, though at times he falls short, except in externals. No doubt much of the nonchalance with which he invests the character of Elliot Grey is affected by many English officers, but we doubt if any officer who desired to be considered a gentleman would treat ladies in a manner so offensively cavalier as they are treated by the Elliot Grey of Mr. Wallack. The way in which they are pooh-poohed and coarsely slighted to their faces may be quite natural to a conceited and overbearing egotist, but it is foreign to a refined gentlemanly instinct. As a piece of art, Mr. Wallack's personation of this character is inconsistant with itself, and of the stage stagey.

Mr. Sothern's impersonation of Charles Chuckles, Esq., in Byron's play of "An English Gentleman," is highly praised by the Philadelphia press.

Mario and Carlotta Patti will appear at Case Hall, Cleveland, on November 2d.

"Saratoga" was produced at McVicker's Theatre, Chicago, on the 21st ult.

An Eastern exchange says that Fayette Welch's card to the public is indeed laughable. He warns the profession from singing his original songs that have been sung by Billy Manning and Charley Howard for the last twenty years, and at camp meetings since Hull surrendered, and if we are not mistaken, George Warren sang them under canvas in the Battery when the British evacuated New York.

Apropos of the recent gossip about M'lle Lucca and the Baron von Rheden, her husband, the other side of the story is that the Baron has obtained permission of his Government, and will join his his wife in New York early in December. Madame Lucca is said to be impatient for the arrival of her spouse, and speaks of him in very loving terms, describing him as a man of military bearing, fine physique and handsome features.

The Berger Family of Swiss Bell Ringers give their first concert this season at Jackson, Mich., Nov. 11th. Sidney Franks is to travel with them as a humorist. A Miss Belle Boisen, tenor horn blower, and Ernest Thiele, flute and violin player will also travel with the troupe. A life size photograph of Edwin Forrest, recently taken, is defined as a good bit of landscape, being a forest with a couple of calves in the foreground.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

California Theatre.

This theatre was crowded at the matinee on Saturday, and again in the evening, when the very lively comedy of "Saratoga" was performed. The beautiful dresses of the ladies on the stage caused general admiration. Last night when the favorite baritone Jacob Muller took his benefit "Ernani" was presented. The house was perfectly thronged. The performance gave general satisfaction, Muller was never in better voice and sang gloriously. Signor Pietro Baccei did justice to the role of Ernani, and Signora Fabbri sang and acted that of Donna Elvira delightfully. To-night, "Saratoga" with its lively dialogue, fashionable dresses, comic situations and beautiful scenery will be played, and will doubtless draw another immense house. To-morrow evening the opera of "L'Africaine," for the production of which extensive preparations have been made will be presented by the Fabbri Troupe, augmented by other artistes.

The Fabbri Opera Troupe.

In consequence of the engagement of Mrs. F. S. Chanfrau, which will commence on the 18th, the Fabbri opera season will close after four nights more.

Alhambra.

Every night the Alhambra Theatre is crowded and all are delighted with the performance of Messrs. Baker and Farron in the sensation drama of "Chris and Lena." Under these circumstances no change is made in the bill for to-night save in the performance of an entirely new first part of songs, choruses, amusing jokes and funny stories by Benjamin Clarke, J. W. McAndrews, J. O. Russell, Charles Sutton and others. Messrs. Baker and Farron will in the course of the play introduce new and popular songs and dances.

Bella Union.

There were many attractive novelties in the programme presented at this house on Saturday night and again last evening. Among them may be mentioned the first appearance of the popular young California artistes, Cogill and Cooper in their new version of the song and dance entitled "Apple of My Eye." J. H. Larkin and Carrie Armstrong made a great hit in "Fritz and Minna;" the new sketch, "Mrs. Lune-her; or, Who owns the Coin," in which Johnny Tuers, Harry Sinclair and Tommy Bree appeared caused much amusement; H. Clark and Montague did a splendid trapeze act; the ballet of "Diana and the Satyr" was presented in good style, and the clever burlesque entitled "The Maid and the Magpie" terminated the evening's amusement. Next Saturday night Johnny Tuers's new burlesque entitled "Forgery; or, where are the Brothertons?" will be produced.

The Atheneum.

To-night, a capital first part will be given, to be followed by an interlude in which Carrie Chapman will appear in a medley dance, Garbeti in wonderful and amusing acts, Signor Bruno in contortion feats and many others in varied specialties.

Woodward's Gardens.

The usual large attendance was drawn yesterday—upwards of eight thousand. The Fire King gave his last performances; Prof. Payton did some wonderful feats of glass blowing in the new Polytechnic Hall, turning out full-rigged ships, making birds, pens, and other objects with wonderful facility. Prof. Payton will give exhibitions every day this week. Next Sunday Prof. Samwells and his trained dogs and monkeys will appear.

City Gardens.

Thousands went to the City Gardens yesterday to see the balloon ascension by Oruet Buislay, and they were not disappointed. At half past four o'clock the ascension was made, Gruet taking up with him a parachute with a sheep attached, which was allowed to fall at the height of a thousand feet. As the mutton fell up shot the balloon to an immense height. The sheep landed on the Potrero slope, and was cut loose from his netting and stolen before the other Buislays could get there. The balloon after sailing some twenty minutes in the air came down on the South side of the Potrero Bridge. Oruet alighted safely and saved himself, though he lost his mutton.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

"Saratoga."

There can be only seven more performances of "Saratoga." The management announce that Mrs. F. S. Chanfrau's engagement at the California Theatre will commence on the 18th.

Marriage of Catalina Holloway.

On Saturday last, Miss Kate Emily Holloway, better known to the public as Catalina Holloway, the beautiful and graceful equestrian of Chiarini's circus, was married to Mr. George Holland of the same troupe. The marriage ceremony took place at Calvary Church; after which the company present adjourned to the City Gardens to hold the wedding feast.

Testimonials.

Jacob Muller, on the occasion of his benefit last night was the recipient of many handsome presents. Among them was a splendid set of amethyst sleeve buttons presented by Manager Fritsh as a token of his appreciation of Herr Muller both as an artiste and a man.

Robert Hall defines fanaticism as "such an overwhelming impression of ideas relating to the future world as disqualifies one for the duties of life."

Squarza's Punches.

One of the most famous institutions of California is Squarza's Punch. It is found in every city, village and mining camp in the State. It is delicious, wholesome and unlike anything else. The proprietor of this delightful beverage notifies his patrons that he has opened at No. 317 Kearny street, between Pine and Bush streets, a BRANCH of his old and popular symposium on Leidesdorff street. •

Socialism Defined.

Our London namesake has the following on the the subject of Socialism:

Here is a practical definition of "Socialism," as understood by those who go in for that beautiful doctrine. Two worthies, admirers of Odger, Bradlaugh, and Co., are on the point of entering a "pub." in the vicinity of the Hole-in-the-wall. One says:

"Look 'ere, Bill, you've been to some o' them meetings at Trafalgar-square—what do they mean by Socialism—eh?"

"There's a question! Well, blow me, if I thought you was such a hass, Jack! 'E e's a public, is't it? Werry good! We goes in, an' you says to me, says you, 'Bill,' says you, "Wat'll yer 'ave to drink?' I says to you, "I'll 'ave a quatern o' gin or a pint o' 'eavy wet, or wot not—an' you pays. Then I says to you, says I,' 'Wot'll you 'ave, Jack?' which you names it, and then—"

"Well?"

"Then you pays ag'in. That's Socialism 'cordin' to Odger, an' he knows."

"All right. But s'pose I'm a socialist too?—who pays then?"

"Who? Why, it's the landlord as stands Sam, in course."

"Well, but s'pose the landlord is good a a Socialist as us? How d'ye settle it then?"

"In that case we fights it out on the spot fair and square, and the best man wins."

Industrious Woman.

Lately a case of wholesale poisoning has been the subject of a magisterial inquiry at West Auckland, in the county of Durham, England, a woman named Mary Ann Cotton having been accused of causing the death of her husband, three children and a lodger, within a comparatively limited time. It is said that suspicions have arisen that the accused is a systematic poisoner, and that in the course of her toxicological career no less than nineteen persons have been disposed of, namely, fifteen children, three husbands and one lodger.

Circumlocution.

A lady in Halifax, N. S., desired the removal of a dead cat, and was informed that she must go to the senior Alderman of the ward; he would then tell the Mayor; the Mayor would then tell the Health Inspector; the Health Inspector would tell the police; the police would tell the dead cat men, and the dead cat men would remove the nuisance. It would seem that the circumlocution officer is to be found in the British colonies, as well as in the mother country.

Health and Pleasure.

There are not too many pleasures in San Francisco. Nothing is more pleasant, nothing more health-giving than a drive into the country now and then. Those who cannot afford to keep a carriage of their own, can find one equal in elegance to any private conveyance at the Occidental Carriage stand. Frank Bouton has there, and at his stables 1016 Stockton street, carriages of every description. His drivers are careful and experienced, his charges are moderate. The moral of the above is: go to Frank Bouton at the Occidental Hotel when you want a carriage. O

THE STORMY PETREL.

Above the rough sea's climbing crest
The sunbeams flashed afar,
And smote the Phaeton's silver breast,
That sparkled like a star.

A wail was in the rising gale,
A wail both long and low;
The sailors flew to shorten sail,
The landsmen crept below.

We faced the fury of the blast;
A head-sea swept the deck—
A great wave leaped upon the mast,
And threatened total wreck.

No man but with the spray was blind—
No galley fires would burn—
No sound but of the awful wind
That shrieked from stem to stern.

Yet with a quick and fearful glance
That now my bosom thrills,
I saw the stormy petrel dance
Among the watery hills.

And where the hissing bubbles sprawled
With wierd and impish form,
The dancing petrel clucked and called
The devils of the storm.

CHARLES WARREN STODDARD,

NORTH PACIFIC, February, 1872.

The Atheneum Caught Napping.

The London Athenæum, reviewing Mr. Charles Kent's new book about Dickens, solemnly says: "Mr. Kent was with Dickens on the last suburban walk they ever had together." Could Mr. Kent have been with Dickens on their last or any other suburban walk, if he and Dickens had not been together? Or could they have been together on their last suburban walk if one of them had not been there?

Horrible Reflection.

A Danburyman's horror at the prospect of being crushed to death by a team of frightened horses, was terribly intensified by the reflection that "he was standing on the verge of eternity without a dollar in his pocket."

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of waters bright, did make a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
"Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here—
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Then at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins;
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again.

Figaro Here, There and Everywhere.

We never lose an opportunity of giving the patrons of FIGARO an extended circulation outside the city of San Francisco, as well as on all the boats, cars and stages starting from here. To-day we commence the publication of an extra edition for the interior, to accompany J. H. Church's star combination, and serve as their programme in Stockton and other interior towns. Our advertisers will appreciate the fact that by no other means can their business notices be brought so prominently before the people of the interior of the State.

A Veteran Singer.

Nym Crinkle, in writing of Mario, says: I saw him on Broadway the other morning. He walks down the dear, delightful street every morning for the air, though I can't see what he finds in the air that is rejuvenating; can you? And the old veteran, worn and seamed with a quarter of a century's tussle with managers, looked as hale and hearty as could be expected.

He hasn't altered in a hair; but is just the same magnificent and lordly child that he was twenty years ago. He still believes with innocent credulity that the world was constructed and peopled with direct reference to his comfort. And he smiled benignantly and gratefully upon the rich stores and the sumptuous ladies much as a prince smiles upon the flowers and flags and arches that his subjects prepare for him.

Something of the lover there is still in his bearing; that amatory grace so peculiarly Italian—the romanza softness and sensuousness that age cannot wither.

Effective Scene.

The Titusville Press says: "The scene in the Court-room when Laura Fair was acquitted caused even the statue of justice on the wall behind the Judge to shed tears until the frag over her eyes was dripping with brine. The prisoner, supported by Judge Curtis' arm, which was around her waist, her little white hand that pulled the trigger on Crittenden clasped by one of her counsel. The twelve jurymen, slobbering and snuffing, the lawyers shaking with suppressed sobs, all served to make a picture as sad as it was touching; and many a woman went from the Court-room filled with a higher resolve to horse-pistol some men, look pale, faint away, and get her name in print.

The Question of To-day.

The question asked to-day is "Have you seen George?" You ungrammatically ask, 'George who?" and the answer is "George Brotherton." It is supposed that the Brotherton Brothers have gone on a lecturing our.

A Free Hearted Invitation.

Joaquin Miller is known as the most liberal, free hearted men alive. Witness the invitation he gave the reporter of the New York Sun:

"Come to the Pacific Coast and stay a month. JOAQUIN MILLER."

Some men would have worded that invitation differently. They would say "come and stay with me a month at the Grand Hotel," ",come and stay at my house," or something of that sort. Not so Joaquin Miller; there's nothing mean about him; he gives a man the range of the Pacific Coast; he doesn't limit him to any particular locality; he can stay all over the Pacific Coast. We rather fancy that Joaquin had a thousand or so of those invitation cards printed and scattered them broadcast in New York. We don't fancy though that there will be any appreciable increase in the immigration to the Pacific Coast in consequence. Those invitations won't pass a man free on the railroad, (though, perhaps Joaquin thought they would), and they wouldn't be good even for a square meal when Mr. Joaquin Miller's guest arrived in San Francisco. But we don't blame Joaquin; he can't help being free and liberal. He has given away all the game on the Pacific Coast to those Eastern people, and now all they have to do is to come and get it—and the horses they are welcome to all the horses, and they can come and stay with Joaquin Miller on the Pacific Coast for a month.. They can all come, thousands of them, and they won't be a bit crowded. A princely fellow is Joaquin; he feels like a prince as he is now deadheadedly gliding over the track on the way to California.

A Hint for the Supervisors.

The Supervisors of San Francisco meet, we believe, every Monday evening, and talk and pass orders for street work and occupy their time in other ways. Wouldn't it be a good plan for them some evening to do something useful? We submit the following to them as the basis of a new ordinance which they might pass with good effect: Under the new British license any landlord who permits drunkenness or riotous conduct in his house is liable to a fine of £10 for the first, and £20 for the second offense. The same penalties apply where disreputable persons are knowingly permitted to frequent the premises; while gaming is prohibited in all public houses by still more severe penalties. All offenses are indorsed on the back of the license, and a certain number of offenses forfeits the license, and renders the holder incapable of holding another for a certain number of years. We suppose this would be altogether too practical a thing for our Supervisors to do.

Mrs. Joaquin Miller's Lecture.

Under the above title, the St. Louis Democrat has the following:

The report of Mrs. Joaquin Miller's lecture in the San Francisco papers, fulfills the promise of her letter published some months ago, in which, speaking of her husband, she said the world might "know him by his epic heroes"—Kit Carson, et al. The lecture is keenly satirical and merciless in the exposure of the poet's selfishness, heartlessness and absurd foibles. She tells the story of their courtship in a very taking way, confessing, with delicious candor, her own folly. Mrs. Miller's lecture proves her a woman of rare talent for saying the severest things in a particularly "neat" way. She stabs adroitly, and the point of the blade finds a joint in Joaquin's armor every time she strikes.

Progress of Education.

The man who never reads the papers is earning a comfortable living by getting on juries. He has stopped sending his children to school, preferring to instil into their young minds his own progressive principles.

A Matrimonial Broker.

An old Pole in New York is well known to the frequenters of the Atlantic and Pacific beer gardens, in the Bowery, as a matrimonial agent. If he sees a young man whom he imagines to be a good matrimonial subject, he seats himself by his side and ingratiates himself into his good will. He treats to beer and cigars, and learns if the young man is married, and if not draws gradually from him his occupation, means and prospects. On learning that he would like a wife he shortly disappears and soon returns with a young lady on his arm. After another conversation upon general subjects with the young man, he casually introduces him to the young lady, who becomes conversational and renders herself agreeable. On finding the young man interested, he leaves the couple, and if an engagement ensues he obtains a commission from either one or both. He makes the acquaintance of women of all ages, equally with men, and in the case of young ladies, negotiates very considerably with mothers or chaperons. On the side of the gentlemen he does not confine himself solely to the young, but has candidates for matrimony of all ages on his list. The ceremonies under his auspices are nearly always economically performed by police justices.

"Seedy."

After a drunk a man is very apt to feel seedy. That is the worst of it. The drunk is pleasant enough but the effect of the drink after exhilaration is gone is detestable. Magic Conserves are incomparably better in this respect. Not only do they produce a pleasing exhilaration, but after that direct effect has gone off, a man feels strong as a lion, invigorated in a remarkable degree. He feels that he has taken something which has done him good. No man ever complained of feeling "seedy" after taking the wonderful life-giving hasheesh

Getting Satisfaction.

A Cleveland man waited at the foot of the stairs until the lawyer whom his wife had been consulting about a divorce came along to go to dinner, and then pitched at him, but in five minutes he was the worst used up man in the city, while the lawyer walked off with unruffled composure.

Live Well.

Those who eat good dinners are amiable. Bad feeding is the cause of many crimes. Those who dine at the Pioneer Restaurant, on Washington street, at the corner of Dunbar Alley, live well, and are consequently happy. Henry Booken, who has catered for the public since 1849, provides for his customers Lake Tahoe trout, Salmagundi soup, game, tame geese, delicious entrees, and everything the heart of man can desire. The best cup of tea in the city—English breakfast tea—Sonobong and Orange Pekoe—can be obtained here. B

Mme. Le Normand, who tells fortunes on the European Plan, is the most highly accomplished and versatile lady in this line of business—give her a call at her new rooms, North-West corner of Kearny and Sacramento street. L

Oyster Trade.

The oyster trade in California is assuming gigantic proportions. Emerson Corville, of the Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, furnishes from his own oyster beds at San Bruno millions of oysters to all parts of the Pacific Coast. His Eastern transplanted oysters have a fame which has extended all over the continent, and "he 'Saddle Rock" is known everywhere.

REOPENING

DR. BARLOW J. SMITH

ANNOUNCES THAT THE RECENT EXTENsive additions and improvements to his HYGIENE HOME WATER-CURE and PHRENOLOGICAL INSTITUTE, 637 California street, are completed. To his original premises have been added an entirely new and elegant three-story brick structure, a new and commodious lecture hall, a lofty and spacious dining hall, and cosy, comfortable bath-rooms in almost endless variety, with all the most modern, scientific and complete appliances for administering every conceivable description of medical baths, among which may be mentioned the electro-thermal, the electro-sitz, the electro-vapor, the electro-Russian, the electro-Turkish, Sulphur Mercurial, Iodine and other medicated baths; also an entirely new bath, invented by Dr. Smith, which he has named the American baths. It combines all the advantages of the Russian and Turkish, together with the electric spray and other appliances peculiar to itself, making it superior to any other hydropathic application now in use. The spacious parlors and other multiplied appliances for promoting the health and comfort of patients combine to constitute DR. SMITH'S HYGIENE HOME WATER CURE by far the most complete Hygiene Establishment on the Pacific Slope, and affords to the sick and suffering of both sexes the surest, speediest and cheapest means of cure to be found anywhere West of the Rocky mountains. Hygienic board and a comfortable home for all who desire them.

Amusing Mistakes.

Advertisers are adepts at ambiguity. A lady advertises her desire to obtain a husband "with a Roman nose with strong religious tendencies." "A spinster particularly fond of children" informs the public that she "wishes for two or three, having none of her own." A Boston chemist advertises:—"The gentleman who left his stomach for analysis will please call and get it, together with the result." Slip shod English is not, however, confined to the advertisement columns, or we should not be able to read of the shooting of a wild oat "by a little boy five feet eight inches long;" of a procession, which "was very fine, and nearly two miles in length, as was also the prayer of Mr. Perry, the chaplain." Nor should we be much scandalized to note the fact, that "Miss Cory named the ship yesterday, and she was quietly warped out to her moorings in the river by ropes." A paper, dilating upon the success attained by a "self made man," said he arrived in California twenty years ago with only one shirt on his back; and since then has contrived by close application to business to accumulate over ten millions." President Taylor's celebrated bull: "We are at peace with all the world, and continue to cherish relations of amity with the rest of the mankind," is pretty fairly matched by one perpetrated by an English theatrical paper, which, after announcing a forthcoming benefit performance, went on: "Of course, everyone will be there, and for the edification of those who are absent, a full report will be found in our next paper."

Hard on the Lawyers.

An attorney in Mr. Beecher's company, once asked him, "Supposing that the parsons and the devil should litigate a cause, which party do you think would gain it?" "The devil, no doubt," replied Mr. Beecher; "as he would have all the lawyers on his side."

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of waters bright, did make a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
"Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here—
It looks so nice—and try their cheer,".
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins;
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again.

LETTER FROM CHICAGO.

[FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.]

CHICAGO, October 25, 1872.

DEAR FIGARO:—The completion of three new theatres within less than a month added to the places of amusements in Chicago, cosy and commodious. For the most part our theatres have had an unprecedentedly favorable week. The following being the record since my last letter:

ACADEMY OF MUSIC.

Saturday evening, October 9th, "Jezebel" and "Magic Toys;" in the last piece Miss Alexander made her debut before a Chicago audience. It was a success in every respect, she being encored very often in her dances. This week, commencing Monday, 21st, Mrs. Henrietta Chanfrau, reputed the best emotional actress of the day, occupied the stage, appearing in Mr. C. W. Tayleure's French version of "East Lynne," adapted expressly for her by him. Monday 28th, Mrs. Chanfrau will appear in a entirely new role, "Marriage and its Shadows," to be followed by "Christie Johnson" and "A Sheep in Wolf's Clothing."

M'VICKER'S THEATRE.

"Saratoga" has been the attraction this week, drawing very good houses. On the 27th, Maggie Mitchell makes her first appearance; the opening play will be "Jane Eyre," followed by "Fanchon."

HOOLEY'S OPERA HOUSE.

This theatre was thrown open to the public on the 19th inst., by the prince of managers, R. M. Hooley. It seems Mr. Hooley knows the taste of the Chicagoans. His new building is situated in a central locality, in the new Sherman House Block on Randolph street. The interior of the building is somewhat in style like his former theatre, but a little more commodious. Entrance 70x20; auditorium, 11x65; stage, 45x62; height from parquette floor to ceiling 60, and from stage to fly gallery, 70 feet. The great Abbott-Kiralfy pantomime and ballet troupe opened this theatre, and will continue to be the attraction. Next week they will appear in the "Three Hunchbacks."

MEYER'S OPERA HOUSE.

The Arlington Minstrels are yet the cards t this house; new faces come and go every week.

NIXON'S AMPHITHEATRE.

The Maffit and Bartholomew Pantomime Troupe made their appearance on Monday, 19th, in "Flick and Flock." Monday, 27th, a new pantomime will be produced with some very startling tricks.

M'EVOY'S HIBERNICON.

This panorama and variety performance continues for the week at the Halstead-street Opera House. Those who used to wear the green are reminded of home, they say, but people respond and they see a good deal. In their commencement things began to look gloomy to them; before the week was ended, by judicious advertising they drew good audiences. Respectable people were prejudiced against a place where were formerly given low class performances. They close the season on Saturday, and again the house will be closed.

AIKEN'S THEATRE.

"Flower Girl of Paris," "Prima Donna for a Night," and "Flaming Sacrifice," are the attractions for this week. Mrs. Oates leaves us at the close of this week's engagement much to the regret of her many admirers and personal friends. This evening—Friday—Mrs. Oates will take her benefit, on which occasion will be presented "The Flower Girl of Paris." Saturday evening "The Child of the Regiment." Frank E. Aiken will soon appear in his stand-by play, "The Ticket of Leave Man," appearing on Oct. 27th as Bob Brierly. Mr. Aiken has no superior on the American stage in this part.

GLOBE THEATRE.

At this popular theatre Charley Benedict Pete Lee, Master Berney, Will Carlton, Jennie Gibson, Miss Rette Remich and Miss Clara Leontine keep the patrons of this house in laughter and amusement.

KNOPPELL CONCERTS.

A series of concerts have been given by Mr. Knoppel here in this city, generally appearing in the Michigan-avenue Baptist Church. They are a success whenever given; on the 23d was the last one.

VARIA CONCERTS.

Madame Varia, who has appeared in our concert rooms on several occasions, will give a concert at Central Hall October 24th She is ably supported by Signor Francisco Bartolini and a Polish pianist, Dr. Kielinski.

MISCELLANEOUS.

We are to have the Patti-Mario Concerts in November, Rubenstein and Wieniawski in December, Thomas again February, and in May the Jarret troupe and the Aimee opera bouffe party. The lucky managers who have engaged these attractions cannot be mentioned at present, but who they are I will make known as soon as possible.

The Thespian is the name of a bright and attractive appearing dramatic journal which made its appearance on our streets last week It is ably edited, and, I presume, ably backed.

The Probable Reason.

The N. Y. Commercial Advertiser says:

The Brooklyn Eagle has a spite against Shakspeare. Last year it said he was "much overrated." This year it says his "Thoughts are sometimes majestic, and his puns are puerile." Authorities differ as to the origin of this animosity, but it is generally thought the descendants of Shakspeare's maternal aunt are engaged in a secret conspiracy to start another Democratic paper in Kings county.

Getting Satisfaction.

A Cleveland man waited at the foot of the stairs until the lawyer whom his wife had been consulting about a divorce came along to go to dinner, and then pitched at him, but in five minutes he was the worst used up man in the city, while the lawyer walked off with unruffled composure.

Cheerful Man.

Smith—"By-the-by, Jones, where's your brother Tom? Ain't seen him lately." Jones.—"Tom? Not heard, eh? Dead! Buried him yesterday." Smith.—"God bless my soul! Buried yesterday? Well, he had a deuced fine day for it!"

Progress of Education.

The man who never reads the papers is earning a comfortable living by getting on juries. He has stopped sending his children to school, preferring to instil into their young minds his own progressive principles.

Horrible Reflection.

A Danburyman's horror at the prospect of being crushed to death by a team of frightened horses, was terribly intensified by the reflection that "he was standing on the verge of eternity without a dollar in his pocket."

Robert Hall defines fanaticism as "such an overwhelming impression of ideas relating to the future world as disqualifies one for the duties of life."

Live Well.

Those who eat good dinners are amiable. Bad feeding is the cause of many crimes. Those who dine at the Pioneer Restaurant, on Washington street, at the corner of Dunbar Alley, live well, and are consequently happy. Henry Booken, who has catered for the public since 1849, provides for his customers Lake Tahoe trout, Salmagundi soup, game, tame geese, delicious entrees, and everything the heart of man can desire. The best cup of tea in the city—English breakfast tea—Sonchong and Orange Pekoe—can be obtained here. s

Pause, Gentle Reader,

And peruse this notice. It will inform you that Meyers, of the White House Restaurant, Kearny street, has reopened, and thoroughly renovated the Eclipse Restaurant, 204 and 206 Fourth street, between Howard and Folsom, under the name of the Capitol Restaurant. Mr. Meyers begs to invite the patronage of the residents in the neighborhood and public in general, and assures them that he intends to provide the very best the market affords at Popular Prices—viz: three 12½ cent dishes for 25 cents. B

MRS. RIORDAN has just returned from the East with the most choice and elegant stock of Fall Millinery goods ever exhibited in San Francisco, which she has selected with the greatest care. Ladies will do well to call and xamine before purchasing elsewhere. Q

REOPENING

DR. BARLOW J. SMITH

ANNOUNCES THAT THE RECENT EXTENSIVE additions and improvements to his HYGIENE HOME WATER-CURE and PHRENOLOGICAL INSTITUTE, 637 California street, are completed. To his original premises have been added an entirely new and elegant three-story brick structure, a new and commodious lecture hall, a infirmary and spacious dining hall, and cosy, comfortable bath-rooms in almost endless variety, with all the most modern, eclectic and complete appliances for administering every conceivable description of medical baths, among which may be mentioned the electro-thermal, the electro-sitz, the electro-vapor, the electro-Russian, the electro-Turkish, Sulpher Mercurial, Iodine and other medicated baths; also an entirely new bath, invented by Dr. Smith, which he has named the American bath. It combines all the advantages of the Russian and Turkish, together with the electric spray and other appliances peculiar to itself, making it superior to any other hydropathic application now in use. The spacious parlors and other multiplied appliances for promoting the health and comfort of patients combine to constitute DR. SMITH'S HYGIENE HOME WATER CURE by far the most complete Hygiene Establishment on the Pacific Slope, and affords to the sick and suffering of both sexes the surest, speediest and cheapest means of cure to be found anywhere West of the Rocky mountains. AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

California Theatre.

The very amusing comedy of "Saratoga" drew another large house last night. Whatever may be said against this play as a literary production, it is decidedly "smart" and makes people laugh. To-night the long promised opera of "L'Africaine" will be produced with a largely augmented company, chorus and orchestra, and new and magnificent scenery and costumes. The cast is as follows: Selica, Inez Fabbri; Inez, Anna Elzer; Vasco di Gama, Pietro Baccei; Don Alvar, Mons. Charise; Pedro, Mons. Roncoveri; Diego, Herr Scherer; Grand Inquisitor, Herr Rethwisch; Anna, Miss Mora; Nelusco, Jacob Muller. Seats can be secured to-day from 10 till 4 o'clock at the California Theatre. Those who do not secure seats will have but little chance of witnessing the first performance of this opera.

Alhambra.

A full synopsis of the very interesting sensation drama of "Chris and Lena," in which Messrs. Baker and Farron made such a hit, appears on our first page. The capital acting of Baker and the us singing of Farron are the talk of the town. All should see this play before it is withdrawn.

The election returns will be read from the stage by Bob Hart this evening every half hour, so that all who attend the Alhambra may be posted as to the results.

Bella Union.

For variety and excellence the entertainment given at this house can scarcely be surpassed. First part, interlude and afterpiece are all bright and amusing. The full programme appears on our first page, and gives promise of a capital evening's amusement to those who visit the Bella Union Theatre this evening.

The Athenenm.

Lon McCarthy, Carrie Chapman, Billy Smith, song and dance artist, Maggie Brewer and a host of others will appear to-night in a varied programme.

Woodward's Gardens.

The usual large attendance was drawn last Sunday—upwards of eight thousand. The Fire King gave his last performances; Prof. Payton did some wonderful feats of glass blowing in the new Polytechnic Hall, turning out full-rigged ships, making birds, pens, and other objects with wonderful facility. Prof. Payton will give exhibitions every day this week. Next Sunday Prof. Samwells and his trained dogs and monkeys will appear.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kin [illegible] in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

F. Lodwick Robinson.

This gentleman, better known as "Yankee Robinson," of late years in the circus business, is playing an engagement in Yankee characters at the Metropolitan Theatre. Mr. Robinson's stage Yankee is fully up to the standard of such characters presented by his predecessors in the business, and is well worth seeing.

Johnny Allen and Alice Harrison.

All theatre-goers who remember the humor of Johnny Allen in "Schneider," and his famous bouncing scene, and the sprightly Alice Harrison, who played an engagement with him in this city last year, will be glad to learn that Manager Maguire has effected an engagement with them for the Alhambra. "Little Mac," one of the oddest performers that ever appeared on a stage, who is now in the Allen combination, will also appear with them at the Alhambra. They will commence their engagement some time next month, and will present, unitedly, a very strong attraction. Their engagements in Milwaukee and other Western cities have drawn immensely, and their piece, "Dot Hones von der Rhine," is everywhere well spoken of.

The Fabbri Opera Troupe.

In consequence of the engagement of Mrs. F. S. Chanfrau, which will commence on the 18th, the Fabbri opera season will close after three nights more.

"Saratoga."

There can be only six more performances of "Saratoga." The management announce that Mrs. F. S Chanfrau's engagement at the California Theatre will commence on the 18th.

The Election.

Everything is very quiet around the polls. The new law works like a charm. Its provision preventing all ticket-vending solicitors from approaching within one hundred feet of the polls has put an extinguisher on ward ticket gutter-snipes and political bummers. The ruddy light of his nose gleams not around the polls this morning. The familiar sounds of his "rich bronge" is heard no more, and the days of ward political bummers are gone.

Oyster Trade.

The oyster trade in California is assuming gigantic proportions. Emerson Corville, of the Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, furnishes from his own oyster beds at San Bruno millions of oysters to all parts of the Pacific Coast. His Eastern transplanted oysters have a fame which has extended all over the continent, and the "Saddle Rock" is known everywhere.

ISRAEL, THE ISRAELITE'S, DAUGHTER.

MATRIMONIAL—THE ADVERTISER, a gentleman of the Hebrew faith, of the most respectable social standing, and in good circumstances, but living somewhat retired and quiet, conscious of the purity of his motives and the high integrity of his acts, has no hesitation in adopting this mode of announcing his desire to have introduced to him some respectable and HONORABLE MAN of the same faith as himself, to whom he could give his daughter in marriage. Riches are of course acceptable, but an honorable man with a start in life will not be objected to. The advertiser thinks it as well to state that his child is—if not a perfect beauty—very good looking, young, well educated, of domestic habits, and brought up to walk in the right path. Communications will be received and attended to with all the sacred honor which the subject is entitled to. Address "Israel, the Israelite," Hebrew office, San Francisco.—[Advertisement in the Hebrew.

Israel, the Israelite,
Some good Hebrew does invite
To come and wed his daughter,
Israel has goods to sell,
To advertise he knows is well;
A man who will support her
He wishes for his Rachel dear,
And now he searches far and near,
And it is not surprising
The means he takes to find a man
Who fill his fondest wishes can,
Should be plain advertising.
Rachel still is young and fair,
Jet black eyes and raven hair,
If not a perfect beauty,
Her education's good, he says,
To him she all attention pays
And always does her duty,
Israel, the Israelite,
In this course is not quite right
To get his daughter married;
He takes a very curious way,
And people will most surely say
He should have longer tarried
In quiet and retired life,
Until some man should seek a wife
His highly praised up daughter,
In making such unseemly haste
Israel has shown a want of taste
Condemned in every quarter.
Poor Rachel it did much surprise
That Israel should advertise
To get for her a lover,
For Rachel has at least a score
To whom her father's shown the door,
And why, she can't discover.
Israel should get an auctioneer,
Put up for sale his daughter dear,
And let the highest bidder
For her and all her varied charms
Receive her in his loving arms.
Oh, Israel, the Israelite,
When you that notice did indite
You only thought of money;
All lovers poor you've shown the door,
Which Rachel thinks is funny.
You fain would find a Hebrew spouse
To Rachel fair to pay his vows;
Beware of a Lorenzo!
Blonde, brave and bold;
Rachel, I'm told,
Vows she loves Christians, when so.

The Significant Hat.

In the time of Gessler and William Tell there was much significance in a hat. So it is now. The first thing that attracts the eye is the hat. Therefore buy fashionable hat at "The" Hat Store, 647 Washington street, below Kearny.

Health and Pleasure.

There are not too many pleasures in San Francisco. Nothing is more pleasant, nothing more health-giving than a drive into the country now and then. Those who cannot afford to keep a carriage of their own, can find one equal in elegance to any private conveyance at the Occidental Carriage stand. Frank Bouton has there, and at his stables 1016 Stockton street, carriages of every description. His drivers are careful and experienced, his charges are moderate. The moral of the above is: go to Frank Bouton at the Occidental Hotel when you want a carriage. O

The Tortures of Love.

It's useless denying that love is a torturing demon. But that's no reason why the afflicted should impart his agony to the rest of the world, and make them greater sufferers than he is. There's a fellow in the city who parades Minna street at about eleven o'clock at night, playing on an accordeon, and singing "Ever of thee I'm fondly, fondly dreaming." If he would only go home and do his dreaming in a respectable way, he would confer a favor on several people who have an idea that a first-class idiot should keep himself shut up as much as possible—especially at the month.

The Rising Generation.

TAXES. TAXES.
1872-73.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT A CERTIFIED copy of the Assessment Book of the taxable property of the City and County of San Francisco,

Real Estate and Personal Property

For the fiscal year 1872-73, has this day been received; that the State, City and County Taxes for said fiscal year are now due and payable at the office of the undersigned (Room No. 1, City Hall); and that the laws in regard to their collection will be strictly enforced.

Taxes will become DELINQUENT on the FIRST MONDAY IN JANUARY, 1873, and unless paid prior thereto, five per cent., will be added to the amount thereof. A. AUSTIN,

Tax Collector of the City and County of San Francisco. oc29-td

DR. CHAS. H. TOZER'S
PRIVATE MEDICAL INSTITUTE

N.E. cor. Jackson and Kearny sts.

THE GREAT ERADICATOR OF SPECIAL COMPLAINTS, formerly of Lock Hospital London, and the last twelve years of San Francisco. DR. TOZER informs the afflicted that after visiting all the HOSPITALS IN LONDON AND PARIS and spending one year in the most celebrated Hospital in London, the LOCK, he has re-opened his old Medical Institute at the old stand, where he can always be found. DR. TOZER has for forty years met with unparalleled success in the treatment of disease generally known as CHRONIC AND SPECIAL COMPLAINTS.

DR. CHAS. H. TOZER

is in every way responsible, binding himself to effect a permanent CURE, or making no charges. Those who cannot afford to pay for advice and medicine will be charged for medicine only. THE MONTHLY RESTORATIVE PILLS, never known to fail in giving relief in cases for which they are recommended, are to be obtained only at my office. Price $5 per box. Full direction on each box, sent by Express or otherwise.

DR. TOZER does not imitate the advertising Quacks who make it a practice to publish false affidavits and other false references, but refers to the most respectable people in the State, whom he has CURED of diseases which others have failed to cure.

TO TAXPAYERS.

Taxes Due October 28th,

Delinquent Jan. 6th, 1872.

THE USUAL DELAY, CONFUSION AND annoyance experienced by Taxpayers will be much increased this year, as both PERSONAL and REAL PROPERTY has to be paid upon at the same time.

This being the case, the undersigned would most respectfully suggest that Taxpayers furnish this office with a schedule of their property at an early day. Where there have been no changes, the Tax Bills of any previous year are the most convenient and correct memoranda.

Mrs. Minnie Myrtle Miller.

We have received from the great photographic establishment of Bradley & Rulofson, two beautifully executed cabinet pictures of Mrs. Minnie Myrtle Miller. The likeness is admirable and as specimens of photographic art the pictures are perfect. Messrs. Bradley & Rulofson capture every celebrity, male or female, as soon as he or she arrives in San Francisco, and take their likenesses. Mr. Rulofson is irresistible and illustrious strangers go to have their likenesses taken by him as a matter of course, some of them imagining that there is a law compelling them to do so. The custom is a good one and we hope it will be perpetuated. The fact that Mrs. Miller has prepared and will deliver another lecture on "Joaquin Miller, the Poet and the Man," at Pacific Hall, on Tuesday next, renders her a general subject of conversation. The pictures by Bradley & Rulofson come opportunely to gratify the curiosity of many who wish to form an idea of the personal appearance of one of whom they have heard and read so much.

Sweet Infant.

Jenny is five years old. Her uncle gave her a four-bit doll the other day. Jenny cherished her doll with all a mother's affection. The other day she was nursing it on her knees; she started suddenly, the doll fell, and the head was broken off. Jenny was overcome with grief at this misfortune, and looked aghast at her poor headless doll; then raising her eyes, she said with a sigh of resignation, "Another little angel in heaven!"

Not a Pet Name.

The young man who gallantly tried to escort a lady across Market street, carries his eye in a sling. His method of escorting wasn't that usual with the high-toned. He merely said: "Yinel don't you hurry up?" The reason of her anger was probably the unusual name he gave her. Her real name is Hoodlumina, and she didn't like to be called out of it.

Fiendish Cruelty.

The San Francisco Press are with characteristic brutality, hounding poor Mrs. Fair because she wrote to the clerk of the Fifteenth District Court, asking him to return her pistol. They go so far as to hint that Mrs. Fair has further use for this weapon. This is cruelly unkind. She simply desires to retain it as a memento. She says that pistol is sacred. If she has to shoot a man she will never, no never use that pistol with which she shot poor dear Crittenden. Gentlemen of the Press, do give Mrs. Fair credit for a little feeling.

Not a Doubt of It.

Says the Woman's Journal: "If half of the jury had been women, in accordance with the spirit of the law, Mrs. Fair would most probably have been convicted." Certainly she would. No women approve of wasting men by shooting them; they are not too plentiful. Besides Mr. Crittenden was not Mrs. Fair's husband, so she had no right to shoot him. Oh, she'd have swung safe enough if she had been tried by women. Would that she had been!

Too Busy.

A strong-minded woman in Detroit made the following gentle reply to a politician who had called at her house to get her husband to go to the polls and vote. "No, sir, he can't go. He's washing now, and he's got to iron to-morrow, and if he wasn't doing anything he couldn't go. I run this 'ere house, I do, and if anyone votes it'll be this same Mary Jane."

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of waters bright, did make a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
"Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here—
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins;
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again,
Pacific Oyster House, 337 Bush street, above Montgomery; open Day and Night.

CHARLES HAAKE, Proprietor.

To Those who Are Bald.

Great Triumph of the Republican Party.

[The following editorial will probably appear in the Bulletin to-night if its author can remember it. We obtained possession of the original MS. by means we do not care to mention, and publish it in advance.]

California has nobly asserted itself. Grant the leader of the victorious armies of the Union is elected and Colorado is defeated. Had Colorado succeeded, then indeed would the brave soldiers of the Union have shed their blood in vain. But we are spared this disgrace. Horace Colorado, the nation's buffoon, will not tax the people of this city $5,000,000,000,000. Nobly did the people of San Francisco gird up their loins to the work and the victory is theirs. Had Colorado succeeded the ghosts of millions of millions of Union soldiers would have started in horror from their graves. While the ghoul-like Stanford would have revelled in the fructification of the league with hell, the cry of the widow and the orphan would have been heard throughout the land. But we are saved. The machinations of Colorado and Stanford are defeated and our glorious standard bearers, Grant and Wilson, march boldly on with the motto, "No Subsidy" emblazoned on their banners. It is a proud day for San Francisco. We do not say how much this victory is owing to the Bulletin and the Call (both daily) we leave our readers to do that. Perhaps—we say perhaps—it is mainly owing to the efforts of these two independent journals (both daily)—yes, to them it is owing that Colorado and Stanford, a hydra-headed despot, does not stretch forth his devil-fish-like talons and suck the vitality from the emaciated body of this State——[A portion of the MS. is torn. The remaining fragments are something like this:]——Colorado...... 000,000......$......Hor......Col......Bul ......Cal......desp......ghoul......freedom......Bul......Stanf.... .

[We hope to see this powerful article published in full in the Bulletin this evening, and shall delay the publication of FIGARO in order that it may be.]

Sour Milk Episode.

A morning or two since, says the St. Louis Globe, the head of a family in this city—a very respectable old gent—took a look into the kitchen at a very early hour, and fancying he discovered some sour milk in a jug, rather pettishly threw it into a slop bucket. In a few minutes his wife entered.

"What did you leave sour milk in the jug for?" he demanded.

"Sour milk?"

"Yes, sour milk, and I threw it out."

"You did?"

"Yes, I did."

"Well," rejoined the lady of the house, "all I've got to say is, you'll get no hot rolls for breakfast, for you've thrown out my yeast!"

The jug was smashed into a thousand pieces, and it is unsafe to say "sour milk" to that rather high-tempered old gentleman.

Came Out Ahead.

An Illinois woman and her husband have had a passage at arms. She used buck-shot, he stove-wood. The coroner decided that the superiority lay with the former.

Terrible to Think of.

A Washburn, Ill., girl of eight years has shot her two-year old niece in the mouth. If at her tender years she is such an intrepid aunt, what a mother-in-law she'll make when she grows up!

Mean.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS

$4,000 REWARD!

U. S. Gold Coin,

FOR THE CAPTURE OF THE BODIES OF GEO. CLARK BROTHERTON and LEWIS CARROLL BROTHERTON, escaped convicts from County Jail of San Francisco, November 3d, 1872, under sentence of twelve years imprisonment in the State Prison for forgery.

The above reward will be paid to any officer or person for the recapture of the above-named escaped convicts, or the sum of two thousand dollars for the capture and delivery of either of them to me, at my office in the city of San Francisco, California.

GEORGE CLARK BROTHERTON was indicted under the name of William Hughes, with Peter Burns, for forgery, in Philadelphia, Penn., October, 1867. Also indicted with John and Peter Burns, and turned State's evidence against them and secured their conviction.

In Versailles, Kentucky, in August, 1870, he was also indicted for forgery, under the name of G. W. Martin, alias Hughes.

In Hamilton county, Ohio, in June, 1870, he was also indicted under the name of Francis Hughes, alias Frank Hughes, with one Keiser, W. McNair and George Wilks, for forgery.

Description of Geo. Clark Brotherton.

He is a native of Pennsylvania; age, 31 years; height, 5 feet 9¾ inches (in stockings); occupation, printer; complexion, light, inclined to sallow; eyes, blue; hair, light brown; low, receding forehead; no beard—can't raise any to speak of; small scar on right cheek bone; small scar on left eye-brow; three vaccination marks on left upper arm; several blue spots on left lower arm; a dim, blue spot at base of left thumb, and one on back of left hand; stout built, square shoulders, very muscular appearance.

Description of Lewis Carroll Brotherton

He is a native of Pennsylvania; age, 28 years; occupation, printer; height, five feet seven inches (in stockings;) complexion, light; eyes, blue; hair, light brown, low forehead, slightly projecting; heavy eyebrows, blue mark on left lower arm; two vaccination marks on left upper arm; dim blue spot at base of left thumb; scar on back of left hand; blue spot on right lower arm; clean shaved at time of escape; can't raise much beard at any time; medium build. DR. BARLOW J. SMITH

ANNOUNCES THAT THE RECENT EXTENSIVE additions and improvements to his HYGIENE HOME WATER-CURE and PHRENOLOGICAL INSTITUTE, 637 California street, are completed. To his original premises have been added an entirely new and elegant three-story brick structure, a new and commodious lecture hall, a lofty and spacious dining hall, and cosy, comfortable bath-rooms in almost endless variety, with all the most modern, scientific and complete appliances for administering every conceivable description of medical baths, among which may be mentioned the electro-thermal, the electro-sitz, the electro-vapor, the electro-Russian, the electro-Turkish, Sulphur Mercurial, Iodine and other medicated baths; also an entirely new bath, invented by Dr. Smith, which he has named the American bathe. It combines all the advantages of the Russian and Turkish, together with the electric spray and other appliances peculiar to itself, making it superior to any other hydropathic application now in use. The spacious parlors and other multiplied appliances for promoting the health and comfort of patients combine to constitute DR. SMITH'S HYGIENE HOME WATER CURE by far the most complete Hygiene Establishment on the Pacific Slope, and affords to the sick and suffering of both sexes the surest, speediest and cheapest means of cure to be found anywhere West of the Rocky mountains. Hygienic board and a comfortable home for all who desire them.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

California Theatre.

A large audience was present last night when Meyerbeer's opera of "L'Africaine" was presented by the Fabbri Opera Troupe. Signora Inez Fabbri appeared to great advantage in the role of Selika, singing and acting beautifully; she rendered the berceuse in the second act with charming expression and was particularly effective in the death song at the conclusion of the opera. Miss Anna Elzer sang the role of Inez extremely well, reflecting infinite credit on her teacher, Professor Fabbri; Signor Pietro Baccei was in capital voice and sang finely in the role of Vasco di Gama, and Jacob Muller fairly revelled in that of Nelusco, the music of which displays his fine voice to good advantage, and acted the part with much vigor. He made a great success in the "Adamastor," and worked up the situation with artistic skill. The orchestra was very good and the chorus about as bad as could be imagined. "L'Africaine" will be performed again to-morrow night. To-night, the very lively comedy of "Saratoga" with its attractive scenes of life at a watering place will be presented, and will of course draw a good house.

Alhambra.

The rush to see those comical genius's, P. F. Baker and T. J. Farron, in their very lively play of "Chris and Lena," continues unabated. The first part which precedes the play is extremely good, and the entertainment presented can scarcely be surpassed.

Bella Union.

The company at this variety theatre is a very strong one, comprising such artistes as Mons. Schmidt and Madame Therase, Johnny Tuers, the most original of darkeys; J. H. Larkin and Carrie Armstrong, the clever Dutch character artistes; Ed. Montague, the celebrated gymnast, and many others. The full programme for to-night appears on our first page.

The Athenaum.

Billy Smith, the great song and dance artiste; Carrie Chapman, comedienne, vocalist, and danseuse; Lon McCarthy, Ethiopian comedian, Len Dixon, Maggie Brewer and a host of others will appear to-night.

Pacific Hall,

Tickets for Mrs. Minnie Myrtle Miller's new lecture on Joaquin Miller, to be delivered at Pacific Hall, on Tuesday next, are selling rapidly, and the hall will certainly be crowded with a large and fashionable audience. Seats can be reserved at the hall on Tuesday without extra charge.

Woodward's Gardens.

The usual large attendance was drawn last Sunday—upwards of eight thousand. The Fire King gave his last performances; Prof. Payton did some wonderful feats of glass blowing in the new Polytechnic Hall, turning out full-rigged ships, making birds, pens, and other objects with wonderful facility. Prof. Payton will give exhibitions every day this week. Next Sunday Prof. Samwells and his trained dogs and monkeys will appear.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

It Shall be Remedied.

The Dunkirk, N. Y., papers are grieving over the fact that no man has been murdered in that town in two years. Sooner than see the Dunkirkers without a sensation we shall send on one of our most artistic murderers to kill a few of the very prominent citizens. Dunkirk pines for a sensation, and it shall not be disappointed. On second thoughts we will send half a dozen who are going to be acquitted in the course of the next two months.

One Made Happy.

At the Iowa State Fair a reverend gentleman collected one hundred dollars for the conversion of the heathen, and a thief converted the money to his own use. The reverend man does not rejoice, but that one heathen does. Such is life.

How True!

The literary critic of the Boston Globe says he has "sometimes thought that, to a few clergymen, the desire to get into the papers during life was almost as strong as the desire to get into heaven after death."

An Old Landmark.

The Verandah Cigar Store, at the N. E. corner of Kearny and Washington streets, kept by Henry Schmidt, has been famous for the last eleven years for keeping the best Havana cigars, tobacco, choice meerschaum pipes, etc. F

Oyster Trade.

The oyster trade in California is assuming gigantic proportions. Emerson Corville, of the Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, furnishes from his own oyster beds at San Bruno millions of oysters to all parts of the Pacific Coast. His Eastern transplanted oysters have a fame which has extended all over the continent, and the "Saddle Rock" is known everywhere.

That Beggar Bates.

A party by the name of Bates, more commonly known as Sergeant Bates, whom the general public will recollect as having gone a progress through the Southern States since the war, carrying the Stars and Stripes in a region where the same were regarded with a certain amount of disfavor, has gone to Great Britain with the avowed intention of making a similar pilgrimage between Aberdeen and London. Mr. Bates does this for reasons wherein the leaven of impecuniosity largely prevails; indeed, it is charged by more than one respectable New York paper that Mr. Bates has gone upon nothing more than a regular begging expedition, and that the national banner is to be used by him much as an Italian organ-grinder avails himself of a monkey and makes capital out of popular predilections in the direction of natural history. We are mildly of the opinion that Mr. Bates ought to be appointed to a vacancy in some well-conducted alms-house, or be otherwise afforded inducements to proceed to honest labor. The spectacle of an indigent idiot proceeding along the highways of Her British Majesty's domain, in the uniform of a Sergeant of the U. S. A., waving the Star Spangled Banner before the eyes of her subjects and soliciting their coppers, hat in hand extended, is the reverse of gratifying. They will think that if Sergeant Bates has deserved so well of his country that he is entitled to be its standard-bearer, he should have been provided for at home, and not have been forced by his financial necessities to make a national spectacle of himself abroad. Any Anglo-Saxon who will "'eave 'arf a brick at 'im," and send the body and the flag home, C. O. D., will have our thanks and our sincere sympathy in any trouble he may thereby involve himself in. Bates ought certainly to be suppressed.

Systematized Applause,

The Paris Figaro informs us that a noted Parisian chef de claque, named Auguste, is dead, leaving behind him a fortune of $100,000 in gold, as the result of a lifetime of systematic plaudation. He was attached to the opera, and a well-drilled force of claqueurs and sous-claqueurs was attached to him. Given the premiere representation of an opera, Auguste would moderately applaud the first act, increase his acclamation during the second, third and fourth acts, and honor the fifth and concluding act with the full strength of his claque. He was in receipt of pensions from several celebrated actresses and opera singers. Curiously enough, he was supremely ignorant, and never understood a note of music in his life. He raised his art to the dignity of a science, and the technical terms which he used for the definition of nice distinctions in degree were legion. For example, in a letter of complaint which he addressed to M'lle Rachel, he mentions "acclamations," "hilarities," "shudders," "double-rounds," and "indefinite explosions."

Prospectively Rich.

Harvard University has been left $2,000 with the condition that it shan't be spent until, by interest, it amounts to $100,000. The present authorities of the College arn't likely to get rich in spending that money.

N. B.—Young gentlemen of elegant leisure will find in the figuring out of the time when the $2,000 will reach the required $100,000, a more exciting amusement than sucking a toothpick, or pinching the ears of a poodle dog.

Sad Fate of a Sheriff.

A Yankton (Dacotah) sheriff attached a show in that far-away country the other day, and while tacking up a "sale" notice on the elephant's hindquarters, which the official mistook for a small barn, the animal swung his tail around. And now when that county wants the services of a sheriff they'll have to elect one.

Squarza's Punches.

One of the most famous institutions of California is Squarza's Punch. It is found in every city, village and mining camp in the State. It is delicious, wholesome and unlike anything else. Climax of Hifalutin.

This is the way in which Mme. Rudersdorff struck an Oswego (N. Y.) youth: "To tell you how she sang would be impossible, but if one may compare an object of sight to one of sound, would say that her voice is like a rocket, which from the first bursts upon the sight with a magnificence that claims undivided attention, and in an instant carries your attention from earth to heaven, where it bursts into ten thousand orbs of glory that scintillate, each a separate gem, upon the blue empyrean, but burn each with a varied hue of beauty that at once distracts and commands attention, until they burst into a fleecy trail of stars that float down the vaulted sky, softly and slowly, until the sky seems overarched by a lacework of fire that droops earthward as it falls, growing thinner, finer, until the last expiring breath of a sigh is lost in the evening air."

A Youthful Satirist.

A farmer, whose cribs were full of corn, was accustomed to pray that the wants of the needy might be supplied, but when any one in needy circumstances asked for a little of his corn he said he had none to spare. One day, after hearing his father pray for the poor and needy, his little son said to him: "Father, I wish I had your corn." "Why, my son, what could you do with it?" The child replied: "I would answer your prayers."

She Wanted an Apple.

Health and Pleasure.

There are not too many pleasures in San Francisco. Nothing is more pleasant, nothing more health-giving than a drive into the country now and then. Those who cannot afford to keep a carriage of their own, can find one equal in elegance to any private conveyance at the Occidental Carriage stand. Frank Bouton has there, and at his stables 1016 Stockton street, carriages of every description. His drivers are careful and experienced, his charges are moderate. The Favorite Color.

Muffington has been reading Joaquin Miller's poems, and his criticism on it is that Joaquin is a plagiarist. Not only does he steal from Swinburne, Byron, Shelly, and all the other English poets, but the constant repetition of "round brown arms," "brown eyes," "brown hands," "brown Indians," "brown hats," etc., is suggestive of his having studied Browning.

California Theatre.

"Saratoga" drew a good house last night, and all present thoroughly enjoyed the complications into which Bob Sacket involved himself by making love to three ladies at the same time. To-night "L'Africaine" will be presented by the Fabbri Opera Troupe. The season of Italian Opera by this excellent troupe which has been so thoroughly enjoyed by the public is fast drawing to a close. As a matter of course the house will be crowded in every part. "L'Africaine" will be repeated on Sunday night.

Alhambra.

Messrs. P. F. Baker and T. J. Farron continue to delight large audiences nightly by their original songs and dances in the lively drama of "Chris and Lena." This is preceded by a good first part. To-morrow night J. G. Russell, the favorite baritone of the troupe will take his benefit and is sure to have a good house.

Bella Union.

The beautiful ballet of "Diana and the Satyr;" the trapeze act by Harry Clark and Ed. Montague; Johnny Tuer's sketch entitled "Mrs. Lane-her; or, who owns the Coin," and many amusing sketches, songs and burlesques will be presented to-night. On Saturday a play by Johnny Tuers entitled "Forgery; or, where are the Brotherton Brothers?" will be produced.

The Atheneum.

Among the many novelties in the programme at this house are the lively farce of "Tom and Jerry," in which Billy Smith, Johnny Kelly and Lon Dixon appear; a medley dance by Carrie Chapman, and the Ethiopian farce entitled "The Power of Music;" Miss Lydia Livingstone, vocalist and comedienne, and Miss May Leroy, the popular danseuse, will make their first appearance to-night.

Pacific Hall.

Tickets for Mrs. Minnie Myrtle Miller's new lecture on Joaquin Miller, to be delivered at Pacific Hall, on Tuesday next, are selling rapidly, and the hall will certainly be crowded with a large and fashionable audience. Seats can be reserved at the hall on Tuesday without extra charge.

Woodward's Gardens.

The usual large attendance was drawn last Sunday—upwards of eight thousand. The Fire King gave his last performances; Prof. Payton did some wonderful feats of glass blowing in the new Polytechnic Hall, turning out full-rigged ships, making birds, pens, and other objects with wonderful facility. Prof. Payton will give exhibitions every day this week. Next Sunday the Robinson-Conklin combination, with Prof. Semwells and his trained dogs and monkeys will appear.

City Gardens.

There will be a matinee at the City Gardens on Saturday. Niagara Leap, Spiral Mountain ascension, and other performances by the Baisleys. On Sunday, A. Baisley will make his last balloon ascension, carrying a horse attached to the balloon.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

How Joe Lost his Bet.

An old fellow named Joe Poole, very eccentric and an incorrigible stutterer, was a constant lounger at the tavern in Waterford, Me.

One day a traveler from a distant portion of the State arrived at the tavern, and was met by an old acquaintance, a resident of the town. After some conversation on different topics the traveller was addressed as follows:

"By the way, Brown, look out for old Poole to-night. You will know him quickly enough by his stuttering. He will be sure to come around and offer to bet you've not got a whole shirt to your back. If you take him up you will surely lose by a trick he's got. He invariably offers to lay his wager and always wins."

"Very well," said the travellor, "I'll not let him get ahead of me. Much obliged for the caution."

The evening arrived, and a large crowd collected in the bar room. Our friends were there, and old Joe Poole was present in his element.

"I'll t-tell you wh-what. You are nicely dressed, but I'll bet you ten dollars you haven't got a whole sh-shirt to your back.

"I'll take the bet," said the stranger; "put the money in the landlord's hand."

This being done, the traveler pulled off his coat, and was about following suit with his vest, when old Joe cried out:

"Ho-ho-hold on! You've lost. Ha-half your shirt is in front, and the other ha half is on your back."

There was a roar of laughter, but the new-comer did not mind it, and turning his back to Joe, displayed to his astonished gaze a shirt neatly folded and placed underneath his suspenders.

That settled it; Joe lost.

An Old Landmark.

Oyster Trade.

The oyster trade in California is assuming gigantic proportions. Emerson Corville, of the Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, furnishes from his own oyster beds at San Bruno millions of oysters to all parts of the Pacific Coast. His Eastern transplanted oysters have a fame which has extended all over the continent, and the "Saddle Rock" is known everywhere.

(FROM THE DANBURY NEWS)

The paper having the largest circulation—Cavendish.

The depraved are shaking dice over the bloody chasm for poultry.

You would think the Tribune was an "organ" if you could see its "stops."

Of a vindictive Stony Hill mule it is said; "His foot is against every man."

A Weston man succeeded in carrying his gold to the grave, by holding it in his teeth.

Depraved boys were out Sunday gathering chestnuts for pure boys to eat in school on Monday.

An enterprising Danbury woman has already afflicted the tin shops with a request for the "Creditmoh hiler."

A new boy at the South street school being asked if they had family prayer at his house promptly replied "No, but we have got four bay windows."

A matter-of-fact Danburian, being asked if he saw Rubenstein when in New York, vacantly responded: "Why, no! Was he looking for me?"

A gentleman to whom a lost pocket book was restored by a little boy, was so overcome by the honesty of the youth that he forgot to reward him.

A North street man was so blinded by the auroral display on Monday evening that he could hardly see to work at a cat he was skinning.

A young man who presented the young lady of his choice with a splendid tippit, was pierced to the heart's core on observing a rival young man wearing the same.

A Weston man's grief at the death of his father was in a great measure ameliorated by the intelligence that he had drawn a four dollar pin in a gift distribution.

A young man now staying in Danbury wants to get a position as captain in a base ball club. He has been blown up in a steam saw mill, married twice, and has lived in Bridgeport.

A Bethel man discovered that a stranger he rescued from a watery grave was not a long-lost brother, but a party to whom he owed three dollars and a half for turnips.

The body of a man was found near the New York and New Haven railroad, Monday. His name or residence could not be discovered, but upon examining his body a bullet proof vest and a sheet iron bustle were found. He was probably a book canvasser.

A North Main street man who has a beautiful daughter with an obnoxious suitor, got up in the night recently, and kicked him out of doors. When his anger had subsided he permitted his daughter to explain that he had footed the wrong man. He says now that he was walking in his sleep.

A candy-making party last night set a pan of hot molasses into the yard to cool, and on going for it several hours later, were astonished to observe an upright cat in the middle of it. The question is not so much how the cat got in, but how it is to be got from there. If any of our readers can suggest a plan we hope they will do so, as the owner of the cat is in a hurry.

During the first few days of the Wooster House drawing, a little chap with an abundance of hair and a scarcity of clothes was observed seated in a remote corner of the room. Whenever a number was called he turned up his ticket to the light and scanned its denomination. Not a word escaped him in all that time but the gutteral exclamation which invariably followed every examination of the ticket. It was remarkably brief, but it was right to the point, and seemed to cover the entire ground. It was simply one solitary word. It was "Helter-split!"

The Beauties of Nature.

The fair maids of Switzerland practice the air-cure, not only by breathing the pure mountain atmosphere, but by sitting on the slopes in the costume of Eve. The scenery of Switzerland is greatly admired.

Squarza's Punches.

One of the most famous institutions of California is Squarza's Punch. It is found in every city, village and mining camp in the State. It is delicious, wholesome and unlike anything else. The proprietor of this delightful beverage notifies his patrons that he has opened at No. 317 Kearny street, between Pine and Bush streets, a BRANCH of his old and popular symposium on Leidesdorff street.

MY DOG.

BY JOHN JAMIESON, M. D.

Died—and my heart died with him!
  Buried—what love lies there!
Gone forever and ever,
  No longer my life to share.
"Only a dog!" Yes—only!
  Yet these are bitter tears!
Weary, and heartsick, and lonely,
  I turn to the coming years.

Something that always loved me!
  Something that I could trust!
Something that cheered and soothed me,
  Is moldering here to dust!
Gentle, and faithful, and noble—
  Patient, and tender, and brave!
My pet, my playmate, my darling—
  And this is his lonely grave.

I go to my lonely chamber,
  And linger before the door—
There once was a loving welcome—
  I shall listen for that no more!
I sit by my blazing hearthstone,
  And lean my head on my hand—
The best of my wayward nature
  Lies low with the Newfoundland!

One plank—when the ship was sinking
  In a wild and stormy sea—
One star when the sky was darkened,
  Was the love of my dog to me!
A star that will shine no longer—
  A plank that has missed my hand;
And the ship may sail or founder—
  No wat her is on the strand.

I stood on my sunny uplands,
  This beautiful Autumn morn—
The crimson-leaved maple o'er me,
  Fronting the golden corn;
I hear the brook in the valley—
  It sings as it sang of yore—
But the faithful eyes that watched it
  Will answer mine no more.

Over these sunny uplands,
  And climbing the breezy hill,
I haunt the depths of the woodland,
  Lonely and silent still—
Silent and lonely always,
  I know that this life may be—
But—in the unseen future—
  What is in store for me?

Oh well may the Indian hunter
  Lie calm on his couch of skins
When the pain of this world ceases,
  And the joy of the next begin-!
On the "Great Spirit's" prairies,
  Under the blue skies of yore,
Will not his stud, and watch-dog,
  Answer his call once more?

Blue hunting grounds of the red man,
  Can not I dream the dream?
Surely my old companion
  But waits till I cross the stream!
Waits with a faithful yearning,
  Almost akin to pain—
Till in some lesser heaven
  He bounds to my feet again.

Worse and Worse.

We have not pitched into the Alta for some time past, not because it has not deserved it, but because we left off reading it. Picking up yesterday's issue, we noticed that it had not improved in its English. It commences an article on the South Pacific Slave Trade in the following manner:

There are in the Pacific a glaring and great villainy, and also a great and dominant power.

"There are a villainy" and "there are also a power"! Can anything be worse than that? We will back the editors of the Alta for writing the worst English ever printed.

Health and Pleasure.

There are not too many pleasures in San Francisco. Nothing is more pleasant, nothing more health-giving than a drive into the country now and then. Those who cannot afford to keep a carriage of their own, can find one equal in elegance to any private conveyance at the Occidental Carriage stand. Frank Bouton has there, and at his stables 1016 Stockton street, carriages of every description. His drivers are careful and experienced, his charges are moderate. The moral of the above is: go to Frank Bouton at the Occidental Hotel when you want a carriage. D

Mr. Charles Dickens.

The London correspondent of the Boston Courier says:

A story reaches me which will be read with eagerness by all who have ever heard the name of Charles Dickens. Under ordinary circumstances it would be rightly deemed beyond the ken of a journalist, but Mr. Dickens's own deliberate choice made his separation from his wife a public topic, and it would be affectation to keep out of print gossip which must soon become the common talk of literary society. The rumor is that the second volume of Forster's Life of Dickens hangs fire. The biographer thinks that he ought to tell the story of the separation of Dickens and his wife, and of course is disposed to throw all the blame of that separation upon Mrs. Dickens. But young Dickens, who, it is said, always sided with his mother in that matter, and thinks that but scant justice was done her by his father when the matter was made public, says that if amends be not made to her by Mr. Forster, a plain, unvarnished tale shall be published in All the Year Round. How the matter will end it is impossible to foretell. It will be remembered that Walter Savage Landor suddenly separated from his wife, and never saw her again. Mr. Forster, in his biography of Landor, hurries over this business swiftly, like a skater over dangerous ice. He so tells the story as to make the world believe that certainly Mrs. Landor was most to blame; but it is questionable whether in dealing with contemporary verge of flunkeyism. Better almost have the story of Dickens and his wife untold if the son would consent to it. But perhaps he will not; perhaps he has long felt the injustice to his mother rankling in his breast, and is now determined to have the truth published. If so, there will be at least one advantage—the revelation will put a welcome end to the vexatious disputations and improbable explanations which are always forthcoming at dinner-tables and elsewhere whenever the name of Dickens is mentioned.

If Forster gives his explanation of the separation, we prophesy confidently that he will give the reasons as follows: First—That Mrs. Dickens was a cold, unsympathetic woman, who took but little interest in Dickens's literary work, and appreciated his talent less than anyone who knew him Second—That she was horribly jealous of young actresses whom Dickens engaged to take part in private theatricals, which she hated; and thirdly, that she had no toleration for Dickens's natural eccentricities, and considered them affectation.

A Considerate Doctor.

Dr. —— went the other day to perform an operation on a patient and on his way met a friend of the family. "Poor B., is very sick," said the friend, "Is there any hope of saving his life, doctor?"

"Not the slightest," replied the doctor.

"Why, then, are you going to perform that operation?"

"My dear sir," said the doctor, "He must be amused a little; it will distract his attention from his hopeless condition."

An exchange calls Lucille Western the robust tragedienne.

Full walking suits of roughly twilled camel's hair will be a feminine foible.

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of waters bright, did make a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
"Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here—
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins;
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again.

A Great Country.

"California is a great country." We do not claim that expression as original. It has been used before. You can get anything in California, strawberries at Christmas, and the biggest pears in the world during the proper season. Everything is better in California than in any part of the world. Some things are peculiar. We should not expect to find an advertisement like the following which we clip from the Call in a paper published in any other part of the world:

A GOOD CHANCE—A BOY ABOUT FIFTEEN years old (an orphan) wishes to be adopted by some respectable family. Address, "A. G. L."

Now this wouldn't be considered a remarkably "good chance" anywhere but in San Francisco. We are not in the orphan business ourselves, or we should grab at a chance like that. That orphan will probably have, in order to avoid showing favoritism, to dispose of himself by means of a gift concert. There are orphans older than this one, who are ready to be adopted by respectable families, but they are particular. The orphan who advertises in the Call has been adopted by several families, but the board did not suit him, and they, none of them exactly understood him. In one family he was actually requested to clean boots and take care of a baby! The orphan's proud spirit revolted at the thought, and he left. He'll be adopted again. There is nothing like advertising. He wouldn't be adopted in New York, or London, or Paris, or Pekin, but the respectable families in San Francisco have a mania for adopting orphans, and that sweet youth will soon find a home.

"Her Majesty's Servants."

The actors at Drury Lane, London, are to-day officially described as Her Majesty's Servants, and have some curious privileges if they choose to claim them. Eight of the principal members of the company are entitled to a table at the Royal Palace, together with the right of wearing the Windsor uniform, the right of attending his or her majesty on State occasions, and the right of shooting on crown lands without a licence. There is nothing but desuetude to bar these claims, for the right was exercised not more than eighty years ago.

A Marble Mouchoir.

Trinculo, speaking of Gilbert's new play of "Pygmalion and Galatea," notices this violation of the dramatic proprieties: "On the first night it was produced, Galatea, when pitying the fate of the fawn, took a handkerchief from her pocket and wiped its bloody face. Polk—it must have been—went to Lester Walleck with a glowing eulogy on the genius of Pygmalion, who could carve the statue of a woman with a hem-stitch in her pocket! But after the first night the handkerchief was left out."

A Hero.

Miss Mulock says:

A man who can give up dreaming and go to his daily realities; who can smother down his heart, its love or woe, and take to the hard work of his hands; who defies fate, and, if he must die, dies fighting to the last—that man is life's best hero.

That is all very well, Miss Mulock, but a man of that kind does not live a very comfortable life. Smothering down one's heart is very unpleasant. Who wants to be a hero?

The Road to Ruin.

The Union School of Westfield, N. Y., has a naughty professor. He recently got a divorce from his wife and eloped with a pupil. Her he deserted, hired a livery horse and buggy and sold them, and wound up by stealing a jeweller's watch.

DR. BARLOW J. SMITH

ANNOUNCES THAT THE RECENT EXTENsive additions and improvements to his HYGIENE HOME WATER-CURE and PHRENOLOGICAL INSTITUTE, 637 California street, are completed. To his original premises have been added an entirely new and elegant three-story brick structure, a new and commodious lecture hall, a lofty and spacious dining hall, and cosy, comfortable bath-rooms in almost endless variety, with all the most modern, scientific and complete appliances for administering every conceivable description of medical baths, among which may be mentioned the electro-thermal, the electro-sitz, the electro-vapor, the electro-Russian, the electro-Turkish, Sulphur Mercurial, Iodine and other medicated baths; also an entirely new bath, invented by Dr. Smith, which he has named the American bath. It combines all the advantages of the Russian and Turkish, together with the electric spray and other appliances peculiar to itself, making it superior to any other hydropathic application now in use. The spacious parlors and other multiplied appliances for promoting the health and comfort of patients combine to constitute DR. SMITH'S HYGIENE HOME WATER CURE by far the most complete Hygiene Establishment on the Pacific Slope, and affords to the sick and suffering of both sexes the surest, speediest and cheapest means of cure to be found anywhere West of the Rocky mountains. Dispenses famed Magic Punches; rather
The most delicious mixtures yet recorded;
And have with many medals been rewarded!
Ladies their CORDIALS there can sip at leisure,—
Their "TEARS" appease,—and Men gain "LADIES' PLEASURE."
To allay connubial differences and pain,
In "ANTI-DIVORCE" you can your end attain.
Sip of the potent extract but one taste,
Your arm, consoling, straight is round her waist!
Guess what a "MORNING COMFORT" in the kiss
That heals the quarrel and imparts the bliss!
The "WELCOME" too, you'll always find
A balmy soother for the troubled mind.
The bright "AURORA," and the sweet "FAREWELL
Just visit BONA, and you'll all fare well!
His "HYGIENIC BITTERS" are the panacea
For all dyspeptics and for diarrhœa.
No Cholera Morbus ever has been found
Where "HYGIENIC BITTERS" knock around.
BONA and SQUARZA, spite of all detractors,
Have proved the Nation's greatest benefactors!
Full FORTY different healthful drinks you'll find,
To aid the Men—invigorate the mind!

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

California Theatre.

The Fabbri Troupe presented the opera of "L'Africaine" for the second time last night, and its performance was heartily enjoyed by the large audience present. To-night, the society comedy of "Saratoga" will be performed. This very attractive play with its beautiful scenery, fashionable dresses, comic situations and lively dialogue, will be performed at the matinee to-morrow and again in the evening. On Sunday night, the Fabbri Troupe will give the last representation of "L'Africaine."

Alhambra.

The very popular sensation drama of "Chris and Lena," in the course of which the popular artists, Messrs. Baker and Farron, present a series of songs and dances new to the California stage, and gain great applause, will be performed this evening. It will be preceded by a capital first part. The fact that the performance this evening is for the benefit of J. G. Russell, the baritone singer whose magnificent voice has added so much to the attractions of the first part, will ensure an immense house. "Chris and Lena" will constitute the entertainment at the matinee to-morrow.

Bella Union.

Cogill and Cooper appear nightly in their new version of "Apple of My Eye," Jennie Johnson in serio comic songs, Mme. Theresa, M. Schmidt, Minnie Fillmore, Ed. Montague, Miss Josephine, Carrie Armstrong, M'lle Garretta and others in ballet, and a host of others in the varied programme published on our first page. A new programme is in preparation for to-morrow night; it comprises the new sensation, "Forgery, or Where are the Brotherton Brothers?" and many other novelties.

The Atheneum.

A new programme will be offered at this lively place of amusement this evening. Miss Lydia Livingston will appear in a Highland Fling and also in comic songs, Miss May Leroy in pleasing ballads and Spanish dances, Miss Carrie Chapman in a fancy essence, and many other favorite performers in varied specialties.

Pacific Hall.

Tickets for Mrs. Minnie Myrtle Miller's new lecture on Joaquin Miller, to be delivered at Pacific Hall, on Tuesday next, are selling rapidly, and the hall will certainly be crowded with a large and fashionable audience. Seats can be reserved at the hall on Tuesday without extra charge.

Woodward's Gardens.

The usual large attendance was drawn last Sunday—upwards of eight thousand. The Fire King gave his last performances; Prof. Payton did some wonderful feats of glass blowing in the new Polytechnic Hall, turning out full-rigged ships, making birds, pens, and other objects with wonderful facility. Prof. Payton will give exhibitions every day this week. Next Sunday the Robinson-Conklin combination, with Prof. Samwells and his trained dogs and monkeys will appear.

City Gardens.

There will be a matinee at the City Gardens on Saturday. Niagara Leap, Spiral Mountain ascension, and other performances by the Buislays. On Sunday, A. Buislay will make his last balloon ascension, carrying a horse attached to the balloon.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

Privileges for Women.

Harvard University is to confer its honored diplomas hereafter on women as well as men. Mary, Jane and Matilda are to have an equal chance to sport the parchments which make the M. A.'s with Tom, Dick and Harry. The examinations will be as usual; all expenses will be borne by an association of Boston women already formed for that purpose, and a full scheme of the method and manner of innovation has been adopted by the authorities of the university.

Grateful Man.

A stranger fell into the river at Detroit the other day. As he was being helped out, some one seized him by the hair and drew him up. "Where's the man who pulled my hair?" yelled the victim as he reached the deck. "Just show me the Apache who did it and I'll mash him in a minute!"

A boy in Kentucky lately shot his father fatally, and a local paper says that "his family concur in justifying the act.

Joaquin Miller is not coming.

Live Well.

Those who eat good dinners are amiable. Bad feeding is the cause of many crimes. Those who dine at the Pioneer Restaurant, on Washington street, at the corner of Dunbar Alley, live well, and are consequently happy. Henry Booken, who has catered for the public since 1849, provides for his customers Lake Tahoe trout, Salmagundi soup, game, tame geese, delicious entrees, and everything the heart of man can desire. The best cup of tea in the city—English breakfast tea—Souchong and Orange Pekoe—can be obtained here. n

An Old Landmark.

The Verandah Cigar Store, at the N. E. corner of Kearny and Washington streets, kept by Henry Schmidt, has been famous for the last eleven years for keeping the best Havana cigars, tobacco, choice meerschaum pipes, etc. r

Oyster Trade.

The oyster trade in California is assuming gigantic proportions. Emerson Corville, of the Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, furnishes from his own oyster beds at San Bruno millions of oysters to all parts of the Pacific Coast. His Eastern transplanted oysters have a fame which has extended all over the continent, and the "Saddle Rock" is known everywhere.

USE BRODIE'S WONDERFUL RHEUMATIC LINIMENT. Then you'll remember me. ▲

Fresh Fashion Frills.

The hair is still worn with heavy braids or curls at the back. The wearing of the hair arranged in puffs or frizzes upon the extreme top of the head is not likely to attain extensive popularity, as it is becoming to very few types of beauty. A less quantity of hair than was formerly used suffices at present for a fashionable coiffure, and it is to be hoped that those ladies who have at least a respectable number of tresses will be content without the superfluous load which fashion dictates.

The fashions for children vary but little from those of last season. Little girls' suits are almost the fac similes of those worn by their mammas, and the same is equally true of the small boys' wardrobes. For boys the coat and vest—the coat having an open revers collar of cloth or velvet, and the pants reaching below the knee—are the latest style. A piquante dress for a little belle of seven years was made of rose-colored Irish poplin, trimmed with ruffles of the same edged with Valenciennes lace. A blue party dress of the same material had four quilled ruffles of white Swiss upon the skirt. The corsage was cut square in the neck, this being finished with a Swiss quilling. The sleeves were plain to the elbow and ended in a deep ruffle, trimmed to match the skirt. A broad sash of blue gros grain, and blue shoulder-knots, completed this pretty toilet.

Fur caps and sacques will be worn by little girls for the cold season, and also by boys under five years.

A very pretty dress for a young miss is of dark blue cashmere or French merino, made with a little postillion basque. The overskirt has an apron front, and is looped in the back. It is pointed and bound upon the edge, and has a narrow pattern of braiding above the points. Plain underskirt, with two rows of braiding. The basque is also braided.

Electricity Proof.

A street lecturer on electricity was taken aback by a great phenomenon. The other day a solid-looking individual grasped the handles of the machine with the determination to have, as he expressed it his "full five cents' worth," but somehow or other the electricity had no effect upon him. The professor kept on piling up the agony, but with no effect. "Don't you feel it yet?" said he, when nearly the full power had been put on. "No, I don't feel nothing," was the placid response. Another turn. "Now don't you feel it?" "No," was still the reply. The professor looked bewildered. He had charged the machine to its full capacity, and with no result. Such a thing had never happened before. What was to be done? He had stood at the corner of that street for two years and his credit was at stake. At last his countenance brightened. A happy thought! "Let's look at your feet," said he. The patient complied by holding up one foot. "Ah, I thought so!" said the professor, triumphantly. You might stand here till you are blue in the face, and not feel nothing. Leather's a non-conductor, don't you know; but you've got such a great hole in your shoe that as fast as the electricity comes in at your hands it goes out at your feet! You go and get your shoes mended and come again."

Joaquin Miller.

That the poet of the Sierras is not a favorite with the Louisville Courier-Journal may be inferred from its remark that "Joaquin Miller has been telling it among his California acquaintances that while in England he dined with the Queen, and is now afraid if he return to England some of the young Messrs. Guelph will horsewhip him for slandering their mother."

THE GRAY-HAIRED DAME.

[FROM THE FRENCH OF BERANGER.]

Oh, mistress mine, you must grow old.
  And I must leave you here alone;
Relentless Time has doubly told
  The happy days I thought my own,
Survive me, and old age, though dire,
  Will prove my lessons not in vain—
A gray-haired dame beside the fire,
  Repeat your lover's songs again.

When youthful eyes will fondly gaze
  Upon your careworn, wrinkled brow,
To trace the charms of other days
  And wonder whom you mourn for now:
Oh, paint my joy—my fond desire,
  My eager love, my jealous pain—
A grey-haired dame beside the fire,
  Repeat your lover's songs again.

And they will ask if I loved you,
  And you will say: He loved me ever!
Or did he prove unkind, untrue,
  And you will proudly answer: Never!
Oh, tell them that my loving lyre
  Was always constant in its strain—
A gray-haired dame beside the fire
  Repeat your lover's songs again.

And you, who wept at France's story,
  Sing the new race the burning songs
In which I breathed of hope and glory,
  To soothe her for her bitter wrongs.
Tell them the banner of their sire
  Swept twenty harvests off the plain!—
A grey-haired dame beside the fire
  Repeat your lover's songs again.

And, darling, if my poor renown
  Can wile away one sigh, one tear;
And if with Christmas leaves you crown
  My portrait for the new-born year:
Look upward for a moment, higher;
  There nothing more shall part us twain—
A gray-haired dame beside the fire
  Repeat your lover's songs again.

HARRY CURWEN.

Kellogg's Waning Popularity.

A New York letter says: Maretzek is in a quandary between the opposing factions, and is only sorry that Kellogg does not fill the house as Lucca does. The former sings and acts better to-day than she ever did before, and why she should be so neglected now, when in the past she has held her own against all foreign artists who have come to us, cannot be satisfactorily explained.

Home, Sweet Home!

An Indianapolitan named Hegan lately went home drunk, and being refused supper by his wife, proceeded to break things, while she sat singing "Home, Sweet Home." She did this until he upset the cradle, when she arose, drew a map of Indiana upon his noble brow, borrowed a lock of hair as a tender remembrance and sent him out of the house. Now he wants a divorce.

Not to be taken for a Precedent

Two idiotic and wicked juries have been found in murder cases in this city—juries composed of men who allowed themselves to be hambooz led by counsel and who could from motives of pity prove false to their solemn oath bring in a verdict in accordance with the law and evidence. This is a sad pity. We now hope for better things. Future juries will, we trust, so far from accepting the wrong doing of their predecessors as a precedent say each of them as he enters the jury box:

Heaven me such usage send,
Not to pick bad from bad
But by bad mend.

Hanging must commence again. If men are not hanged by due course of law then it is certain that the people will resume the sovereignty delegated by them to the ministers of the law and will make examples which will for a time put a stop to murder. A St. Louis paper says: "Half a dozen murderers are in this city awaiting the tedious formality of an acquittal." Is this the case also in San Francisco? Is there then no manhood left in California? Time was if a cowardly murder was committed there were strong minds to bring in a just verdict and strong hands to pull at the rope. Because two juries have inflicted two outrageous wrongs on the community, is the wrong to be carried out to the end of the chapter? We hope for better things. Men of California should be made of sterner stuff than they have of late proved themselves.

The Weaker Sex.

Telfeir county, Ga., boasts of a lady—widow of a Confederate soldier—who is very useful in a small sociable row. A pedagogue living on her land threatened to wallop her recently, and pretty soon thereafter attempted to carry out his threat. He was the worst fooled man in the Union. The widow knocked him down and walked all over him; and she sat him on his feet and jerked him out of his socks; and then she snatched him bald headed, and finally wound up the ceremony by paddling him with a board until he had the hysterics.

Carry it Out

An imitative Chinaman at Portland, Oregon, attempted to make a political speech in public the other day. The police promptly arrested him for being disorderly on the public streets. They were right, but should not confine their attentions to Mongolians.

Blessed Woman!

Of a verity woman's devotion is measureless. A Boston brute beat his wife black and blue, the other day, and the court was over she was heard to say; "Thank God I can sell my bed and pay John's fine."

"Mamma," said a little girl when she discovered her canaries asleep, "the birds have swallowed their heads."

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of waters bright, did make a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
"Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here—
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins;
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again.

Man and Women.

Queen Christiane, of Sweden, once said: I love men, not because they are men but because they are not women. There are many women who have just this reason for preferring the company of men to that of women but they cannot express it so happily as did the Queen of Sweden. Such women are delightful; they do not expect or wish men to fall in love with them; they do not look upon them as possible husbands and consequently men find in them charming companions and treat them as their equals—as men. The friendship of such a woman—a woman who prefers to talk sense to a man to exchanging frivolities with those of her own sex—is valued as a privilege by a true man, and such an one will exercise the greatest care in preserving the pleasant relations that exist between them. Girls who have brothers are always more pleasant companions than those who have been brought up in a family of sisters; there is is less nonsense about them, they are not so silly. The present movement leading to the throwing open of academic institutions hitherto devoted exclusively to the education of the male sex to young women will have a wonderful effect in strengthening and improving the "weaker sex." It is a vile thing that for ages woman should have been taught to rely on her personal charms to influence man, and told that men hate intellect in a woman. Men as a rule talk better than women; they have more to talk about, but the time is fast coming when wisdom in petticoats will be a much less rare thing than at present. There are thousands of pretty Minervas at the present day, and thousands of Minervas who are not pretty but who have more admirers among men of intellect than any merely pretty woman could gain. We are not quite sure about the propriety of sending boys and girls to school together; we don't think it works well in the public schools but we are quite sure men and women of thirty years of age mingling on terms of perfect equality, without the idea of the difference in sex eternally obtruding itself, is productive of nothing but good. The fact that at one time women were very scarce in California has left its impress on society at the present day, and there is a difference in the manner in which the average Californian addresses a lady and a gentleman which is accepted as anything but flattering by the former if she be a woman of cultivation and intelligence. Doctors are much liked by ladies because they can talk to them and "forget they are men." There are, thank heaven, other men in the world besides doctors to whom ladies may talk without continually having the fear of saying something which may strike them as indelicate because, and only because, they are men. In this respect there are "doctors" who have never studied medicine, and true father confessors who have never taken holy orders. If there were not society would go utterly to the bad.

An Abstemious King.

The Emperor of Germany is the most abstemious of the European monarchies. He takes every day but two small meals. After rising he takes a cup of coffee; at noon some roast meat and potatoes, with a glass of Bordeaux wine; and at seven in the evening a supper, consisting of bread, sausage and a cup of tea. Persons invited to the Imperial table express their surprise at its extreme simplicity.

A Happy Union.

A lady who obtained a divorce from her husband last week on the ground of his infidelity, said, "Our marriage has been nothing but a long war to the knife."

The Physician's Policy.

"Keep 'em alive, boy! keep 'em alive!" said an old physician to his young brother practicioner—"Dead men pay no bills."

A San Jose Paper Dead.

This is the kind manner in which deaths among newspapers are mentioned in San Jose. We extract from the Mercury of Thursday:

"Died and Gave No Sign."—The little San Jose Tribune died on Monday evening, after a brief but painful illness. It was a puling infant from the first. Its mother, Mrs. Democracy, not having any nurse for it, it was fed on milk from Sexton's cow, which gave it cramps in the rennet, culminating in horn-colic, which carried it off. Rest quiet cat in peace.

That is the poor little paper that said, "Go cut your throat, Figaro." But we won't say anything unkind about it. We wish it had lived.

A Dream of Heaven.

Four or five little sugar plums taken an hour or so before eating. Then a deliciously dreamy feeling; you know perfectly well what you are about, can attend to your business, but feel so comfortable that it is impossible to annoy you. In about an hour the effect goes off, your head feels clear, you have a sense of invigoration and a splendid appetite, you feel as if you had strengthened the system. Under these circumstances it is not strange that Magic Conserves are taken instead of cocktails.

Mrs. Riordan has just returned from the East with the most choice and elegant stock of Fall Millinery goods ever exhibited in San Francisco, which she has selected with the greatest care. Ladies will do well to call and examine before purchasing elsewhere. Q

REOPENING

DR. BARLOW J. SMITH

ANNOUNCES THAT THE RECENT EXTENsive additions and improvements to his HYGIENE HOME WATER-CURE and PHRENOLOGICAL INSTITUTE, 637 California street, are completed. To his original premises have been added an entirely new and elegant three-story brick structure, a new and commodious lecture hall, a lofty and spacious dining hall, and cosy, comfortable bath-rooms in almost endless variety, with all the most modern, scientific and complete appliances for administering every conceivable description of medical baths, among which may be mentioned the electro-thermal, the electro-sitz, the electro-vapor, the electro-Russian, the electro-Turkish, Sulphur Mercurial, Iodine and other medicated baths; also an entirely new bath, invented by Dr. Smith, which he has named the American bath. It combines all the advantages of the Russian and Turkish, together with the electric spray and other appliances peculiar to itself, making it superior to any other hydropathic application now in use. The spacious parlors and other multiplied appliances for promoting the health and comfort of patients combine to constitute DR. SMITH'S HYGIENE HOME WATER CURE by far the most complete Hygiene Establishment on the Pacific Slope, and affords to the sick and suffering of both sexes the surest, speediest and cheapest means of cure to be found anywhere West of the Rocky mountains. Hygienic board and a comfortable home for all who desire them.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

CALIFORNIA THEATRE.—"Saratoga" is so thoroughly amusing, so lively in its action and so bright in its scenes that it pleases a large portion of the public. It will be played at the matinee to-day and again this evening. To-morrow evening the Fabbri Opera Troupe will present once more the opera of "L'Africaine," which has drawn two large audiences and will certainly draw another. On Monday evening the entertainment will consist of "The Serione Family," and "Ireland as it Was," with Miss Maggie Moore as Judy O'Trot in the latter piece.

ALHAMBRA THEATRE.—J. G. Russell had a capital house last night when he took his benefit. At the matinee to-day, Messrs. Baker and Farron will appear in the sensational drama of "Chris and Lena." In the evening this play will be preceded by the fine first part of vocal and instrumental music, comic songs and funny stories.

BELLA UNION.—There is always something new at this go-ahead place of amusement. The programme for to-night published on our first pages promises a rich treat for those who visit this popular variety theatre to-night. R. G. Marsh, J. H. Larkin, Carrie Armstrong, Johnny Tuers, Jennie Johnson, Miss Josephine, Minnie Fillmore, Harry Sinclair, Mme. Therese, Ed. Montague, M. Schmidt, and many others will appear in varied specialties and the performance will conclude with a new and original play, which promises to be particularly stunning, entitled "The Forger's Escape; or, How about the Bothering Brothers?"

ATHENEUM.—The new programme at this house last night proved quite a success. Miss Lydia Livingstone is quite a favorite, Miss May Leroy's dances are much admired, and the original pantomime by Mons. Garbetier with scenic effects was very amusing. The same bill will be presented to-night.

PACIFIC HALL.—There will be a very large and fashionable audience at this Hall on Tuesday evening next, to listen to Mrs. Minnie Myrtle Miller's second lecture on "Joaquin Miller, the Poet and the Man." Tickets are selling so rapidly, and there is such general interest excited in the best circles in society, that it is certain that the wit, intelligence and fashion of San Francisco will be largely represented. Seats can be secured by those holding dollar tickets without extra charge on the day of the lecture. The general admission will be fifty cents. A partial synopsis of the lecture appears on our first page.

WOODWARD'S GARDENS.—The Samwells-Conklin Combination will perform at this popular pleasure resort to-morrow. Seeyeah, the magnificent, will appear in a wonderful act, and Pete Conklin and other members of the company in a varied entertainment, the whole to conclude with the wonderful exhibition of trained animals by Prof. Samwells.

CITY GARDENS.—There will be a matinee at the City Gardens to-day. Niagara Leap, Spiral Mountain ascension, and other performances by the Buislays. To-morrow A. Buislay will make his last balloon ascension, carrying a horse attached to the balloon.

CLIFF HOUSE.—The public of San Francisco had better make the most of the fine weather and enjoy, while they can, a drive to the Cliff House. A dinner at this ne plus ultra of seaside resorts is true enjoyment.

MRS. F. S. CHANFRAU.—This famous actress arrived in this city last night. She will commence an engagement at the California Theatre on Monday, 18th inst., in a new version of "East Lynne."

CHIARINI'S CIRCUS.—This immense circus troupe intended to start for Australia by the steamer which leaves to-day, but the Idaho has not accommodations for the large stud of horses. The troupe will therefore remain here until the next steamer, the spacious Dakotah, goes.

HARRY COLTON, so long a member of the Metropolitan Theatre company in this city, is now at the Opera House, Galveston, Texas, playing Charles Courtley in "London Assurance," Volage in "The Marble Heart," and other good business.

MORE BUISLAYS.—We have not all the Buislays here; they are a numerous family. Justin Buislay and Master Adolphe Buislay are performing at Trimble's Varieties, Pittsburgh.

KATY WILSON.—This pleasing young soubrette is engaged at the Academy of Music, Chicago.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

PACIFIC COAST DRAMATIC NEWS.

SACRAMENTO.—The Sacramentans have not had any amusements for some time past. When Proctor returns from the East he will reopen the Metropolitan Theatre. The Academy of Music has been sold for $16,500, and is to be turned into a livery stable.

SHASTA.—John Wilson's circus will perform in this place on Nov. 12th. They play at French Corral, Nov. 11th; Redding, Nov. 13th.

RED BLUFF.—John Wilson's Circus is billed for the 14th.

YREKA.—The San Francisco Circus performed on Tuesday and Wednesday, 5th and 6th, to large houses.

CALLAHAN'S RANCH.—Wilson's Circus shows here to-night.

SAN JOSE.—Delhi, the Fire King, will give exhibitions of his wonderful powers at the pleasure gardens to-morrow afternoon and evening.

PORTLAND.—On the 2d, "Peep o' Day" was presented by G. B. Waldron's dramatic company at the Oro Fino Theatre. "Early California" was presented at the matinee.

SALT LAKE.—"The Hunchback of Notre Dame" was performed on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of last week. Foster and Langford's minstrel and variety troupe comprising Jimmy Collins, Dick Durand, Robert Clayton, A. Ruden, J. W. Henry, Madame Forestelle the famous contortionist, performed last Saturday night to a crowded house. They go thence to Omaha, Denver and Chicago.

EASTERN DRAMATIC NEWS.

In New York "Don Giovanni" was the latest production at the Academy of Music, with both prima donnas in the cast—Pauline Lucca playing Zerlina and Miss Kellogg Donna Anna. "Don Giovanni" was repeated on the 1st inst., and Miss Kellogg sang the celebrated letter aria......At the Olympic the Aimee troupe have produced "Genevieve de Brabant," and it is up for a run. The child tenor, Romeo Dionesi, who made one appearance at the California Theatre, was announced to make his appearance at the Olympic Theatre on the 4th. The season of French Opera Bouffe was to close on the 9th and the Lydia Thompson troupe were to recommence their season of English opera bouffe on the 11th .....At the fourth Sunday evening concert at the Grand Opera House on the 27th ult. M'lle Marie Aimee sang a number of arias including "Ave Maria".... Niblo's Garden will open November 18th, with a new fairy spectacle entitled "Leo and Lotos." The piece is said to be a series of stage pictures of surpassing beauty. M'lle Lucca Diana, the beautiful prima donna, from La Scala, Milan, will play Prince Leo. Princess Lotos Leaf has been intrusted to M'lle Rosetta, principal vocalist from the Crystal Palace. These two artistes come to America with the highest reputations. Laura Joyce, another well-known actress from the principal London theatres, will play Babette. The grand ballet combination is a marvel of talent, consisting of no less than four premiere danseuses. M'lle Jean Petteri has been the reigning star danseuse of London the past season. The other principals are Katie Lanner, and M'lles Lupo and Adrienne. One hundred young and beautiful girls have been selected to complete the grand ballet. King Kobi-noor will be played by Mr. Collard, known as the Pocket Sims Reeves. The rest of the cast will be very strong. Among the principal names are the following: Kate Newton, Mrs. Wright, Olivia Rand, Lizzie Kelsey, Bessie Sudlow, Millie Cook, and Jaffier Romeo Leffingwell......Gus Williams' Dutch character actor, is at Pastor's. Miss Jennie Benson, clog dancer, and La Petite Benson, are also of the company......Miss Annie Hindle is the reigning star at White's Athenæum...... Emerson's Minstrels continue to do a good business at 718 Broadway. Billy Emerson's version of "Ten Thousand Miles Away" shocks the sensibilities of the New York people. One of the papers says: "Billy Emerson's jokes created unlimited amusement, as did his singing of 'My Love to the War has Gone;' but in answer to an encore he gave a song which, cleverly as it was sung, should have been omitted from the programme. Mr. Emerson possesses mimic talent of a very high order, but an imitation of a London prig, whose sweetheart has been transported, not through joy, but pocket-picking, is not, under any circumstances a commendable performance." ......Kelly and Leon are the bright particular stars at Bryant's Opera House......Jas. D. Roome is the latest engagement at the St. James's Theatre, where the San Francisco Minstrels hold forth. He is a capital banjoist and story-teller......At Union Square Theatre "Agnes" is still running to good houses......At Wallack's "Pygmalion and Galatea" is shortly to be withdrawn to make way for Sothern......At Fifth Avenue Theatre there was a change of bill on the 28th. The New York Dispatch of the 27th says;

> Last night closed the run of "Diamonds," one of the most senseless and inane dramatic compositions which we have ever had the misfortune to sit out, and we sincerely congratulate the management on its withdrawal.

Sterling comedies succeeded modern dramas. "The Belle's Stratagem" was performed on three successive nights......At the Grand Opera House "Le Roi Carotte" is to be withdrawn shortly. ......Mr. and Mrs. Dion Boucicault continue to draw large houses at Booth's Theatre in "Arrah na Pogue," "Night and Morning" and other plays ......At Wood's Museum, M'lle Zoe, "The beautiful Cuban actress," is the attraction......At the Bowery the new drama entitled "Auramania; or, Gold Mad" was produced on the 28th ult with the authoress, Miss Anne Pritchard in the leading role. Niel Warner is underlined .....Professor Pepper is lecturing on scientific ghosts at Steinway Hall. It is calculated that about four million of people in England have enjoyed the lecture.

Mrs. F. S. Chanfrau commenced a brief engagement at the Academy of Music, Chicago, on Monday 24th ult. appearing as Lady Isabel, in "East Lynne." The Chicago Times comments upon her performance as follows: "Mrs. Chanfrau, who makes her debut before the Chicago public in this role, has distinguished charms of grace and dramatic manner. A mobile face of Madonna like beauty and pensiveness, and a stately person, make her an admirable representative of such a character as the drama develops. The eloquence of her features in expressing her emotions illuminates the spoken effect of the lines and the picturesqueness of the groupings to a very marked and unusual degree. Her whole conception of the role is quiet and chastened, but intense, expressing as much by what it represses as by what it reveals.

Miss Blanche, daughter of E. L. Davenport, is studying music under the direction of Perini, the teacher of Miss Cary and Rose Hersee. She is but sixteen years, and is said not only to be exceedingly handsome, but sprightly and full of ardor. She has charmed her tutor in selections from "I Puritani" and "Rigoletto." Her studies will continue for two years, when she will enter upon the lyric stage.

Miss Sarah Stevens, formerly a popular actress at Wallack's old theatre, and at Laura Keene's, is said to be about to return to the stage. She visited England in 1862, and made her debut at Drury Lane Theatre as Eily O'Connor, in "The Colleen Bawn."

Miss Eliza Neilson, undoubtedly the best representative of Juliet seen on the English

The Boston Herald of October 19th, says: The infatuation of ladies of wealth and position for public theatrical performances has often served as the subject for newspaper paragraphs, and another has recently come to light, the victim being Mr. Tom G. Riggs Irish Comedian, lately at the St. James Theatre. For several months past, Mr. Riggs has been the object of the admiration of a young lady of wealth, who has carried her affections to such an extent as to follow him over the country, wherever he may chance to make an engagement. She enjoys a prominent seat at every performance, and further expresses her regard by occasionally sending him presents of diamonds and bank notes, all of which were returned by the actor. (?!) As he is not a marrying man, and is more given to the practical than the sentimental and romantic, he entirely ignores the infatuated maiden, even refusing to see or correspond with her.

[How very thin! ED. FIGARO.]

E. A. Sothern is very favorably noticed by the Phila. press, and we copy the following from the Ledger of Oct. 21st:

> Mr. Sothern begins his eighth week at the Walnut Street-theatre," standing room only" being the nightly notice, and he remains another fortnight. He has appeared in "Home," "Our American Horse," and "David Garrick," and in each he has given undoubted proof of his extraordinary versatility. Indeed it is almost impossible to credit it that Dundreary, Sam, and Garrick are acted by the same man. Of the three we prefer Garrick, for, though, without the striking originality of the world-famed brothers, in that comedy he has opportunities of every style of acting, and his bursts of passion in the drunken scene make us wish Mr. Sothern would appear in some Shakspearean characters.

Maggie Mitchell is underlined at McVicker's Theatre, Chicago.

Mrs. Caroline Richings-Bernard was at Ford's Grand Opera House, Baltimore.

Mrs. Chanfrau has met with great success in Chicago. The Tribune of the 29th ult. says of her performance of Dora:

> That the Hub went wild over Mrs. Chanfrau's "Dora," is not difficult to believe. It almost seems as though Tennyson must have seen her before he wrote the beautiful poem. That anyone so comely and charming should essay the part is a rare piece of good luck for one of the prettiest and most interesting of dramas. Mrs. Chanfrau is an admirable exponent of the art of how to act when not acting—how to keep quiet when others are talking—how to listen as well as to speak. Her poses are superb, and in the play of her feature, when in the attitude of a listener, there are revealed certain consummate touches of art which are commonly apt to be lightly passed over, or more often lacking altogether. The quality of her rendering of one of Tennyson's prettiest creations is best, and most briefly expressed by saying that she is Dora. It is a piece of acting which Chicago theatre-goers can heartily, wholly enjoy; and it will be strange, indeed, if the remaining three nights of "Dora" do not find the house filled.

A Northern paper says that a travelling circus was recently advertised at Kalama, Washington Territory, and the town was filled with strangers who waited all day in vain. Determined to make something of the occasion, they secured a hall, hired a fiddler, and had a lively time in dancing. About ten at night, a steam whistle was blown, a band and the sound of hammers was heard. About midnight the Pavilion was up. Soon after circus was ready the rural dancers came flocking in, and the sawdust was lively till cock-crow, when the circus disappeared before sunrise on board the steamboat again.

Edmund Yates lectured in New York, 28th, on the "Princes of the Pen."

Bret Harte lectures in Philadelphia, Nov. 18th.

Ole Bull was to arrive in the steamer Celtic, due Nov. 11. Signor Feranti has been engaged by Manager Torebull for the Ole Bull Concerts this season, and Graziella Ridgway will be the soprano of the troupe. The piano soloist will be J. N. Patterson.

Ole Bull Concert Troupe, Savannah, Nov. 23d, one week.

Nelson Varley, an English tenor, is reported as soon to arrive New York.

Oliver Doud Byron, Cincinnati, 28th, one week; Robert McWade, Providence, Nov. 1.

Lucille Western, Olympic, New York, Nov. 11.

John T. Raymond, Varieties, New Orleans, Dec 2; thence Salt Lake and San Francisco, at the California, four weeks, commencing January 20th, returning to Boston. Thence at the Globe, where he was engaged for the season.

A monster musical jubilee is being organized to be held in Exposition Hall, Cincinnatti, during the first week of May next. The programme contemplates and orchestra of from one or two hundred pieces, and a chorus of three or five thousand voices.

A new comedy, entitled "Bohemia; or, the Lottery of Art," by a gentleman of Philadelphia, was submitted for judgement at Mrs. John Drew's Arch Street Theatre, 28th.

Miss Georgie Drew, youngest daughter of Mrs. John Drew, made her first appearance on the stage at the Arch Street Theatre, Philadelphia 28th, ult.

Mr. B. A. Locke will commence an engagement at Wood's Theatre, Cincinnati, on Feb. 3, 1873, producing Gayler's new drama, "Brom Bones."

John Henry Cooke has sailed for England to fulfil an engagement with Hengler's Cirque Variete Company.

The Lydia Thompson troupe have been re-engaged for two weeks at the Globe Theatre, Boston.

The Matthews Family are engaged for the Front Street Comique, Baltimore.

The Zavistowski Sisters are at Lawrence Barrett's Varieties Theatre, New Orleans.

The Child American is at the Globe Theatre Chicago.

The Worrell Sisters were at the Theatre Comique, New York, on the 28th ult.

Gus Phillips, known as "Oofty Gooft," is on his way to San Francisco.

La Petite DeAngelis was at the Comique, Washington, on the 28th ult.

James Collins and Miss Martha Wren performed at Col. Wood's Museum, Philadelphia, during the week ending Oct. 26th, the dramatic portion of the entertainment consisting of the comedietta of "A Peep Behind the scenes," the Irish drama entitled "Dark Hour Before the Dawn," and "The Hidden Hand" at the matinees.

At the Walnut-street Theatre, Philadelphia, Mr. Sothern continued his successful engagement, appearing in "An English Gentleman" and "David Garrick" during the week ending October 26th. "David Garrick" was revived on the evening of the 23d, and served to introduce Miss Rose Coghlan to a Philadelphia audience for the first time. Miss Coghlan looked charmingly and acted well her part of Ada, making a favorable impression.

Frank Mayo and his company, from the Rochester Opera House, opened a four nights' engagement at the Academy of Music, N. Y., on October 21st, with "Davy Crockett." The piece was excellently rendered, but the audience was small, a political meeting interfering with the attendance.

Letter from an Old Californian.

(We have received the following letter from one who was for some time a resident of California, and who, like all Californians, remembers with affection his early home. Mr. McClosky, now known as author of numerous plays of the ultra-sensational type, was formerly a printer in this city, and afterwards adopted the stage, appearing at the old American Theatre, which was some years ago destroyed by fire:)

BROOKLYN, October 28th.

ED. FIGARO:—Many, many thanks for FIGARO's notices of your humble servant from time to time. Enclosed I send you a counterfeit presentment of myself, a good likeness but poorly taken. I cannot make a good picture, but am obliged to take the best I can. My reason in sending it to you is, I have so many old '49, '50 '51 and '52 friends who are anxious to see how I look after so many years absence, they can obtain a glimpse in your sanctum, for I presume, like other papers of the kind you keep a gallery. Hoping to person ere long to take those old friends by the hands, and shake them for "Auld Lang Syne." I am particularly anxious to know how my "Poverty Flat" will fare. I feel confident that it will get a chance under the eye of McCullough and from the pencil and brush of my old schoolmate, Bill Porter, and before a California audience. I am sure it will receive justice. Throughout the East it has made a big sensation. I suggested to old Mitch., (who is now traveling with the Tom Thumb party), to get all the old pioneers (now living) together once more, and show the present generation how we done things when pork was a dollar a pound, you would be astonished how many are alive and here in the East. Hoping I am not trespassing upon your patience. I remain yours truly,

J. J. McCLOSKY.

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of waters bright, did make a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
"Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here—
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins;
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again.

Pacific Oyster House, 337 Bush street, above Montgomery; open Day and Night.

Health and Pleasure.

There are not too many pleasures in San Francisco. Nothing is more pleasant, nothing more health-giving than a drive into the country now and then. Those who cannot afford to keep a carriage of their own, can find one equal in elegance to any private conveyance at the Occidental Carriage stand. Frank Bouton has there, and at his stables 1016 Stockton street, carriages of every description. His drivers are careful and experienced, his charges are moderate. The moral of the above is: go to Frank Bonton at the Occidental Hotel when you want a carriage. O

Pause, Gentle Reader,

And peruse this notice. It will inform you that Meyers, of the White House Restaurant, Kearny street, has reopened, and thoroughly renovated the Eclipse Restaurant, 204 and 206 Fourth street, between Howard and Folsom, under the name of the Capitol Restaurant. Mr. Meyers begs to invite the patronage of the residents in the neighborhood and public in general, and assures them that he intends to provide the very best the market affords at Popular Prices—viz: three 12½ cent dishes for 25 cents. Squarza's Punches.

One of the most famous institutions of California is Squarza's Punch. It is found in every city, village and mining camp in the State. It is delicious, wholesome and unlike anything else. The proprietor of this delightful beverage notifies his patrons that he has opened at No. 317 Kearny street, between Pine and Bush streets, a BRANCH of his old and popular symposium on Leidesdorff street. a

FOREIGN DRAMATIC NEWS.

The Moore and Burgess Minstrels have just completed their seventh year at the St. James Hall London. The Era refers to them as follows: "A seven years' uninterrupted season is something unusual in the history of amusements, and may well make other caterers for the pleasure of a public somewhat envious. What does this seven years season mean? For we are assured that not a single evening—beyond those proscribed by law—has been permitted to pass without the usual entertainment being given. But we remember also that three matinees are given weekly, and at holiday seasons these take place daily. So that by a simple calculation we arrive at the fact that since the troupe took up their quarters at St. James Hall in 1865, they have given nearly 4000 consecutive performances. At holiday times, to which we have alluded, so great has been the anxiety to hear them that the hall has been invariably "requisitioned," and even this has proved insufficient to accommodate the multitude which has demanded admission. Last year, we understand, more people were turned away than obtained admission.

The London Era says that John C. Clarke, the popular comedian, has been the recipient of rare compliments from the members of the London press, and Sir James Leanan, in the Queen's Bench, summing up a recent case, took especial occasion to refer to the performances of Mr. J. C. Clarke, and publicly express the pleasure they had afforded him.

Mr. Creswick has made a decided hit in Shakespearean representations in conjunction with Mr. Samuel Phelps, at the Princess' Theatre, London.

Miss Glynn will shortly appear at the Princess' Theatre, London.

Mr. W. B. Cahill is at the Theatre Royal, Stockton-on-Tees, London.

Miss Rebecca Isaacs has returned to the English lyric stage.

Brignoli has got an engagement at La Scala, Milan.

Up to the 12th ult. the following is an account of the doings in London: The theatres were giving the pieces of the preceding week, with the exception that Mr. Charles Mathews had appeared at the Gaiety, for the first time in London since his American trip. He had a tremendous welcome......The Globe had reopened with "Cyril's Success," "A Poetic Proposal," and "The Spur of the Moment."......The Holborn and Surrey had also reopened, the former running "Miss Chester," "A False Alarm" and "Love in the Highlands;" and the latter, "Dolly Varden" and "Oliver Twist."....A new drama by Watts Phillips was to be produced at the Queen's, 19th, and one shortly by H. J. Byron at the Adelphi .....Bandmann continued at the Standard, supported by Miss Walreck, his wife being ill ....Aynsley Cook was to commence a season of English opera at the Standard, 4th November. He had already engaged Blanche Cole, George Perren, Nordblom and Vernon Rigby......Nothing new at the London music halls......Rosherville Gardens were sold on the 8th at auction for £24,600 to Mr. Nathea, the late octogenarian proprietor. They are near Gravesend, and twenty miles from London......Sims Reeves had another attack of rheumatic gout, and was laid up

Live Well.

Those who eat good dinners are amiable. Bad feeding is the cause of many crimes. Those who dine at the Pioneer Restaurant, on Washington street, at the corner of Dunbar Alley, live well, and are consequently happy. Henry Booken, who has catered for the public since 1849, provides for his customers Lake Tahoe trout, Salmagundi soup, game, tame geese, delicious entrees, and everything the heart of man can desire. The best cup of tea in the city—English breakfast tea—Souchong and Orange Pekoe—can be obtained here. E

Oyster Trade.

The oyster trade in California is assuming gigantic proportions. Emerson Corville, of the Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, furnishes from his own oyster beds at San Bruno millions of oysters to all parts of the Pacific Coast. His Eastern transplanted oysters have a fame which has extended all over the continent, and the 'Saddle Rock" is known everywhere.

DR. BARLOW J. SMITH

ANNOUNCES THAT THE RECENT EXTENsive additions and improvements to his HYGIENE HOME WATER-CURE and PHRENOLOGICAL INSTITUTE, 687 California street, are completed. To his original premises have been added an entirely new and elegant three-story brick structure, a new and commodious lecture hall, a lofty and spacious dining hall, and cosy, comfortable bath-rooms in almost endless variety, with all the most modern, scientific and complete appliances for administering every conceivable description of medical baths, among which may be mentioned the electro-thermal, the electro-sitz, the electro-vapor, the electro-Russian, the electro-Turkish, Sulphur Mercurial, Iodine and other medicated baths; also an entirely new bath, invented by Dr. Smith, which he has named the American bath. It combines all the advantages of the Russian and Turkish, together with the electric spray and other appliances peculiar to itself, making it superior to any other hydropathic application now in use. The spacious parlors and other multiplied appliances for promoting the health and comfort of patients combine to constitute DR. SMITH'S HYGIENE HOME WATERCURE by far the most complete Hygiene Establishment on the Pacific Slope, and affords to the sick and suffering of both sexes the surest, speediest and cheapest means of cure to be found anywhere West of the Rocky mountains. Hygienic board and a comfortable home for all who desire them.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

California Theatre.

A large audience enjoyed the performance of "L'Africaine" by the Fabbri Troupe last night. To-night the entertainment will commence with the "Serious Family" with Miss Anna Graham, Geo. D. Chaplin, Owen Marlowe, J. O. Williamson, Miss Helen Tracy, Mrs. Judah, and others in the cast. After this "Ireland as it Was" will be played with Miss Maggie Moore as Judy O'Trot and J. O. Williamson as Ragged Pat. These two favorites will during the piece dance a double Irish jig, which proved such an immense feature when the play was presented before. To-morrow will be the last opera night but one and "Il Trovatore" will be by general desire presented. Mrs. F. S. Chanfrau will make her first appearance next Monday.

Alhambra.

There will be an entirely new programme to-night. Messrs. Baker and Farron, who have made such an immense hit, will appear in some of their most attractive specialties; John Enright, the famous Ethiopian comedian, will make his first appearance, and will take part in the farce of "The Wrong Man," supported by Rockafeller and Robinson; J. W. McAndrews will present his ever-popular sketch of "The Watermelon Man," and the performance will conclude with Add Ryman's very funny burlesque of "The Municipal Court," in which Sam Rickey will appear in his great character of the Judge. J. W. McAndrews will take his benefit on Friday evening, and make his last appearance but two.

Bella Union.

There was an immense audience on Saturday night and again last night to witness Johnny Tuer's sensation drama entitled "The Forger's Escape; or, how about the Bothering Brothers?" This caused great amusement and the curtain fell to the music of hearty laughter at the comic denouement. M'lle Eugenie Gerretia did a very pretty act on the magic globe; "Dot New Yorick Bakery," by J. H. Larkin and Carrie Armstrong was much applauded; the new comic ballet entitled "The Village Coquette" was quite a success, and altogether a capital entertainment was given. The same bill will be presented to-night.

The Atheneum.

The new pantomime with scenic effects by Mons. Carbettier is a pleasing feature in the programme at this house. Billy Smith has made quite a hit in his "Essence of old Virginny;" Lydia Livingstone is much applauded for her fancy dances; Lou McCarthy shines in negro acts; Miss Carrie Chapman is great in fancy dances, and many others appear in a well-arranged programme.

Pacific Hall.

There will no doubt be a very large and fashionable audience at this Hall on Tuesday evening next, to listen to Mrs. Minnie Myrtle Miller's second lecture on "Joaquin Miller, the Poet and the Man." Tickets are selling so rapidly, and there is such general interest excited in the best circles in society, that it is certain that the wit, intelligence and fashion of San Francisco will be largely represented. Seats can be secured by those holding dollar tickets without extra charge on the day of the lecture. The general admission will be fifty cents. A partial synopsis of the lecture appears on our first page.

City Gardens.

Thousands of persons visited the City Gardens yesterday afternoon to see the last balloon ascension of the present season by M. Grust Buislay, on which occasion he was to have taken up a horse with him attached to the balloon. At half-past four the ascension was made, horse and all, the horse being a dummy horse—one of those recently used here in Johnny Tuers' burlesque circus at the Bella Union. The descent was safely made in a mud flat left bare on the Potrero shore by the receding tide. Buislay alighted up to his hips in the slimy mud, and the balloon, getting wet, was regained with some difficulty.

Woodward's Gardens.

Thousands visited these gardens on Sunday. Thousands of attractive features render Woodward's Gardens a favorite resort during the week for ladies and children. The Angel-fish and the Devil-fish are the two latest novelties. They attract much attention.

Turn Verein Hall.

Luther's Æolians, a company of vocalists and musicians who have given many pleasing entertainments, have tendered a complimentary benefit to the family of Fortonato Arriola, the talented artist whose loss by drowning at sea is so generally lamented. A concert and ball will be given at Turn Verein Hall on November 20th.

Wilson's Circus.

Dr. Haskell, the general agent of John Wilson's European, New York and San Francisco Circus and Hippodrome, arrived in this city on Saturday night, and informs us that the troupe will open in San Francisco on Saturday, November 30th. They exhibit at Redding, November 13th; Red Bluff, 14; Tehama, 15th; Chico, 16th; Oroville, 17th; Marysville, 19th; Colusa, 20th; Knight's Landing, 21st; Woodland 22d; Davisville, 23d; Dixon, 25th; Suisun, 26th; Vallejo, 27th. Dr. H. is at the International Hotel.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

Live Well.

Those who eat good dinners are amiable. Bad feeding is the cause of many crimes. Those who dine at the Pioneer Restaurant, on Washington street, at the corner of Dunbar Alley, live well, and are consequently happy. Henry Bocken, who has catered for the public since 1849, provides for his customers Lake Tahoe trout, Salmagundi soup, game, tame geese, delicious entrees, and everything the heart of man can desire. The best cup of tea in the city—English breakfast tea—Souchong and Orange Pekoe—can be obtained here. E

Mme. Le Normond, who tells fortunes on the European Plan, is the most highly accomplished and versatile lady in this line of business—give her a call at her new rooms, North-West corner of Kearny and Sacramento street. L

Gagging Shakspeare.

C. H. Clarke, the well-known comedian, was engaged from 1863 to '66, at Grover's Theatre, Washington, and it was during the engagement of Davenport and Wallack, the famous impersonators of the legitimate drama, the following incident occurred:

Miss Charlotte Cushman had volunteered to play the part of Lady Macbeth, providing the proceeds of the house were given to the sanitary committee. The offer was accepted and President Lincoln and family, General Grant and others were invited to attend. Davenport was to play Macduff, and Wallack Macbeth.

The theatre was crowded with a brilliant audience, anticipating a rich treat in seeing three such artists as Wallack, Davenport and Cushman in the cast.

Clarke was to personate Bleeding Sergeant, and in the morning at rehearsal he was asked to personate the character of the Physician, which is easily done, the bleeding sergeant being finished in the first and the physician not coming on until the fifth act. Clarke rehearsed the part, and when evening came, played the sergeant all right, then donning his street clothes sauntered into the street; there meeting a few friends he imbibed two or three times, and then went back to the theatre and dressed for the part of the physician.

Now, Clarke's hair was cut short, and he was obliged to wear a skull cap to fasten his white wig to his head; he gridironed his face with marks resembling wrinkles, and after dressing in a costume suited to the character, went on the stage and played the first scene correctly, but forgetting that he had another scene, he went to his dressing room, and removing the wig and his outer garments, placed a pipe in his mouth and seated himself for a smoke. Soon a voice from a speaking trumpet, which leads to to the dressing room, aroused him with:

"For God's sake, Clarke, where are you? Here's your scene, hurry down!"

Clarke, minus his wig, and trying to get in his tab jacket, rushed down stairs just in time to hear his cue. Walking out on the stage in his skull cap he was received with a yell.

Wallack looked at the physician in astonishment.

Clarke looked at Koppitz in the orchestra, and then at Wallack.

"Canst thou minister to a diseased mind, etc.," said Wallack.

Clarke should have said:

"Therein the patient must minister to himself;" but his lines went from him, and he said:

"That's at the option of the woman."

"Ah—ah—a—" roared Wallack, "What are you talking about?"

Clarke wished himself somewhere else.

"They come—hearest thou of them?"

Clarke should have replied:

"Your royal preparation makes us hear something," but he said:

"We've heard of them a number of times."

Miss Cushman, Davenport and the entire company were roaring with laughter at the entrances.

"Go off," said Wallack to Clarke.

Clarke turned and faced the private box that contained Mr. Lincoln and family, Gen. Grant and others, who saluted him with laughter of the most genuine kind. Clarke made for the dressing room, and half an hour later was ensconced snugly in bed, feeling bad enough. This was before he gained his popularity as a comedian, but he can never forget the day when he attempted to gag Shakspeare.

Oyster Trade.

The oyster trade in California is assuming gigantic proportions. Emerson Corville, of the Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, furnishes from his own oyster beds at San Bruno millions of oysters to all parts of the Pacific Coast. His Eastern transplanted oysters have a fame which has extended all over the continent, and "the Saddle Rock" is known everywhere.

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of waters bright, did make a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
"Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here—
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clam sand-crabs and terrapins;
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again.

TAXES. TAXES.
1872-73.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT A CERTIFIED copy of the Assessment Book of the taxable property of the City and County of San Francisco,

Real Estate and Personal Property

For the fiscal year 1872-73, has this day been received; that the State, City and County Taxes for said fiscal year are now due and payable at the office of the undersigned (Room No. 1, City Hall); and that the laws in regard to their collection will be strictly enforced.

Taxes will become DELINQUENT on the FIRST MONDAY IN JANUARY, 1873, and unless paid prior thereto, five per cent., will be added to the amount thereof.

TO TAXPAYERS.

Taxes Due October 28th,

Delinquent Jan. 6th, 1872.

THE USUAL DELAY, CONFUSION AND annoyance experienced by Taxpayers will be much increased this year, as both PERSONAL and REAL PROPERTY has to be paid upon at the same time.

This being the case, the undersigned would most respectfully suggest that Taxpayers furnish this office with a schedule of their property at an early day. Where there have been no changes, the Tax Bills of any previous year are the most convenient and correct memoranda.

What the Pig Died Of.

There was a miser who was considered impregnable to charitable associations until a Hibernian "came Paddy" over him. Pat went to his office one morning and told a piteous story about losing his pig, the only one he had.

"Shure," says Pat, "Mistress ——, (naming an excellent lady, whose good opinion old Hard Fist was anxious to retain,) towld me to come ta ye, for ye wor very rich, and gev a power of money to the poor, God bless ye! I only want to raise enough to buy me another little shlip of a pig."

The miser could not resist the influence of Mrs. ——, so he gave Pat a crown. A few days after he met him.

"Well, Pat," said he, "did you buy another pig?"

"Troth I did; and a fine one it is."

"Then take better care of it than you did of the other. What did the pig you lost die of?"

"Die of," exclaimed Pat, raising his eyebrows; "shure he didn't die—he was fat enough, and I killed him.

Utterly Disgusted.

The following is related of an Englishman who was tempted to emigrate to Arizona in the expectation of finding innumerable precious stones. His search was a failure; but he was informed that in the mountain near San Bernardino a brass mine—very rich in ore—had been discovered; so he went in search of it. Very soon, however, he left the country in disgust. Arriving at a hotel at Prescott one night, he was asked by the landlord if he would have some teal for supper. "What's teal?" asked the Englishman. "Why, a kind of duck," replied the landlord." "Has it wings?" inquired the Englishman. "Certainly," answered the landlord. "Then," said the Englishman, "I don't want any; any thing that has wings and can fly, and won't fly out of this accursed country, I don't want to have anything to do with."

What Love is to a Woman.

What a wonderful thing love is to a woman! How it helps her, to know there is some one who is always fond of her—who rejoices when she rejoices, and sorrows when she sorrows; to be sure that her faults are loved, and that her face is fairer, to one at least, than faces that are more beautiful—that one great heart holds her sacred in its innermost recesses above all women! She can do anything, be anything, suffer anything, thus upheld. She grows prettier under the sweet influence, brighter, kinder, stronger; and life seems but a foretaste of heaven; and all her dreams are gold.

Somebody in need of a musical instrument recently helped himself to the cabinet organ of the South Wellfleet, Mass., Congregational Church.

Health and Pleasure.

There are not too many pleasures in San Francisco. Nothing is more pleasant, nothing more health-giving than a drive into the country now and then. Those who cannot afford to keep a carriage of their own, can find one equal in elegance to any private conveyance at the Occidental Carriage stand. Frank Bonton has there, and at his stables 1016 Stockton street, carriages of every description. His drivers are careful and experiences, his charges are moderate. The moral of the above is: go to Frank Bouton at the Occidental Hotel When you want a carriage. n

A Manager's Complaint.

A very sad little essay on the contemporary drama is to be found in the letter of a Newcastle manager, concerning his Shakespearian revivals. After pointing out that his company was above, rather than below, the mark, and showing, by his detailed accounts, that he spared no legitimate expense in the production of "Henry IV.," "Julius Cæsar," and "King John," Mr. Stanley tells us that he lost £140 in the three weeks of Shakspeare—a result which he contrasts with the good fortune attending the simultaneous production in Newcastle of a sensation play called "True Steel," by a Mr. Romaine, and also of M'lle Sara's ballet. "The public," he concludes, bitterly,

Preferred Romaine, and Offenbach, and Sara, to Shakspeare. I am not surprised at this result. My own experience as an actor and manager, extending now over five-and-twenty years, has often demonstrated to me that, although many people talk and write in support of Shakspeare's plays, but few will go to see them. They also talk and write against dramas like "True as Steel," ballets like M'lle Sara's, and burlesques like Mr. Farnie's, but they nevertheless patronize, and pay to witness them.

It is the old, old story, with the scene and time altered, and but little else; and it is none the less sad to those who still retain their faith in Shakspeare, because it is, practically, unanswerable. Unless a manager, now-a-days, obtains the services of a "star," no large portion of the public will give itself a chance of appreciating the average excellence of his company; and, unless he can introduce some special feature into his Shakspearian revival, he will find it evidently regarded as tame.

Singular Duel.

The Paris papers tell of a duel on the piano between two musicians. They played for forty-eight hours without food or drink. Having commenced with pieces of a sedate character, they passed on to waltzes, and thence to operatic music. One had played the Miserere in "Il Trovatore" 580 times, and was commencing on the 581st performance of that piece when he sank to rise no more. The other was conveyed to the hospital, his life being despaired of, and the four seconds are suffering from mental aberration. There are a good many pianists who ought to learn something from this novel performance. Let them think, for instance, how infinitely more merciful it would be to kill themselves in that way, rather than a large audience or an entire neighborhood. And there is the young man who is learning to play the flute; but we suppose, after all, that the young man was not born to die.

Suddenly Rich.

It is somewhat remarkable, the number of fortunes that are lying about this season waiting for servant-girls, washerwomen and other useful members of the community to come and claim them. The last of which we have heard is the snug little sum of eighteen million francs, said to be ready for a St. Louis washerwoman whenever she can prove her title thereto. We are very much afraid that a good washerwoman may be spoiled by this little fortune.

An Exchange of Civilities.

One day Piron went to see Voltaire, but did not find him at home. In order to excite his ire, he wrote on his door, "Old Villain." Two days after he met the author of the "Henriade" in the street. "I was at your house," he said to Voltaire, with a sneer, "but did not find you at home." "I know," replied Voltaire; "you left your name on the door."

A Candid Diagnosis.

"Don't you discover a determination of blood to the head?" inquired a hard drinking man of a doctor he was consulting. "No," said the doctor; "but I think I discover a determination to get drunk."

Altogether the Best.

It is curious, but true, that J. A. Shaber, 707 Market street, near Third, should sell furniture and bedding cheaper than any other dealer in this city. Try him and you will be convinced. Y

REOPENING

DR. BARLOW J. SMITH

ANNOUNCES THAT THE RECENT EXTENsive additions and improvements to his HYGIENE HOME WATER-CURE and PHRENOLOGICAL INSTITUTE, 637 California street, are completed. To his original premises have been added an entirely new and elegant three-story brick structure, a new and commodious lecture hall, a lofty and spacious dining hall, and cosy, comfortable bath-rooms in almost endless variety, with all the most modern, scientific and complete appliances for administering every conceivable description of medical baths, among which may be mentioned the electro-thermal, the electro-sitz, the electro-vapor, the electro-Russian, the electro-Turkish, Sulphur Mercurial, Iodine and other medicated baths; also an entirely new bath, invented by Dr. Smith, which he has named the American bath. It combines all the advantages of the Russian and Turkish, together with the electric spray and other appliances peculiar to itself, making it superior to any other hydropathic application now in use. The spacious parlors and other multiplied appliances for promoting the health and comfort of patients combine to constitute DR. SMITH'S HYGIENE HOME WATER CURE by far the most complete Hygiene Establishment on the Pacific Slope, and affords to the sick and suffering of both sexes the surest, speediest and cheapest means of cure to be found anywhere West of the Rocky mountains. Hygienic board and a comfortable home for all who desire them.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

California Theatre.

All present at this theatre last night thoroughly enjoyed the entertainment given. The comedy of "The Serious Family" was presented in excellent style. G. D. Chapin was a most gentlemanly Captain Murphy Maguire; Owen Marlowe was very good as Charles Torrens, and J. C. Williamson's make-up as Aminidab Sleek was wonderful. Miss Annie Graham acted charmingly as Mrs. Ormsby Delaine; Miss Helen Tracy was affective as Mrs. Charles Torrens, and Miss Judah was perfectly delicious as Lady Sowerby Creamly, representing the character to the life. "Ireland as it was" followed the comedy, and J. C. Williamson and Miss Maggie Moore in their respective characters of Ragged Pat and Judy O'Trot kept the audience in the best of humors, making the most of every comic situation and fairly bringing down the house by their execution of a double Irish jig. To-night, which is the last but one of the season of opera by the Fabbri Troupe, the ever-popular opera of "Il Trovatore" will be presented with the cast which appears on our first page. If it be true that "blessings brighten as they take their flight" the music-loving people of San Francisco will throng the California Theatre on the last two opera nights.

Alhambra.

The new programme presented at this house last night proved quite a success. After a capital first part ending with the "Phantom Chorus" sung in splendid style by the minstrels, an interlude was given, in which Baker and Farron appeared in characteristic songs and dances, and won much applause. John Enright, who made his first appearance on this occasion in the sketch entitled "The Wrong man," is an Ethiopian comedian of more than ordinary merit, and made the audience laugh heartily by his original style of acting. He will prove a valuable addition to the company. Miss Fanny Gibson sang a ballad in excellent style, and the performance concluded with Add Ryman's laughable burlesque entitled "The Municipal Court," in which he, Sam Rickey, Charles Sutton and others caused much amusement. The same bill will be played to-night.

Bella Union.

The great attraction at this house is the sensation drama by Johnny Tuers entitled "The Forgers' Escape; or, How About the Bothering Brothers?" Johnny Tuers as George and Harry Sinclair as Lewie, made up for brunettes, cause much laughter; Cogill's make-up for Trusty Riley is capital, and he does some good acting. New scenery representing the interior of the jail has been painted for this piece. The denouement is especially startling. This piece, with a good first part and interlude, will be given every evening until further notice.

The Atheneum.

Miss Lydia Livingston, Miss May Leroy, Lon McCarthy, Carrie Chapman, Jimmy Ball, Maggie Brewer and a host of other favorite artistes will appear to-night in a great programme terminating with Garhetier's pantomime entitled "Subenenet."

Pacific Hall.

This evening Mrs. Minnie Myrtle Miller will deliver her second lecture on "Joaquin Miller, the Poet and the Man." A partial synopsis appears on our first page. So many tickets have been sold and such general interest is manifested in it, that the hall will certainly be crowded. There is some talk that Joaquin Miller himself has arrived and will be present. If so, this will add zest to the occasion. The Hall will be open to-day from 10 till 4, when seats may be reserved. The admission to the body of the hall is fifty cents, and to the gallery, twenty-five cents.

Woodward's Gardens.

Thousands visited these gardens on Sunday. Thousands of attractive features render Woodward's Gardens a favorite resort during the week for ladies and children. The Angel-fish and the Devil-fish are the two latest novelties. They attract much attention.

Horticultural Hall.

This fine hall is to be transformed into a skating rink, and will probably be opened under competent management for that purpose on Saturday evening next. The large area of the hall, its splendid floor, and central locality, admirably fit it for that purpose.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentleman only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

A French Thief.

A man is brought up before the Police Court. The Judge asks: "Accused, what is your profession."

"Property-owner."

"Do you wish to aggravate your position by mocking Justice?"

"No, Monsieur le Juge, but you know Prudhon has said owning property is robbery."

Bad for Joaquin Miller.

An exchange says: "It is said the Andes are gradually sinking." When the Andes are entirely flattened out it will be necessary to revise and reprint the "The Isles of the Amazons," in which "the great Andes" rhyme to "peaceful seas" so often and Joaquin will probably be dead by that time.

Live Well.

Those who eat good dinners are amiable. Bad feeding is the cause of many crimes. Those who dine at the Pioneer Restaurant, on Washington street, at the corner of Dunbar Alley, live well, and are consequently happy. Henry Bocken, who has catered for the public since 1849, provides for his customers Lake Tahoe trout, [illegible] soup, game, tame geese, delicious entrees, and everything the heart of man can desire. The best cup of tea in the city—English breakfast tea—Souchong and Orange Pekoe—can be obtained here. E

Mme. Le Normand, who tells fortunes on the European Plan, is the most highly accomplished and versatile lady in this line of business—give her a call at her new rooms, North-West corner of Kearny and Sacramento street. L

Joaquin Miller.

It seems that Joaquin Miller has not yet shaken off the dust his feet against the United States and gone to England. We hear of him on the 2d of November as stopping at the Burnett House, Cincinnati. He may yet arrive in San Francisco in time to hear the lecture. He was interviewed by a reporter of the "Fat Contributor's Saturday Night." We make some extracts from the report in that paper:

R.—How do you like the Europeans?

J. M.—Very well, indeed. I admire particularly that high-souled mode of thought which prompts them to judge of a man's productions, let him be a poet or painter, in the abstract, for what they are worth, without any regard to the personality of the author.

R.—If I understand you correctly, sir, you mean that American critics, through the medium of the modern interviewer, cause the imaginary portrait drawn by the Knight of the pencil to cast its reflection on the works of the author, favorably or unfavorably, according to the whim of the critic.

J. M.—That's it. Tennyson and other English poets and authors are never subjected to such misconstruction, except when they unfortunately fall into the hands of an American interviewer.

R.—Have you met Tennyson?

J. M.—I met him on two occasions. I was very graciously received by the literati of England in general, and have obtained the kindest and most durable impressions of their generosity.

R.—How does travel affect a man, poetically speaking.

J. M.—It expands and elevates the soul, and enables a man to rise far above the personal and petty slanders of those who don't understand his peculiarities, and those who infringe on the sacred precincts of his domestic concerns without knowing anything about them.

R.—We never condescended to that mode of pleasing the popular palate in the Saturday Night.

J. M.—I have never thought it worth while going to a newspaper office to contradict slanders, but I feel conscious that I shall live them down.

R.—Do you intend writing much on your travels?

J. M.—No; I don't believe in writing much. My object is to condense my productions as much as possible.

R.—Do you intend making a long stay in Cincinnati.

J. M.—Probably a week or two. I am at home now. I was born in Indiana. I should be attached to this city, because Cincinnati Miller is the name I received at my baptism.

R.—And whence comes the nom de plume, Joaquin?

J. M.—It was transferred from an Indian to me, in whom I hope it is honored. He was a great horseman, and I used to indulge in the manly art of riding. In the wild west it is a rare thing for people to get their proper names.

R.—I feel honored and obliged by this interview.

A Student's Trick.

A man with a crutch was admitted to one of the Yale secret societies the other night, and the members, with more than usual humanity, allowed him to come in without the customary ceremonies of initiation. But he proved to be a veritable "heathen Chinee," and later in the evening when a row sprung up he "went through" several sophomores in a manner truly surprising. Since then he has been seen without cane or crutch, in a front rank of a "rush," and the human feeling in his favor has somehow died away.

An Opera Sharp.

On Monday evening, last week, the leg spectacle of "Ixion" was unexpectedly placed on the stage at Wakefield's, St. Louis, owing to non-arrival of the grand opera troupe. A rural visitor sat through the performance under the impression that it was the opera "Martha," and at the close he said: "I rather like it, they can always count me in when one of Mr. Flotow's pieces is on."

Oyster Trade.

The oyster trade in California is assuming gigantic proportions. Emerson Corville, of the Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, furnishes from his own oyster beds at San Bruno millions of oysters to all parts of the Pacific Coast. His Eastern transplanted oysters have a fame which has extended all over the continent, and the "Saddle Rock" is known everywhere.

"Good-Night, but Not Good-bye."

We lingered at the little gate,
Beneath a dark and dewy sky,
And when at last we parted, Fate
Behind the shadows whispered "Wait."
But she unheeding murmured, "Late,
Late, sweetheart, 'tis growing late—
Oh, then, good-night, but not good-bye!"

I watched her flitting up the stair
And longed to be where thought could fly;
But half-way up the darkened stair
She turned and chid my lingering there.
"Even love," she cried, "must rest, to bear
New buds for blooming. Only swear
You'll not forget; ah, do but swear,
And then good-night, but not good-bye!"

Her voice is in my memory yet,
A still small sound that passeth by,
For who can love, and then forget?
But death is sleep; and somewhere yet
Love's morn shall rise, and never set!
Therefore, close up my coffin; let
Love rest awhile from care and fret.
Sleep well, sweetheart; I'll not forget.
Good-night, indeed, but not good-bye!

Quid Est Veritas?

If the astonished and inquiring Roman, Pontius Pilate, had lived in these days it would have been no wonder that he was puzzled to know what truth was. Not long since we read the effect of the abolition of capital punishment in Iowa had been a diminution of crime, and an almost entire lack of murder cases. This did not seem probable. An Iowa paper comes along with an exactly contrary statement. It says the increase of crime has been enormous, and already there is talk of lynch law in that law-abiding State. The Synod of the Presbyterian Church, lately held at Dubuque, passed a resolution declaring the action of the Legislature to have been hasty and unwise, and recommending general petitions for the restoration of capital punishment.

Very Neat.

M. Mario's visit to this country recalls to some one a witticism of Medame Grisi, when his wife. King Louis Phillippe, passing through a room where Grisi stood holding two of her young children by the hand said gayly: "Ah! Madame, are those then some of your little Grisettes?" "No, Sire," was the quick reply, "these are my little Marionettes."

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of waters bright, did make a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
"Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here—
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins;
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again.

"Theater" or "Theatre."

A question often arises relative to the correct orthography of the word "theatre." About one half of the writers of the present age use the terminus "er," while the other half, including the press generally, retain the "re." According to Webster both are correct, but in the classified list of derivations we find the French, Spanish and Portuguese authorities only have the "re"—the Greek and Latin have the "r" preceding the final letter or letters, as "theatrum." The majority of the standard and ancient authorities are in favor of the orthography "re," and we believe that is the correct spelling of such words as theatre, centre, metre, etc. Milton and Bacon spell theatre with the "er" termination, but Dumas, Sr., Goethe, Hawthorne and Beecher spell it "tre"—and it is quite probable the scholars of to-day have as much authority for the "re" as the learned men of more primitive ages had for "er." All publishers of plays in England and America spell the word "theatre." We are inclined to think "theatre" is some accidental innovation made by English authors or editors, who, if called upon, could give no reason for the transmutation. The English language is replete with such inconsistencies and treasonable orthography. If "theater" were adopted as the spelling of the substantive, then the adjective would have to be "theaterical," which would be an atrocious word.

Devoted Wives.

In Siam, in a city composed exclusively of women, the manufacture of silk and cotton stockings is exclusively carried on. Their husbands live outside the third wall, and to them they are devoted; as an illustration of which, a lady missionary, who was trying to sow the good seed, told that when holding up to a Buddhist woman of Siam for her choice the sublimity of heaven or the terror of hell, the woman said she would consult her husband; if he went to heaven she should dearly love to go also, but if he should go to hell she wished to attend him all the same.

Misguided Zeal.

A rural sport who tried to eat his pie with a fork at one of our hotels yesterday, because a city girl was sitting opposite, had the misfortune to harpoon his tongue at the second mouthful, and in his his efforts to pull out the fork upset a dish of cranberry sauce in the lady's lap. He says he "don't go a cent on style hereafter, and will shovel in his food in the old manner if Queen Victoria sits next to him."

Poor Thing!

In Marseilles lately a young girl named Irma Gras, a very handsome brunette, assassinated her lover because he refused to buy her a gold watch. To the general astonishment of the court and audience, the jury acquitted her.

Health and Pleasure.

There are not too many pleasures in San Francisco. Nothing is more pleasant, nothing more health-giving than a drive into the country now and then. Those who cannot afford to keep a carriage of their own, can find one equal in elegance to any private conveyance at the Occidental Carriage stand. Frank Bonton has there, and at his stables 1015 Stockton street, carriages of every description. His drivers are careful and experienced, his charges are moderate. The moral of the above is: go to Frank Bonton at the Occidental Hotel when you want a carriage. o

Pause, Gentle Reader,

And peruse this notice. It will inform you that Meyers, of the White House Restaurant, Kearny street, has reopened, and thoroughly renovated the Eclipse Restaurant, 204 and 206 Fourth street, between Howard and Folsom, under the name of the Capitol Restaurant. Mr. Meyers begs to invite the patronage of the residents in the neighborhood and public in general, and assures them that he intends to provide the very best the market affords at Popular Prices—viz: three 12½ cent dishes for 25 cents.

Sewing Machines for Sale or to Rent,

Now Will You Dry Up?

The San Jose Mercury has repeatedly taken us to task for saying that the people of that city haven't much appreciation for music and the drama. When we heard that Brohaska of the Opera House was thinking of engaging the Fabbri Opera Troupe to perform a night or two in San Jose, we kindly suggested that it would be as well for him not to gamble on the amount of taste for music which existed there, and advised him to open a subscription list. He followed our advice. The Mercury of Saturday says:

> The project of having a season of Italian opera in San Jose has been abandoned. Brohaska started a subscription list in order to ensure the expenses of the Fabbris—that company refusing to come unless their expenses were guaranteed—and has met with poor success. He canvassed the city one day, and obtained as a reward for his efforts three names. Therefore the people are to blame for the opera failure. Whether they are deficient in taste or appreciation is another question altogether.

Will the Mercury kindly procure for us the names of those three appreciative people? If it will do so, we will immortalize them by publishing them in FIGARO. As the Mercury justly observes, "the people are to blame for the opera failure." We rather like the sentence which follows: "Whether they are deficient in taste or appreciation is another question altogether." Certainly it is—quite another question. We think they are not deficient in those qualities. They can appreciate music—of a certain kind: hand-organ music, caterwauling by seedy-voiced school children, or the performances of a drum corps—but they don't appreciate it enough to pay for it. They would rather hide their money away in old stockings than spend it for amusement. Now will the Mercury be kind enough to stop howling about the libels of FIGARO on San Jose as a show town? The Tribune died, and the Mercury will probably become sick, if it continues to misrepresent the honest motives which actuate FIGARO in advising all troupes, musical and dramatic, to steer clear of San Jose, the prettiest, dullest and most unappreciative (as regards amusements) town in California. Requiescemus. Give us a rest.

Dreams of Illusion.

It is pleasant to dream sometimes. The preparation of the Eastern exhilarant, hasheesh, known as Magic Conserves, produces pleasant dreams and so far from leaving any unpleasant effect, strengthens the constitution. Everyone in San Francisco is trying these magical little sugar plums, and we expect some experiences like those of Bayard Taylor and Fitzhugh Ludlow will shortly be published. Bungletoe should try them and write a paper on the subject for Sunday's Call. He is becoming rather stupid, and magic conserves would stimulate his imagination wonderfully.

REOPENING
DR. BARLOW J. SMITH

ANNOUNCES THAT THE RECENT EXTENSIVE additions and improvements to his HYGIENE HOME WATER-CURE and PHRENOLOGICAL INSTITUTE, 637 California street, are completed. To his original premises have been added an entirely new and elegant three-story brick structure, a new and commodious lecture hall, a lofty and spacious dining hall, and cosy, comfortable bath-rooms in almost endless variety, with all the most modern, eclectic and complete appliances for administering every conceivable description of medical baths, among which may be mentioned the electro-thermal, the electro-sitz, the electro-vapor, the electro-Russian, the electro-Turkish, Sulphur Mercurial, Iodine and other medicated baths; also an entirely new bath, invented by Dr. Smith, which he has named the American baths. It combines all the advantages of the Russian and Turkish, together with the electric spray and other appliances peculiar to itself, making it superior to any other hydropathic application now in use. The spacious parlors and other multiplied appliances for promoting the health and comfort of patients combine to constitute DR. SMITH'S HYGIENE HOME WATER CURE by far the most complete Hygiene Establishment on the Pacific Slope, and affords to the sick and suffering of both sexes the surest, speediest and cheapest means of cure to be found anywhere West of the Rocky mountains. Hygienic board and a comfortable home for all who desire them.

1872-73.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT A CERtified copy of the Assessment Book of the taxable property of the City and County of San Francisco,

Real Estate and Personal Property

For the fiscal year 1872-73, has this day been received; that the State, City and County Taxes for said fiscal year are now due and payable at the office of the undersigned (Room No. 1, City Hall); and that the laws in regard to their collection will be strictly enforced.

Taxes will become DELINQUENT on the FIRST MONDAY IN JANUARY, 1873, and unless paid prior thereto, five per cent., will be added to the amount thereof.

A. AUSTIN,
Tax Collector of the City and County of San Francisco.

TO TAXPAYERS.

Taxes Due October 28th,

Delinquent Jan. 6th, 1872.

THE USUAL DELAY, CONFUSION AND annoyance experienced by Taxpayers will be much increased this year, as both PERSONAL and REAL PROPERTY has to be paid upon at the same time.

This being the case, the undersigned would most respectfully suggest that Taxpayers furnish this office with a schedule of their property at an early day. Where there have been no changes, the Tax Bills of any previous year are the most convenient and correct memoranda.

A. AUSTIN,
oc15 tf Tax Collector.

Scene in a Police Court.

PROSECUTING ATTORNEY—Madam you, accuse your maid servant of having robbed you of certain articles.

LADY—Yes, sir, of some handkerchiefs and under-linen.

THE MAID—I never took any of your linen. I confess to having taken one of your blonde wigs which I sold.

THE LADY—(turning pale) I do not accuse you of that.

THE MAID—I am not guilty of the other theft of which you accuse me. You have dragged me into Court, but if you send me to jail all the city shall know that you wear a blonde wig.

PROSECUTING ATTORNEY—Madame, do you wish to press this charge?

LADY—No, release that girl!

A Better Way.

An exchange says:

Many gentlemen have pockets made in the sleeves of their overcoats, wherein a lady may keep her hand warm when walking arm in arm with them.

This is very considerate of them and may do for bashful gentlemen—gentlemen who may be said to be like muffs because they take a lady's hand without squeezing it—but there is a better way than this. Let the lady's hand rest on your left arm, throw your right arm across your chest, and—oh there are lots of fellows know all about it, we expect. It is much better than the pocket arrangement.

An Exasperating Mosquito.

Sir Toby has been spending a few days in South Jersey, and philosophically observes of one of the experiences of his visit: "I never did have that animosity toward the mosquito that most people feel; but when I saw him in his glory down here, deliberately leaning against my bed post, his legs crossed, and his right flipper resting carelessly on his hip, watching for me to go to bed, it struck me that, for a vampire, his behavior was impertinent and exasperating in the extreme."

Mourning for a Husband.

"It seems to me that Mrs. C——'s hair was nearly gray a year ago."

"Yes, nearly."

"But now it is perfectly black."

"Ah, yes, you know she has lost her husband since then."

A Good Joke.

A club of Boston ladies are hard at work endeavoring to obtain the passage of a city ordinance providing that all tobacco chewers shall be muzzled when on the street.

Miss Camp, of Jackson, Mich., hiccoughed herself to death, and an Illinois man coughed so heartily that one of his ribs snapped.

Monograms on note paper are larger and more elaborate than ever.

Health and Pleasure.

There are not too many pleasures in San Francisco. Nothing is more pleasant, nothing more health-giving than a drive into the country now and then. Those who cannot afford to keep a carriage of their own, can find one equal in elegance to any private conveyance at the Occidental Carriage stand. Frank Bonton has there, and at his stables 1018 Stockton street, carriages of every description. His drivers are careful and experienced, his charges are moderate. The moral of the above is: go to Frank Bonton at the Occidental Hotel when you want a carriage. o

Pause, Gentle Reader,

And peruse this notice. It will inform you that Meyers, of the White House Restaurant, Kearny street, has reopened, and thoroughly renovated the Eclipse Restaurant, 204 and 206 Fourth street, between Howard and Folsom, under the name of the Capitol Restaurant. Mr. Meyers begs to invite the patronage of the residents in the neighborhood and public in general, and assures them that he intends to provide the very best the market affords at Popular Prices—viz: three 12½ cent dishes for 25 cents.

The Misery of Disillusion.

It is positively heartrending. Why will people insist upon distributing our most pleasing historical delusions? They have already done enough mischief. They have proved that William Tell never shot that apple from his son's head, that he never slew Gessler, that there was no such person as Gessler, and that William Tell never existed. They have proved that Pocahontas was an ugly, unclean, unpoetical and uninteresting little wretch of a squaw; that Joan of Arc was never burned at the stake; that the "divine Williams" was an ignorant lout, whose so-called plays were written by Lord Bacon; that Richard III was a model of a husband and an estimable creature in general; that the Earl of Leicester never caused the death of Amy Robsart; that Washington was given to "cussing" and was terribly "stuck up"; that Franklin was an unbelieving, tipsy and miserly old humbug, and that Homer was a nonentity. This is well enough in its way, but now the crowning injury is about to be done us. A coterie of literary guerrillas in Philadelphia have in contemplation to prove that Christopher Columbus never discovered America, but was a blatant impostor. This is agonizing. If Columbus did not discover America, who did? Can it be that we were never discovered at all? What will become of our glorious past? What becomes of the stirring ballad, "Columbia, the Gem of the Ocean?" It only wants one more blow to complete our discomfiture, and that is for somebody to disprove the story of Columbus and the egg. Spare, O! spare us this last dread humiliation!

Which is Right.

A youth who reads the Pittsburgh Evening Bulletin complains that his ideas about spelling become confused by a perusal of that sheet. In the telegraphic news in the issue of the 2d he found the heading: "Unveiling the Scott Statute!" and on reading farther on for an explanation came on the following paragraph:

The statoe of Sir Walter Scott, in Central park, will be unveiled this rternoon at two o'clock.

Now he wants to know which is right—"statute" or "statoe." He rather likes the phonetic style of spelling "rfternoon," but he is puzzled about the other word.

Fiery Fish.

We are constantly learning facts which throw a light on the mysteries of nature. Here is one:

M. Geoffroy Saint-Hilaire has just received from Japan two golden fish sent to him by M. Dumas, French consul. They are luminous at night, their phosphorescence being so vivid that the keeper of the aquarium at first thought that a fire had broken out.

Of course these fish are of the same gold that is employed in the manufacture of coins, whose tendency to burn a hole in one's pocket is so well ascertained.

A Bad Spell.

A lost cow was lately advertised by the following notice, which was posted on trees and fences near the owner's dwelling:

Streyed or stolen—A large Red Kow, with Yaller Speks on her left side, and a pair of white speks on her right ear. She is about seven or eight years old. Ten dollers will be given to eny one turning her over to Newark. Gune 17, 1800702.

Ten million dollars will take the Shah of Persia through Europe.

Sam Bowles thinks of toting his Springfield Republican to New York.

A scooped pumpkin made an excellent ballot-box at a recent Kansas election.

Kalamazoo girls call themselves "Nymphs of Diana."

REOPENING

DR. BARLOW J. SMITH

ANNOUNCES THAT THE RECENT EXTENSIVE additions and improvements to his HYGIENE HOME WATER-CURE and PHRENOLOGICAL INSTITUTE, 637 California street, are completed. To his original premises have been added an entirely new and elegant three-story brick structure, a new and commodious lecture hall, a lofty and spacious dining-hall, and cosy, comfortable bath-rooms in almost endless variety, with all the most modern, scientific and complete appliances for administering every conceivable description of medical baths, among which may be mentioned the electro-thermal, the electro-sitz, the electro-vapor, the electro-Russian, the electro-Turkish, Sulphur Mercurial, Iodine and other medicated baths; also an entirely new bath, invented by Dr. Smith, which he has named the American bath. It combines all the advantages of the Russian and Turkish, together with the electric spray and other appliances peculiar to itself, making it superior to any other hydropathic application now in use. The spacious parlors and other multiplied appliances for promoting the health and comfort of patients combine to constitute DR. SMITH'S HYGIENE HOME WATER CURE by far the most complete Hygiene Establishment on the Pacific Slope, and affords to the sick and suffering of both sexes the surest, speediest and cheapest means of cure to be found anywhere West of the Rocky mountains. AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

California Theatre.

In consequence of the sudden indisposition of Signor Baccei "Il Trovatore" was not given last night but the bill which gave such general satisfaction on Monday night, "The Serious Family" and "Ireland as It Was" was excellently performed. This will be repeated this evening. To-morrow night is the last of the opera season and "Lucia di Lammermour" will be performed.

Alhambra.

Baker and Farron will appear to-night in their best acts; John Enright, who made such a hit on his first appearance, will amuse the audience in the sketch of "The Wrong Man;" J. W. McAndrews will present his original characterization of "The Watermelon Man," and the performance will conclude with Add Ryman's laughable burlesque entitled "The Municipal Court."

Bella Union.

The drama of "The Forger's Escape" crowds this house nightly. The new comic ballet by H. Schmidt, entitled "The Village Coquette" is very good, and Mme. Therese gains much applause as Lizette. J. H. Larkin, Carrie Armstrong, M'lle Gerratta and others appear in varied specialties and altogether a very lively entertainment is given.

The Atheneum.

Dan Lowry, the favorite comic vocalist, Miss Lydia Livingston, Miss May Leroy, Lou McCarthy, Carrie Chapman, Jimmy Hall, Billy Smith, Mons. Garbetier, and a host of other popular performers will appear to-night in a varied programme which is published on our first page.

Pacific Hall

An audience composed of the very best people in San Francisco assembled last night to hear Mrs. Myrtle Miller's second lecture on "Joaquin Miller, the Poet and the Man." There never was a more successful lecture; the applause was frequent, and there was many a hearty laugh caused by the cutting satire of the fair literary anatomist. Now we understand Joaquin Miller is to have a rest. Mrs. Miller will shortly deliver another lecture entitled "A Voice from the Wilderness," which will prove that she is capable of writing on some other subject beside the Poet of the Sierras.

Platt's Hall.

Miss Carrie Woods, a clever amateur actress and danseuse who has appeared before the public on many occasions, will on Friday evening be the recipient of a farewell benefit tendered her by many friends. A capital programme will be presented on this occasion, and the beneficiary will appear in "Le Pandero," and also in the play of "Nan the Good for Nothing," with which the entertainment will conclude. The full programme appears on our first page.

Young Men's Christian Association Hall.

Professor McDonald, a Scottish phrenologist of reputation, is now delivering a course of lectures on phrenology and other kindred subjects at this hall with success. His lectures are both amusing and instructive, and his examinations are big hits. The Professor's consulting rooms are at the Hall, open daily. He lectures every evening this week.

Woodward's Gardens.

Thousands visited these gardens on Sunday. Thousands of attractive features render Woodward's Gardens a favorite resort during the week for ladies and children. The Angel-fish and the Devil-fish are the two latest novelties. They attract much attention. In addition to these standing attractions the Conklin-Samwells Circus Combination will perform every day. The educated animals are great features in the entertainment.

City Gardens.

On Sunday Holland Brothers' European Circus will appear in the new Pavilion at the City Gardens and give a regular equestrian performance. Katie Holloway, Dorr and Worland, Holland Brothers, Harry Clark, M'lle Gracie, Horatio Nelson, J. Carhutt, Wm. Brown, and others form a company capable of giving a first-class and varied performance. The admission will remain at 25 cents.

Hayes Park.

A complimentary festival will be given at the Park on Sunday next, for the benefit of the Italian Musical school of this city. The exercises will consist of musical and other entertainments, and ball. The whole will be under the direction of competent committee of Italian citizens.

Horticultural Hall.

This fine hall is to be transformed into a skating rink, and will probably be opened under competent management for that purpose on Saturday evening next. The large area of the hall, its splendid floor, and central locality, admirably fit it for that purpose.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

Live Well.

Those who eat good dinners are amiable. Bad feeding is the cause of many crimes. Those who dine at the Pioneer Restaurant, on Washington street, at the corner of Dunbar Alley, live well, and are consequently happy. Henry Bocken, who has catered for the public since 1849, provides for his customers Lake Tahoe trout, Salmagundi soup, game, tame geese, delicious entrees, and everything the heart of man can desire. The best cup of tea in the city—English breakfast tea—Souchong and Orange Pekoe—can be obtained here. E

He Wanted to Arrive.

A seedy-looking individual walked into the Crawford House, Cincinnati, a few evenings ago, and, stepping up to the counter, seized a pen and registered his name at the foot of the long list of the day's arrivals. It was a noble name—George Washington Botts—written in a firm, bold hand, and with a big flourish underneath. It was plain that the seedy man was accustomed to making a flourish in the world if it were only with a goose-quill.

"Have a room?" inquired Capt. Oakes, the proprietor, incidentally measuring the man with his eagle eye to see if he wouldn't fit one of the sky boudoirs.

"No," said seedy, shortly, picking his teeth with a splinter toothpick he had selected from the well-assorted supply always found on the counter.

"Supper, then, I suppose?" added the Captain, preparing to add an S to the end of George Washington Botts' name.

"No, sir, no supper," said Mr. Botts with severity, "I simply went to arrive. A-r,ar, r-i-v-e rive, arrive. I want neither room, supper, nor anything else, but I particularly wanted to arrive. It is a long time since I have arrived at a hotel—a very long time—(his voice choked a little) and I thought if you hadn't any objection—I—I would like to arrive once more before I died."

Here he was obliged to hide his emotions in his coat-tail, in the absence of a handkerchief. Captain Oakes, always ready to do a good action, generously allowed the unfortunate individual to arrive, and George W. Botts, hastily drying his eyes with the pen-wiper, wrung the Captain's hand in mute but heart-felt gratitude, and then stalked gloomily forth into the darkness and the night.

He had arrived.

He Couldn't Drink Wine.

That was a noble youth who, on being urged to take wine at the table of a famous statesman, in Washington, had the moral courage to refuse. He was a poor young man, just beginning the struggle of life. He brought letters to the great statesman, who kindly invited him home to dinner.

"Not take a glass of wine?" said the great statesman, in wonderment and surprise.

"Not one simple glass of wine?" echoed the statesman's beautiful and fascinating wife, as she arose, glass in hand, and, with a grace that would have charmed an anchorite, endeavored to press it upon him.

"No," said the heroic youth, resolutely, gently repelling the proffered glass.

What a picture of moral grandeur was that. A poor, friendless youth refusing wine at the table of a wealthy and famous statesman, even though proffered by the fair hands of a beautiful lady.

"No, said the noble young man, [and his voice trembled a little and his cheek flushed. "I never drink wine, but—(here he straightened himself up and his words grew firmer) if you've got a little old rye whisky I don't mind trying a snifter!"

Taking the Veil.

The St. Louis Times says on a recent Sunday the jailor, Daly, had his courage put to the test by a couple of young ladies whose dresses deployed altogether too low in the neck. They made their appearance and showing a bundle of papers which wouldn't have filled out a single wrinkle in the modern bustle, requested to go inside for the purpose of distributing tracts, and edifying the prisoners with godly conversation. Mr. Daly modestly intimated that his deputies would distribute the papers. The fair visitors pressed the matter, and finally, in a rather ill-bred manner, said they supposed the reason they couldn't get in was, because they were on a pious errand. Nobody doubted the jailor's liberality before, and this taunt called out a response which ended the argument: "If you'll get some large veils and cover yourselves up you can go in and talk as long as you like, but I can't let you in dressed in that way."

Oyster Trade.

The oyster trade in California is assuming gigantic proportions. Emerson Corville, of the Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, furnishes from his own oyster beds at San Bruno millions of oysters to all parts of the Pacific Coast. His Eastern transplanted oysters have a fame which has extended all over the continent, and the "Saddle Rock" is known everywhere.

HOW SHE POUTED.

"What! pouting and cross? What is it, love?"
  Only a frown, and not a word?
Pray, had I angered her, or perchance
  The depths of her little being stirred?

Cross, so cross—and a great, dark frown
  There, where the sunshine always lingers;
Spitefully sewing, she doesn't heed
  The needle that pricks her restless fingers.

Pray, can I smooth out the frowns, or bring
  The sunshine back to her face to stay?
Ah! thunder will come to the clearest sky,
  And love can't escape the earthquake day.

Kisses I'll give her—I know they serve
  To smooth out the ruffles in roughest lives;
Kisses will cure all the infant's ills,
  And kisses, the little griefs of wives.

So I said, "Come, love, kiss and make up!"
  She stirred; her passion I thought I'd routed;
"Kiss me!"—she frowned—"Kiss me, love!"
  Ah! she put up her lips and—pouted!

Dan Rice recently shed tears, not unmanly ones, because "Old Excelsior," a trick horse that had traveled with him for eighteen years, went the way of all the world.

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of waters bright, did make a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
"Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here—
It looks so nice—and try their cheer.".
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins;
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again.

Your arm consoling, straight is round her waist!
Guess what a "MORNING COMFORT" in the kiss
That heals the quarrel and imparts the bliss!
The "WELCOME" too, you'll always find
A balmy soother for the troubled mind.
The bright "AURORA," and the sweet "FAREWELL
Just visit BONA, and you'll all fare well!
His "HYGIENIC BITTERS" are the panacea
For all dyspeptics and for diarrhœa.
No Cholera Morbus ever has been found

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

California Theatre.

The capital comedy of "The Serious Family" and the play of "Ireland as it Was," afforded infinite amusement to the audience assembled last night. To-night is the last night of the opera season, and "Lucia di Lammermoor" will be presented with Inez Fabbri as Lucia; Pietro Baccei as Edgardo; Jacob Muller as Enrico; Mons. Roosevieri as Raimondo, and Mons. Charles as Arturo. On this, the closing night of the most successful opera season ever given in San Francisco, all lovers of music will wish to be present a crowded house may therefore be confidently expected. Seats can be reserved to-day from 10 till 4. To-morrow night "Money" will be performed for the benefit of the San Francisco Hussars.

Alhambra.

The new programme at this popular theatre is a most attractive one. John Enright, the latest addition to the company is a great favorite; J. W. McAndrews shines in the character act of "The Watermelon Man;" Miss Fanny Gibson sings popular ballads in capital style and the ever-popular character actors, Baker and Ferron, delight the audience with songs, dances, duets, and comic dialogues. An evening spent at the Alhambra is most enjoyable.

Bella Union.

Cogill and Cooper in song and dance; Madame Theresa and Mons. Schmidt in ballet; J. H. Larkin and Carrie Armstrong in Dutch impersonations; Johnny Tuers, Harry Sinclair and others in acts, and the whole company in the stirring play of "The Forger's Escape; or, How about the Bothering Brothers," are some of the attractions offered to-night.

The Athenæum.

Among the many amusing acts presented at this popular place of amusement are "U. S. M.," in which Johnny Kelly, Lon McCarthy, Billy Smith, and Miss Carrie Chapman appear; "No Sleep Here," and "A Sad Misteke," all of which are received nightly with roars of laughter. Miss May Leroy's fancy dances are a feature in the programme.

Platt's Hall.

Miss Carrie Woods, a clever amateur actress and danseuse who has appeared before the public on many occasions, will on Friday evening be the recipient of a farewell benefit tendered her by many friends. A capital programme will be presented on this occasion, and the beneficiary will appear in "La Pandero," and also in the play of "Nan the Good for Nothing," with which the entertainment will conclude. The full programme appears on our first page.

Young Man's Christian Association Hall.

Professor McDonald, a Scottish phrenologist of reputation, is now delivering a course of lectures on phrenology and other kindred subjects at this hall with success. His lectures are both amusing and instructive, and his examinations are big hits. The Professor's consulting rooms are at the Hall, open daily. He lectures every evening this week.

Woodward's Gardens.

Thousands visited these gardens on Sunday. Thousands of attractive features render Woodward's Gardens a favorite resort during the week for ladies and children. The Angel-fish and the Devil-fish are the two latest novelties. They attract much attention. In addition to these standing attractions the Conklin-Samwells Circus Combination will perform every day. The educated animals are great features in the entertainment.

City Gardens.

On Sunday Holland Brothers' European Circus will appear in the new Pavilion at the City Gardens and give a regular equestrian performance. Katie Holloway, Dorr and Worland, Holland Brothers, Harry Clark, M'lle Gracie, Horatio Nelson, J. Garbutt, Wm. Brown, and others form a company capable of giving a first-class and varied performance. The admission will remain at 25 cents.

Hayes Park.

A complimentary festival will be given at the Park on Sunday next, for the benefit of the Italian Musical School of this city. The exercises will consist of musical and other entertainments, and ball. The whole will be under the direction of competent committee of Italian citizens.

Horticultural Hall.

This fine hall is to be transformed into a skating rink, and will probably be opened under competent management for that purpose on Saturday evening next. The large area of the hall, its splendid floor, and central locality, admirably fit it for that purpose.

Benefit of the San Francisco Hussars.

To-morrow evening, the above-named crack company will be the recipient of a complimentary benefit at the California Theatre. The play of "Money" will be performed; Miss Maggie Moore will appear in some of her most attractive specialties; Master J. W. McKeenie, the young California tenor, will sing, and there will be other pleasing features which cannot fail to draw a full house.

Which is It?

The Call this morning again states that the Metropolitan Theatre had a "crowded house" last night for the twentieth time, when everybody in town knows that business at that theatre has been distressingly bad ever since it reopened. Why are these little prevarications persisted in? Does the Call run the Metropolitan Theatre, or the Metropolitan Theatre management run the Call, which is it? Will the Grand Jury, or some one else, investigate this matter and find out?

Anatomical Museum.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

Mme. Le Normand, who tells fortunes on the European Plan, is the most highly accomplished and versatile lady in this line of business—give her a call at her new rooms, North-West corner of Kearny and Sacramento street. L

A Pleasing Fable.

A hippopotamus meeting an open alligator said to him:

"My forked friend, you may as well collapse. You are not sufficiently comprehensive to embrace me. I am myself no tyro at smiling when in the humor."

"I really had no expectation of taking you in," replied the other. "I have a habit of extending my hospitality impartially to all, and about seven feet wide."

"You remind me," said the hippopotamus, "of a certain zebra who was not vicious at all; he merely kicked the breath out of everything that passed behind him, but he did not seek to induce things to pass behind him."

"It is quite immaterial what I remind you of," was the reply.

The lesson imparted by this fable is a very beautiful one."

Misfortune of a Short-hand Man.

If proof-readers are liable to accidents, they may find some little gentle consolation in some of the errors of stenographers. It is related that Disraeli, in closing a powerful address in support of a parliamentary measure, once said; "We have burned our boats, we have destroyed our bridges, and do not intend to recross the river!" Imagine the horror of the distinguished M. P. when he discovered that a provincial reporter had made him say: "We have burned our boots and destroyed our breeches, and cannot recross the river."

Serve him Right.

"Man's inhumanity to Man" is nothing to that of a Lafayette, Ind., man's inhumanity to a rat. Seeing one crawling into an oven, when there was no fire in the stove, he gently closed the door. He forgot all about the animal he had imprisoned, and next morning his breakfast was flavored with the perfume of roast rat. Bergh will undoubtedly rejoice that in this instance man's inhumanity to his particular friends, the animals, was so promptly punished.

The Same in San Francisco.

Policemen in Jackson, Michigan, have no comfort in life worth living for. The chief has issued an order that hereafter no member of the force may smoke, drink, or sit on dry goods boxes while on duty. And amusing themselves by tickling a cat with a straw will subject them to dismissal. What a brutal tyrant this chief must be! He could not even leave the last recreation to while away the dull tedium of a long night tour.

An Untitled Victim.

They have a dignitary in Japan called His Grace of Fifty-five Umbrellas. We have owned over fifty-five umbrellas, and yet no one has ever given us a title for losing them all. If it had been given, it wouldn't have been grace—for our language on such occasions, though fervent, never resembled that which pious people use when blessing the meat.

Kansas is raising cabbages and bald eagles four feet high.

Live Well.

Those who eat good dinners are amiable. Bad feeding is the cause of many crimes. Those who dine at the Pioneer Restaurant, on Washington street, at the corner of Dunbar Alley, live well, and are consequently happy. Henry Bocken, who has catered for the public since 1849, provides for his customers Lake Tahoe trout, Salmagundi soup, game, tame geese, delicious entrees, and everything the heart of man can desire. The best cup of tea in the city—English breakfast tea—Souchong and Orange Pekoe—can be obtained here. E

If you want Jewelry repaired in the best style and your watches and clocks fixed at the lowest Eastern prices, take them to the Repairing Shop, 643½ Market street. H

The Significant Hat.

In the time of Gessler and William Tell there was much significance in a hat. So it is now. The first thing that attracts the eye is the hat. Therefore buy fashionable hat at "The" Hat Store, 647 Washington street, below Kearny.

Oyster Trade.

The oyster trade in California is assuming gigantic proportions. Emerson Corville, of the Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, furnishes from his own oyster beds at San Bruno millions of oysters to all parts of the Pacific Coast. His Eastern transplanted oysters have a fame which has extended all over the continent, and the 'Saddle Rock" is known everywhere.

A CYNICAL SONG.

In the gushing prime of my early days
I courted the fair in a thousand ways;
I talked of passion that could not die,
That was deep as the sea and broad as the sky;
I painted the charms of a humble lot,
Of kisses and crusts in a rustic cot;
But now that I'm thirty, and blasé and old,
I talk to a woman of nothing but gold!

They vowed that my words had a charm to touch;
They loved me a little and kissed me much—
Sub rosa, you know, till they broke the spell;
They married—and all of them married well.
And I went about with a hang-dog smile,
And an aching heart, and a touch of bile;
So now that I'm thirty, and blasé, and old,
I talk to a woman of nothing but gold!

And now that I am, when my youth is done,
The eldest, instead of a younger son,
I laugh when I see them bait their hooks
With caresses and sighs, and tender looks;
At picnic and dinner, and ball and rout,
I boast of my wealth, and I draw them out;
For now that I'm thirty, and blasé, and old,
I talk to a woman of nothing but gold!

It's a merry game for a man to play,
With a score of beauties at hark-away;
So I whisper, sometimes, to a loving fair,
Of an opera-box, and a coach and pair,
Of credit at every jeweler's shop,
Of Worth's own dresses—but there I stop;
For now that I'm thirty, and blasé, and old,
I talk to a woman of nothing but gold!

—London Figaro.

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of waters bright, did make a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
"Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here—
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins;
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again.

FIGARO

CIRCULATES AS HOUSE PROGRAMME IN every Theatre in San Francisco.

FIGARO

IS DISTRIBUTED EVERY DAY THROUGH out the centre of the city, in all Hotels, Restaurants, Saloons, Stores and Offices.

FIGARO

IS CIRCULATED EVERY DAY ON THE Oakland FerryBoats to catch the passengers that arrive by the great Overland Train.

FIGARO

IS MAILED EVERY DAY TO ALL THE principal hotels in California, Nevada and Oregon—the papers left in the theatres at night being gathered up and saved for that purpose.

FIGARO

IS "HERE, THERE AND EVERYWHERE," and is constantly meeting a change of readers in the Theatres, Travelling Conveyances, Hotels, and public resorts generally.

FIGARO

CIRCULATES IN THE BEST SOCIETY, IS placed in the hands of nearly all who come to the city to make purchases, and is therefore the best of advertising mediums.

TO TAXPAYERS.

Taxes Due October 28th.

Delinquent Jan. 6th, 1872.

THE USUAL DELAY, CONFUSION AND annoyance experienced by Taxpayers will be much increased this year, as both PERSONAL and REAL PROPERTY has to be paid upon at the same time.

This being the case, the undersigned would most respectfully suggest that Taxpayers furnish this office with a schedule of their property at an early day. Where there have been no changes, the Tax Bills of any previous year are the most convenient and correct memoranda.

Jurywomen.

There are some women in the world who do not think it would be the sum of all happiness to get on a jury and be locked up in a room for several days and nights with eleven tyrant men, who would undoubtedly insist on smoking and chewing while deliberating on a verdict. One of this sort in Wyoming was summoned to serve on a jury She said nothing, but went. In her arms she bore the latest pledge of marital love. When the time came for her to be sworn, she handed the Judge her baby to hold while she kissed the book. She then had to adjust her dress, run her fingers through her curls, pick her teeth with a pin, and choose out a nice seat to sit in as a grave and reverend jurywoman. By this time the baby began to cry. The Judge tried to still its yells, while the auditors commenced to laugh. His Honor suddenly burst out: "Here, woman, take this infernal young'un. You're relieved from jury duty. Go home, and never come here again. If any clerk ever draws a woman on the jury for this court while I sit on the bench, I'll be d—d if I don't commit him for contempt. Let's all go and liquor up."

A Gorgeous Suicide.

The latest novelty in suicides comes from Cleveland, Ohio, where an individual who had drawn a blank in a lottery went to his death after the following unique and elaborate preparations: He first procured a loaded revolver and connected it with clock work, so that it should be fired off at a certain time. He then got into bed, and, placing the pistol behind his ear, took a dose of chloroform. Under the influence of the narcotic he then went to sleep. At the set time the clock work pressed the trigger, discharging the pistol and launching the slumberer into eternity. This device is an accession to the plain self-shootings and hangings of ordinary suicide, and, in its mechanical merits, seems neater, if not quieter, than the guillotine.

Shingled.

A Troy youth, who sings in a choir, had his hair cut short Saturday night. He isn't going to have himself clipped so again, for the next night he had to sing a solo, "Cover my defenceless head," and the rest of the choir laughed, and the congregation smiled, and the minister looked pleasant, and the soloist looked sheepish, and longed to get into the shadow of somebody's wing, but his girl was down stairs grinning with the rest, so that he had to blush under the glare of the gaslight, and—well, after this, he is going to wear his hair a la Tilton—that's all.

Health and Pleasure.

There are not too many pleasures in San Francisco. Nothing is more pleasant, nothing more health-giving than a drive into the country now and then. Those who cannot afford to keep a carriage of their own, can find one equal in elegance to any private conveyance at the Occidental Carriage stand. Frank Bonton has there, and at his stables 1016 Stockton street, carriages of every description. His drivers are careful and experienced, his charges are moderate. The moral of the above is: go to Frank Bonton at the Occidental Hotel when you want a carriage. n

D. Wemyss Jobson Redivivus.

Some of our readers will remember one D. Wemyss Jobson, who was in San Francisco some years ago. He aspired to be a sort of George Francis Train but had not brains enough to make himself notorious. Then he went to New York and made a fool of himself there. Now we hear of D. Wemyss Jobson again. The New York Dispatch of the 3d says:

> On the first page will be found an interesting letter from D. Wemyss Jobson, on the horse distemper. As Mr. Jobson was in Australia at the time when the same distemper was decimating the cattle of that country, and as he is a scientific man, his advice should be heeded by every man who owns or has care of a horse.

Mr. Jobson ought to be thankful that he escaped when the distemper was decimating the cattle, though no one would ever call Mr. Jobson a horse or a cow—his ears forbid it.

Victoria Woodhull and Tennie C. Claflin.

A New York paper thus describes the appearance of Victoria Woodhull and Tennie C. Claflin in the Police Court:

> They were dressed in plain black suits of alpaca, and wore hats of the most jaunty style. Tennie was flushed like a rose, and her fine blue eyes sparkled nervously. As she glanced round the room, a smile of contempt seemed to gather about her ruby lips. She has splendid teeth, and takes care to show them. In fact, Tennie is a pretty looking young woman, round-faced, with well-cut features, and bright, animated expression. Her sister, Mrs. Woodhull, is rather more sedate in appearance, and of a less lovely turn. Both converse continually with their counsel, Counselor W. F. Howe. Mr. Howe looked in his glory. His face seemed as fresh as a peach, and the glisten of his diamonds was like the gleaming rays of the sun.

"The Shadow of the Gallows."

In a paragraph with the above solemn heading a New York paper says:

> There are at present confined in the Tombs in this city on the charge of murder twenty-two persons. Foster and Stokes head the list. Among the number are three uxoricides and one matricide. In most cases the pistol was the weapon used to cause death. Foster used a car hook, Dykes kicked and beat his mother to death! Heggi is believed to have poisoned his victim. A contemporary says "there is not a poor wretch in the Tombs from whose sinful breast Heaven has yet taken the poor consolation of a little hope for the future."

These "poor wretches" generally don't mind keeping shady for a little while. The "shadow of the gallows" doesn't seem a bit gloomy to them, there is so little chance of their ever getting any nearer to it under the present system of trial by jury.

Patriotic Determination.

A Norristown journalist recently heard that England's oldest inhabitant died recently at the age of 130 years, an age which no American ever attained. Our young friend, brimming with love for his native land, thereupon swore that England should never lead us in this respect, and declared his intention to live 150 years, for the purpose of humiliating the mother country. The undertaking is a laudable one, and W. Gladstone will probably shed tears when he hears of it. But it is rough on newspaper readers in Norristown. That village will probably be deserted at the end of the first century.

An Unhappy Cat.

The Springfield Union says: "An Albany tomcat, desirous of emulating that Portland cat who killed a baby by sucking its breath, tried the same experiment on a drunkard whom he found lying insensible on the street. When the recumbent Bacchanalian revived, he found a dead cat lying on his shirt bosom, with all the marks of strychnine poisoning."

A Cheap Imitation.

Under this head the N. Y. Dispatch has the following:

> This city has a Lotos Club, which pretends to "do" the distinguished men of either continent. Over in Brooklyn this organization has a double—a shadow—called after the Mephistophian printer, Faust. Recently, this latter club entertained Edmund Yates, the Englisher. The Faust is ambitious, but it is happily on the cheap.

Painter's epitaph: "He died and made no sign."

Altogether the Best.

It is curious, but true, that J. A. Shaber, 707 Market street, near Third, should sell furniture and bedding cheaper than any other dealer in this city. Try him and you will be convinced. y

REOPENING

DR. BARLOW J. SMITH

ANNOUNCES THAT THE RECENT EXTENSIVE additions and improvements to his HYGIENE HOME WATER-CURE and PHRENOLOGICAL INSTITUTE, 637 California street, are completed. To his original premises have been added an entirely new and elegant three-story brick structure, a new and commodious lecture hall, a lofty and spacious dining hall, and cosy, comfortable bath-rooms in almost endless variety, with all the most modern, scientific and complete appliances for administering every conceivable description of medical baths, among which may be mentioned the electro-thermal, the electro-sitz, the electro-vapor, the electro-Russian, the electro-Turkish, Sulphur Mercurial, Iodine and other medicated baths; also an entirely new bath, invented by Dr. Smith, which he has named the American bath. It combines all the advantages of the Russian and Turkish, together with the electric spray and other appliances peculiar to itself, making it superior to any other hydropathic application now in use. The spacious parlors and other multiplied appliances for promoting the health and comfort of patients combine to constitute DR. SMITH'S HYGIENE HOME WATER CURE by far the most complete Hygiene Establishment on the Pacific Slope, and affords to the sick and suffering of both sexes the surest, speediest and cheapest means of cure to be found anywhere West of the Rocky mountains. Hygienic board and a comfortable home for all who desire them.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

California Theatre.

"Lucia di Lammermoor" was presented in capital style last night by the Fabbri Opera Troupe, all engaged in the performance acquitting themselves well. Signora Fabbri did some splendid acting in the mad scene, and sang the scenas and arias in the role of Lucia charmingly. To-morrow night, by very general request, the opera of "Faust" will be performed, and on Sunday night "Lucia di Lammermor" will be repeated, being the last opera night. This evening the San Francisco Hussars, a very popular military company, will be the recipient of a complimentary benefit. The play of "Money" will be performed; Miss Maggie Moore will appear in some of her most attractive specialties; Master J. W. McKenzie, the young California tenor, will sing, and there will be other pleasing features which cannot fail to draw a full house.

Alhambra.

A very lively entertainment is given at this house by Maguire's California Minstrels, comprising such favorite artistes as Baker and Farron, John Enright, Bob Hart, J. G. Russell and others. To-night J. W. McAndrews will take his farewell benefit. The full programme appears on our first page.

Bella Union.

This popular variety theatre is crowded nightly and the entertainment given is of a character to please all tastes. "The Forger's Escape" has made a prodigious hit; the new ballet is very pretty and a fine melange of songs, dances and acts is given.

The Athenaeum.

Miss Kitty Zoe in songs, May Leroy in fancy dances; Dan Lowry in comic songs; Mons. Ga-hetier in wonderful gymnastic feats and in pantomime, and other attractions will be offered to-night.

Platt's Hall.

Miss Carrie Woods, a clever amateur actress and danseuse who has appeared before the public on many occasions, will this evening be the recipient of a farewell benefit tendered her by many friends. A capital programme will be presented on this occasion, and the beneficiary will appear in "Le Pandero," and also in the play of "Nan the Good for Nothing," with which the entertainment will conclude. The full programme appears on our first page.

Young Men's Christian Association Hall.

Professor McDonald, a Scottish phrenologist of reputation, is now delivering a course of lectures on phrenology and other kindred subjects at this hall with success. His lectures are both amusing and instructive, and his examinations are big hits. The Professor's consulting rooms are at the Hall, open daily. He lectures every evening this week.

Turn Verein Hall.

Luther's Æolians, a company of vocalists and musicians who have given many pleasing entertainments, have tendered a complimentary benefit to the family of Fortunato Arriola, the talented artist whose loss by drowning at sea is so generally lamented. A concert and ball will be given at Turn Verein Hall on November 20th.

Woodward's Gardens.

Thousands visited these gardens on Sunday. Thousands of attractive features render Woodward's Gardens a favorite resort during the week for ladies and children. The Angel-fish and the Devil-fish are the two latest novelties. They attract much attention. In addition to these standing attractions the Conklin-Samwells Circus Combination will perform every day. The educated animals are great features in the entertainment.

City Gardens.

On Sunday Holland Brothers' European Circus will appear in the new Pavilion at the City Gardens and give a regular equestrian performance. Katie Holloway, Dorr and Worland, Holland Brothers, Harry Clark, M'lle Gracie, Horatio Nelson, J. Garbutt, Wm. Brown, and others form a company capable of giving a first-class and varied performance. The admission will remain at 25 cents.

Hayes Park.

A complimentary festival will be given at the Park on Sunday next, for the benefit of the Italian Musical School of this city. The exercises will consist of musical and other entertainments, and ball. The whole will be under the direction of competent committee of Italian citizens.

Horticultural Hall.

This fine hall is to be transformed into a skating rink, and will probably be opened under competent management for that purpose on Saturday evening next. The large area of the hall, its splendid floor, and central locality, admirably fit it for that purpose.

Gone East.

Mr. John McCullough, manager of the California Theatre, left for New York this morning. He goes on a business trip East, and will return in a few weeks.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

Crime on the Decrease.

From the Brothertons to Scott, the certicket forger, in one week, is certainly a great decline in crime. Things look more hopeful in a moral point of view.

A supernatural devil in Georgia is throwing red-hot brickbats.

Candies for the Million.

Crossfeld & Pitt beg to announce to the public in general that they have on hand a large assortment of Holiday candies, which they guarantee free from adulterating substances and poisonous colorings. Liberal discount to retail dealers. 139 Third, between Mission and Howard. o

A Persian Fable.

A cat, waking out of a sound sleep, saw a mouse sitting just out of reach, observing her. Perceiving that at the slightest movement of hers the mouse would recollect an engagement, she put on a look of extreme amiability, and said:

"Oh! it's you, is it? Do you know that at first I thought you were a great rat, and I am so afraid of rats! I feel so much relieved, you don't know! Of course you have heard that I am a great friend to the dear little mice."

"Yes," was the answer, "I have heard that you love us indifferently well, and my mission here was to bless you while you slept. But as you will wish to go and get your breakfast I won't bore you. Fine day, isn't it? Au revoir!"

This fable teaches that it is usually safe to avoid one who pretends to be a friend without having any reason to be. It wasn't safe in this instance, however, for the cat went after that departing rodent and got away with him.

"I've Got Mad!"

The Detroit Free Press relates an incident which occurred on the return of an excursion party from that city. Soon after the boat left Toledo the steward was approached by an excited individual who asked him if he was the captain. The steward replied in the negative, at the same time giving his rank. "Have you the power to put a man out of the cabin?" asked the stranger. "Yes, if he's disorderly I have," replied the steward. "Well, sir, look in here and see them, will you?" said the stranger, leading said official round to the door. The steward looked upon the motley group and replied that he saw nothing out of the way. "You don't, eh? Don't you see a man in there hugging a woman?" "Well, yes," replied the steward, "but what of that? Hasn't a man a right to embrace his wife?" "That's what I want you to run him out for," cried the stranger, dancing around; "that's my wife, and I've stood it so long that I've got mad!"

A Phantom.

An eccentric young clergyman had been paying his addresses to a young lady of immense avoirdupois. One morning in the course of the sermon, he made use of the words, "What is this phantom that I walk about with daily?" Upon which a mischievous little maiden instantly exclaimed in a voice audible to the occupants of a dozen surrounding pews, "Call Dobby Jordan a phantom! Who ever heard of such an absurdity?" The struggle between the sense of decorum and the sense of the ridiculous was a desperate one on many a face in the congregation for the next fifteen minutes.

High Art.

We learn from an Ohio paper that a young artist out there thought to fill his mind with gorgeous suggestions for his canvas by eating opium and retiring to bed. He was eventually discovered by his family roosting upon the roof of the barn in his nightshirt, and he is now under treatment for a combination of delirium tremens, influenza and inflammatory rheumatism. When he recovers he will probably abandon art permanently. If this young man had taken Magic Conserves he would have gained all the inspiration he required and have escaped all the above-mentioned evils.

Cheering.

An eloquent and generally very successful revivalist was recently exhorting an Ohio congregation with great zeal but to no effect: not a man seemed under conviction. Finally an anxious looking man stood up and moved that as the Elder had worked so hard for their good they give him three cheers, and they were delivered with a will.

Jug Town, Nevada, was dedicated the other day.

"Prayer and Pills" is the title of one of Holland's editorials.

AGAINST THE TIDE.

Against the tide—ah me, against the tide!
  No slightest wave but drifts me back to shore;
Though straining every nerve, I still abide
  With strength all spent, just where I was before.

Why could I not have stayed upon the shore,
  To pick up shining pebbles in the sun,
Instead of laboring at the useless oar,
  To sleep in peace when the day's work was done?

My longing heart forbids such rest to me,
  Though I reach not the goal that lies before,
But live, wrestling with the wind and sea,
  And die with tired hand upon the oar.

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of waters bright, did make a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
"Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here—
It looks so nice—and try their cheer.".
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins;
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again,
Pacific Oyster House, 337 Bush street, above Montgomery; open Day and Night.

Squarza's Punches.

One of the most famous institutions of California is Squarza's Punch. It is found in every city, village and mining camp in the State. It is delicious, wholesome and unlike anything else. The proprietor of this delightful beverage notifies his patrons that he has opened at No. 317 Kearny street, between Pine and Bush streets, a BRANCH of his old and popular symposium on Leidesdorff street. a

Live Well.

Those who eat good dinners are amiable. Bad feeding is the cause of many crimes. Those who dine at the Pioneer Restaurant, on Washington street, at the corner of Dunbar Alley, live well, and are consequently happy. Henry Bookan, who has catered for the public since 1849, provides for his customers Lake Tahoe trout, Salmagundi soup, game, tame geese, delicious entrees, and everything the heart of man can desire. The best cup of tea in the city—English breakfast tea—Souchong and Orange Pekoe—can be obtained here. B

Oyster Trade.

The oyster trade in California is assuming gigantic proportions. Emerson Corville, of the Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, furnishes from his own oyster beds at San Bruno millions of oysters to all parts of the Pacific Coast. His Eastern transplanted oysters have a fame which has extended all over the continent, and the "Saddle Rock" is known everywhere.

Real Estate and Personal Property

For the fiscal year 1872-73, has this day been received; that the State, City and County Taxes for said fiscal year are now due and payable at the office of the undersigned (Room No. 1, City Hall); and that the laws in regard to their collection will be strictly enforced.

Taxes will become DELINQUENT on the FIRST MONDAY IN JANUARY, 1873, and unless paid prior thereto, five per cent., will be added to the amount thereof.

A. AUSTIN,
Tax Collector of the City and County of San Francisco.
oc29-td

TO TAXPAYERS.

Taxes Due October 28th,

Delinquent Jan. 6th, 1872.

THE USUAL DELAY, CONFUSION AND annoyance experienced by Taxpayers will be much increased this year, as both PERSONAL and REAL PROPERTY has to be paid upon at the same time.

This being the case, the undersigned would most respectfully suggest that Taxpayers furnish this office with a schedule of their property at an early day. Where there have been no changes, the Tax Bills of any previous year are the most convenient and correct memoranda.

A. AUSTIN,
oc15 tf Tax Collector.

TAXES! TAXES!

FOR THE ACCOMMODATION OF THOSE who cannot leave their occupations during the day, the Tax Collector's Office will be open for business

EVERY SATURDAY EVENING IN NOVEMBER,

From 7 to 9 o'clock.

"The Torchlight."

The San Jose Mercury says:

This is the name of a sprightly little daily, about the size of a seven-by-nine window pane, that has just made its appearance in Oakland. It is edited by Calvin B. McDonald, who says in a card that he is "pecuniarily and otherwise interested in its fortunes," and that he intends to have a paper that shall be editorially his own. He says, further, that he has fallen in with two young gentlemen, whom he regards as "among the most skillful printers in California," who will attend to the mechanical duties—and so the Torchlight flashed upon the optics of the Oaklanders. Among its racy editorials we note the following paragraph: "One of the worst visitations of God that "can overtake a journalist is to have a pig-"headed proprietor who knows too little to "write an intelligent advertisement for a "lost dog, and who hasn't sense enough to "keep his clumsy hands off a completed "manuscript. For a series of years we have "suffered from the depredations of these "animals, and at length have decided to "declare our independence. We don't in-"tend to write any more for 'proprietors.'"

We sympathize with O. B. M., but don't think the suffering has been all on his side. Calvin's "proprietors" have suffered also.

Fast Work.

We learn from a reliable newspaper that in the office of a Wisconsin journal there is a compositor who sets type so rapidly that the friction of his movement fuses the leaden emblems of his stick, making them solid, like a stereotype plate. The only way to prevent this is to have his case submerged in water; and then the rapidity of his motion keeps the water boiling and bubbling so that eggs have frequently been boiled in the space-box. Pipes lead from the bottom of his case to a boiler in the press-room, and the steam generated by the fast compositor's movements runs the power-press. In one day, he set so much that it took all hands, from editor to devil, two weeks to read the proof—and it wasn't his good day for type-setting, either.

Misunderstood Motives.

A gentleman of Centerville, Indiana, was recently lying very low, when, being a personal friend, an undertaker thought to call upon the sick man and pay his respects, to his great surprise and astonishment, as soon as he entered the sick room he was greeted with, "What in the hell do you want here? When I need you I'll send for you."

Their Father Victim.

A little volume, seventy years old, entitled "The History of the Devil," was sold at auction in Washington the other day, and there seemed to be quite a demand among the filial population of that city.

Health and Pleasure.

There are not too many pleasures in San Francisco. Nothing is more pleasant, nothing more health-giving than a drive into the country now and then. Those who cannot afford to keep a carriage of their own, can find one equal in elegance to any private conveyance at the Occidental Carriage stand. Frank Bonton has there, and at his stables 1016 Stockton street, carriages of every description. His drivers are careful and experienced, his charges are moderate. The moral of the above is: go to Frank Bonton at the Occidental Hotel when you want a carriage. o

Pause, Gentle Reader,

And peruse this notice. It will inform you that Meyers, of the White House Restaurant, Kearny street, has reopened, and thoroughly renovated the Eclipse Restaurant, 204 and 206 Fourth street, between Howard and Folsom, under the name of the Capitol Restaurant. Mr. Meyers begs to invite the patronage of the residents in the neighborhood and public in general, and assures them that he intends to provide the very best the market affords at Popular Prices—viz: three 12½ cent dishes for 25 cents.

The Worst Criminals

The Alta, speaking of the cellar in which the Brotherton brothers secreted themselves after escaping from jail, says:

It will be news to Messrs. Allison & Co. to know that their premises were used unknowingly to shelter two of the worst criminals who ever broke jail, or who did not.

It is well enough for the Alta, which depends for its support on that portion of the community most likely to suffer from the operations of the Brotherton brothers, to characterize them as "two of the worst criminals who ever broke jail, or who did not." The other and by far the larger portion of the community, who do not write checks and cannot suffer by the operations of forgers, so far from feeling any horror at the deed of these hardened criminals, went to the other extreme and sympathized with them. Some did so because they believe with Prudhon that property is robbery, and as the Brotherton brothers took money only "from those who can spare it," were more inclined to admire their talent and nerve than deprecate their violations of the law. Many others, forgetting that two wrongs do not make a right, said "it was a shame anyhow to send two young men to State Prison for fourteen years for stealing, when red-handed murderers walked the streets of San Francisco and breathed the air of liberty." There is no denying the fact that the community generally rejoiced in the escape of the Brotherton brothers, and sincerely hoped they would not be recaptured. The newspapers had done much towards exalting these two commonplace young men to the rank of heroes, and the title of the Brotherton Brothers which was bestowed on them sounded well in the long ears of that many-headed monster, the public. It is all nonsense to call these men two of "the worst criminals." There are thousands of worse offenders against the laws of property enjoying freedom in this free country. In a nation so devoted to commerce—to acquiring wealth by the interchange of money and goods—as this is offences against property are positively looked upon as more heinous than those against the person. A man may knock his wife down, black her eyes, kick her about the head until she is senseless, and escape with a fine of $40. Let a man take a hundred dollars from a man with millions, and he will get at least two years in the State Prison. If he takes a man's life he will probably escape with a few months' confinement in the City Prison, being discharged at the expiration of that time as a poor fellow who was insane at the time he killed his victim. The Alta and all other organs of capitalists in the United States will denounce the Brotherton brothers as criminals of the worst kind, but they will be unable to excite any hearty feeling of indignation against them among the public. This public will reserve that indignation for the men who "betrayed" the forgers and assisted the officers of the law in placing under restraint two men whose talents rendered them dangerous to the business community.

An Absurd Persian Fable.

Two travellers between Teheran and Bagdad met half way up the verticle face of a rock, on a path only a cubit in width. As both were in a hurry and etiquette would allow neither to set his foot upon the other if dignity had permitted prostration, they maintained for some time a stationery condition. After some reflection they both decided to jump around the other; but as etiquette did not warrant conversation with a stranger, neither made known his intention. The consequence was they met with considerable emphasis, about four feet from the edge of the path, and went through a flight of soaring eagles, a mile out out of their way.

[This is infamous! The learned Parsee appears to wholly ignore the distinction between a fable and a simple lie.—Translator.]

American travelers have, it is said, in the last two years, purchased over four thousand "quills with which Lamartine wrote 'Jocelyn.'"

Altogether the Best.

It is curious, but true, that J. A. Shaber, 707 Market street, near Third, should sell furniture and bedding cheaper than any other dealer in this city. Try him and you will be convinced. x

An Embarrassing Female.

Milwaukee cherishes a Teutonic lady, fair forty, and measuring sixty-two inches around her waist, two yards around her chest, and twenty-eight inches around her biceps. The man who desires to embrace that woman will have to do as Bangs did in a similar case—reach around as far as he can, then make a chalk-mark, and start again from where he left off. The funeral expenses of such a woman would be enormous, unless she could be induced to go out and expire in the graveyard.

Nautical Recklessness.

Titusville, Pa., girls now refuse to go boating with the editor who took a party out recently and persisted in removing his quid of tobacco from one side of his jaw to the other, thus rocking the boat and frightening the girls.

It is proper for barbers to lather their customers, but when they put their better halfs through the same process, they are liable to get into trouble.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

CALIFORNIA THEATRE.—The San Francisco Hussars were honored by the presence of a large and fashionable audience when they took a benefit last night. The entertainment was all that could be desired. "Money" was played in excellent style. After the play Miss Maggie Moore appeared in the Dutch song and dance, "Katrina," and fairly brought down the house. Master J. W. McKenzie sang "Non e Ver" in a very creditable manner and was much applauded. At the matinee to-day "Money," with G. D. Chaplin, Miss Annie Graham, Owen Marlowe, S. J. Buckley, and others in the cast, will be presented. This evening the season of opera under the management of the California Theatre will close with the representation of "Faust." Many managers have attempted to give a season of Italian Opera in San Francisco and the attempt has, up to the present time resulted in disaster to themselves and but little satisfaction to the public, not to mention pecuniary loss, in the shape of unpaid advertising bills, borne uncomplainingly by long-suffering newspaper proprietors. Almost every opera season at the Metropolitan Theatre has ended in a fiasco, until it seemed that to attempt to give opera in San Francisco seemed to betoken recklessness. The immense success of the Fabbri Opera Troupe has changed this and has established the California Theatre as the home of Opera no less than of the Drama in San Francisco. There has been no pretension about this troupe, its members were artists and gave opera in good style. The public went to hear them, not because they were pronounced "the fashion," but because the music of the operas was rendered well and Signora Fabbri, if in no part transcendently great, was good in all. To-morrow night, under the management of Charles Fritsch, to whom great credit is due for having so successfully carried through the season, "Lucia di Lammermoor," will be given in German and the Fabbri Troupe will make their last appearance.

ALHAMBRA THEATRE.—J. W. McAndrews had a good house on the occasion of his benefit last night, and the performance gave thorough satisfaction to all present. The amateur volunteers acquitted themselves well, Sherwood and Richards in particular, gaining much applause for their songs and dances. The beneficiary was presented with a handsome gold-headed cane by the members of the company. The capital programme to be presented at the matinee to-day this evening and again to-morrow night, appear on our first page. It comprises Baker and Farron in some of their most amusing specialties; Bob Hart, J. G. Russell, Benjamin Clark C. D. Rockafeller, Charles Sutton, W. F. Baker and others in a splendid first part, and the whole company in the side splitting burlesque entitled "The Municipal Court," in which Sam Rickey makes such a sensation as Judge Muchlaw.

BELLA UNION.—A capital entertainment will be given this evening After a lively first part Cogill and Cooper, the young California song and dance artistes, will appear in "Love Among the Roses;" Josie Mayfield in a Sailor's Hornpipe; Johnny Tuers, J. H. Larkin, Harry Sinclair and Tommy Bree in "The Hospital Nurse;" M. Schmidt, Mme. Therese and corps de ballet in "The Village Coquette; E. Montague in a thrilling performance on the slack rope, and J. H. Larkin R. G. Marsh, Carrie Armstrong, Johnny Tuers and others in "Jake Schneider's Visit to White Pine," with which the evening's entertainment will conclude.

ATHENEUM.—An entirely new programme will be presented this evening—Miss May Leroy will appear in "Driven from Home;" Miss Carrie Chapman in fancy dances; Dan Lowry in serio-comic songs; Garbettier in new and original feats; Billy Smith, Johnny Kelly, Lou McCarty, and M. Garbettier in "Ten Thousand Cats;" Miss Kitty Zoe in ballad, and a number of others in varied specialties.

WOODWARD'S GARDENS.—There will be great attractions at these gardens to-morrow. Professor Samwell's wonderful troupe of trained animals will appear; M'lle Sanyeah will exhibit her daring on the trapeze, the graceful Moreeto Brothers will appear in the act of "The Flying Men;" trained horses, trick ponies, the equestrian goat and other wonderful quadrupeds will appear and three clowns will enliven the ring.

CITY GARDENS.—On Sunday, Holland Brothers' Famous European Circus Troupe will appear in the new Pavilion at the City Gardens and give a regular equestrian performance Katie Holloway, Dorr and Worland, Holland Brothers, Harry Clark, M'lle Gracie, Boratlo Nelson, J. Garbutt, Wm. Brown, and others form a company capable of giving a first-class and varied performance. The admission will remain at 25 cents.

HAYES PARK.—A complimentary festival will be given at this very popular suburban Park on Sunday next, for the benefit of the Italian Musical School of this city. The exercises will consist of musical and other entertainments, and ball. The whole will be under the direction of a competent committee of Italian citizens.

TURN VEREIN HALL.—At this hall, Luther's Æolians, a company of vocalists and musicians who have given many pleasing entertainments, have tendered a complimentary benefit to the family of Fortunato Arriola, the talented artist whose loss by drowning at sea is so generally lamented. A concert and ball will be given at Turn Verein Hall on November 20th. The full programme appears on our first page.

HORTICULTURAL HALL.—This fine hall is to be transformed into a skating rink, and will to day be opened under competent management for that purpose. The large area of the hall, its splendid floor, and central locality, admirably fit it for that purpose. Mr. L. M. Henry, manager, announces in another column that the privileges of the rink will not be granted to improper characters, and that the public may rest assured that everything will be conducted in first-class style.

PLATT'S HALL.—Free Lecture to gentlemen. On Monday night, Nov. 18th, Dr. Payne, who has just returned from St. Louis, will give a free didactic lecture on themes of vital importance. Dr. Payne has re-engaged rooms at the Russ House where he will remain permanently and attend exclusively to the duties of an office physician.

COMPLIMENTARY BENEFIT.—On Friday, November 22d, Signor Sylvio Rossi and Signor Fulvio Rigo will be the recipients of a complimentary benefit. The opera of "Attila" will be performed at the Metropolitan Theatre, with the cast published on our first page. Signor Pietro Baccei has volunteered for the occasion

MANAGER McCULLOUGH.—The amusement of the people of San Francisco being amply provided for several weeks to come by the engagement of Mrs. P. S. Chanfrau, Manager McCullough left yesterday morning for New York where he will spend ten days in making arrangements up to July. Manager McCullough will, during his stay in New York, make arrangements for the production of "Much Ado About Nothing" in the same magnificent style as "Richard III." and also for the production of "Coriolanus" in a similar manner. Both these plays will be produced during the engagement of Mrs. D. P. Bowers, which is to commence in April. John McCullough will play Coriolanus and Mrs. Bowers will fill the role of Volumnia. We hope this enterprising manager will be able to carry out his plans for the entertainment of the public to to their satisfaction and his and will return improved in health by his trip across the continent.

JNO. WILSON'S CIRCUS.—This veteran circus manager and his company have been very lucky in their trip overland from Oregon, in being favored with unusually pleasant weather for this season of the year in their trip over the mountains, and in meeting with a good run of business all the way down. The company will complete their interior season by exhibiting at Oroville on the 17th; Marysville, 19th; Colusa, 20th; Knight's Landing, 21st; Woodland, 22d; Davisville, 23d; Dixon, 25th; Suisun, 26th; Vallejo, 27th. It is generally reported that Manager Wilson will give a Winter season of hippodrome, equestrian, acrobatic and variety performances in this city.

NICH. HOCHOURTEL, who has successfully managed the Academy of Music, Portland, Oregon, for many seasons, is in San Francisco awaiting the arrival of his company per next steamer from Victoria. It comprises Fanny Garratson, Marie Zoel and other artistes well known in the variety business. Mr. Bochgurtel may perhaps decide to open the winter campaign in San Francisco instead of returning to Portland. If he does so he will spare no expense to give the public a season of good variety entertainments.

JOHN PIPER.—John Piper of Piper's Opera House, Virginia City, will arrive in San Francisco to-night. It is very cold up in Virginia City during the winter. We don't know what Manager Piper is after, but are sure that should he decide to cater for the amusement of the San Franciscans, he would meet with liberal support. The name of John Piper stands A 1 with the profession and the public.

MME. DURET.—This actress of the Celeste school, who appeared some six or seven years ago at Maguire's Opera House in this city, and has since that time been playing in the Australian colonies with good success, arrived by the last steamer from Honolulu, where she played a short engagement supported by George Pauncefort.

MRS. F. S. CHANFRAU.—This charming actress will commence an engagement at the California Theatre on Monday in C. W. Tayleure's emotional sketch entitled "The Elopement; or, Marriage and its Shadows." In another column will be found some account of the success this lady has met with in the East.

HOME AGAIN.—George Hinckley, inventor of the ship scene in "The Red Pocket Book," who went East to superintend its production in New York, has returned to this city. Mr. Hinckley has a genius for stage effects, which will yet gain him a name.

CHIARINI'S CIRCUS.—Signor Chiarini publishes a card in another column in which he explains the cause of his detention in San Francisco and the reason why he cannot give any more performances before leaving for Australia. None of the members of his circus will appear in public.

MRS. MINNIE MYRTLE MILLER.—Mrs. Miller left for Sacramento this morning. She will lecture at the Metropolitan Theatre in that city on Tuesday next.

CLIFF HOUSE.—Sunny days and glorious moonlight nights cause thousands of people to visit this most delightful of all sea-side resorts. A fine supper and dance in the pretty little ballroom is the fashion.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

PACIFIC COAST DRAMATIC NEWS.

MARYSVILLE.—The Appeal says that Dr. Haskell the agent of Wilson's great show which is to exhibit in that city on the 19th, arrived in that city last night on his way from San Francisco to the company at Redding. He reports the company doing a splendid business above. From our exchanges we learn that great satisfaction is given by the troupe everywhere they appear,

OAKLAND.—Last night Calvin B. McDonald and Olive Harper gave an entertainment at Brayton Hall. McDonald lectured on the trip overland, and Olive Harper on the woman question.

SACRAMENTO.—On Tuesday evening Mrs. Minnie Myrtle Miller will deliver the lecture on "Joaquin Miller, the Poet and the Man," which proved such a success in this city, at the Metropolitan Theatre. On Wednesday a dramatic company, Frank Hussey, Lou McCarty, and others will appear in "Hazard."

PIOCHE.—The White Pine News of November 8th says: The Lorraine & Mason Combination Troupe left here yesterday for Pioche, where it intends playing an engagement; after which at Salt Lake. We predict full houses for the troupe. Maggie Knight, the pretty little blonde, is almost a show herself, in her comic characters and songs; and assisted by Lorraine, the comic Dutchman, and Mason, the favorite jig dancer, comprise the most pleasing combination we have seen for some time.

RED BLUFF.—John Wilson's Circus showed here on the 14th to big business.

TEHAMA.—Wilson's circus performed on the 15th.

CHICO.—Wilson's Circus showed here last night

VIRGINIA CITY.—John H. Church's troupe consisting of Miss Agnes Kennedy, Miss Susie Robison, Thos. Barton, Lou Dixon, Walter Parke John Allen, and others, opened at Piper's Opera House for four nights on the 13th. The theatre was well filled and there was a goodly number of ladies in the dress-circle.

PORTLAND, OR.—On the 9th, Waldron's dramatic company presented "Nick of the Woods" and local sketch entitled "Terry O' Roar; or the Escaped Nun." Edith O'Gorman, the escaped nun, gave her first lecture on the 8th, at Masonic Temple; the hall was crowded to suffocation; her second and third lectures were equally well attended. Vivian gave a farewell entertainment at Masonic Hall on the 13th. He was assisted by amateurs.

SALT LAKE.—F. M. Bates, Miss Jean Clara Waters and company appeared in "Griffith Gaunt." On the 7th a melodrama called "Halvei the Unknown" was played, and on the 9th "Nobody's Child." James J. Bartlett appeared on the 11th in "Magdalen."

EASTERN DRAMATIC NEWS.

In New York at the Academy of Music Pauline Lucca had made a great success in "La Favorita"......At the Olympic Theatre Romac Dion ai, the boy tenor, made his appearance on the 4th......The engagement of the Aimee Troupe closed on the 9th. The Lydia Thompson Troupe commenced on the 11th .....At Wallack's "Pygmalion and Galatea" was withdrawn after the 9th, and on the 11th Mr. Sothern made his first appearance at this theatre in "Our American Cousin," Mr. Polk playing Asa Trenchard......Old comedies are running at Daly's Fifth-avenue Theatre, "Everybody's Friend," and "The Inconstant" were played last week......At the Union Square Theatre, "Agnes" runs on with undiminished success, and will probably keep the stage until the close of Miss Agnes Ethel's engagement. It will be replaced by a new comedy, written by John Brougham expressly for the U. S. T...... Emerson's California Minstrels are doing a good business. The last novelty produced was a pantomime entitled "The Comanches; or, life on the Plains," which proved such a success at the Alhambra Theatre in this city..... At Bryant's "King Karrot" was running well......The San Francisco Minstrels were running their usual bill without any startling novelties......At Tony Pastor's Opera House Jenny Benson and and the wonderful child artist, Baby Seneca, have been added to the company and accepted as first-class favorites. Sunday evening concerts are given at the Grand Opera House...... At Booth's Theatre the Boucicaults close to-night. Miss Neilson's appearance is announced for the 18th, when she appears as Juliet......At Niblo's the finishing of the house is being rapidly pushed ahead. The rehearsals for the new spectacle are being held at various halls in the city..... At Wood's Museum M'lle Zoe made a success in "The Angel of Midnight."......At the Bowery, Neil Warner appeared in "Sir Giles Overreach," "Richard III," and other "heavy" parts......The Worrell Sisters, Jennie, Sophie and Irene, appeared in "Ixion" at the Theatre Comique..... J. H. Chatterson made his first appearance at the Grand Opera House, Oct. 28th, as Fridolin in "Le Roi Carrotte," interpreting the character fairly. This spectacle will be shortly withdrawn in favor of a local drama from the pen of Augustin Daly modeled upon "La Vie Parisienne," which made a great success in Paris. It is the intention to vividly represent life in the metropolitan city by gaslight, and among the scenes to be faithfully represented are the interior of Harry Hill's variety theatre in Houston street during the progress of a sparring match, for which some of the most celebrated pugilists of the city have been engaged; the Chinese quarters in Baxter street; Cork row; the Bowery Theatre during a performance, and, in short, pictures of both high and low life will be presented in a realistic manner.

The Boston Saturday Evening Gazette says:

> It is now generally conceded that the present season of opera at the Academy of Music, New York, is a failure in an artistic sense. Lucca and Kellogg are both excellent artists, but the balance of the company, excepting Jamet and Ronconi, are by no means up to the standard. Vizzani, the tenor, has failed both as a singer and actor. Abrugnedo, although a better artist than Vizzani, has broken down several times. Sparapani, the baritone, has but little voice, and Moriami, the other baritone, although possessing a fine voice, yet has it by no means under control. Although a large number of seats were sold by subscription, yet the attendance on many nights has been quite limited, and the ticket speculators could not sell four dollar tickets in a good location for a dollar apiece,

The Boston Courier of the 3d says:

> The St. James Theatre, which has been thoroughly renovated and refitted, will be re-opened on Saturday evening next, with a strong company. "The Life's Revenge," in which Mr. Frank Mayo will appear, will be presented, and the drama of "Dick Turpin and Tom King." On Monday evening, November 11, we are promised "Roi Carrote," with brilliant new scenery and appointments.

Americus, child violinist; John and Maggie Fielding, Dick Ralph, the three Walhallas, Dick Carroll and his three boys, and Mulligan and Rico were at Aim's, Pittsburgh, on the 4th.

Dan Rice's old trick horse, Excelsior, which he has owned for eighteen years, is irremediably ill, and made his final bow to the public at Cincinnati on the 10th. He could but partially perform his exercises. He is shortly to depart for the land where all good horses go, and he awaits the event at Connolly's stable in that city. Dan Rice addressed the audience on the old animal's affection and intelligence, as he exhibited him for the last time, and was moved to tears as he spoke.

Charley Howard, the old plantation darkey, was at the Metropolitan Theatre, Washington, on the 11th inst.

Martha Wren, James Collins, Amanda Lee and others were at the Odeon, Baltimore, on the 28th.

Professor Pepper's first lecture on "Light" at Steinway Hall was not a success. The Professor was too talky, and in consequence of bad gas the "ghosts" were not bright spirits. The Mercury says:

> The Professor had a pianist behind his curtain who excited wild speculation. Some thought the extraordinary tones were produced by the "spirit," and others that they were perpetrated by a small boy in his second quarter. They excited shouts of laughter and derisive applause. The pianist could not get an engagement in a Chatham street dive. He was rather rough for Steinway Hall.

La Petite DeAngelis, who made her first appearance at the Alhambra Theatre in this city, is progressing rapidly in her profession. One New York paper, speaking of her performance at the Theatre Comique, Washington, says:

> DeAngelis a pretty, precocious girl of nine or ten, warbles a few serio-comic songs in a style that ought to put to shame some of her older competitors.

A Philadelphia paper says, speaking of her engagement at the American Theatre in that city:

> La Petite DeAngelis is a very pretty little girl, who executes a number of songs and dances in truly artistic fashion.

M'lle Marietta Ravel produced at the Academy of Music, New Orleans, on the 4th, a new drama by Charles Foster entitled "The Wild Cat; or Marriage by Moonlight." One of the papers thus describes "the sensation" of the play, which is decidedly strong:

> The most thrilling of all the startling and absorbing incidents that are introduced, is that which concludes the second act, where the luckless hero is placed with murderous intent in position to be instantly annihilated by the descending hammer of a pile driver, from which awful predicament he is dragged by Wild Cat but a second before the ponderous weight comes down. The scene ingeniously contrived and startling enough to satisfy the most craving hunger for sensation. The audience was kept in a continued state of merriment or excitement, and the applause was constant and vociferous.

A new play entitled "Bohemia" was produced at the Arch street Theatre, Philadelphia. The Press says the faults of the play are manifold, yet it evidences the experienced hand. It is too wordy, though some of the dialogue is quite witty and written in imitation of Robertson. As usual, the imitation falls below the original. If cut down to three acts it might hold the stage a week, but as it is heavy and tiresome.

The Zavistowski Sisters were at the Varieties, New Orleans, up to the 9th playing to poor business, their stage business being about played out and they too lazy to learn new. These little frauds have seen their best days.

The Patti-Mario troupe, on their journey westward to fill their concert engagements, met with a serious railroad disaster, by which Mr. Max Strakosch was badly injured, but the members of the company fortunately escaped.

Camilla Urso arrived recently in New Orleans. Had not engaged to play at last dates.

Mrs. D. P. Bowers, supported by J. C. McCollum and a good stock company, appeared at the Acad-

The season at the St. Charles Theatre, New Orleans was inaugurated by the production of "Henry IV," Ben De Bar appearing as Falstaff.

The Aimee Opera Troupe will play a brief engagement in Philadelphia at the close of their present successful season at the Olympic Theatre

Caroline Richings Bernard speaks of starting with an English opera company, under James P. Sherry toward the close of November.

Miss Charlotte Cushman commenced an engagement at the Boston Theatre on the 9th, appearing as Lady Macbeth.

Miss Adelaide Lennox, an English actress, is playing a very successful engagement at the National Theatre, Cincinnati.

Mr. John Jack and Miss Annie Firmin will be the stars at the Griswold Opera House, Troy, during the present week.

Mr. Dominick Murray was announced at the Arch-street Theatre, Philadelphia, on the 9th.

Mr. Lester Wallack will appear at Ford's Opera House, Baltimore, on the 22d.

Mr. J. Holmes Grover will shortly fulfil an engagement at the Bowery Theatre.

John E. Owens and company are at Pike's Opera House, Cincinnati,

The Strakosch Opera company will sing in Cincinnati on the 20th.

Mr. G. L. Fox and "Humpty Dumpty" troupe are in Chicago.

Mr. C. B. Bishop is at the Academy of Music.

Old John Robinson's circus company is at Savannah, Ga.

Mr. Robert Craig has withdrawn from the company at the Grand Opera House, New York, and will soon go to St. Louis to fulfil an engagement of ten weeks. "Le Roi Carotte" will be superseded shortly at the Grand Opera House.

Mr. Frank Majilton was presented by his wife with a little son on Friday, Nov. 1st.

Miss Neilson (Mrs. P. H. Lee) arrived from England per steamship Java on Oct. 30th.

"The Red Pocket Book" run a week at the Holliday Street Theatre, Baltimore. Mr. Proctor played Maurice, and Miss Rosa Rand, Helen. The following week Mr. Proctor appeared in "Nick of the Woods."

Frank Mayo is to play the following consecutive engagements, commencing at New Orleans, La., Nov. 18th, and remaining two weeks; Mobile, Ala., one week; Memphis, Tenn., one week; Louisville, Ky., one week; Indianapolis, Ind., one week; then traveling through the small towns for two weeks, closing at Titusville, Pa.

Joe Childs, clog dancer, end man and general performer, Ida Wallace, vocalist and fancy dancer advertise for engagements in the New York Clipper.

Ida Fisk, Walter Bray and others are at the West Side Opera House, Chicago.

At SQUARZA'S PUNCH SALOON, in Kearny street!
There BONA, disciple of GREAT SQUARZA,
Dispenses famed Magic Punches; rather
The most delicious mixtures yet recorded;
And have with many medals been rewarded!
Ladies their CORDIALS there can sip at leisure,—
Their "TEARS" appease,—and Men gain "LADIES' PLEASURE."
To allay connubial differences and pain,
In "ANTI-DIVORCE" you can your end attain,
Sip of the potent extract but one taste,
Your arm, consoling, straight is round her waist
Once what a "MORNING COMFORT" in the kiss
That heals the quarrel and imparts the bliss!
The "WELCOME" too, you'll always find
A balmy soother for the troubled mind.
The bright "AURORA," and the sweet "FAREWELL
Just visit BONA, and you'll all fare well!
His "HYGIENIC BITTERS" are the panacea
For all dyspeptics and for diarrhœa.
No Cholera Morbus ever has been found
Where "HYGIENIC BITTERS" knock around.
BONA and SQUARZA, spite of all detractors,
Have proved the Nation's greatest benefactors!
Full FORTY different healthful drinks you'll find,
To aid the Man—invigorate the mind!
Not this alone—a Welcome you will meet

Mrs. F. S. Chanfrau.

This accomplished actress, who is to make her first appearance before a California audience at the California Theatre on Monday evening, has won professional triumphs in all the large cities in the East, and is there recognized as one of the most popular stars on the boards. The press has been particularly liberal in her praise in every city in which she has played; and we look forward to her engagement at the California with no small degree of pleasure. The Baltimore American thus epitomizes the professional career and professional qualities of Mrs. Chanfrau:

It is twelve years or more since this lady appeared in Baltimore. Then as Miss Henriette Baker, a member of Wheatley's famous Arch-street Theatre, Philadelphia, she charmed the town with her personal beauty and exquisite modesty. The promise which her efforts then gave of future excellence has since been very fully redeemed. She now returns to us commended to the best esteem of our play-goers by her brilliant Eastern fame, and by the enthusiastic encomiums with which the leading critics of the country have approved her genius and endorsed her popularity.

In New York and Boston, she is accredited with a sympathetic power and a polished culture of style second to no artists known to the stage. In the former city she achieved through her personations of Esther Eccles in "Caste," and Ophelia to Edwin Booth's "Hamlet," in his memorable one hundred nights run of that tragedy, the two most conspicuous triumphs known the metropolitan stage for many years.

In Boston her distinction was scarcely less honorable and shining. The coldest critics were enthusiastic in writing about her grace and modesty, and Charles Dickens, who twice witnessed her performance of Dora, pronounced it one of the most finished bits of acting he had ever seen. It was upon this chaste and tender embodiment of an exquisite ideal, that Charles Fechter based the opinion he so confidently expressed, that Mrs. Chanfrau was the truest artiste he had seen in America.

The conspicuous excellence of Mrs. Chanfrau's personations is their simple naturalness and earnest feeling. Nothing is strained or exaggerated, and the audience in witnessing her efforts is won to recognize through their artless eloquence the power of instinct in close communion with truth. Her impersonation of M'me Fernande Multon in Mr. Taylenre's new drama of "The Elopement," presents her in a role of intense feeling, and is approved as an effort of great emotional power and brilliant finish. Christie Johnstone is another of her successes, and ranks prominently among the triumphs of the contemporaneous stage.

In a word, the public have now an opportunity of witnessing one of the handsomest ladies and best artistes of the day, and of enjoying the interpretation of nature, which not only delights the mind of the auditor, but beautifies and adorns the stage.

At the Springs.

A poor but honest young lady, who earns a living by working on hoop skirts, in reply to an inquiry, stated that she had spent the summer "at the springs."

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of waters bright, did make a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
"Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here—
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins;
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again.

Health and Pleasure.

There are not too many pleasures in San Francisco. Nothing is more pleasant, nothing more health-giving than a drive into the country now and then. Those who cannot afford to keep a carriage of their own, can find one equal in elegance to any private conveyance at the Occidental Carriage stand. Frank Bonton has there, and at his stables 1016 Stockton street, carriages of every description. His drivers are careful and experienced, his charges are moderate. The moral of the above is: go to Frank Bonton at the Occidental Hotel when you want a carriage. O

In the time of Gessler and William Tell there was much significance in a hat. So it is now. The first thing that attracts the eye is the hat. Therefore buy fashionable hat at "The" Hat Store, 647 Washington street, below Kearny.

Oyster Trade.

The oyster trade in California is assuming gigantic proportions. Emerson Corville, of the Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, furnishes from his own oyster beds at San Bruno millions of oysters to all parts of the Pacific Coast. His Eastern transplanted oysters have a fame which has extended all over the continent, and "the 'Saddle Rock" is known everywhere.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS

Card from Sig. Chiarini.

☞ Having been unable to proceed to Australia by the steamer sailing on the 9th inst., owing to the vessel (the Ajax) not having carrying capacity for taking on board the Royal Italian Circus, I am compelled to remain until the 4th of December next, when myself and entire troupe will embark on the Dakotah for the English colonies. In the meantime, my hosts of friends have entreated me to give some performances in this city before my departure. It would be a great pleasure for me to comply with their wishes, but it is not possible to do so. The rainy season has set in, the weather has grown cold and disagreeable, my horses and all connected with the Circus having worked hard during the summer require rest, and taking these facts into consideration, I have decided to give no performances; nor has any person or persons connected with the Royal Italian Circus the right to appear in any public exhibition, using my name or that of my circus. If any parties so act, they may be set down as impostors. Those engaged by me are happy to have a brief rest from their arduous toils before departing for Australia, and I certainly wish them pleasure and happiness in the enjoyment of their unlooked for holidays. Thanking the California public for its substantial patronage in the past and its generous hospitality in the present, I remain, with the deepest respect,

GUISEPPE CHIARINI,
Proprietor Royal Italian Circus.

Attention, Good Livers!

MR. P. BERGES, FORMERLY proprietor of the Miners' Restaurant, has taken the management of both the Miners' Restaurant on Commercial street and the Miners' Branch on Market street, in partnership with MR. A. DRAYEUR, who has been connected with the firm for years. Improvements have been made in the cuisine departments that will render the Miners' more popular than it has ever been during the 2 years of its prosperity. Our Bills of Fare embrace all the delicacies of the season. Our motto is "Good Fare, Good Cooking and Moderate Charges."

The Dog of Montargis.

Edwin Forrest has the most unique dramatic library in America, and a gallery of personal photographs, led off by a full-length sun copy of himself by a Boston artist that has, we think, no parallel in the world: It is life-like and full-size, and you feel like talking to it as you see it. "The Dog of Montargis," which acted with him when he was a poor stroller, is painted from the real, and when Colonel Scott, the railroad king, called on Forrest, the king of the stage, not long since, Forrest pointed to this picture and said: "He often got more applause than I did, and when he was poisoned at New Orleans I had him painted after he died. He was one of my best friends, for he never complained, was ready to share with me my sorrow, and always rejoiced over my triumphs." If Forrest could lecture on his personal history he would alternately drown the house with tears and convulse it with laughter.

Too Conscientious.

The most conscientious conductor of whom we know anything is employed upon the Catawissa Railroad. The other day a woman gave birth to twins while upon his train, and the conductor, after doing all that he could to make things comfortable for the parties, tried to collect two half-fares from the father of the twins for the little passengers.

Mean.

In one of our large cities, a short time ago, a Western editor was met by a friend, who, taking him by the hand, exclaimed: "I am delighted to see you! How long are you going to stay?" "Why, I think," said the editor, "I shall stay as long as my money lasts." "How disappointed I am," said the friend; "I hoped you were going to stay three or four days."

The Newgate Crop.

The News Letter, speaking of Bradley & Rulofson's picture of Mrs. Minnie Myrtle Miller, insinuates that her hair is not natural, which proves the News Letter a donkey. Mrs. Miller's ringlets grow on her head, and she has never had her hair cut against her will. The worthy proprietor of the News Letter can scarcely say as much.

The Ministering Angel.

At no moment of difficulty does a husband, knowing his utter helplessness, draw so closely to his wife's side for comfort and assistance as when he wants a button sewed on his shirt-collar, or to have a gray hair extracted from his whiskers.

Query: Does the epizootic affect horse chestnuts, and will it affect horse marines?

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of waters bright, did make a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
"Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here—
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins;
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again.

A PUT-UP JOB.

Now the election is over we don't mind splitting on that genial old hypocrite, Horace Greeley. How soft, how very soft the Democratic party was to be so easily taken in by that mild-mannered dissembler! We knew what his little game was all along, but we kept mum. Now we intend to let the cat out of the bag. It is none of FIGARO's funeral, anyhow, and he doesn't feel bad about it. Horace Greeley has been the deadly enemy of the Democratic party all his life; he has worked unceasingly to destroy it by bitter invective and persistent persecution. Still the Democratic party lived, in spite of Horace Greeley and the Tribune. Then the old man determined to try straetgy. Grant and he agreed on this one thing: Delenda est Democracy—Democracy must be destroyed. Next, how to do it? Grant and Greeley put their heads together, and the result was Horace ran for the Presidency. Oh, you bat-eyed, long-eared, easily-hamboozled Democrats, don't you see it all now? Is Horace a Democrat now he has re-assumed the control of the Tribune? Has he a word to say in favor of his late associates? We trow not. He has done all he wanted. He has killed the Democratic party so dead that there can be no resurrection for it, and he will have his reward. He is to be allowed to choose two Cabinet officers—which two we shall not say. Will he choose Democrats? We fancy not. Howl, ye deluded Democrats who acted like sheep who should elect a wolf as their shepherd! gnash your teeth in rage that you did not remember that Latin proverb, "Timeo Danaos et dona ferentes." How could you trust Horace Greeley even when he came to you with soft speeches and promises of gifts of rich offices? And you, idiotic Republicans who actually believed that Horace Greeley, your standard-bearer, had deserted to the enemy, what will ye do? Eat dirt plentifully, grovel in the dust, throw ashes on your empty heads, and proceed to take back all you have said during the campaign against Horace Greeley, the truest, most staunch, most long-suffering, most unscrupulous Republican who ever lived in this land of the free and home of the brave. Horace Greeley lives, but the Democratic party is dead. In future histories of America the following shall be printed:

Q—Who killed the Democratic party?

A—Horace Greeley, the great founder of the Republican party.

Q—How did he accomplish this?

A—By strategy. He procured his nomination to the Presidency in 1872, made a sham fight with Grant, with whom he was acting in perfect unity, and so disorganized the Democratic party that it was after that time utterly unheard of.

Q—What is the great party of the United States now?

A—The National party, which appeals to no prejudices of birth, religion or class, but calls into its ranks all who are true Americans, wherever they were born—men who are content to owe allegiance to but one flag, and whose whole interests are centered in the land of their adoption.

Q—Then Horace Greeley did a good work in breaking up the Democratic party?

A—You bet your life!

Clear as Mud.

Our attention was called, a day or two ago, to a couple of our Africo-American citizens on Clay street, one of whom was endeavoring to explain the mysteries of the working of the steam engine to his less informed man and brother. During a lengthy and elaborate flow of words he was interrupted by No. 2 with:

"Yes, yes; jist so; but what makes the piston-rod go in and out de way it does?"

"It's de force ob de concussion caused by de steam dat makes it go out, and it comes back on its own accord."

"Well, I declare to goodness! But what's dose little balls all de time gwine 'round an' 'round?"

"Dem? Why dem's de guberment balls; dey gubern de steam so dat de ingine don't git away wid de engineer."

The information seemed satisfactory to No. 2, who walked away deeply impressed with the learning and wisdom of his generous informant.

The Significant Hat.

In the time of Gessler and William Tell there was much significance in a hat. So it is now. The first thing that attracts the eye is the hat. Therefore buy fashionable hat at "The" Hat Store, 647 Washington street, below Kearny.

Oyster Trade.

The oyster trade in California is assuming gigantic proportions. Emerson Corville, of the Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, furnishes from his own oyster beds at San Bruno millions of oysters to all parts of the Pacific Coast. His Eastern transplanted oysters have a fame which has extended all over the continent, and "he 'Saddle Rock'" is known everywhere.

A Pleasant Location.

Persons desiring comfortable lodgings in a Central location, should visit the Alhambra, and inspect the fine suites of rooms to let there. The building is a very fine one and is well lighted and ventilated. a

The Bivalve.

H. E. Besthorn, for many years associated with the late William Spreen in the management of this, the most popular and fashionable oyster and chop house in San Francisco, has purchased the same, and will continue the business in a manner which cannot fail to give satisfaction to the public. The neatly furnished rooms up-stairs for families and supper parties have long been a feature of THE BIVALVE, No. 640 Market street, near Kearny. P

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS

Card from Sig. Chiarini.

☞ Having been unable to proceed to Australia by the steamer sailing on the 9th inst., owing to the vessel (the Ajax) not having carrying capacity for taking on board the Royal Italian Circus, I am compelled to remain until the 4th of December next, when myself and entire troupe will embark on the Dakotah for the English colonies. In the meantime, my host of friends have entreated me to give some performances in this city before my departure. It would be a great pleasure for me to comply with their wishes, but it is not possible to do so. The rainy season has set in, the weather has grown cold and disagreeable, my horses and all connected with the Circus having worked hard during the summer require rest, and taking these facts into consideration, I have decided to give no performances; nor has any person or persons connected with the Royal Italian Circus the right to appear in any public exhibition, using my name or that of my circus. If any parties so act, they may be set down as impostors. Those engaged by me are happy to have a brief rest from their arduous toils before departing for Australia, and I certainly wish them pleasure and happiness in the enjoyment of their unlooked for holidays. Thanking the California public for its substantial patronage in the past and its generous hospitality in the present, I remain, with the deepest respect,

GUISEPPE CHIARINI,
Proprietor Royal Italian Circus.

California Theatre.

To-night Mrs. F. S. Chanfrau, an actress who in her particular line is said to have no equal on the American stage, will commence an engagement at the California Theatre, appearing in the dual role of Lady Isabel and Mme. Fernanda Multon in C. W. Tayleure's four-act drama entitled "The Elopement; or, Marriage and its Shadows," and based on Mrs. Henry Wood's novel of "East Lynne." The play will be produced with new scenery by George C. Bell, and new machinery by Torrence and Stackhouse. The cast, which is undeniably strong, is published in full on our first page. Seats can be secured to-day at the theatre between the hours of 10 and 4.

Alhambra.

There will be an entire change of bill this evening. First part, interlude and afterpiece will all be fresh and original. J. Enright will deliver a burlesque oration; Miss Fanny Gibson will sing one of her sweet ballads; the dark tragedy of "Damon and Pythias" will be presented by Add Hyman, Bob Hart, J. Enright, J. Robinson, Charles Sutton and J. Kemp; the finale of the third act of "Ernani" will be given by J. G. Russell and full vocal corps; Hart, Ryman and Enright will appear in the "Green-eyed Monster;" Baker and Farron, whose popularity continues unabated, will present some of their best Dutch acts, and the performance will conclude with a fairy extravaganza arranged by Bob Hart, entitled "The Fairies of Mission Bay."

The Fabbri Opera Troupe.

The California Theatre was thronged last night, when this admirable troupe of artistes made their last appearance, and brought to a close the most popular season of Italian Opera ever given in San Francisco. "Lucia di Lammermoor" was excellently well performed. At the end of every act there was a call for the principal performers, and Signora Fabbri was almost smothered with bouquets, and loaded down with baskets of flowers.

Bella Union.

There was a crowded house on Saturday night and again last night, and the new bill gave general satisfaction. Miss Eugenia Garrotta's act on the magic globe was much admired; Josie Mayfield gained much applause for her Sailor's Hornpipe; Cogill and Cooper made a hit in "Love Among the Roses;" the acts by Johnny Tuers, H. Sinclair, J. H. Larkin, Tommy Bree and others were well performed; the ballet was charming, and the very amusing play of "Schneider in White Pine," kept the audience in a roar of laughter until the curtain fell. The same bill will be performed to-night.

The Atheneum.

There is a great company of popular artistes at this house. Dan Lowry, Miss Lydia Livingstone, Miss May Leroy and many others, are all good in their respective lines, and the programme presented is most attractive. Mons. Garbatier's feats are received with much applause; Billy Smith shines in song and dance, and Miss Kitty Zoe's ballads are much admired. A capital bill will be presented this evening with new acts and new faces.

Young Men's Christian Association Hall.

Professor McDonald, a Scottish phrenologist of reputation, is now delivering a course of lectures on phrenology and other kindred subjects at this hall with success. His lectures are both amusing and instructive, and his examinations are big hits. The Professor's consulting rooms are at the Hall, open daily. He lectures every evening this week.

Woodward's Gardens.

The attendance was fully 10,000 at Woodward's Gardens yesterday, and the performance of the Conklin Circus Troupe, Professor Samwell's trained dogs, etc., gave universal satisfaction. Circus performances every day.

City Gardens.

An immense crowd witnessed the performance of Holland Brothers' European Circus Troupe on Sunday. They will appear in the new Pavilion on Wednesday, Saturday and Sunday afternoons, and give a regular equestrian performance. Katie Holloway, Dorr and Worland, Holland Brothers, Harry Clark, M'lle Gracie, Horatio Nelson, J. Garbutt, Wm. Brown, and others form a company capable of giving a first-class and varied performance. The admission will remain at 25 cents.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

The Worrell Sisters.

These talented young burlesque actresses who commenced their professional career in San Francisco, and have, since their departure played with immense success in nearly every city in the United States, will commence an engagement at the Alhambra Theatre, on Monday, December 2d, together with Miss Lillie Hall, burlesque actress and vocalist. We always prophesied a brilliant career for the Worrell Sisters and had especial faith in Jenny's talent. These California artistes will receive a hearty welcome on their return to their old home covered with laurels gained in the East.

Billy Emerson.

The management of the Alhambra Theatre announce the reappearance at that house on November 25th of Billy Emerson. What a house Billy will draw! What a welcome he will receive!

A NEW "EXCELSIOR."

The sun had sunk on Chappaqua,
The night was keen, the air was raw,
As forth the farmer went in peace,
With this device on his valise:
"I'm going West!"

His pants were short, his boots run down,
His felt hat smashed in at the crown,
And like a squeaking cart-wheel rung
The accents of that well-known tongue:
"I'm going West!"

In White House windows bright and warm,
He dreams he sees Ulysses' form;
Then yanks his trousers higher and higher,
Rips fiercely out, and screams in ire:
"I'm going West!"

"Dont try that dodge," John Cochrane cried,
"The Free-trade boys will tan your hide!"
Upon his nose a tear drop shines,
He wipes it on his sleeve and whines:
"I'm going West!"

"Beware of those who've read your books!
You'll know them by their vacant looks!"
This was a "sorehead's" parting cry;
A silvery voice replied; "You lie!
"I'm going West!"

A sleepy "cop" that morning found
An old man seated on the ground,
Still clinging to his carpet-bag,
Which bore this motto on its tag;
"I'm going West!"

There, 'neath the Franklin statue, sat
Old Chappaquack in his white hat,
Like huntsman resting from the hunt,
While from his lips escaped a grunt:
"I'm going West!"

Extraordinary Boys Wanted.

We find the following advertisement in an Eastern paper:

Wanted—three boys to feed on drum cylinder presses.

Before we go any further we would like to ask some questions. Do we understand from the above that it is the intention to feed these three boys on drum cylinder presses? And, if so, is it reasonable to suppose that three boys can be found who will be willing to eat that machinery? Or is it the design rather to stand three boys up on drum cylinder presses, and permit them to remain there while while they are fed on ordinary food? In the former case, applicants for the position, will, we think, be scarce. In the latter, we are confident that we can lay our hand upon at least twelve hundred boys that will take all the feeding that can be given them on drum cylinder presses, or anywhere else. The advertisement seems to lack clearness.

A Confiding Sheep.

A sheep making a long journey found the heat of his fleece very uncomfortable, and seeing a flock of other sheep in a fold, evidently awaiting for some one, leaped over and joined them in the hope of being shorn. Perceiving the shepherd approaching and the other sheep huddling into a remote corner of the fold, he shouldered his way forward, and going up to the shepherd, said:

"Did you ever see such a lot of fools? It's lucky I came along to set them an example of docility. Seeing me operated upon, they'll be glad to offer themselves."

"Perhaps so," replied the shepherd, laying hold of the animal; but I never kill more than one sheep at a time. Mutton won't keep this hot weather."

The chops tasted excellently well with tomato sauce. The moral of this fable isn't what you think it is. It is this: The chops of another man's mutton are always nice eating.

Oh!

"The verb to love," says a wicked French writer, "is an active verb, which runs until it sinks exhausted into the easy chair of marriage."

Country people begin their letters: "This comes hoping."

Health and Pleasure.

There are not too many pleasures in San Francisco. Nothing is more pleasant, nothing more health-giving than a drive into the country now and then. Those who cannot afford to keep a carriage of their own, can find one equal in elegance to any private conveyance at the Occidental Carriage stand. Frank Bouton has there, and at his stables 1016 Stockton street, carriages of every description. His drivers are careful and experienced, his charges are moderate. The moral of the above is: go to Frank Bouton at the Occidental Hotel when you want a carriage. O

Squarza's Punches.

One of the most famous institutions of California is Squarza's Punch. It is found in every city, village and mining camp in the State. It is delicious, wholesome and unlike anything else. The proprietor of this delightful beverage notifies his patrons that he has opened at No. 317 Kearny street, between Pine and Bush streets, a BRANCH of his old and popular symposium on Leidesdorff street. •

Live Well.

Those who eat good dinners are amiable. Bad feeding is the cause of many crimes. Those who dine at the Pioneer Restaurant, on Washington street, at the corner of Dunbar Alley, live well, and are consequently happy. Henry Booken, who has catered for the public since 1849, provides for his customers Lake Tahoe trout, Salmagundi soup, game, tame geese, delicious entrees, and everything the heart of man can desire. The best cup of tea in the city—English breakfast tea—Souchong and Orange Pekoe—can be obtained here. B

FOREIGN DRAMATIC NEWS.

Mr. J. H. Allen, a tragedian well-known in this country, is at present fulfilling an engagement at Sadlers Well's Theatre, London. The Court Circular says: "On Wednesday evening Mr. J. H. Allen, already known in America as an eminent tragedian, made his first appearance on the metropolitan stage as Claude Melnotte in Lord Lytton's "Lady of Lyons." Mr. Allen was most meritorious in the character which he assumed. In a word, while avoiding melodramatic rant, he was a most powerful interpreter of Lord Lytton's hero, and we know, although often attempted, Claude is no easy part to play. The audience was very enthusiastic and repeated calls before the curtain testified to the high popularity achieved by the really able transatlantic performer."

The Maestro Verdi has finally accepted an invitation to visit Naples during the ensuing season. He will superintend the arrangements for bringing out "Don Carlos" and "Aida," at the San Carlo, in both of which Signor Faschini, the tenor, is to sing. The discords of the prompters of harmony last winter are likely, therefore, to produce good effects, and a brilliant entertainment may be expected.

The Christmas pantomime for the Standard Theatre, London, will be called "Cinderella."

Mr. John Oxenford's new comedy, produced at the Opera Comique, London, October 21, is called "A Dream of Love.

Sardou has received and invested money enough from the single play of "Rabagas" to give him an annual income of $1200 a year.

Mr. Creswick and Mr. Phelps are now playing Shylock on alternate nights at the Princess's Theatre London, and in spite of the jeremiads in which writers are wont to indulge over the decline of the drama, the house is nightly filled to its utmost capacity.

To allay connubial differences and pain,
In "ANTI-DIVORCE" you can your end attain.
Sip of the potent extract but one taste,
Your arm, consoling, straight is round her waist
Guess what a "MORNING COMFORT" in the kiss
That heals the quarrel and imparts the bliss!
The "WELCOME" too, you'll always find
A balmy soother for the troubled mind.
The bright "AURORA," and the sweet "FAREWELL
Just visit BONA, and you'll all fare well!
His "HYGIENIC BITTERS" are the panacea
For all dyspeptics and for diarrhœa.
No Cholera Morbus ever has been found
Where "HYGIENIC BITTERS" knock around.
BONA and SQUARZA, spite of all detractors,
Have proved the Nation's greatest benefactors!
Full FORTY different healthful drinks you'll find,
To aid the Man—invigorate the mind!

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

California Theatre.

A large and brilliant audience assembled last night to witness the first appearance on the California stage of Mrs. F. S. Chanfrau, the famous emotional actress, whose progress through the United States has been a continued succession of ovations. The play chosen for the occasion was C. W. Tayleure's "Elopement; or, Marriage and its Shadows." Mrs. Chanfrau, on making her entrance in the character of Lady Isabel, at once on the hearts of the audience and was received with round after round of applause. The first act of this play resembles the dramatic version of Mrs. Wood's novel of "East Lynne." Sir Arthur Levison works on Lady Isabel's jealousy of Barbara Hare and urges her to fly with him and thus "get even" on Archibald Carlisle. For a moment she yields to the tempter, the voice of her child, Lucy, is heard crying "mamma," Lady Isabel frees herself from Levison's grasp and spurns his proposal; she afterwards faints and is forcibly abducted by him. This is all we see of Sir Arthur Levison, we hear in the next act that he is dead. In the first act the part of Lucy, the child, was played by Miss Rellie Deeves in a style which would have done credit to a finished actress; she read admirably and filled in with little bits of effective by-play. In the next act Archibald Carlisle is married to Barbara Hare and the children are under the care of Professor Dillon. Lady Isabel makes her appearance as Mme Fernande Multon, a French governess, but reveals her identity to Professor Dillon binding him to secrecy. She has not been divorced from Carlisle but is supposed to be dead. Her existence places Barbara Carlisle in an awkward position, but Isabel promises not to interfere with the existing state of things provided Dillon keeps her secret and she is allowed the care of her children. This act and the two following ones illustrate the trials of the loving mother in a false position, the serious portion of the dialogue being relieved by the comic perplexity of professor Dillon, (admirably played by Walter Leman) whom the knowledge of the real state of things drives nearly to distraction. In the third act, Lady Isabel in a fit of madness nearly discovers all, and so much excites the suspicion of Archibald and Barbara Carlisle, that henceforth there is no peace for either of them. At the end of the play she dies, having established her innocence in the eyes of her husband, and once more pressed her children to her breast, and heard them call her mother. Mrs. Chanfrau held her audience enchained during the delivery of speeches setting forth the pangs of jealousy, the undying affection felt by a mother for her children and passions of the human heart. In the scene at the close of the third act where Isabel's brain gives way, Mrs. Chanfrau perfectly electrified the audience by her vivid acting. Miss Annie Graham played the part of Barbara with delightful taste and skill, making the most of every situation and reading with good expression and effect. Mrs. Chanfrau is fortunate in her support, there are few theatres in the United States in which this play could be so excellently cast as at the California. Mrs. Judah played her old character of Miss Cornelia, which is, however, an entirely new part in this play, and excited hearty laughter, especially in the scenes with Professor Dillon. This last part could not have been played better than it was by Mr. Leman. G. D. Chaplin acted the character of Archibald Carlisle in a quiet and gentlemanly style, and made all that could be made of it. W. A. Mestayer's part was too short to work up to good effect, but he was a gorgeous villain. The characters of William, aged 14, and Lucy, aged 13, were played by Miss Carria Wyatt and Miss Josephine Stanley. Miss Wyatt has a charmingly sympathetic voice (she must be careful not to get into the habit of using the tremolo too much), and plays with great spirit; she is making rapid progress in the profession she has so recently adopted. Miss Josephine Stanley is also a promising young actress, and read her part admirably, carefully avoiding over-acting. J. S. Torrence as James and Miss Chambers as Louise did their little bits of acting naturally, and the play as a whole was most effectively presented. The action takes place throughout in the drawing-room of Mr Carlisle's house, a very handsome set scene painted by George O. Ball. Mrs. Chanfrau's superb beauty, her power of expressing emotion, and her generally popular style of acting will render her a general favorite, and the California Theatre will be crowded for many nights to come. "Elopement" will be played every night this week and at the matinee on Saturday.

Alhambra.

The programme given at this house last night was excellently well arranged, and did credit to the judgement of Bob Hart the stage manager. A good first part ended with the Phantom Chorus, sung in capital style by the minstrels. J. Enright followed in a very amusing stump speech. Gioveni Campodonico introduced his magic flute and guitar, and surprised the audience by his skill on those instruments producing some novel effects. Add Ryman, Bob Hart, J. Enright, J. Robinson, Charles Sutton and J. Kemp, caused great amusement in the burlesque of "Damon and Pythias;" the "Finale of the Third Act of Ernani" was given with splendid effect, by J. G. Russell and chorus; Bob Hart, Add Ryman and J. Enright performed the amusing act of "The Green Eyed Monster;" Baker and Farron appeared in some of their most amusing specialties, and this rich entertainment concluded with a fairy extravaganza of an extraordinary kind, arranged by Bob Hart, and entitled "The Fairies of Mission Bay;" this must be seen to be appreciated. Sam Rickey as Fairy Cold Fin, sent the audience into fits of laughter last night, the dances were remarkable, and the tableau was absolutely gorgeous. A change of programme will be given to-night.

Bella Union.

Madame Therese, Mons. Schmidt and corps de ballet appear to good advantage in the pretty comic ballet of "The Village Coquette;" Johnny Tuers, J. H. Leskin, Harry Sinclair, and Tommy Bree, create much amusement in the Ethiopian farce of "The Hospital Nurse;" E. Montague delights and astonishes the audience by his thrilling feats on the slack rope, and J. H. Larkin, R. G. Marsh, Carrie Armstrong, Minnie Fillmore, and others appear in the extravaganza of "Schneider in White Pine."

The Atheneum.

Among the many entertaining features in the programme for this evening may be mentioned "Kate McCann" and "Good Bye, Charley," sung by Miss Lydia Livingstone in good style; Dan Lowry in comic sketches and songs; May Lerny in fancy dances, and the whole company in the farce of "The Irish Peddler."

Woodward's Gardens.

The attendance was fully 10,000 at Woodward's Gardens yesterday, and the performance of the Conklin Circus Troupe, Professor Samwall's trained dogs, etc., gave universal satisfaction. Circus performance every day.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

The San Francisco Circus.

Dr. Haskell, the advance agent of the great circus combination under the management of of John Wilson, reported at the FIGARO office this morning. The circus is at Marysville to-day, and will open in San Francisco, for an extended Winter season, on Monday, December 2d.

Art Exhibition.

The paintings by local artists, photographs, pieces of sculpture and other works of art contributed by members of the Art Association to be sold for the relief of the family of the late Fortunato Arriola are on exhibition free of charge at the Art Gallery, Pine street, near Sansome. They will be sold by auction on the 25th. The collection is well worth a visit.

Too Rough for Illinois.

An amusing incident occurred at the Academy Music on the last evening Pauline Lucca sang in "Fra Diavolo." In the bed-chamber scene, where Zerlina places herself before the mirror, and proceeds to disrobe while singing a coquettish aria, a Peorian and his wife looked on from one of the front seats of the parquette with evident amazement and confusion. It is highly probable that the man was not an habitue at the opera, and that he was altogether ignorant of Auber's composition. He was seen to whisper several times to his consort and then to cast his eyes around the house to determine how the audience received such a palpable impropriety on the part of the prima donna. He grew very nervous and fidgety, and finally, when Zerlina removed her bodice, he jumped up, and was heard by those near him to remark: "Come along, mother; the opera is a confounded sight worse than I thought it was. I had no idee women undressed themselves in this way, and that all the big bugs of New York would sit still and look at it as if it wasn't nuthin.' I don't make much pretence myself; but out in Illinois they wouldn't call this kind o' thing even decent."

What a Little Darling!

Chatham, Va., bears off the palm. It claims a month-old infant with two eyes in their proper places, and five more on its knees. It is otherwise perfectly formed except in such trifling details as having its legs twisted backward and turned spirally like a ram's horn, its tongue forked like a snake's, and its thumbs on the wrong side of its hands. This beats the five-legged calf and two-legged sheep all hollow. It is a colored child and is in excellent health. When it grows to man's estate it will appreciate the luxury of having seven eyes. What a pleasant sensation it must be to wink at one's sweetheart with one's knees! We do not desire to hear from any snakes, spotted negroes, large strawberries, centenarians or Revolutionary survivors after this. Our taste craves for something more startling than the commonplaces to which we have been accustomed, now that we have seen a seven-eyed marvel with spiral legs.

Health and Pleasure.

There are not too many pleasures in San Francisco. Nothing is more pleasant, nothing more health-giving than a drive into the country now and then. Those who cannot afford to keep a carriage of their own, can find one equal in elegance to any private conveyance at the Occidental Carriage stand. Frank Bouton has there, and at his stables 1016 Stockton street, carriages of every description. His drivers are careful and experienced, his charges are moderate. The moral of the above is: go to Frank Bouton at the Occidental Hotel when you want a carriage. O

Squarza's Punches.

One of the most famous institutions of California is Squarza's Punch. It is found in every city, village and mining camp in the State. It is delicious, wholesome and unlike anything else. The proprietor of this delightful beverage notifies his patrons that he has opened at No. 817 Kearny street, between Pine and Bush streets, a BRANCH of his old and popular symposium on Leidesdorff street.

Live Well.

Those who eat good dinners are amiable. Bad feeding is the cause of many crimes. Those who dine at the Pioneer Restaurant, on Washington street, at the corner of Dunbar Alley, live well, and are consequently happy. Henry Bocken, who has catered for the public since 1849, provides for his customers Lake Tahoe trout, Salmagundi soup, game, tame geese, delicious entrees, and everything the heart of man can desire. The best cup of tea in the city—English breakfast tea—Souchong and Orange Pekoe—can be obtained here. B

MEETING.

BY ROBERT BROWNING.

The grey sea, and the long black land;
And the yellow half moon, large and low;
And the startled little waves, that leap
In fiery ringlets from their sleep,
As I gain the cove with pushing prow,
And quench its speed in the slushy sand.

Then a mile of warm, sea-scented beach;
Three fields to cross, till a farm appears:
A tap at the pane, the quick sharp scratch
And blue spurt of a lighted match,
And a voice less loud, through its joys and fears,
Than the two hearts, beating each to each.

A Lady's Opinion.

The meanest and most contemptible of mankind may yet find some human advocate, and male coquettes have had, it seems, at least one defender.

The poet Campbell says that he once heard a lady distinguished for beauty and rank defend Sir Thomas Lawrence from the charge of having been culpable in paying attentions to ladies without intending to follow them up by an offer of of his hand.

A gentleman remarked that Sir Thomas was highly blamable.

"No," replied the lady, who was said to have been herself the temporary object of the great painter's attentions; "no, not exactly—not so much to blame," said the lady musingly.

"What!" exclaimed the gentleman, "you astonish me! Not to blame for such conduct?"

"No, not so much," was still the lady's musing response.

"Can you really, madame," said the gentleman again, "defend such behavior as desertion—"

"Why, sir," interrupted the lady, "to confess the truth, I am firmly of the opinion that the majority of the women would rather be courted and jilted, than not be courted at all!

It costs New York twenty thousand dollars a night to amuse itself.

A Composition on the Horse.

A public-spirited boy in the East who is evidently destined, if he lives, to become Mr. Bergh's successor, has the following to say on a subject about which everybody is at present talking: "The horse is a useful animal. He has four legs, but they oughten to be no good when he's got the epizoozy. Some wicked mens drives him ennyhow, and makes him koff enuff to koff hisself away. If I had a klub and was big enuff I would go about and nock these wicked men in their head. This is too bad. Where will such mens die when they go to? We can get along without them, but horses is a useful animal and harder to keep alive. I wish these wicked mens had the epizoozy instead of the horses."

Brightening the Imagination.

Those who use their brains much often feel dull and stupid, and in fact are so—witness the editorials in the daily papers. Cock-tails won't give the necessary stimulus to the brain. Magic Conserves will. After taking a little hasheesh in this form, a man feels brilliant, and when the direct effect of this oriental stimulant has passed off he feels better instead of worse. In this hasheesh differs from all alcoholic stimulants. The druggists in San Francisco are doing an immense business in Magic Conserves.

Dean Swift's Recipe for Courtship.

Two or three dears and two or three sweets,
Two or three balls, or two three treats,
Two or three serenades, given as a lure,
Two or three oaths, how much they endure!
Two or three messages sent in one day,
Two or three times sent out from the play,
Two or three tickets for two or three times,
Two or three love-letters writ all in rhymes;
Two or three months keeping strict to these rules
Can never fail making a couple of fools.

Unkind.

An Eastern exchange says:

Bret Harte, who woke one morning and found himself famous on a rather insignificant literary venture, was announced some time ago as having a play nearly ready for production at the Fifth Avenue Theatre. It has not been produced because Mr. Harte has not written it, and it may never be produced, because nobody knows whether he can write it.

Poor Young Man!

A North Carolinian, aged within four years of a century, is under indictment for killing his wife, a few years his junior, and the extenuating plea offered is that he was rendered insanely jealous by her flirting with other young fellows.

An Indianapolis poodle is an accomplished tobacco chewer.

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of waters bright, did make a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
"Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here—
It looks so nice—and try their cheer.".
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins;
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again.

LETTER FROM CHICAGO.

[FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.]

CHICAGO, November 4th, 1872.

DEAR FIGARO:—The theatrical event of the past week, was the opening of another new place of amusement, being the eighth now open, and two more are in contemplation, The Grand Opera House and Col. Wood's New Museum, besides two or three halls suitable for traveling troupes.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC.

Mrs. Chanfrau has held the boards for a week in "Dora," her most powerful impersonation, and with this attraction Mr. Gardiner has been doing the best financial business of any manager in the city. On Friday, Mrs. Chanfrau received a benefit, appearing in "Christie Johnson." On Saturday evening, "King Rene's Daughter" and "A Sheep in Wolf's Clothing" were produced, with Miss Alexander in the after piece, "Nan the Good for Nothing," she has been engaged for the winter season. This evening, "Black Crook," by the Buffalo company, will bring together a large share of the theatre-goers.

M'VICKER'S THEATRE.

Maggie Mitchell, supported by L. R. Shewall in "Jane Eyre," was the attraction during the past week.

MYER'S OPERA HOUSE.

Mirth and enjoyment have reigned at this place during the past week, with Ben Cotton and Arlington on the ends. A few new stars made their appearance during the week.

AIKEN'S THEATRE.

"The Ticket-of-Leave Man" has been given during the week, and its revival created a decided sensation. Aiken is the most successful Bob Brierly in America. I do not know which to applaud most in him—skill as a manager or efficiency as an actor. The play is well mounted. G. L. Fox's pantomime troupe are announced to appear here shortly.

NIXON'S AMPHITHEATRE.

The Moffit-Bartholomew troupe closed on the 2d. Their stay has been one continued success, and the public regret to lose them. The Georgie Minstrels put in an appearance this evening. The next attraction is not announced.

HOOLEY'S OPERA HOUSE.

The Abbott and Kiralfy troupe has been the attraction during the week, in "Three Hunchbacks," "Humpty," etc.

WEST SIDE OPERA HOUSE.

Messrs. Stone & Co. opened this house on the 31st ult. under favorable auspice. It is on the corner of Randolph and Jefferson streets, in the building known as Jackson Hall. The lessees are experienced men and have a good company. Among them are Walter Bray and Ida Fisk, formerly of San Francisco.

DRAMATIC INSTITUTE.

A new amateur troupe plays at this place. For a small thing it is quite a success. The star is Miss Nellie Lyon, ably supported by Nellie Wright, the play this evening being "Loving Cup," Miss Nellie Lyon as Lizzy Sutherland, Mr. Howard Leek as Jack Easy, Miss Lyon has made quite a success as an amateur, and we understand she will soon ascend to a higher position.

MISCELLANEOUS.

"Humpty Dumpty" is now running strong opposition in two places—Hooley's Opera House and Aiken's Theatre, but the latter has the crowd, G. L. Fox knows how to draw.

The Evening Thespian is still running and gaining a host of friends.

WILL.

A Smart Trick.

A young Briton lately lost a large sum by betting on spiders. He wagered that a spider which he would produce would cross a plate quicker than a spider to be produced by a friend. Each spider to have his own plate. His spider, however, on being started, would not stir, whilst its rival ran with immense speed. The bet was consequently lost; and the loser soon found out the reason why—his friend had a hot plate. This was nearly as smart a trick as that practiced on Mark Twain's famous jumping frog of Calaveras.

A Kentucky calf is now doing well after fasting eleven days, but it was an even chance for some time whether it would be "weal or woe."

The Significant Hat.

In the time of Gessler and William Tell there was much significance in a hat. So it is now. The first thing that attracts the eye is the hat. Therefore buy fashionable hat at "The" Hat Store, 647 Washington street, below Kearny.

Oyster Trade.

The oyster trade in California is assuming gigantic proportions. Emerson Corville, of the Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, furnishes from his own oyster beds at San Bruno millions of oysters to all parts of the Pacific Coast. His Eastern transplanted oysters have a fame which has extended all over the continent, and the "Saddle Rock" is known everywhere.

A Pleasant Location.

Persons desiring comfortable lodgings in a Central location, should visit the Alhambra, and inspect the fine suites of rooms to let there. The building is a very fine one and is well

Dogs Supply the Outlines of Half the Faces we Know.

There is a bull dog—that man in the brown suit yonder, with bandy legs and heavy shoulders—did you ever see kenneled muzzle more thoroughly the bull dog than this? The small eyes closed under the brows, the smooth bullet forehead, the heavy jaw and snub nose, are all essentially bull dog. Then the mastiff with the double base voice, and the square hanging jaw? and the shabby looking turnspit, with his ear cut at all sides, and his eye drawn up to its roots; and the grayhound, lean in rib and sharp of face: and the terrier—who is often a lawyer—with a snarl in his voice and a kind of restlessness in his eye, as if mentally worrying a rat—his client; and tyke, all beard and moustache and glossy curls, with a plaintive expression of countenance and an exceedingly meek demeanor; and the noble old Newfoundland dog, perhaps a soldier retired from service, who is chivalrous to women and gentle to children and who repels petty annoyances with a grand patience that is veritably heroic. Reader, if you know a Newfoundland dog man, cherish him; stupid as he will probably be, he is worth your love. Then we have horse-faced men, and men with camel lips and the sheep-faced men with his forehead retreating from his long, energetic nose, smooth faced man without whiskers, and with shining hair cut close, and not curling like pointers'; the lion men, he is a grand fellow; and the bull-headed men; the flat, serpent head; and the tiger's, like an inverted pyramid; and the giraffe's lengthy unhelpfulness; and the sharp, red face of the fox. Don't we meet men like these every step we take in London; and if we know any such intimately, don't we invariably find that their characters correspond somewhat with their persons.—Saturday Review.

An Outraged Hercules.

"Bub, can you show me the way to the City Hall?" inquired an old man recently of a youngster whom he found sorting over a pile of chestnut shucks on Jefferson avenue, Detroit. "Bub!" replied the boy with a scream, "if you say 'bub' to the boy that blacks Johnny Kelso's eye, I'd like to know what you'd call old Tom Sayers!"

WEDNESDAY......NOVEMBER 20, 1872

Almost Defunct.

There was a time when the News Letter was something of a power. People feared it because its abusive articles were written with some degree of skill. When A. Bierce was writing the "Town Crier," shams were attacked with vigor, and all the articles were not written with an idea of "business." There was something of the watch dog about Bierce, and humbugs feared his bite. Now-a-days the News Letter is known by its unpleasant smell, and possesses all the characteristics of a skunk. Women and poor men are singled out as the subjects of its invective. It used to be a sort of Claude Duval, and its cry of "Your money or your character!" used to resound boldly on the highway of commerce. Now it has become a poor, pitiful sneak thief. It has no circulation, no influence, no brains in its editorial staff of one; and its proprietor, a very weak old man with the fear of death rendering him miserable, crawls about an object of pitying contempt where he once inspired fear. The News Letter and its proprietor will soon pass away. They have outlived their usefulness and become nuisances.

A Big Umbrella.

A Bristol (England) tradesman has made an umbrella for an African chief. It is fifty-six feet in circumference, with lancewood ribs nine feet long, and covered with one hundred and forty yards of Dolly Varden chintz. The chieftain probably desires to get an umbrella which will not be stolen, when he goes to evening parties, by men who go home early. This one, we think will not be embezzled. A man who should walk off with that umbrella would be likely to attract attention from the police. We think of having one made for ourselves; for the umbrellas we have lost would reach, placed end and end, from here to Titusville, and, expanded, would make four complete circus tents, with a canopy over for a sideshow.

Mis'aid.

Kitty, aged six years, is (or was), the happy possessor of a small "yaller dorg." On a recent visit to her grandmother, across the bay, the child insisted on taking the aforesaid canine along, but, on returning home, was unaccompanied by it. When asked where her dog was she gave the following satisfactory answer: "Well, you see me and some of the other little girls was a pl'yin' and we went out of the yard into the field, oh, ever so far, and somehow or another the pup got mislaid and we couldn't find it any more."

"Epizootic" cocktails is the name of the latest fancy tipple, East.

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of waters bright, did make a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
"Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here—
It looks so nice—and try their cheer.".
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins;
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again,

Pacific Oyster House, 337 Bush street, above Montgomery; open Day and Night.

Unparalleled Cheek.

We did not think Mrs. Fair would have the cheek to attempt to lecture in this city. She actually intends to do so and is now going round (whether armed or unarmed we are unable to say) requesting people to buy tickets. We are afraid that Mrs. Fair reckons a little too much on the proverbial politeness of the San Francisco public towards women. She says, "I know just how it will be. There may not be a very large audience but I am sure it will be a well-behaved one." We are not quite so sure of this. Rotten eggs have seldom if ever been used in San Francisco but they might be. Of course an audience who would pelt Mrs. Fair with these unsavory missiles would not be considered by her "well-behaved." We don't think that the long-suffering public of San Francisco enjoy being laughed at by Mrs. Fair as a pack of fools. Of course this woman feels much encouraged by the success she has hitherto met with in the career which she has worked out for herself, but we would suggest to her that there is such a thing as going too far. Many a woman would have considered herself very lucky in getting out of this city with a whole neck even after being acquitted by the law. Laura Fair is too fond of trying experiments. The one she proposes to try to-morrow evening is a a dangerous one.

Since the above was written we have learned that the proprietors of Platt's Hall have refused to rent it for this disgraceful purpose. It now remains to be seen who will become particeps criminis with Laura Fair in her outrage on public decency by renting her a hall in which she may insult and defy the public.

A Dream.

Does the reader believe in dreams? Most men and women do, though few admit their credulity. A strange story is told in a foreign newspaper of a Chinese boy at Shanghai, who told his schoolmaster that he had dreamed that his step-mother had murdered him and hidden him in a jar underneath her house. Soon after the boy no longer came to school, and the master called at his house to inquire for him. An unsatisfactory reply was given, which excited the suspicions of the dominie, who took the liberty of tearing up the floor of the room, and behold! there was the corpse of the unfortunate lad, nicely dissected and stowed away in a jar! The murderess has been duly executed, and the faith of the Shanghaians in dreams has been prodigiously refreshed and strengthened. This, of course, is without the least reason. If the boy had cause to suspect his step-mother's intentions, he naturally dreamed of the act which he supposed she was contemplating. It is naturally suggested also that in China the hiding of a corpse in a large porcelain vase—which would prevent the escape of the odors of decomposition—and its concealment beneath the floor may be a common practice in cases of murder.

An Agent Wanted.

The Chronicle says that Mrs. Laura Fair, the California devil-fish, wants an agent to travel with her in the East. We would recommend her to employ a gentleman of the name of Devine, known by the pet name of "The Chicken," who will probably in a short time be at liberty to accompany her. He is at present, we understand, preparing a lecture which he might deliver on alternate nights with Laura. "The California Devil-Fish" and "The Chicken" would make good lines for a poster.

A Notable Exception.

On retiring from business, a wise old man said to his son and successor: "Now, my boy, remember that common sense is the best thing you can bring to bear on every concern of life except love making."

When a man dies at Joliet, Ill., they drape his church pew in mourning.

The Significant Hat.

In the time of Gessler and William Tell there was much significance in a hat. So it is now. The first thing that attracts the eye is the hat. Therefore buy a fashionable hat at "The" Hat Store, 647 Washington street, below Kearny.

Oyster Trade.

The oyster trade in California is assuming gigantic proportions. Emerson Corville, of the Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, furnishes from his own oyster beds at San Bruno millions of oysters to all parts of the Pacific Coast. His Eastern transplanted oysters have a fame which has extended all over the continent, and "the 'Saddle Rock" is known everywhere.

A Pleasant Location.

Persons desiring comfortable lodgings in a Central location, should visit the Alhambra, and inspect the fine suites of rooms to let there The building is a very fine one and is well lighted and ventilated.

Advice to an Aspiring Poet.

A young man writes to us for advice. He says that he sent a poem to the editor of a weekly paper, and that the latter not only refused to publish it, but sent word to the author that he was a fool. What the poet wishes to know now is, how he may become avenged. This is, indeed, a hard case. An editor who addresses a child of the Muses as a fool, and refuses his verses when he might take them and print them serially, as we once did in the case of "The Watching Mother," and so afford entertainment to his readers for a year or two, evidently doesn't understand his business. We would advise our friend to write off three or four thousand copies of the poem, and mail eight or ten of them a day to the editor. Then the poet might go to the editor's house a few times at midnight, and ring him up, and read that poem to him while he stands at the window. Better still, wait until he attends a funeral, and then get into the carriage with him and recite that poem all the way out to the cemetery. It will lighten the gloom and make the journey joyous, and the journalist will gradually become familiar with the stanzas, and acquire an attachment for them. If, however, the editor does not even then seem to appreciate the beauties of the poem, how would it do, for instance, to buy a sledge-hammer and a dog, and to knock the editor down with the hammer and hold him with the dog, while the author sits down on him and reads the poem to him until he does understand it? We merely throw out this idea; we do not insist upon it.

Probably from an Oyster.

A correspondent writes to ask if we believe the theory that man descended from the gorilla. We can only speak positively for ourselves. We know that we did not; and we should think that our correspondent did not, for he betrays enough unfamiliarity with the gorilla family to spell the name "greiller." Any respectable gorilla would be ashamed of such ignorance. Let our friend investigate his ancestral tree with care, and he will probably find that its root springs from an oyster or a jelly-fish.

Mr. Henry Wells, of Evansville, Ind., exploded a cap between two counter weights, and watched closely to see it go off. If he watches another it will be with one eye.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

California Theatre.

The thrilling drama of "The Rloosmant; or, Marriage and its Shadows," with Mrs. F. S. Chanfrau in the dual role of Lady Isabel and Mme. Farnande Multoe, was presented again last night. The power of this actress in moving the feeling of an audience, was exemplified last night. There were more handkerchiefs displayed in the dress circle than have been seen for many a night. Geo. D. Chaplin was excellent as Archibald Carlisle and Miss Annie Graham's acting in the role of Barbara was positively charming. This play will be repeated to-night.

Alhambra.

Last night the ever-popular harlesque of "Under the Lamplight" was revived; Baker an Farron appeared in some of their most popular acts; Giovanni Campodonico gave his remarkable performance on the magic flute and guitar, and the evening's entertainment concluded with the laughable sketch entitled "Don't Touch It," in which Add Ryman, Bob Hart and Charles Sutton appeared.

Bella Union.

Jennie Johnson in serio-comic songs; Josie Mayfield in sailor's hornpipe; Johnny Tuers, J. H. Larkin, Harry Sinclair and Tommy Brea in amusing acts; Mons. Schmidt, Mme. Therase, Minnie Fillmore, Miss Josephine, Carrie Armstrong and others in ballet, and the whole company in the amusing play of "Schneider in White Pine," a very lively sketch of life in the mines, will give a pleasing evening's entertainment to-night.

The Athenaeum.

Miss Lydia Livingstone, Mons. Gerbetier, clown and gymnast; Billy Smith, Miss May Leroy, and a host of others in a good first part, amusing interlude and laughable afterpiece. The management announce the engagement of M'lle Olande, a pleasing dancer and singer.

Turn Verein Hall.

To-night Luther's Æoliane will present an attractive programme for the benefit of the family of the late Fortunato Arriola. There will be a first part performance, an interlude of ballads, dances, female impersonations, character songs; and this portion of the entertainment will conclude with the farce of "The Intelligence Office." Afterwards there will be a social dance. So many tickets have been sold that there is sure to be a good house. The programme appears on our first page.

Art Exhibition.

The paintings by local artists, photographs, pieces of sculpture and other works of art contributed by members of the Art Association to be sold for the relief of the family of the late Fortunato Arriola are on exhibition free of charge at the Art Gallery, Pine street, near Sansome. They will be sold by auction on the 25th. The collection is well worth a visit.

Woodward's Gardens.

The attendance was fully 10,000 at Woodward's Gardens on Sunday, and the performance of the Conklin Circus Troupe, Professor Samwell's trained dogs, etc., gave universal satisfaction. Circus performances every day.

Horticultural Hall.

Visit the Skating Rink in this beautiful Hall Stockton street, corner of Post. Open daily from 1:30 to 4:30 P. M., and evenings from 7:30 to 10.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

Getting Dreary.

A boy about ten years old, named Lait, entered the Detroit Central police station with anxious countenance, and to the interrogations of the sergeant replied: "Oh, it's the old folks again, pounding and mauling each other, and smashing up the dishes. I've talked to 'em, and reasoned with 'em, but they keep right on. It's getting dreary up there, and I guess you'd better bring 'em both in and give 'em three months each."

The "Arizona" all Right.

The overdue steamer "Arizona" was spoken Nov. 14th, off Manzanillo, Mexico, with a broken piston, in tow of the Constitution. The passengers had been transferred to the latter steamer.

Health and Pleasure.

There are not too many pleasures in San Francisco. Nothing is more pleasant, nothing more health-giving than a drive into the country now and then. Those who cannot afford to keep a carriage of their own, can find one equal in elegance to any private conveyance at the Occidental Carriage stand. Frank Bouton has there, and at his stables 1016 Stockton street, carriages of every description. His drivers are careful and experienced, his charges are moderate. The moral of the above is: go to Frank Bouton at the Occidental Hotel when you want a carriage. D

Pause, Gentle Reader,

And peruse this notice. It will inform you that Meyers, of the White House Restaurant, Kearny street, has reopened, and thoroughly renovated the Eclipse Restaurant, 204 and 206 Fourth street, between Howard and Folsom, under the name of the Capitol Restaurant. Mr. Meyers begs to invite the patronage of the residents in the neighborhood and public in general, and assures them that he intends to provide the very best the market affords at Popular Prices—viz: three 12½ cent dishes for 25 cents.

The Stereotyped Smile.

Beware of men or woman with a fixed smile. Trust the most hideous scowler before the being who goes about with an angelic grin carefully exhibited to all eyes under any and every circumstance. It is not natural to smile perpetually, and no one assumes a mask without being conscious of a necessity for concealment. Don't misunderstand me. There are young women, and a few old men, who break into a smile whenever they speak. These are not the people I mean. The smile of which I warned you is a motionless, hypocritical, fixed expression, which I have seen worn through a silent three hours' journey by rail, without the slightest alteration—that sort of smile which most misguided lady artists present upon their canvas when they delineate martyrs, saints and angels. The portrait of a lady has a different smile—the fashion plate simper—which though semi-idiotic, is not dangerous. Persons of no penetration allude to the chronic smile as "so sweet;" anyone capable of holding the muscles of the face under control, is generally able to squeal sweetly, and to move quietly, and end to choose choice language and measured tones, in moments of the greatest excitement, and so can always place a better man or woman at great disadvantage, and appear injured and innocent when actually most guilty.

The Pleasures of Death.

Junius Henri Browne, who, while a war-correspondent, saw about a dozen men die every day, shows conclusively, in an article to the Galaxy, for November, that Death has no terror for the dying. Poisons produce stupor, which passes into oblivion. To be killed outright by a gun-shot wound is easy. Death by falling from a hight is unattended by a single throe. "Of falls of this kind, I have had my share," says Mr. Browne. Freezing to death is positively pleasant; and Frenchmen, in search of amusement, are known to be habitually hanging themselves—careful instructions being given to their valets as to the precise moment for cutting them down to prevent the final extinction of the vital spark. Nobody but Mr. Browne would have dared to put the rider of the "Pale Horse" on the pleasant and social footing of a rather desirable visitor. His paper is exceedingly well written; abounds in apt illustration and vivid reminiscence, and is convincing as far as it concerns the dissolution of, as Artemus Ward used to say, "any other man."

Novel way of Borrowing.

Bob Dodington was one day walking down Bond street, London, when a borrowing acquaintence rushed from the opposite side of the street, and expressed great delight at meeting him; "Sir," said he, "I am wonderfully in want of a guinea."

Dodington winced, and taking out his purse, showed that he had no more than half a guinea.

"A thousand thanks!" exclaimed the persecutor, half forcing the coin from beneath the owner's fingers; "that will do for the present;" and cleverly changed the subject to a good story. When they had parted, the impudent borrower turned back to Dodington, saying:

"By-the-by, when will you pay me that half guinea?"

"Pay you! What do you mean?"

"Why, I intended to borrow a guinea of you, and have only got half; but I'm not in any hurry for the other. Name your own time, only pray keep it."

Squarza's Punches.

One of the most famous institutions of California is Squarza's Punch. It is found in every city, village and mining camp in the State. It is delicious, wholesome and unlike anything else. The proprietor of this delightful beverage notifies his patrons that he has opened at No. 317 Kearny street, between Pine and Bush streets, a BRANCH of his old and popular symposium on Leidesdorff street. •

Live Well.

Those who eat good dinners are amiable. Bad feeding is the cause of many crimes. Those who dine at the Pioneer Restaurant, on Washington street, at the corner of Dunbar Alley, live well, and are consequently happy. Henry Booken, who has catered for the public since 1849, provides for his customers Lake Tahoe trout, Salmagundi soup, game, tame geese, delicious entrees, and everything the heart of man can desire. The best cup of tea in the city—English breakfast tea—Souchong and Orange Pekoe—can be obtained here. E

"GOOD-MORNING!"

BY MRS. H. A. BINGHAM.

"Good-morning, world!" On the window seat
She balanced her two little timid feet;
She clung with her dimpled hands, and stood
Framed in like a picture of babyhood.
The clambering vines hung low and green
Round the sunniest curls that e'er were seen,
As she stood with beauty and light impearled,
And bade good-morning to all the world.

"Good-morning, world!" and the great world heard,
Each rustling tree and each singing bird.
The dancing flowers and the fields of grass
Nodded and waved at the little lass;
And the far-off hills and the sky o'erhead
Listened and beamed as the word was said;
And the old sun lifted his head and smiled,
"Good morning, world!" "Good morning, child!"

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

Card from Sig. Chiarini.

Some person signing himself a "Lover of Truth" has published a statement which I deem it my duty to correct. In a card written by me last week, I stated that none of the artistes attached to the Royal Italian Circus would appear in this city before my departure for Australia, and that any person or persons using my name or that of my circus in any public performance were impostors. I did not pronounce them so when using THEIR OWN names, as asserted by a "Lover of Truth." This would be not only a gross violation of professional courtesy, but injustice.

Another point: Kate Holloway was a pupil of mine, and I educated her at great expense. While attached to my circus every facility was afforded her to take high rank as an artiste. The animals she used were specially trained by me, and were the most superb menage horses. She no longer has the facilities and surroundings she had with me. Her performances at the City Gardens last Sunday attested this fact, and could have been excelled by an apprentice of three months.

When George Holland joined my company in Chicago he had no reputation, although asserting to me that he was a skillful performer. It was my purpose to give him an opportunity to test his merits and become a PREMIER somersault rider. He admits that whatever fame he has gained in this respect is due to me. His failures were many, however, and he seldom performed without falling from his horse a number of times. Perhaps he will give as an excuse that I did not give him magnificent horses: but this is of no weight, for the public admits that I have the most superb stud of horses ever attached to a circus. It is difficult to suit the gentlemen mentioned, for with the steed used by him at the City Gardens, on Sunday last, he made the usual blunders by coming down on "all fours" several times. Between a PREMIER somersault rider and Mr. Holland there is no room for comparison.

The "Lover of Truth" is given to falsehood (not premeditated, perhaps,) when he says that I did not sail on the Ajax because my company is not complete. I never had a better company of artistes than at present, and I am entirely confident of sustaining the laurels which the public has so generously accorded to me. The real cause of not sailing on the Ajax is already known—she was too small to accommodate my Circus.

I shall sail for Australia on the Dakota, with my full and unrivalled company. Respectfully,

GUISEPPE CHIARINI.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

California Theatre.

C. W. Tayleure's original drama of "The Elopement" (which might be called "The Abduction") runs well. Mrs. Chanfrau draws the house to tears every night, in the character of Lady Isabel, and the rest of the cast is perfect. Mrs. Chanfrau has that one touch of nature which makes the whole world kin, and this, with her attractive personal appearance, power of expression and artistic acting, makes her an immense favorite.

Alhambra.

The first part performance given at this house by J. C. Russell, Charles Sutton, Bob Hart, W. F. Baker, Rockefeller and others is very good. "Under the Lamplight" is received nightly with roars of laughter; Charles Sutton performs a song and dance in excellent style; Baker and Farron are encored again and again in their Dutch songs and dances, and the laughable sketch entitled "Don't Touch It" terminates the evening's amusement.

Metropolitan Theatre.

To-morrow night Signor Silvio Rossi and Signor Fulvio Rigo will be the recipients of a complimentary benefit at this theatre, when Verdi's grand opera of "Attila" will be presented, with Signor Rigo in the title role, Signor Rossi as Ezio, Signora Luigia Bernardi as Od-bella, Signor Pietro Baccei (who has kindly volunteered) as Foresto, J. Danphin as Uldino, and Mons. Roncoveri as Leone. The public are quite ready for another night of Italian opera, and there will doubtless be a good house.

Bella Union.

The play of "Schneider in White Plae" is quite a hit. J. H. Larkin fairly rivals Joe Murphy in the leading part, and is ably supported by the rest of the company. The ballet of "The Village Coquette" is very popular, and an attractive melange of songs, acts and dances is given.

The Atheneum.

Among the amusing acts performed at this place of amusement are "The Two Artists," "Ten Thousand Cats," and Dan Lowrey's original sketch of "The Irish Peddler." Miss May Leroy, Lydia Livingstone and other popular artistes appear every night.

Turn Verein Hall.

There was a large attendance at this hall last night on the occasion of a benefit tendered to the family of the late Fortunato Arriola by Luther's Æolians. The programme was a very well-arranged one and was pleasingly performed. Several original compositions by H. W. Luther were given with good effect and were much applauded. After the musical performance there was a social dance which was much enjoyed by all. Mr. Luther deserves great credit for the manner in which he managed this entertainment and the kind motives which prompted him and his bright band of minstrels to give it.

Art Exhibition.

The paintings by local artists, photographs, pieces of sculpture and other works of art contributed by members of the Art Association to be sold for the relief of the family of the late Fortunato Arriola are on exhibition free of charge at the Art Gallery, Pine street, near Sansome. They will be sold by auction on the 25th. The collection is well worth a visit.

Woodward's Gardens.

The attendance was fully 10,000 at Woodward's Gardens on Sunday, and the performance of the Conklin Circus Troupe, Professor Samwell's trained dogs, etc., gave universal satisfaction. Circus performances every day.

Horticultural Hall.

Visit the Skating Rink in this beautiful Hall Stockton street, corner of Post. Open daily from 1:30 to 4:30 P. M., and evenings from 7:30 to 10.

The Misses McCabe.

The two daughters of J. H. McCabe, the theatrical agent of San Francisco, who have been for some time past under tuition at the Italian Musical Institute, made their debut on Sunday last at Hayes Park, on the occasion of the benefit to the Institute. These young ladies—Miss Albertine and Miss Noko—sang several duets and songs in a style which reflected credit on their teacher, Professor Sporanza, and gave promise of their achieving success on the lyric stage should they adopt the profession.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

A Great Discovery.

In all the preparations heretofore offered for restoring and preserving the hair to its original color, the injury attending their use has far more than offset the benefits derived. Mr. J. LIPMAN has happily produced a preparation wonderful in effect, while perfectly harmless. This is not a vile compound of sugar of lead and other poisonous minerals which produce paralysis and insanity, but a harmless preparation, free from sediment, and a few applications restores the hair to its original color. This is beyond question the cheapest and safest hair restorative ever offered. n

Pause, Gentle Reader,

And peruse this notice. It will inform you that Meyers, of the White House Restaurant, Kearny street, has reopened, and thoroughly renovated the Eclipse Restaurant, 204 and 206 Fourth street, between Howard and Folsom, under the name of the Capitol Restaurant. Mr. Meyers begs to invite the patronage of the residents in the neighborhood and public in general, and assures them that he intends to provide the very best the market affords at Popular Prices—viz: three 12½ cent dishes for 25 cents.

Strange Credentials.

St. Louis reporters have strange credentials to public entertainments. A few days since one made application for entrance to the fair grounds. The following conversation thereupon ensued between him and the guardian of the gate:

"Got a ticket, sir?"

"No, sir."

"Well, then you can't go in—stand aside."

"But I'm a reporter for the Globe."

"Show me your credentials."

"Well, here are three passes on the Iron Mountain railroad, one on the Belleville branch of the Cairo Short Line, one on the St. Louis and Southeastern, one on the Fifth street road. Here's a copy of the Globe, a ticket on a Chinese laundry, a restaurant bill of fare, two tooth picks, a clean handkerchief, a bunch of keys, and a pipe."

Condensed Literature.

Few people know to what perfection the art of sending dispatches by carrier pigeon was brought during the siege of Paris. At first the dispatches were written on very thin tissue paper, in the smallest of possible hands. Then microscopic photography succeeded in greatly reducing the bulk, and finally, by first printing and then photographing the dispatches, not on ordinary photographic paper, but on films of Collodion, only one-tenth the thickness of tissue paper, the besieged were thus able to inclose in a single quill dispatches, which, when printed, covered fifteen thousand book-pages.

A Faithful Servant.

Charlotte Cushman, the famous tragedienne, has with her a faithful colored servant, named Sally, who has been in her service over thirty years. The closeness with which this woman follows the fortunes of her renowned mistress is shown in the fact that she crossed the Atlantic with her no less than fourteen times. Miss Cushman now regards Sally more in the light of a true and confidential friend than in that of a hired servant.

Dissolving Partnership.

A colored firm in Newark, New Jersey, having suffered some pecuniary embarrassments, recently closed business, and the senior member gave to the public the following "notis:" "De dissolution of copartnership heretofo' resisting twixt me and Moses Jones in the barber profession, am heretofo' resolved. Pussons who owe must pay to de scriber. Dem what de firm owe must call on Jones, add de firm is involved."

An Appeal to Christians.

A card was hung out of a little oyster shop in Sandusky City, Ohio, while the State Sabbath School Convention was in session at that place, which read: "Oysters in every stile, cooked to order. Friends of the redemar will plese caul."

Health and Pleasure.

There are not too many pleasures in San Francisco. Nothing is more pleasant, nothing more health-giving than a drive into the country now and then. Those who cannot afford to keep a carriage of their own, can find one equal in elegance to any private conveyance at the Occidental Carriage stand. Frank Bouton has there, and at his stables 1016 Stockton street, carriages of every description. His drivers are careful and experienced, his charges are moderate. The moral of the above is: go to Frank Bouton at the Occidental Hotel when you want a carriage. O

Squarza's Punches.

One of the most famous institutions of California is Squarza's Punch. It is found in every city, village and mining camp in the State. It is delicious, wholesome and unlike anything else. The proprietor of this delightful beverage notifies his patrons that he has opened at No. 817 Kearny street, between Pine and Bush streets, a BRANCH of his old and popular symposium on Leidesdorff street. •

Live Well.

Those who eat good dinners are amiable. Bad feeding is the cause of many crimes. Those who dine at the Pioneer Restaurant, on Washington street, at the corner of Dunbar Alley, live well, and are consequently happy. Henry Bocken, who has catered for the public since 1849, provides for his customers Lake Tahoe trout, Salmagundi soup, game, tame geese, delicious entrees, and everything the heart of men can desire. The best cup of tea in the city—English breakfast tea—Souchong and Orange Pekoe—can be obtained here. B

TWO WAYS TO LOVE.

I.

He says he loves me well, and I
Believe it; in my hand, to make
Or mar, his love lies utterly;
Nor can I the strong plea deny
Which claims my love for his love's sake.

He says there is no face so fair
As mine; when I draw near, his eyes
Light up; each ripple of my hair
He loves; the very cloak I wear
He touches gently where it lies.

And roses, roses all the way
Upon my path fall, strewed by him;
His tenderness by night, by day,
Keeps constant watch, and heaps alway
My cup of pleasure to the brim.

The other women in their spite
Count me the happiest woman born
To be so worshipped; I delight
To flaunt his homage in the sight
Of all, and pay them scorn for scorn.

I love him—or I think I do;
Sure one must love what is so sweet;
He is so tender and so true,
So eloquent to plead and sue,
So strong, though kneeling at my feet.

Yet I had visions once of yore,
Girlish imaginings of a zest,
A possible thrill,—but why run o'er
These fancies, idle dreams, no more.
I will forget them; this is best.

So let him take—the past is past;
The future with its golden key
Into his outstretched hands I cast;
I shall love him—perhaps—at last,
As now I love his love for me.

II.

Not as all other women may,
Love I my love; he is so great,
So beautiful, I dare essay
No nearness, but in silence lay
My heart upon his path—and wait.

Poor heart, its beatings are so low
He does not heed them passing by.
Save as one heeds where violets grow
A fragrance, caring not to know
Where the veiled purple buds may lie.

I sometimes think that it is dead,
It lies so still. I bend and lean
Like mother over cradle-head,
Listening if still faint breaths are shed
Like sighs the parted lips between.

And then with vivid pulse and thrill
It quickens into sudden bliss
At sound of step or voice, nor will
Be hushed, although, regardless still,
He knows not, cares not, it is his.

I would not lift it if I could,
The little flame, though faint and dim
As glowworm spark in lonely wood,
Shining where no man calls it good,
May some day light the path for him;

May guide his way, or soon or late,
Through blinding mist or falling rain,
And so content I watch and wait;
Let others share his happier fate;
I only ask to share his pain.

But if some day, when passing slow,
My dear Love should his steps arrest,
Should spy the poor heart bending low,
Should raise it, scan it, love it—so!
Why—God alone can tell the rest.

TO TAXPAYERS.

Taxes Due October 28th,

Delinquent Jan. 6th, 1872.

THE USUAL DELAY, CONFUSION AND annoyance experienced by Taxpayers will be much increased this year, as both PERSONAL and REAL PROPERTY has to be paid upon at the same time.

This being the case, the undersigned would most respectfully suggest that Taxpayers furnish this office with a schedule of their property at an early day. Where there have been no changes, the Tax Bills of any previous year are the most convenient and correct memoranda.

Consistency.

The Chronicle, speaking of the determination of the proprietors of Platt's Hall not to open it this evening for Mrs. Fair to lecture in, says:

> At any rate they are resolved that Platt's Hall shall be closed on Thursday evening, and under no conditions will they lend their aid to so disgraceful an object.

In another column the Chronicle lends its aid to this disgraceful proceeding and becomes particeps criminis by publishing the following:

> "WOLVES IN THE FOLD."—Laura D. Fair will lecture on the above subject at Platt's Hall on Thursday evening, November 21st, at 7 o'clock. Tickets, $1. Etc., etc.

The Chronicle would like to be consistent, but it cannot refuse any advertisement for which the money is paid in advance.

For Propriety's Sake.

The Grass Valley Union of the 17th says: "Joseph and His Brethren" was played last night at Hamilton Hall by young gentlemen and ladies who are connected with the Methodist Congregation of this place. We noticed that one important character of that drama was left out. Potiphar's wife was not in any of the scenes. The play was like "Hamlet" with the character of Hamlet left out. We can account for the omission. No young lady in this town would assume the role of Mrs. Potiphar. The girls did not have the proper confidence in the Joseph of the play. They did not think he would tear any great amount of clothes in escaping from any good-looking Mrs. Potiphar. They were correct.

Vividly Expressed.

An unsuccessful punster says that to attempt to impress some minds with a sense of the ludicrous is like the endeavor to photograph the changeful glories of the opalescent dolphin upon the goarled hide of a rhinoceros."

Calm Grief.

A Kansas girl visited a house where her murdered lover's body was lying, at Ossawatomie, and was so deeply affected that she asked the lady of the house: Mrs. S., have you put up any apple butter yet?"

"Home is the place for boys," said Spinks to his eldest pride and joy. "Yes," said the youngster, dutifully, "I like to stay at home all the time, but ma sends me to school."

A revenue assessor in Ohio, asked the usual question, Inquired, "Did your wife have any income last year?" "Yes, sir, replied the assessed, "both girls."

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of waters bright, did make a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
"Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here—
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins;
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again.

What Cheer Laundry

Is the best laundry in San Francisco.

A Nice bit of Irony.

Here is a very nicely prepared little cap that many a man could wear with perfect justice:

The lonesomeness of some married men when their wives are away, said a simple minded lady, speaking of the Summer nights, is awful. There now is Mr. Simmonny. He is so cast down that he never comes home except with a latch key, and then he pounds his poor, lone hands on the gate for an hour before he can get in, and his voice is so lost in the gloom that all his words run together and nobody can understand what he says this time o'night; and then, too, he goes down to the lake with a lady in the buggy to console him for the absence of his wife, and he don't get back—it takes so long to mollify a lone husband you know—until the soda water shops are all closed. Then, too, he comes home with three or four married men whose wives are gone Summerin', and he turns on the gas in his house to make it look cheerful, and they all put their legs over the front of the gallery, just to cure their terrible loneliness, and then they sing, oh, such songs—if I didn't know their wives were gone and that they were trying to kill melancholy, I should think they had a drop too much; but I know that can't be so, for their wives don't like it, and they wouldn't do anything when their wives were gone that they scorned to do when they were here.

Just So.

The San Jose Mercury, speaking of the accusation brought against Henry Ward Beecher by Mrs. Woodhull says:

> Mr. Hudson, one of the deacons of Plymouth Church, says it is the purpose, both of the church managers and Mr. Beecher, to pay no attention to Mrs. Woodhull's charges. We agree with the Virginia Chronicle that if no notice is taken of these charges by Mr. Beecher, hundreds of thousands of people in the United States and elsewhere will believe them to be partially if not wholly true. No man is above suspicion, and no man, no matter how eminent he may be, can afford to ignore such charges as Mrs. Woodhull brings against him. Only two years ago one of the Beecher family attempted to blacken the fame of Lord Byron, and now the poisoned chalice is returned to their own lips. Such is retribution. Mrs. Woodhull should have fair play, and Mr. Beecher will suffer in reputation should her statements not be thoroughly investigated.

Menageries and Side-Shows.

A young lady who had been studying French lately wrote to her parents that she was "invited to a dejeuner the day before," and was "going to a fete champetre the next day." The professor of the college was surprised to receive a telegram from the "old man" a day or two after, saying: "If you can't keep my daughter away from these blasted menageries and side-shows, I will come down and see what ails her."

Conscious Innocence.

A gentleman did not always agree with his wife, nor she with him. On one occasion she summoned a physician, declaring that her husband had poisoned her. The husband loudly protested his innocence, and offered as a clincher this test: "Doctor, open her, right here, on the spot, I'm willing."

The Significant Hat.

In the time of Gessler and William Tell there was much significance in a hat. So it is now. The first thing that attracts the eye is the hat. Therefore buy fashionable hat at "The" Hat Store, 647 Washington street, below Kearny.

Oyster Trade.

The oyster trade in California is assuming gigantic proportions. Emerson Corville, of the Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, furnishes from his own oyster beds at San Bruno millions of oysters to all parts of the Pacific Coast. His Eastern transplanted oysters have a fame which has extended all over the continent, and the 'Saddle Rock" is known everywhere.

A Pleasant Location.

Persons desiring comfortable lodgings in a Central location, should visit the Alhambra, and inspect the fine suites of rooms to let there The building is a very fine one and is well lighted and ventilated. a

The Engaged Man.

This is the dreadful state of the engaged men, as told by a Chicago scribe, who evi- who evidently knows how it is himself: "A bachelor and a married man have each a pronounced existence, a determined position; but this hybrid, this connecting link, is an anomalous what-is-it, fit only for a museum and Darwin's analysis. Either he is in love, or he isn't. In the one case he is idiotic; in the other he is crazy. He is unfit for business and debarred from sport—a thing to commiserate and laugh at. Isolated from his own sex, not daring to approach the other, he awaits the altar and opens not his mouth."

Learned Ladies.

A New York reporter rhapsodizes over the Young Ladies' College at Poughkeepsie in this wise: "Vassar is a wonderful seat of learning—in fact, all the learning worth a cent is stored up there, and it is shoveled into these delicate young ladies in immense quantities to fatten them up intellectually for the market. Mentally, they are perfectly obese. In truth, one Vassar girl has sufficient learning to share with all Fifth avenue and then enough left to start twenty academies of the common order, and enough to spare to run a religious paper."

The redoubtable Buffalo Bill is now the Hon. W. F. Cody, a member of the Nebraska Legislature from Lincoln county. He will naturally be made Chairman of the Committee of Codyfication of the laws releting to Indians.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Alhambra.

The programme for this evening is a very attractive one. The finale to third act of "Ernani," by J. G. Russell and chorus, is a popular feature. The full bill which appears on our first page will be played at the matinee to-morrow.

California Theatre.

"The Elopement; or, Marriage and its Shadows," continues to be played to delighted audiences, but must be withdrawn after this week to give place to "Christie Johnstone," a new play by the same author. Only "Elopement" matinee to-morrow.

Metropolitan Theatre.

The complimentary benefit tendered to Silvio Rossi and Fulvio Rigo will take place this evening. Verdi's grand opera of "Attila" will be presented with Signor Rigo as Attila, Signor Rossi as Ezio, Signora Luigia Bernardi as Odabella, Signor Pietro Baccei as Foresto, (who has kindly volunteered,) J. Dauphin as Uldino, M. Roncovieri as Leone, and a full and efficient chorus and orchestra under the direction of G. T. Evans. The great merit of the beneficiaries will undoubtedly ensure a full house.

German Stadt Theatre.

The German dramatic performances at the California Theatre under the management of Charles Fritsch will be resumed on Sunday next, when A. Fosliger, leading man of the German Stadt Theatre, Cincinnati, will make his first appearance in California in the play of "Anna Liese." After the play the Fabbri combination—Signora Fabbri, Miss Anna Elzer, Herr Muller and Signor Pietro Baccei, will give a concert under the direction of Prof. Mulder Fabbri,

Bella Union.

"Schneider in White Pine," "The Village Coquette" and other amusing features mark the bill for to-night. The California favorites, Cogill and Cooper, appear nightly.

The Athenaeum.

A very bright entertainment is given at this house, and draws large audiences. The full programme appears on our first page.

City Gardens.

Holland Bros. Circus Troupe will give a performance in their new ring on the plateau opposite the lake on Saturday and Sunday afternoons. The ring in the pavilion will be reserved in case of bad weather. New galleries have been constructed this week the whole length of the pavilion to furnish additional accommodations for the public.

Art Exhibition.

The paintings by local artists, photographs, pieces of sculpture and other works of art contributed by members of the Art Association to be sold for the relief of the family of the late Fortunato Arriola are on exhibition free of charge at the Art Gallery, Pine street, near Sansome. They will be sold by auction on the 25th. The collection is well worth a visit.

Woodward's Gardens.

The attendance was fully 10,000 at Woodward's Gardens on Sunday, and the performance of the Conklin Circus Troupe, Professor Samwell's trained dogs, etc., gave universal satisfaction. Circus performances every day.

Horticultural Hall.

Visit the Skating Rink in this beautiful Hall Stockton street, corner of Post. Open daily from 1:30 to 4:30 P. M., and evenings from 7:30 to 10.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

Hints for Health.

Never sit down on a red-hot stove. Do not get get drunk. It is wicked, and besides you are liable to wake up with a new head on you in the morning. Do not steal; it is unwise, and you may be arrested for it. Never beat your wife, save with a poker, stove leg, or like trifling weapon. This rule will not apply to mothers-in-law. Man is justified in treating them with all possible cruelty. Never examine a mule from the background. Do not presume to be a man or a gentleman in the presence of a hotel clerk.

In a sermon upon the baseness of base ball, the preacher, warming with the occasion, asked, "Would a dying sinner play a base ball on his death bed?"

A Great Discovery.

In all the preparations heretofore offered for restoring and preserving the hair to its original color, the injury attending their use has far more than offset the benefits derived. Mr. J. LIPMAN has happily produced a preparation wonderful in effect, while perfectly harmless. This is not a vile compound of sugar of lead and other poisonous minerals which produce paralysis and insanity, but a harmless preparation, free from sediment, and a few applications restores the hair to its original color. This is beyond question the cheapest and safest hair restorative ever offered. U

Pause, Gentle Reader,

And peruse this notice. It will inform you that Meyers, of the White House Restaurant, Kearny street, has reopened, and thoroughly renovated the Eclipse Restaurant, 204 and 206 Fourth street, between Howard and Folsom, under the name of the Capitol Restaurant. Mr. Meyers begs to invite the patronage of the residents in the neighborhood and public in general, and assures them that he intends to provide the very best the market affords at Popular Prices—viz: three 12½ cent dishes for 25 cents.

SAMUEL & IRWIN, Plasterers, Whiteners and

Re-markable.

They had a mesmerist at Doylestown the other evening, giving exhibitions of his remarkable power. During the entertainment the performer got an Irishman upon the stage, and, after putting him to sleep, and explained to the audience that by putting his hand to a certain bump on the Irishman's head he could compel the said Irishman to display the qualities represented by the bump. If he touched acquisitiveness, the patient would immediately try to steal whatever he could find lying around loose. If he touched amativeness, the Irishman would probably fall in love with the red-haired woman on the front seat. But the professor said he could perhaps more fully illustrate the phenomenon by touching the bump of combativeness. So he touched the bump of combativeness The phenomenon was instantly illustrated by the son of Erin, who straightway placed the professor's head under his arm and pummelled the professor's face until his nose resembled a prize egg plant in size and color. Then the patient straightway threw the professor down and battered him up with a chair, and set on him, and howled for fresh victims.

Men Gossips.

A woman gossip, like a man drunkard, is bad, indeed, but of all things a man gossip and a drunken woman are the worst. To see a man shaking his head and twisting his mouth over bits of tattle, and making a great ado about nothing, is disgusting. Now and then one sees a regular old man gossip, although they are not as frequently met with as among women, which is a thing to cause rejoicing, because one man gossip can do more harm than ten women with each a poisonous sting on the end of her tongue. He sets forth the things he tells as facts, and puts the seal of credibility upon them by saying: "I ought to know what I say, for being a man I see both sides of life, and get at the truth when you women cannot." That settles it, and the majority accepts his bugbears for gospel, and nothing less.

A French Prayer

A pretty Paris girl's prayer at Notre Dame: "Oh, beloved Joseph." murmured the rosy little laundress, on her knees before a flaming taper she had just lighted in his honor, "grant to me a good, healthy, handsome husband, plenty of ironing to do, shirt collars without starch, and charcoal without smoke; and to my dear old aunt an easy death. All these blessings as soon as can be."

Health and Pleasure.

There are not too many pleasures in San Francisco. Nothing is more pleasant, nothing more health-giving than a drive into the country now and then. Those who cannot afford to keep a carriage of their own, can find one equal in elegance to any private conveyance at the Occidental Carriage stand. Frank Bouton has there, and at his stables 1016 Stockton street, carriages of every description. His drivers are careful and experienced, his charges are moderate. The moral of the above is: go to Frank Bouton at the Occidental Hotel when you want a carriage. O

Squarza's Punches.

One of the most famous institutions of California is Squarza's Punch, It is found in every city village and mining camp in the State. It is delicious, wholesome and unlike anything else. The proprietor of this delightful beverage notifies his patrons that he has opened at No. 317 Kearny street, between Pine and Bush streets, a BRANCH of his old and popular symposium on Leidesdorff street.

MRS. RIORDAN has just returned from the East with the most choice and elegant stock of Fall Millinery goods ever exhibited in San Francisco, which she has selected with the greatest care. Ladies will do well to call and examine before purchasing elsewhere, Q

Live Well.

Those who eat good dinners are amiable. Bad feeding is the cause of many crimes. Those who dine at the Pioneer Restaurant, on Washington street, at the corner of Dunbar Alley, live well, and are consequently happy. Henry Bocken, who has catered for the public since 1849, provides for his customers Lake Tahoe trout, Salmagundi soup, game, tame geese, delicious entrees, and everything the heart of man can desire. The best cup of tea in the city—English breakfast tea—Souchong and Orange Pekoe—can be obtained here. E

THE ORIGIN OF SCANDAL.

Said Mrs. A.
To Mrs. J.,
In quite a confidential way,
"It seems to me
That Mrs. B.
Takes too much something in her tea."
And Mrs. J.
To Mrs. K.
That night was overheard to say—
She grieved to touch
Upon it much,
"But Mrs. B. took such and such!"
Then Mrs. K.
Went straight away
And told a friend, the self-same day,
"T'was sad to think"—
Here came a wink—
"That Mrs. B. was fond of drink."
The friend's disgust
Was such she must
Inform a lady "which she nussed;"
That "Mrs. B.
At half-past three
Was that far gone she couldn't see!"
This lady we
Have mentioned, she Gave needle-work to Mrs. B.,
And at such news
Could scarcely choose
But further needle-work refuse.
Then Mrs. B.,
And you'll agree,
Quite properly she said, said she,
That she would track
The scandal back
To those who made her look so black.
Through Mrs. K.
And Mrs. J.
She got at last to Mrs. A.
And asked her why,
With cruel lie,
She painted her so deep a dye?
Said Mrs. A.
In sore dismay,
"I no such thing could ever say;
I said that you
Had stouter grew
On too much sugar—which you do!"

1872-73.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT A CERtified copy of the Assessment Book of the taxable property of the City and County of San Francisco,

Real Estate and Personal Property

For the fiscal year 1872-73, has this day been received; that the State, City and County Taxes for said fiscal year are now due and payable at the office of the undersigned (Room No. 1, City Hall); and that the laws in regard to their collection will be strictly enforced.

Taxes will become DELINQUENT on the FIRST MONDAY IN JANUARY, 1873, and unless paid prior thereto, five per cent., will be added to the amount thereof. A. AUSTIN,

Tax Collector of the City and County of San Francisco. oc29-td

TO TAXPAYERS.

Taxes Due October 28th,

Delinquent Jan. 6th, 1872.

THE USUAL DELAY, CONFUSION AND annoyance experienced by Taxpayers will be much increased this year, as both PERSONAL and REAL PROPERTY has to be paid upon at the same time.

This being the case, the undersigned would most respectfully suggest that Taxpayers furnish this office with a schedule of their property at an early day. Where there have been no changes, the Tax Bills of any previous year are the most convenient and correct memoranda.

A. AUSTIN,

Old Bachelors.

In old times it was considered unpatriotic in a citizen to remain a bachelor all his life. By the Spartan laws, those citizens who remained bachelors after middle age were excluded from all offices, civil and military. At certain feasts they were exposed to public derision and, led around the market-place. Although, generally speaking, age was respected in Sparta, yet this feeling was not manifested towards the old bachelors. "Why should I make way for you," said a Spartan youth to a gray-haired old bachelor, "who will never have a son to do me the same honor when I am old?" The Roman law pursued the same policy towards old bachelors. They had to pay extra and special taxes. Under Augustus a law was enacted by which old bachelors were made incapable of acquiring legacies and devises of real estate by will, except from their near relatives. In canon law old bachelors are enjoined to marry, or to profess chastity, or in earnest to become monks.

Rhyme and Reason.

S. W. F. (Sends Formen of the Examiner) is doing good things in rhyme. His lines entitled "An Incident," have gone the rounds of the Eastern papers. The Cincinnati Times thus prefaces them:

One "S. W. F.," in the San Francisco Examiner, detects the false pathos of what may be termed the ruffian rhymes of the day and scorns it thus grimly. If exception be taken to the taste of trifling with such a ghastly matter, the obvious defense is that the real violation of decency's form exists in the style of literature here parodied:

Mr. Formen had some equally good lines in Tuesday's Evening Post entitled, "Defiant" the subject is the California Devil-fish, Laura Fair.

Codfish, Potatoes and Harmony.

Nature's laws are beautiful in their harmony. There is in Newfoundland a simultaneous scarcity of codfish and potatoes, which are the main articles of consumption there. Now, if either the codfish or potato supply had singly failed, inharmonious results would have followed, because the ratio of potato to codfish in the established diet would have been upset. But now the symmetrical proportions of the esculent and scaly duality will remain intact, although stomachs go empty.

Man and wife, together, are like a pair of scissors; separated, they are more like daggers.

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance did stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of waters bright, did make a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
"Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here—
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins;
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again,
Pacific Oyster House, 337 Bush street, above Montgomery; open Day and Night.

Church Music.

Rev. T. Dewitt Talmage closes an article on church music with an illustration of the fashionable style. He says: The minister read the hymn beautifully. The organ began, and the choir sang, as near as I could understand, as follows: "Oo—ah—gee—bah—ah—me—la—he—Oo—pah—sab—de—wo—ba—ge-e-e." My wife, seated beside me, did not like the music. But I said to her: "What a beautiful sentiment! My dear, it is a pastoral. You might have known that from 'WOA, HAW, GEE!' You have had your taste ruined from attending the Boston Tabernacle." The choir repeated the last line of the hymn four times. Then the prima donna leaped on to the first line, and slipped and fell on to the second, and that broke and let her through on to the third. The other voices came in to pick her up, and got into a grand wrangle, and the bass and soprano had it for about ten seconds; but the soprano beat (women always do), and the basso rolled down into the cellar, and the soprano went up into the garret, but the latter kept on squalling as though the bass in leaving her had wickedly torn out all her back hair. I felt anxious about the soprano, and looked back to see if she had fainted, but found her reclining in the arms of a young man who looked strong enough to hold her.

Now I admit we cannot all have such things in our churches. In the Church of the Holy Bankak it costs one hundred dollars to have sung that communion piece: "Ye wretched, hungry, starving poor!" But let us come as near to it as we can. The tune of "Pisgah" has been standing long enough on "Jordan's stormy banks." Let it pass over and get out of the wet weather. Good-bye, old "Antioch," "Harwell" and "Boylston." Good-bye till we meet again in glory.

A Bald-Headed Millennium.

We plainly see a coming state of blessed relief for bald-headed men. A process has been patented in England for "completely removing the hair from a hide or skin, and transferring it, exactly as it left the hide or skin, to a piece of muslin or any other substance." Of course, there will be no difficulty in applying the process to bare human heads, and then transplanted hair will wave proudly from pates long unused to hirsute covering. A careful reading of the directions convinces us that the subject, in order to be properly operated upon, would have to stand on his head for an hour or so in a pail of lime and acid; but the result is too glorious to render a criticism of the means justifiable.

Out of Proportion.

A few days since a needy person applied to a wealthy citizen for help and received the small sum of five cents. The giver remarked, as he handed over the pittance: "Take it, you are welcome; our ears are always open to the cries of the distressed." "That may be," replied the recipient, "but never before in my life have I seen so small an opening for such large ears."

The Bivalve.

This famous oyster house having been refitted and improved, is now under the management of H. E. Besthorn, assisted by "Henry," so long known in the oyster business. The best wines, liquors and cigars are kept. The best cooks and waiters in the State are employed. The neatly furnished rooms up-stairs for families and supper parties have long been a feature of THE BIVALVE, No. 640 Market street, near Kearny. P

The Significant Hat.

In the time of Gessler and William Tell there was much significance in a hat. So it is now. The first thing that attracts the eye is the hat. Therefore buy fashionable hat at "The" Hat Store, 647 Washington street, below Kearny.

Oyster Trade.

The oyster trade in California is assuming gigantic proportions. Emerson Corville, of the Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, furnishes from his own oyster beds at San Bruno millions of oysters to all parts of the Pacific Coast. His Eastern transplanted oysters have a fame which has extended all over the continent, and the "Saddle Rock" is known everywhere.

Ah! Ah.

We have received "The Torchlight," published in Oakland. We are shocked. Is it possible that Calvin B. McDonald is going into the Woodhull and Claflin's Weekly business? The following in Tuesday's paper looks like it:

We are in possession of the facts of one of the most disgraceful scandals that has ever been thrust upon the citizens of Oakland, and are preparing them for publication. We had hoped that our fair city would escape such social degradation, and that we would not be called upon to lay before the readers of the Torchlight any such disgraceful affairs; but believing that the welfare of the community demands it we will publish the names in full as soon as the facts can be written out. The principal party in this case is an influential business man of San Francisco, and living in Oakland.

We don't believe a word of it. It is black-mail. Oakland is to the cities of the United States what Henry Ward Beecher is to the religious community. Both are above suspicion. If anything scandalous has occurred in Oakland, then we are prepared to believe every word Victoria Woodhull said about Henry Ward Beecher and Mrs. Tilton. Mac had better take care what he is about with his incendiary sheet, or he will find himself where the dogs can't bite him and his Torchlight snuffed out.

Didn't Know Him.

Muffington complains that he was mistaken in Piper, for whom he voted at last election. He thought Piper knew something but now he is disgusted. He said the other day, "Ah, Mr. Piper, I adore Italy and Italian opera. It takes Italy to produce great men. Look at Rossini! There's a genius. You know Rossini and admire him of course, 'Yes, Mr. Muffington," said Piper, "You know his barber?" continued Muffington, "No, Mr. Muffington I do not," said Piper, "I always shave myself."

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

CALIFORNIA THEATRE.—At the matinee to-day and again this evening Mrs. F. S. Chanfrau will appear in C. W. Tayleure's drama entitled "The Elopement; or, Marriage and its Shadows" which has delighted large audiences every evening throughout the week. On Monday evening Mrs. Chanfrau will appear in her particular specialty of "Christie Johnstone, or, Out of the Depths," another drama from the pen of C. W. Tayleure.

ALHAMBRA THEATRE.—Baker and Farron in their Dutch specialties, Giovanni Campodonico in curious musical performances, Miss Fanny Gibson in ballads, J. G. Russell in first part and interlude, Bob Hart on the end and in "Under the Lamplight," Charles Sutton in song and dance, and others in acts, will make up a fine programme for the matinee to-day and the performance this evening. On Monday the great chief returns Billy Emerson will once more convulse the San Francisco public with his inimitable comicalities, and introduce new acts which he has picked up during his stay in New York, where he reigned as the Broadway minstrel star.

BELLA UNION.—A very full and new bill will be presented to-night. It comprises J. H. Larkin and Carrie Armstrong in their favorite act "Sherd und Dall;" a new comic ballet entitled "The Painter's Illusion," and other amusing acts, concluding with "The Death of Macbeth; or, the Ball at the Castle."

THE ATHENEUM.—Miss Claude, who made her first appearance at this house this week, will prove a popular member of the company. The new bill gave general satisfaction. It will be repeated to-night, and of course there will be a crowded house.

METROPOLITAN THEATRE.—Signors Rossi and Rigo had a good benefit last evening. The opera of "Attila" was artistically rendered. The beneficiaries were in good voice; and Signora Luigia Bernardi, who appeared as Odabella, was particularly good, as was also Senor Baccei as Foresto. The orchestra under the direction of George T. Evans, acquited themselves excellently well. In fact the whole opera was an artistic success.

PACIFIC HALL.—On Monday evening next there will be a complimentary benefit to Master J W. McKenzie, the young California tenor. Miss Annie McKenzie, Signora Pietro Baccei, Rigo and Rossi, and others whose names may be found on our first page, have volunteered for the occasion. Master McKenzie is sure to have a large and fashionable house.

WOODWARD'S GARDENS—IMMENSE RUSH.—The attendance was fully 10,000 at Woodward's Gardens on Sunday, and the performance of the Conklin Circus Troupe, Professor Samwell's trained dogs, etc., gave universal satisfaction. Circus performances every day.

CITY GARDENS—CIRCUS COMBINATION.—Holland Brothers' Circus Troupe will give a performance in their new ring on the plateau opposite the lake on Saturday and Sunday afternoons. The ring in the pavilion will be reserved in case of bad weather. New galleries have been constructed this week the whole length of the pavilion to furnish additional accommodations for the public.

GERMAN STADT THEATRE—NEW ARTISTS.—The German dramatic performances at the California Theatre under the management of Charles Fritsch will be resumed to-morrow night when A. Foeliger, leading man of the German Stadt Theatre, Cincinnati, will make his first appearance in California in the play of "Anna Liese." After the play the Fabbri combination—Signora Fabbri, Miss Anna Elzer, Herr Muller and Signor Pietro Baccei, will give a concert under the direction of Prof. Mulder Fabbri.

ART GALLERY—THE ARRIOLA FUND.—The paintings by local artists, photographs, pieces of sculpture and other works of art contributed by members of the Art Association to be sold for the relief of the family of the late Fortunato Arriola are on exhibition free of charge at the Art Gallery, Pine street, near Sansome. They will be sold by auction on the 25th. The collection is well worth a visit.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

THE SAN FRANCISCO CIRCUS.—This great combination of equestrian talent under the management of John Wilson, will open for the Winter season on December 6th, in a huge hippodrome to be erected on the fifty vara lot on the North side of Sutter street, between Montgomery and Kearny streets, opposite the Lick House. Engagements have been made with the greatest equestrian stars in the East, and a constant succession of novelties will be presented.

FOR SACRAMENTO.—Messrs. Baker and Farron and a company consisting of Mrs. Charles Edmonds, Miss Fanny Gibson, Harry Thompson, Add Ryman, M. Ainsley Scott, John King, Jobe Enright, Chas. Reed, and a full orchestra, will open at the Metropolitan Theatre, Sacramento, on Monday, the 25th, for a short season, in "Chris and Lena." The characters of the play are represented by nearly the same persons who originally appeared in it at the Alhambra, when it had such a successful run, and the Sacramentans can be sure of a good evening's enjoyment when they go to see it. Baker and Farron are immense as Chris and Lena, and will probably wake up things in the theatrical line there.

CLIFF HOUSE.—The Cliff House season is at its height now. Moonlight nights and sunny days draw hundreds of visitors to this delightful sea-side resort. Captain Foster's hostelry is famous all over the world and all visitors to California go there.

HORTICULTURAL HALL—SKATING RINK.—Visit the Skating Rink in this beautiful Hall, Stockton street, corner of Post. Open daily from 1:30 to 4:30 P. M., and evenings from 7:30 to 10.

TALENT FOR THE ALHAMBRA.—Billy Emerson and the Worrell Sisters, Sophie, Jenny and Irene, and Miss Lillie Hall, will arrive to-morrow night.

FROM VICTORIA, V. I.—Barry O'Niel, Chas. Nickerson, George Wallace and wife, and Ella La Rue returned from Victoria, V. I. by the last steamer.

J. H. CHURCH.—This gentleman, manager

PACIFIC COAST DRAMATIC NEWS.

SACRAMENTO.—The Hussey combination opened at the Metropolitan on Wednesday to a fair audience. "Hazard" was performed. Mrs. Minnie M. Miller lectured in Congregational Church Hall on Wednesday to a very large audience. The Sacramento papers reported her lecture in full, with complimentary comments. She will deliver another lecture on Tuesday.

MARYSVILLE.—Mrs. M. M. Miller will lecture at the Theatre to-night.

CARSON CITY.—J. H. Church's company opened at the Theatre on Wednesday, Nov. 20th.

VICTORIA, V. I.—Mrs. Charles Coriell, Miss May Leslie and others opened at the Theatre Royal on the 18th.

DAVISVILLE.—John Wilson's Circus is billed to perform here to-night.

VALLEJO.—It is some time since the Vallejo people had anything in the way of amusement. The San Francisco Circus, under the management of the veteran John Wilson, will perform there on the 27th.

VIRGINIA CITY.—Miss Major Pauline Cushman, the Spy of the Cumberland, lectured at Piper's Opera House on Wednesday.

HAMILTON, NEV.—The Carter Troupe comprising Carrie Carter, J. W. Coggswell and others closed their engagement at Dramatic Hall, on the 15th.

PIOCHE.—The Carter Troupe have commenced a lengthy engagement at the theatre with J. W. Coggswell as leading man.

SALT LAKE.—James J. Bartlett took his benefit on the 18th. The house was "moderate," and the Footlights says Mr. Bartlett "played nicely." He made his last appearance on the following night in "David Garrick," and "Married for Money."

PORTLAND, OR.—On the 12th, "The Detective" was performed at the Oro Fino Theatre by Waldron's dramatic company. The Oregonian of the 14th says:

> The farewell entertainment given by Mr. Chas. Vivian, at Masonic Hall, last evening, drew as full a house as has ever assembled in the city. Every seat was taken before night, and when the crowd began to assemble, temporary seats were arranged in the aisles and were filled, while a portion of the crowd were compelled to stand.

It notices those who took part in the entertainment and then says:

> But the feature of the entertainment and which seemed to fill everybody with delight was the great Vivian himself, who fairly outdid his former efforts in our midst, and caused the whole audience to shout with laughter and make the hall ring with applause by his inimitable exhibitions of mirth-provoking songs, character sketches and impersonations. We cannot describe his style on the stage, nor give any adequate idea of his unexcelled impersonations, oddities and comicalities. Suffice it to say that when one has seen and listened to him for an hour he can only say, "It is rich, rare and racy." Vive la Vivian. Vivacious vivifier.

EASTERN DRAMATIC NEWS.

Mr. Sothern, whose engagement of fifty-seven consecutive performances at the Walnut Street Theatre, Philadelphia, Pa., has already been noticed by us is spoken of as follows by a recent issue of the Ledger:

> Mr. Sothern last evening, made his farewell appearance at the Walnut Street Theatre, closing his long and successful engagement by playing "David Garrick" and "Not if I Know It." Mr. Sothern's engagement just closed, continued more than eight weeks, during which he appeared at 57 performances, and it is probably the longest and most lucrative engagement on record in this city, the receipts aggregating $53,000. The two plays presented last night are regarded as having been the most successful, although all in which he has appeared have been very popular. Mr. Sothern last evening, after repeated calls, appeared before the curtain and made a brief speech in which he said;
>
> LADIES AND GENTLEMEN—This is my fifty-seventh performance during the present season and I deeply regret that it has come to an end. All my pieces have been charmingly mounted by Mr. Hall whose kindness, management and tact I cannot possibly eulogize too highly; and allow me also to thank the company for their able support. To the Philadelphia critics, I scarcely know what to say. When they have censured, I fully deserved it, and when they have praised, it has been with a generous and kindly spirit that I have never seen equalled. And now, ladies and gentlemen, one word of farewell to you, whose patronage and enthusiastic welcome have caused me to make this lengthened engagement. The greatest compliment I can possibly pay you—and honestly I mean it, is that I leave my son Lytton Sothern to commence his profession in this city. I leave him in the hands of the kindest and most sympathetic people I ever knew. Good-bye.
>
> Mr. Sothern retired amid warm applause.

A dramatic and literary organization, to be known as "The Savage Club," has been formed in Philadelphia, and numbers already in its list many members of both professions. A grand ball will be given in the Academy of Music by the club during the season.

Aimee and bouffers, Academy, Philadelphia, 11th, for short period; Olympic, New York, again Dec. 9.

Wachtel, the tenor, is announced to return to this country in company with Lucca's German rival, Madame Mallinger.

Horace Lingard has a lawsuit with Sam Fruenthal, of Fruenthal's pretty opera house, Wilkesbarre. He engaged the house, and then, getting miffed about something, went elsewhere. Fruenthal wants his rent. Lingard shows fight. There have been sundry reports of late regarding fortunes that have been left to actresses. They have proved good advertising dodges. The Lingards have played in Baltimore recently. On their arrival, it was announced that a telegraphic dispatch, received from England, had informed Mrs. Alice Dunning Lingard that a deceased relative had bequeathed her half a million dollars. It is to be hoped that the story is true. Mrs. Lingard is as generous and good hearted as she is pretty.

Charley Howard, Globe, Chicago, Dec. 2.

M'lle Morlacchi and troupe, Dayton, Ohio, 11th. Nick Roberts has left the Maffit and Bartholomew Troupe to join them as agent.

E. L. Davenport reappeared at the Chestnut-street Theatre, Philadelphia, 11th, for one or more weeks.

Leo Hudson and horse, Harrington's Opera House, Providence, 11th, one week.

In New York the latest productions at the Academy of Music were "Le Nozze di Figaro" and "Crispino e la Comare." In the former opera both prima donnas appeared. The Dispatch says:

> Miss Kellogg appeared as Susanna, and looked the part to perfection, but there was a lack of life and animation in her representation which was at variance with the character. With all the disadvantages which Parepa-Rosa labored under from her great ponderosity, it was one of her most engaging and successful parts. That Miss Kellogg rendered perfect justice to the music of the role there cannot be two opinions. Madame Lucca made her appearance as Cherubino, and still further confirmed the opinion that she is one of the most versatile and accomplished lyric artistes of the present day. A more frolicsome, amusing and thoroughly boyish representation of the page, we have never seen. As in everything she attempts, Mme. Lucca completely entered into the spirit of the part, and the result was as pleasing as it was extraordinary. Her singing of the "Voi che sapete" was the only piece of music which seemed thoroughly to arouse the audience.

In the latter opera Miss Kellogg appeared as Annetta. "Les Huguenots" and "Mignon" are in rehearsal......At Wallack's Theatre Mr. Sothern made his reappearance as Lord Dundreary on the 11th......At Booth's Theatre, Miss Neilson, one of the brightest stars of the English theatrical world, made her first appearance as Juliet; Mr. Wheelock played Romeo, and J. W. Wallack Mercutio. Papers containing an account of her reception at the hands of the New York public have not yet arrived......At the Grand Opera House, "King Carrot" was on his last legs, and Mr. Daly's last sensation entitled "Round the Clock," some [illegible] which we gave in last Saturday's issue, was still [illegible] constructed......At the Fifth Avenue old Comedies are still running......Of Romeo Dioness, who had made his appearance at the Olympic Theatre, the Mercury says:

> On the 4th a small boy styled Romeo Dionesi, who had been announced as a transcendant vocalist of five years, attempted to sing between the acts. His small, squeaky tones were drowned by the orchestra, and he was withdrawn. He should learn song and dance business, and sing in variety shows with Baby Beeson.

......At the Theatre Comique a new burlesque by Foole, entitled "Ag Lines," was produced, and Jester, the man with the talking hand, made his appearance......"Agnes" was still running at the Union Square......Bryant's Minstrels were still running their burlesque "King Karrot." Miss Kate Steele, a violoncelliste, had joined Bryant's troupe......At Tony Pastor's Opera House, Jenny Engel was singing serio-comic songs, Jennie Beeson doing clog dances, and Maggie Benson performing song and dance. A new play by Hon Mason, entitled "Fier 4, or Crime in New York," was the afterpiece......Delehanty and Hengler, Sheridan and Mack, Harry Stanwood and other popular favorites were with Emerson's Minstrels......The San Francisco Minstrels produced "Love Night and Morning" as an afterpiece......At Wood's Museum, James M. Wood was playing in "Buffalo Bill," and a new burlesque by James Barnes, entitled "The Silver Demon," was running......The opening of F. T. Barnum's Museum, Menagerie and Hippodrome, Fourteenth street, near Broadway, was postponed till the 4th, nearly all the horses having sore throats. The pet trick mule Pete, which has amused more people in America than could be easily counted, died recently from the effects of the prevailing epizooty. Thousands of the younger portion of the community will feel sorry for the untimely taking off of poor little Pete......At White's Athenæum, Miss Rosa Lee and other vocalists appeared. Mr. John Williams, who had but recently arrived in this country from Europe, made his American debut on the 5th. He came upon the stage without being announced upon the bills or otherwise, and by sheer force of his artistic abilities drew forth a torrent of applause, such as is seldom heard within the walls of a theatre. He first sang a song in the Lancashire dialect, accompanied with a characteristic dance, then an Irish song, and finally gave a clog dance. Each character was appropriately costumed. His singing was good, but his dancing met with the greatest favor, being distinguished for remarkable agility, celerity of movement and correctness of time.

Lucille Western's doctor tells her to stop playing for the present.

Our New Orleans news is up to the 14th. The Royal Tycoon Japs were at the Academy of Music. In the day time they gave a street parade in costume, circus fashion. Miss Clara Morris was to open in "Man and Wife" at the Varieties Theatre on the 18th. Miss Imogene Vandyke is a member of the company at this theatre. Joe Murphy was to close in "Help" at the St. Charles Theatre on the 16th, and Ben De Bar opened in Falstaff on the 18th. The Opera House was occupied by a French company, under the management of L. Placide Canonge, "Le Supplice d'un Homme," "Frou Frou" and other plays were running.

FOREIGN DRAMATIC NEWS.

London dates are up to the 26th ult. The Opera Comique had been added to the theatres open in London, and Nov. 2d the Haymarket, redecorated, was to commence its season. The variations in the programmes of the West-end houses had been very slight. At the Adelphi, Nov. 2d, was to be produced H. J. Byron's new drama of "A Bitter Bargain"......The Court was to produce, 18th, Oxenford's revised version of Dryden's "Amphitryon."......Nothing new at the music halls...... Walter Montgomery's wardrobe was to be sold at auction Nov. 4th......Died, on the 18th, of consumption, William Edward Drummond Jenot, known as Edmund Clifford (harlequin), late of Victoria Palace and Sadler's Wells, aged twenty-one......E. L. Blanchard's Christmas pantomime for Drury Lane is on the subject of the Children in the Wood.

Chas. Weldon has purchased the Holborn Amphitheatre, which he intends opening with an equestrian troupe about Christmas.

"Credit" is the title of a comedy preparing by Lewis, adapter of "The Bells."

"A Dream of Love," by Oxenford, has been produced at the Opera Comique.

"Amos Clark," a new drama from the pen of Watts Phillips, has been produced at the Queen's Theatre.

To complete the new Grand Opera House, Paris, the French Budget Committee estimate $146,000 will be required.

The present attraction at one of the Paris theatres is an opera bouffe called "The Silver Cup," said to be the most scandalous piece ever produced in the French capital.

One or two journals are complaining that the drama entitled "The Highlander," lately produced at Liverpool, is founded on Lester Wallack's play "The Veteran," forgetting that the latter is founded on Grant's novel, "Frank Hilton."

Oysters.

In strolling round the other night,
To look at 'Frisco by gas light,
Our careless feet, by chance old stray
To where a fountain's ceaseless play
Of waters bright, did make a screen
Through which a sweet bouquet was seen;
While mossy stone and pearly shell,
O'er which the waters softly fell,
Made that window seem to be
Some fairy grotto of the sea.
"Stop," said my friend, "let's go in here—
It looks so nice—and try their cheer."
"All right," I said, "I must agree
That this place suits me to a 'T.'"
No sooner had we found a seat
Than at our side a waiter neat
Made his appearance, asked our wish—
Said they had almost any dish
That we might name. We found it true,
And cooked magnificently, too;
All kinds of oysters, juicy, fat,
Cooked every style; just think of that,
And if your mouth don't water, then
You're different from other men.
They'd clams and crabs and terrapins;
In fact, we found they had within
That cosy place all kinds of game,
Fish, flesh or fowl which we could name,
While every dish was, I am sure,
Prepared to tempt an epicure.
The ladies, too, have found, 'twould seem,
That they have here the best ice cream;
So here they flock, the little sinners,
To get what they call "such nice dinners."
Whoever doubts this let him rush
To three hundred thirty-seven Bush,
And there this truth he'll find made plain:
Who goes there once will go again.

Oyster Trade.

The oyster trade in California is assuming gigantic proportions. Emerson Corvillo, of the Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, furnishes from his own oyster beds at San Bruno millions of oysters to all parts of the Pacific Coast. His Eastern transplanted oysters have a fame which has extended all over the continent, and the "Saddle Rock" is known everywhere.

LETTER FROM CHICAGO.

[FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.]

CHICAGO, November 13th, 1872.

DEAR FIGARO:—The almost unearthly quietude which has prevailed during the past week has been a terrible trial to amusement caterers, who had all provided unusually powerful attractions, at a more than an ordinary risk and expense. One of Chicago's strongest favorites at one theatre; at another, the greatest pantomime performance on the American stage; the same piece elaborately and finely produced at a third; a grand spectacular drama at a fourth; two very superior minstrel companies in different parts of the city, and an unusual number of variety entertainments, form altogether one of the most notable amusement weeks in point of attractions and yet has given a poorer financial showing tha Chicago managers have ever known. In no other city in America would theatrical managers have suffered so from the horse disease. Here the majority of the theatres are situated in what is known as the burnt district, a mile or more from that portion of the city occupied by residences; but at the same time we believe the managers of no other city would have survived the gloomy situation with such plucky cheerfulness as ours have done. They have doubtless derived a melancholy consolation from the fact that hundreds of well-deserving business enterprises kept them company in the dreamy period of dullness and that the time of compensating prosperity is close at hand, as the distemper is passing away

M'VICKER'S THEATRE.

This place of amusement has felt the withdrawal of the usual patronage of the public greater than any other place of amusement in the city. The patrons of this theatre live, for the most part, far away from the business portion of the city, and despite the magnetic power of Miss Maggie Mitchell's acting over the public taste, the audiences have been very small. "Fanchon" is the programme for this week, and "The Pearl of Savoy" and "Little Barefoot" are underlined.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC.

The attractions at this place is another revival of the "Black Crook." It has succeeded in drawing very large audiences nightly. As an example of the spectacular drama we cannot accord to it a marked degree of praise. The melange of skating, acrobatic business, canine tricks, etc., which is sandwiched in the main performances is quite good in most respects. The pleasing features of the dancing department are the Rigl Sisters who are premiere. During the performance on Nov. 6th at the matinee, Miss Flora Newton was horribly burned, so much so that her recovery was despaired of. However, at date of writing she is announced out of danger. Miss Newton sustained the character of Amine and her bridal veil caught fire from the upper lights in the transformation scene of the Palace of Dew Drops. Her place in the cast was filled by Miss Katie Wilson, with but three hours of study, and it was acted capitally. The present week will be devoted to a continued representation of "The Black Crook," and there seems to be every probability of good business. On Tuesday afternoon a grand benefit for the Boston sufferers will be given when the entire profession will appear. "The Black Crook" with specialties intermingled will be the programme. The managers will oscillate back to the legitimate again introducing Miss Charlotte Thompson to the public in the drama of "One Wife."

HOOLEY'S OPERA HOUSE.

This place is badly afflicted with 'Humpty Dumpzoolic." It seems to have broken out in most malignant form all over the city—at the Academy of Music, then at Aiken's, now at Hooley's; (may it die in peace there.) On Monday Nov. 18th the play of "Schneider," with Johnny Allen. Little Mac, and Miss Alice Harrison in the principal roles will be given, the general support being that of the Aiken dramatic company. Apropos of the future plans of the management at this theatre, it is stated on excellent authority that it will be devoted strictly to the production of elegant comedy. The beauty of the auditorium, the peculiar features of the stage, as also the general shape and size of the building adapt it admirably for this purpose.

MYERS' OPERA HOUSE.

"Jno. Sheppard and Blueskin" is the title of a burlesque which has been produced at this theatre during the week past with Cotton, Arlington and others in the circle, John Morris in his mystic changes, and Japanese Tommy make their bow this week.

NIXON'S AMPHITHEATRE.

The Georgia Minstrels at this place during this week. They are "Native and to the manor born," in the field of negro imitations, and present a series of realistic sketches. The voices of most of the troupe are melodious and well trained, with that peculiar sympathetic quality which is often found in negro singing.

GLOBE.

The manager of this place is "on the loose" now. Vandeville was never popular in Chicago and from the empty benches that greet the actors here can not prove more successful here than elsewhere The attractions are great. Miss Betty Remelsberg, the Romalila and others are playing here. Mr. Marsh has worked hard to bring good and fresh attractions but to no avail.

WEST SIDE OPERA HOUSE.

As this place classes as a variety show of the melodeon line its success is certain. The Zig Zag troupe puts in an appearance on Monday, the 11th. Signorita Felicita Bedoul, late of Niblo's Garden, commence with them. Walter Bray and Ida Fisk are still here and are quite popular.

THE PATTI-MARIO CONCERTS.

These concerts will begin on the 14th, at the Michigan avenue Baptist Church; 15th, at Union Park Congregational Church, and Saturday matinee at first-named place.

Miss Alexander has been engaged by Manager Gardiner to lecture on Mormonism.

Edward Marble, formerly of your city, is here, and is very popular with the patrons of the Academy of Music.

Health and Pleasure.

There are not too many pleasures in San Francisco. Nothing is more pleasant, nothing more health-giving than a drive into the country now and then. Those who cannot afford to keep a carriage of their own, can find one equal in elegance to any private conveyance at the Occidental Carriage stand. Frank Bonton has there, and at his stables 1016 Stockton street, carriages of every description. His drivers are careful and experienced, his charges are moderate. The moral of the above is: go to Frank Bonton at the Occidental Hotel when you want a carriage. O

A Great Discovery.

In all the preparations heretofore offered for restoring and preserving the hair to its original color, the injury attending their use has far more than offset the benefits derived. Mr. J. LIPMAN has happily produced a preparation wonderful in effect, while perfectly harmless. This is not a vile compound of sugar of lead and other poisonous minerals which produce paralysis and insanity, but a harmless preparation, free from sediment, and a few applications restores the hair to its original color. This is beyond question the cheapest and safest hair restorative ever offered. U

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Alhambra.

In spite of the unremitting efforts of the management of this place of amusement to cater to the amusement of the public by engaging the very best talent in the profession; Delehanty and Hengler, Baker and Farron, Cool Burgess, Bob Hart and many others, Billy Emerson was missed. To-night he will make his reappearance after an absence of six months during which he has gained as great a reputation in New York as he enjoys in San Francisco. The programme is an excellent one; we are surprised however that "Willie we Have Missed You" is not in it. The whole audience will feel inclined to sing that to night. So many will rush to the Alhambra Theatre to-night to welcome Billy Emerson back that we only regret that the theatre is not sufficiently large to accommodate them all. The bill to be performed appears on our first page.

California Theatre.
